Roanoke County—Roanoke County is hosting six community meetings throughout the county to allow citizens the opportunity to provide comments on the reveal of the Roanoke County 200 Plan.

The Roanoke County 200 Plan is a significant update to the county's Comprehensive Plan, which sets out the vision and unique goals of the county's 11 community planning areas and the town of Vinton.

Over 1,000 residents and community stakeholders participated in the development of the Roanoke County 200 Plan throughout 2021 and 2022.

"We invite Roanoke County residents, business owners, visitors and anyone interested in the future of the County to join us to review and comment on the 200 Plan that will shape our community over the next 15 years," said Philip Thompson, director of planning. "These draft objectives will impact future land use, natural and cultural resources, public facilities and services, and transportation infrastructure."

While the Catawba, Glenvar and Masons Cove meeting was held on Monday at Glenvar Middle School, there are still a number of meetings scheduled throughout the county over the next month.

Friends of the Salem Library to hold book sale on March 2-4

Friends of the Salem Library (FOSL) will hold a book sale for the first time ever in springtime. The FOSL typically receives more donations than they can effectively offer during the Olde Salem Days weekend. With no options for free book storage available, the group made the decision to add an additional book sale.

"We will give our patrons another chance to leisurely peruse our books for titles that strike their fancy. Come and see what we have to offer," Ken Sosnowski, book sale chairman, said.

The days and times of the sale are as follows:

- Thursday, March 2: 9 a.m.-1 p.m.: Early-bird Friends of Salem Library sale
- Thursday, March 2: 1 p.m.-8 p.m.: Public sale
- Friday, March 3: 10 a.m.-5 p.m.: Public sale
- Saturday, March 4: 10 a.m.-5 p.m.-Public sale

The friends group traces its roots to a casual conversation in September of 1988, a conversation between Joyce M. Foster and Earnestine Woodliff Lewis, former children's librarian of the Salem Public Library.

Acting on their ideas, Foster became the group's organizer, mentor and long-time treasurer until handing over the task a few years ago. Thirty-five years later, Foster and Janis Augustine, retired Salem Public Library director, are two original members still active today.

Far from being FOSSILS, an acronym they sometimes whimsically use to refer to the organization, they have their sights set on helping the Salem Public Library reach its full potential as a learning center full of vitality, vim and vigor.

Over the years, friends have enrolled numerous families as members and boosters. Early on, the group was active in the campaign that resulted in the 1990-91 expansion and renovation of the library on Salem's Library Square.

Without the direct sponsorship of the group, many library activities including community-building events, storytelling programs and circulating materials for library patrons, would go unfunded. The friends have provided furniture for the public, including the children's and teens area, and display fixtures; AWE Early Literacy computer stations for children; children storytime supplies (books, a new, large, colorful rug); sponsorship of library programs for all ages; sponsorship of the annual Salem Elementary Schools Art Show; a new projector and screen for the meeting room; annual sponsorship of the Salem Public Library Summer Reading Program for all ages including prizes, performers, and craft supplies.

Donations made to The Friends of the Salem Library are tax deductible.

Roanoke College students and faculty, led by Jesse Bucher, college historian, and Jasmine McFadden, a student who is the BSA president, made their way across campus during a vigil organized Sunday to honor the memories of enslaved workers.

Roanoke College honors the memories of enslaved workers

The vigil was part of the college's observance of Black History Month

The Roanoke College community paused on Sunday evening to honor the memories of enslaved workers whose ties to the school's history have been revealed by the work of student researchers with the Center for Studying Structures of Race.

The annual vigil, organized by the Black Student Alliance and the Office of Multicultural Affairs, brought people together to learn, reflect and remember the names of enslaved people whose identities were often obscured in official records of that era.

"The time we allotted isn't enough to fully recognize the people we want to honor today, as it would take lifetimes to truly give them the respect they deserve," Jasmine McFadden, the president of the alliance, said to those gathered. "However, we hope that with the time you spend with us, walking these paths with us, you take away a feeling of deeper respect for the grounds we walk on, the buildings we stand in, and most importantly, the people themselves."

The vigil, which was part of the college's observance of Black History Month, also coincides with a larger campus effort to document and memorialize the history of enslaved people in the region. That work has included establishing the Center for Studying Structures of Race, creating a campus walking tour and pursuing plans to build an on-campus memorial.

Jesse Bucher, director of the center and college historian, guided Sunday's gathering through key parts of the school's history and encouraged people to join him in affirming aloud the names of enslaved workers documented by researchers.

"Let us speak their names and broaden our truth," he said, adding later that events like the campus vigil are vital to keeping history alive.

"History is living through us," he said. "It's being embodied through the practice of walking up this path together, of lighting candles, of taking time to think and pause and consider our surroundings in a more expansive, more truthful, more complete way."

Over the course of the evening, the vigil wended its way across the campus, ending at The Rock where participants planted stakes in the ground that were each emblazoned with the name of an enslaved person. Each name was also marked with a blue ribbon — a color with a deep significance in the history of American slavery.

Christopher Bowen, chaplain, led the group in a prayer and a reflection on the lives of the people whose hands shaped the earliest days of the college's history. "We honor them," he said. "We stand in a sacred space."

Krippendorf still missing after nearly a month

It is nearing the one-month mark since Salem resident John Krippendorf was last seen on Feb. 8 after he was released from the LewisGale Medical Center.

His friends and family have still not had contact with him and are concerned for his well-being.

According to a missing person flyer that is circulated in the area, Krippendorf was released from the center after being on a ventilator for eight days. He was wearing a plaid flannel shirt and tortoise shell wire frames at the time. The flyer indicated he is 57, bald, has blue eyes, is 5-foot-4-inches and weighs 155 pounds.

As of Monday, the Salem Police Department said there have not been any confirmed sightings of Krippendorf since Feb. 8. The department also said it has no additional information at this time.

SALEM LAID OUT FOR A TOWN IN YEAR 1802, THIRTY-SIX YEARS BEFORE COUNTY CAME INTO BEING

James Simpson's Name Almost Unknown Today—Promoted Sale Of First Lots

From the 1938 centennial edition of The Times-Register

What is now the town of Salem was in the eighteenth century the property of Andrew Lewis, but it was not the celebrated Indian fighter who was responsible for the establishment of a town on this site. James Simpson, whose name has never been blazoned in bright letters in the history of Salem, was the original promoter who laid out the town and sold the first lots.

Simpson purchased the land from William Lewis, son of the noted Pioneer soldier. Realizing the advantages of Salem as a trading center Simpson, who was evidently a live wire promoter, bought thirty-one acres about the year of 1800. He did not lose much time establishing a town for the first lot was sold to Susanna Cole in 1802. Susanna Cole was from the state of Pennsylvania and in her childhood had been kidnapped by Indians. After being kept in captivity for some years she was returned to her family on payment of ransom.

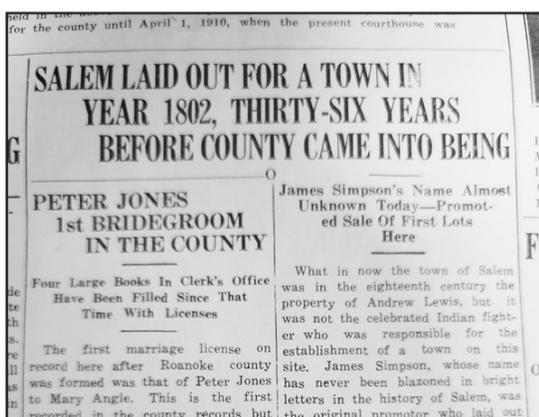

Other Lot Owners

Other lots were purchased soon after the first transaction by David Wade, William Blain, Patrick Glynn, John King, Samuel Cole, Lewis Johnston, Anthony Haden, Henry Snyder and James Godwin. In 1806 the General Assembly passed an act creating the town of Salem and this measure bore the following title: "An act establishing a town on the land of James Simpson in the county of Botetourt." The trustees of the town were named as follows: William Lewis, who was the son of Andrew Lewis, Elijah McClanahan, William Blain, Lewis Cooper, John King and John Brugh.

The original charter granted the trustees the following rights:

"The trustees of the said town, or a majority of them, are empowered to make such rules and orders for the regular building of houses therein, as to them seem best, and to settle and determine all disputes concerning the bounds of the lots. So soon as the purchaser of any lot in the said town shall have built a dwelling house thereon equal to 12 feet square, with a bring or stone chimney, such purchaser shall enjoy the same privileges that the freeholders and inhabitants of other towns, not incorporated, hold and enjoy. Vacancies by death or otherwise of any of one or more of the trustees, or a majority of them; and the person so elected shall have the same power as if they had been named in this act."

"This act shall commence and be in force from and after the passing thereof." The act was dated January 6, 1806.

FROM THE TIMES-REGISTER ARCHIVES

Incorporated

In 1836 the legislature passed an act providing for the incorporation of the town of Salem so that the municipal officers under the new act were empowered with much more authority than the original trustees.

By 1840 the little town promoted by William Simpson had become a good sized village for it is said that there were about 450 people here by that time.

The first record of tax assessments after the new county was formed showed that Henry Snyder's residence was the most valuable in the town. For the purpose of taxation it was assessed at $2,450.00. Henry Snyder or Snider, as it is sometimes spelled, came here from Botetourt county. His son, Charles Snyder was destined to become rich later in the tannery business.

One of the main business firms of the little town of Salem in the early days was that D. & T. Shanks which later was known by the name of T. & G. W. Shanks. This firm was located where the Hotel Fort Lewis now stands. Fortunately an old invoice book of the firm of D. & T. Shanks is still in existence. This list of invoices is the property of Walter A. Moran of South Salem, a Spanish-American war veteran.

This invoice book shows that the firm of D. & T. Shanks did quite a business here as early as 1823 and 1824 for the invoices then for the fall of 1823 and the winter of 1824 approximately $5,000 worth of goods were purchased. This merchandise was purchased from firms in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Richmond and Lynchburg.

Goods Handled

Among the interesting purchases made by that firm at that time was listed the following: "One dozen silver flowers, ordered from New York. One hundred pounds of negro cloth purchased from a firm in Philadelphia. A quantity of molasses, hoop, iron and spices from Richmond. One dozen boxes of lucifer matches were purchased from Richmond and the purchase price was listed as $1.25. Another item in the invoices was that of seven yards of white cotton velvet from Philadelphia.

Whether the hoop mentioned above was for the purpose of making hoop skirts for women is not known.

In the early forties the following business firms were established in this city: John P. Kizer operated a store just west of the Presbyterian church where Mrs. F. G. Webber now lives. A mercantile establishment was operated by James C. Huff on the lot now vacant just east of the post office. Henry Franz had a store directly opposite the present Colony Inn.

These early business establishments were quite unlike the stores of today. Little effort was made to display merchandise but much of it was kept in drawers. At the time it was the custom to have shutters to pull down over the windows. A woman clerk in those days was unheard of and only men were employed in any of the merchandise establishments.

SALEM MUSEUM SPOTLIGHT

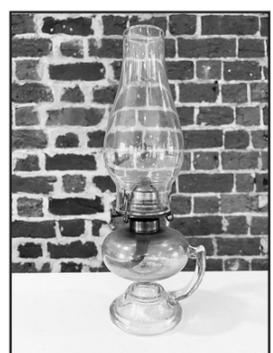

Before lightbulbs and electric lamps, oil lamps were a main source of light. Oil stored in the base was absorbed by a fabric wick, which fueled the flame once lit. These lamps could last longer than a candle and were reusable, which made them popular.

You can see this oil lamp on display this weekend as part of the Salem Museum's Hands-On History Saturday program. In March, Hands-On History highlights "Through Their Eyes," the Museum's upcoming exhibit. On Saturdays, visitors can pull on a glove and touch a piece of history with their own hands.

Come to the opening of "Through Their Eyes" on March 25. This exhibit highlights 16 major events, dating back to 1671, that have shaped Salem and the Roanoke Valley into the community it is today. History gets personal as seen 'through the eyes' of men and women who lived here at the time. The Gallery features personal narratives, pictures, maps, artifacts, hands-on elements, and augmented reality technology.

To celebrate the opening, the Salem Museum is hosting a Living History Day on Saturday, March 25, from 10 a.m. to 4

OPINION

Congressman

Unfortunately, as we move solidly into the new year, the same problems are plaguing our Nation. Inflation still remains high, the border saw another record-high in illegal crossings and the amount of fentanyl seized, all while our posture has been weakened in the world, as we allowed a Chinese spy balloon to fly across the homeland. Worse, the Secretary of Transportation took ten days to even comment on the toxic train derailment in Ohio, much less rapidly deploy FEMA resources to the impacted areas. There is a lack of leadership coming out of the Oval Office and Americans are suffering because of it. However, I am continuing to fight for women who have been victims of brutal and unthinkable crimes, as I reintroduced the Debbie Smith Act. Finally, it was great visiting businesses throughout the District and meeting with constituents to kick off my "Coffee With Your Congressman" circuit for the 118th Congress, from Alleghany and Salem up to Winchester. Stay tuned for more events near you, and rest assured I'll continue fighting for western Virginians.

Inflation is Persistent, Biden in Denial

Inflation is a tax on all Americans, and we've been suffering from it for far too long. Sadly this month the Consumer Price Index (CPI), a key inflation index, came in "hotter" than economists had projected, increasing at an annual rate of 0.5

percent in January to 6.4 percent before seasonal adjustment, the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today. This report shows that inflation is not cooling like the Biden administration would like Americans to believe.

The truth hurts:

- Food at elementary and secondary schools is UP 301.9%
- Eggs are UP 70.1%
- Fuel oil is UP 27.7%
- Airline fares are UP 25.6%
- Motor vehicle repairs are UP 23.1%
- Fats and oils are UP 20.9%
- Flour and prepared flour mixes are UP 20.4%

Further, year-over-year real wages have been negative for 22 months, and real average hourly earnings decreased 1.8%, seasonally adjusted, from January 2022 to January 2023. House Republicans are committed to reining in Joe Biden's out-of-control government spending that has caused inflation to skyrocket, and we're working to build an economy that's strong for every American.

Fighting Sex Crime Injustice: The Debbie Smith Act

Last week, I joined my colleagues, Reps. Ann Wagner (R-MO), Wesley Hunt (R-TX), Steve Cohen (D-TN), and Sheila Jackson Lee (D-TX), in introducing H.R. 1105, a reauthorization of the Debbie Smith Act for 2023. To combat the rise of unsolved criminal sex crimes, this bipartisan legislation will provide law enforcement agencies and crime labs across the country with the resources they need to help improve DNA collection and analysis, eliminate the rape kit backlog, and enhance state and local prosecutors' capacity to bring these cases to court. As a former prosecutor, I know all too well how critical DNA evidence is to achieving justice for the victims of sexual assault and homicide. I hope our fellow colleagues will join us in support of this critical legislation to ensure that our law enforcement agencies will once again have the support and resources they need to reduce unacceptable DNA backlogs and hold violent predators accountable for their heinous crimes.

"Coffee With Your Congressman"

Since being elected I've regularly held meetings in which I can hear directly from you in a two-way dialogue. These exchanges help me better represent you in Washington. In keeping with this promise, I have kicked off my "Coffee With Your Congressman" tour for the 118th Congress. While I'm working to get to every locality in the Sixth Congressional District, I enjoyed my recent meetings in Winchester, Alleghany County, and Salem. Be sure to check for an upcoming event in your area.

Internship Opportunity

My office is currently accepting applications for an internship in the District and D.C. offices for the Summer of 2023. Qualified applicants should possess strong communication skills, be interested in learning about the legislative process, and have a willingness to work in a fast-paced office. Responsibilities would include answering phones, leading tours of the Capitol, attending policy briefings and meetings, and conducting research and writing, and additional tasks to assist the Congressman's staff.

Interested applicants should fill out the internship form found here (<https://cline.house.gov/services/internships>) and send the completed application, along with their resume, to VA06Interns@mail.house.gov by March 15th.

Thank you for the opportunity to serve as your Congressman. If my office can ever be of assistance, please contact my Washington office at (202) 225-5431.

Legislature approves Blue Ridge Parkway license plates

On Friday, Feb. 17, the Virginia General Assembly approved the Blue Ridge Parkway Foundation's specialty license plate. Proceeds from sales will support enhancements and programs along the country's most visited national park.

Thanks to Parkway supporters, the Foundation exceeded the 450 preorders required to secure approval for the license plate. It will be the only specialty plate in the commonwealth solely dedicated to funding projects and programs along the Parkway.

"We are so grateful to all the Virginians who placed a preorder for the plate and helped us create a new source of support for the national park in their backyard," said Carolyn Ward, CEO of the Blue Ridge Parkway Foundation.

In 2022, the park welcomed more than 15.7 million visitors. Unlike many large national parks, the Parkway does not charge an admission fee, making the scenic route more vulnerable to shortfalls in government funding, maintenance backlogs, and building closures.

The plate legislation garnered widespread support, ranging from Augusta County to the Roanoke Regional Chamber to Patrick County.

In a letter of support, Kimberly Davis, executive director of the Friends of Southwest Virginia, wrote: "The Parkway is a significant economic driver for Southwest Virginia. Additionally, the work of the Blue Ridge Parkway Foundation has had a tremendous impact in both Virginia and North Carolina, and this license plate project will help the Foundation support projects and programs on the Parkway for years to come."

The specialty plate fee is $25, of which $15 will go toward key improvements along the Parkway, including repairs at trails, campgrounds, and picnic areas. Funding will also support projects such as wildlife studies, historic preservation, and educational programs. A personalized plate is available for $35. The specialty plate is available for vehicles and motorcycles.

The DMV will soon begin the steps to get plates into production. The foundation will continue to accept preorders for the plate at GetThePlate.org until Friday, March 31. Those who have preordered by that date will be the first group to receive the plate in the mail. Others will have to wait until the plate is listed on the DMV's website this summer. Production of the plate is estimated to take a few months, so plates will likely begin to arrive in July or August.

Free septic system pump-outs offered

Roanoke County and the Roanoke Valley Alleghany Regional Commission have partnered using grant funds from the Virginia Environmental Endowment to provide a no-cost septic tank pump-out program for qualified Roanoke County residents.

Households with an annual income at or below 200% of the Federal Poverty Line are eligible to apply for this program. Residents are encouraged to attend an educational workshop, where they can apply for the free pump-out during the event. The next workshop is scheduled for March 2 at the Glenvar Library from 4:30 p.m. - 6:30 p.m.

This grant-funded program aims to reduce the environmental impact and property damage caused by failed septic systems. Septic systems that have not been maintained are a possible source of nutrient and bacteria pollution that may lead to stream impairments throughout Roanoke County. Septic systems that fall into disrepair can back up into homes or overflow into yards, creating costly issues for homeowners.

Keeping septic systems maintained benefits households, the local community, and the environment. Septic systems should be inspected every 1 to 3 years and pumped every 3 to 5 years, depending on use.

$10K grant provides scholarships for Virginia Western machining students

ROANOKE – The Gene Haas Foundation selected the School of Career and Corporate Training at Virginia Western Community College to receive a $10,000 grant in fall 2022. The grant provides scholarships for students to take the college's courses in machining. This program provides training from the Fundamentals of Machining all the way to CNC Machining with both Mills and Lathes.

Machine operators and machinists make parts for an array of technology, such as pacemakers and cellphones, as well as planes and bridges. The Gene Haas Foundation's primary goal is to build skills in the machining industry by providing scholarships for CNC (Computerized Numerical Control) machine technology students and certifications.

The Gene Haas Foundation was established in 1999, by Gene Haas, founder and owner of Haas Automation, Inc., to support the needs of the local community. The foundation later expanded its mission to include support for manufacturing training programs throughout North America and beyond.

The Gene Haas Foundation donates millions of dollars every year to manufacturing education and the community, with the goal of expanding the availability of high-quality manufacturing technology training worldwide.

"Combined with the state FastForward funding, this scholarship could help up to 16 students enter into Machining as a new career this year," said Bryan Walke, course coordinator for the School of Career and Corporate Training. "We take pride in seeing how these skills lead to rewarding careers and impact our student's futures."

Paul Gillespie, an instructor in the machining program, first heard about the grant and followed through with the application process. This is the second grant that the Gene Haas Foundation has awarded Virginia Western.

Gillespie and fellow instructor Alan Bible teach Machining courses year-round. The Gene Haas Scholarship has provided funds for students in their Fundamentals, Milling, Turning and Advanced courses.

Workforce development is a key component of the machining program, Gillespie said. Each of the four courses offer students the opportunity to receive two or three credentials from the National Institute of Metalworking Skills (NIMS).

Virginia Western student Cross Yonce received a scholarship because of the Gene Haas Foundation award. "The scholarship has helped me by allowing me to take the Milling class in an attempt to further my career," said Yonce, who completed Bible's course in January. The machining program also has offered him a sense of community. "I enjoyed the people I got to meet and hang out with throughout the duration of the class."

Machining falls in a category of a high-demand workforce skill. Gillespie said the majority of his students are already employed – companies "send them to us for extra training." This creates an environment where students "want to learn," and often receive state funding. "They go back to their employers with their employers' support." About a third of the program's students have no experience before starting in the Fundamentals course. "They get jobs right away," Gillespie said.

The Gene Haas Scholarship has specifically helped some students who had moved from out of state and did not yet qualify for state programs such as FastForward or the G3 Scholarship.

Machining offers good starting pay and stable employment

if you like mechanical things and working with your hands, Gillespie said. "Those who do, usually latch onto it and like it."

The Machining Fundamentals I and II course started Feb. 13. Students can learn the skills major manufacturing employers are looking for and earn valuable credentials. The training takes just seven weeks, and the course is included in the VA Ready initiative, which can earn each student a credential achievement award of $1,000. To register, visit:

Allyson is a “basketball lifer.” She was a standout guard at Glenvar and a member of the 2002 state championship team. She was named to the all-state team for three years and set a school record for points in a game, with 39, and in a career, with 1,935. She was a two-time Three Rivers District Player of the Year.

After high school she played at Liberty University in Lynchburg from 2004-08 and during that time she helped the Flames to three Big South Tournament Championships and three NCAA Tournament appearances, including a Sweet 16 appearance in 2005.

Fasnacht spent the 2008-09 season as an assistant women's basketball coach at Furman in Greenville, S.C. She was a graduate Assistant Coach at the University of Nevada for two seasons while earning her master's degree in educational leadership before catching on at St. Mary's, where she's been since 2011.

“I enjoy living in the Bay Area,” she said. “It's the polar opposite of Salem and I'm a small town girl, but it's a lot of fun. There's always somewhere to go and something to do, but then you have the traffic that goes with it.”

Saint Mary's College is located in Moraga, California, a small suburban community about 10 miles east of Oakland and 20 miles east of San Francisco.

“I don't live in the city,” she said. “I live right near the ocean, which is pretty nice, and I really like the university. It's been a real positive experience.”

After the season the school administration will likely decide on which direction to go with the program. Allyson would like to stay on, but she's uncertain what tomorrow will bring, as is the case with many in college athletics.

“That's the elephant in the room,” she said about whether she'll stay on as head coach. “I imagine after the season is over I'll sit down with the athletic director and we'll talk about it.”

Allyson has lots of family in the Roanoke Valley. Her family still lives in the Salem area and her brothers Bryan and Charlie, who also played sports for Glenvar, live here and have two kids each that “Aunt Allyson” would like to spend more time with.

“I get to Salem three or four times a year, usually after the season,” she said. “Right now all I'm thinking about is this tournament. Our conference usually gets two teams into the NCAA tournament and it's a great destination playing in Las Vegas.”

Red Devils edge RC lax, 14-13

A goal with less than a minute left lifted eighth ranked Dickinson over the Roanoke men's lacrosse team, 14-13, last Sunday afternoon at the US Lacrosse Complex in Sparks, Md. The Red Devils scored with 1:43 left in the first half with the score tied at 5-5 to take a one-goal lead into the break. Salem's Wyatt Whitlow had two goals for RC in the second period. The third quarter saw two goals in the first two minutes of the half to take an 8-5 lead over Roanoke. A third goal by Whitlow was answered with two more as Dickinson led 10-6 with 5:24 left in the period. Back-to-back goals within nine seconds of each other for Goad and Luke

Salem's Wyatt Whitlow had four goals for Roanoke College in last weekend's game with Dickinson.

Kammerman cut the lead to just two with 1:51 left in the period. The Red Devils got a second last-moment goal to put their lead back to three heading into the fourths.

Down 13-9, the Maroons went on a 5-1 run capped by back-to-back goals by Sean Kennedy at 3:37 and Julian Kammerman at 3:03 to tie the score at 13-13. However, the Red Devils scored the third last-minute goal of a period in the game with 39 seconds left to escape with a 14-13 win. Both Whitlow and Goad scored four goals for the Maroons against the nationally-ranked Red Devils.

Roanoke is back home this Saturday, March 4, when they host John Carroll. First faceoff with the Blue Streaks is scheduled for 2 pm at Kerr Stadium.

Salem's "Lilly and Libby" help Maroons to lax win

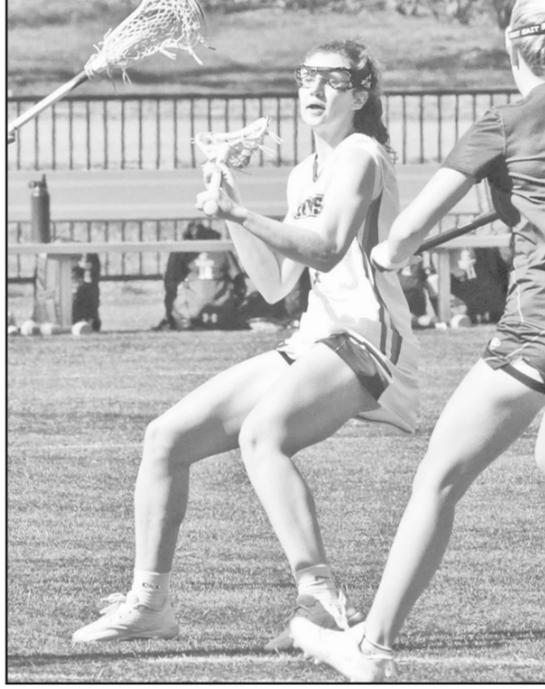

The Roanoke College women's lacrosse team won their first home game of the season in dominating fashion with a 16-9 win over St. Mary's of Maryland on Sunday afternoon.

After the Seahwaks scored the first goal at 10:40 it was all Maroons. Roanoke responded with four straight goals by Kate Loughran, Grace Koutouzis, Tiernan Connor, and Soria Ebert. Libby Bowman opened the scoring in the second quarter with an unassisted goal at 13:32 and Nicole Harrison added the Maroon's sixth goal of the game at 9:30. After two Seahawks goals the Maroons went into half-time with a 6-5 lead.

Koutouzis started a 9-1 run by the Maroons with a goal at 11:19 of the third quarter and was capped off by a goal by Harrison at 6:23 of the fourth quarter. Three goals by SMC cut the Maroons' lead to 15-9 at 2:36, however, Lilly Blair, who finished the game with four assists, got the final goal of the contest off a pass from Koutouzis with nine seconds left, giving the Maroons the 16-9 win.

Bowman and Blair, former Salem High teammates, accounted for five goals as Bowman hit the net four times and Blair had a goal and four assists as the Maroons improved to 2-0.

Roanoke is back at home Friday to host Mary Washington at 4 pm, followed by a home game against Kean at 1 pm Sunday.

Maroon wrestler Sallah is third in Southeast Region

Roanoke College wrestler Mahlic Sallah punched his ticket to the NCAA Championships with a third-place finish in at 2023 NCAA Div. III Southeast Regional Championships last weekend.

Five total Maroons reached the podium on Saturday at the regional hosted by York College in Pennsylvania. The Maroons finished in ninth place with 60.5 points.

Sallah finished third after going 4-1 at 184 pounds, including a 5-3 decision in the third-place match. He will travel across town to the Berglund Center in Roanoke for the 2023 NCAA Div. III National Championships on March 10-11. The championships are being hosted by fellow ODAC member Ferrum College.

Other Maroons who placed at the regional included a fifth by Mark Samuel at 141 pounds and three seventh places, Morgan Robinson at 149, Zane Cox at 157 and Jacob Cherry at 165.

RC baseball wins three at home, Lingenfelter hurls complete game

The Roanoke College baseball team hosted two doubleheaders last weekend and won three of four games to improve to 3-4 on the season.

Salem High grad Caleb Lingenfelter, a senior at Roanoke College, got the Maroons off to a good start when he pitched a complete game victory in the first game of a doubleheader against Dickinson College last Friday at Salem Memorial Ballpark. Lingenfelter pitched all seven innings, fanning four and allowing just two earned run in a 4-3 Maroon win. After Dickinson tied the score in the fifth inning Roanoke got a walk-off RBI single by Conner Butler in the bottom of the seventh to score Nate Chown from second for the win.

Dickinson took a 10-5 win in the nightcap Friday to earn a split on the day. The Red Devils led 7-5 after six innings and added three runs in the top of the seventh while keeping Roanoke off the scoreboard in the bottom of the inning.

On Sunday the Maroons swept visiting Elizabethtown, 6-4 and 10-7. In the opener Jonny Wall and Mason Staz had two hits each to lead the Maroons and Staz knocked in two runs. Aiden Kuhle earned the win in relief, pitching three innings with four strikeouts and allowing just one hit.

In the second game Staz stayed hot with three more hits. Evan Parks picked up the win in relief as Roanoke sent nine different pitchers to the mound with only starter Jack Robinson pitching more than one inning. He went two.

The Maroons expect to take advantage of the pitching depth this weekend as they play three more games in two days, all at Salem Memorial as part of a four team round robin. On Saturday they host Franklin & Marshall at 10 am and Brockport at 6 pm, with Franklin & Marshall meeting Marietta at 2 pm. On Sunday Brockport will play Franklin & Marshall at 10 am, Marietta will play Brockport at 2 pm and Roanoke will host Marietta at 6 pm.

RC women 3rd in ODAC track

The Roanoke women were third and the men were fifth as RC hosted the Old Dominion Athletic Conference indoor track meet last weekend at the Kerr-Cregger Indoor Fieldhouse. The University of Lynchburg swept the indoor titles for the second year in a row.

In the women's meet Grace Fowler won the shot put and the Roanoke College women had runner-up finishes in four events. Fowler won the shot put with a distance of 12.36m and also finished third in the weight throw with a mark of 15.25m. Seconds went to Mikayla Hefferon in the 400m, Chloe Van Duyn in the pole vault, Hannah Snodgrass in the 60 hurdles and the 4x400 relay team of Lauren Henson, Haylee Gamble, Maryrose Molina-Shuman, and Hefferon.

In the men's meet Roanoke won three events and set four school records. Brady Fowler took first in the 60m with a program-record time of 6.84 seconds and Samuel Crawford won the 400m in a school-record 49.63 seconds. The 4x400 relay team of Brandon Heffinger, Lorenzo Camobreco, Fowler, and Crawford also finished first and set a new program standard with a time of 3:24.24.

Roanoke will compete in the Shenandoah Last Chance Meet in Winchester, VA this weekend.

Jackets top Roanoke in ODAC tourney

The Roanoke College men saw their basketball season come to an end last weekend but not without a full weekend of action. Roanoke was eliminated by second ranked Randolph-Macon on Saturday after defeating Washington & Lee in four overtimes Friday in the Old Dominion Athletic Conference tournament at the Salem Civic Center.

Roanoke's Friday afternoon game against W&L was one for the ages as the Maroons took a 117-103 win in four extra periods. The Maroons overcame a poor foul shooting night that could have ended the affair much earlier. Roanoke was 21 for 42 from the line and many of the misses came in the overtime periods when the Maroons had a chance to ice the game.

The four overtimes is only the second time in program history the Maroons have gone to four extra periods since the ODAC Tournament semifinals in 1988 against Bridgewater. The 117 points in the most for the Maroons since the program record 156 against Lynchburg during the 2015-16 season (in double overtime) and the third most in team history (128 vs. Shenandoah – 1996 NCAA First Round).

RC senior Kasey Draper finished the game with a career-high 40 points and became just the 12th Maroon to score 40-plus in a game; the first since Jay Piccola scored 41 against Old Dominion in 1973. It is also the most for a Maroon ever in a single game in the ODAC Tournament.

Four Maroons scored 20 or more points in the win. In addition to Draper's 40, Tripp Green finished with a career-high 25, Efosa U-Edosomwan finished with 2, and Josh McClary scored 21. U-Edosomwan recorded his first career triple-double with 24 points, 15 rebounds, and 10 assists, the first for the ODAC this year. The 10 assists are the most ever in an ODAC Tournament game for a Maroon.

The win put RC in Saturday's semifinal against Randolph-Macon, and the top-seeded Yellow Jackets took a 62-50 win. Roanoke trailed by just two at the break but wore down in the second half as the talented Randolph-Macon team took charge. Draper led RC with 14 points and 13 rebounds while McClary also reached double figures with 12 points.

With the loss the Maroons completed their second 20-win season under head coach Clay Nunley at 20-7. Roanoke finished with a 9-3 record at home between the Cregger Center and Bast Center Gym. Draper was named first team all-ODAC, Justin Kuthan was named to the second team and KU-Edosomwan made the third team.

Randolph-Macon defeated Guilford in Sunday's ODAC final, 61-48. The Yellow Jackets and Hampden-Sydney earned berths in the NCAA Division III tournament this weekend.

GHS girls in state hoops Fri.

The Glenvar girls' basketball team will open Class 2 state tournament play on Friday when the Highlanders take on Region 2D champion Gate City at the Virginia High gym in Bristol. Game time is 7 pm.

The Highlanders come in as the second seed from Region 2C after finishing as the runner-up team in the region tournament Monday. Glenvar lost to Floyd County in the region final and Floyd will host Region 2D runner-up Central of Wise in a state quarterfinal game at a neutral site.

Glenvar comes in with a 13-12 overall record after last week's regional. The Highlanders opened with a 50-20 win over Appomattox, then played two games at the Radford University Dedmon Center, beginning with a 38-35 win over Chatham last Thursday. That clinched a spot in the state tournament for the Highlanders.

"They were very aggressive with a full court press," said Glenvar coach Jeff Johnson. "They tried to shut down Rhyann (Harris) and force us to play a different style."

Harris wouldn't be denied. With Glenvar down two points late in the game she scored on an old-fashioned three-point play to put the Highlanders up one and Glenvar held on for the win. Rhyann finished with 19 points and McKenzie Harris had eight.

Monday night in Radford. It was the third meeting between the two this season and the closest of the three, but Floyd still took a 54-36 win to claim the Region 2C crown.

"They're in your face the whole time," said Johnson. "Our margin of error is so slim when we play Floyd we have to almost play a perfect game. And, we were missing KT (Kaelon Thompson), who hurt her knee against Chatham." Most of Glenvar's offense again came from Rhyann Harris. Despite being double-teamed she scored 23 of Glenvar's 36 points. Harris will need to have a big night when the Highlander take on a 21-5 Gate City team in the state quarterfinal round Friday.

"They're long and they can all shoot," said Johnson of the Blue Devils. "They play man-to-man and they're very good in the half court. It's going to take a great effort for us to beat them."

Eagles knock RC out of ODAC

The Roanoke College women fell behind early and a late comeback effort fell short as the Maroons were eliminated by Bridgewater in the first round of the Old Dominion Athletic Conference tournament last week. The Eagles took a 71-60 win in the first round of the tournament at the Salem Civic Center last Thursday.

After the two teams traded baskets to start the game the Eagles went on a 7-0 run, capped with a pair of free throws with 4:13 left in the first quarter. Bridgewater extended their lead to eight with a free throw at 1:27. Madison Nereu hit both ends of her free throws to cut the lead down to six, but a last-second layup for the Eagles gave them the 15-7 lead after the first 10 minutes of play.

The Eagles scored the first seven points of the final period to take a 17 point lead with 8:44 on the clock. The Maroons chipped away at the lead, with Sande cutting the lead down to singles digits with a pair of free throws at 4:56, 60-51, but a 10-0 run by the Eagles put the game out of reach. Lauren Keel led the Maroons with 17 points while Sayre Brandstatter and Rose Sande had 11 each. Sande was named second team All-ODAC as the Maroons finished the season at 18-8.

Washington & Lee went on to win the tournament with a 73-57 win over Shenandoah in Sunday's final. The Generals are the only team from the ODAC to make the NCAA Division III women's tournament.

Glenvar High School graduate and former Highlander basketball standout Allyson Fasnacht has been the head coach at St. Mary's College in California since the middle of December.

Glenvar's Fasnacht will coach St. Mary's in Las Vegas today

Glenvar High graduate Allyson Fasnacht will be in Las Vegas this week but she won't be gambling. What happens in Vegas won't stay in Vegas as she'll be coaching the St. Mary's College women's basketball team in the West Coast Conference tournament at Orleans Arena.

The Gaels will be playing Loyola Marymount University in the opening round today at 2:30 pm. Allyson has been the head coach at St. Mary's since just before Christmas when the school parted ways with Paul Thomas, who had been the head coach for the past 17 years. He was responsible for bringing Allyson to the school as an assistant 12 years ago.

"He's the main reason I'm here," said Fasnacht. "I really enjoyed working with him. He was a great mentor and he's a great friend. I was sad to see him leave."

Thomas was let go under circumstances that were not released to the public after some internal team issues. Fasnacht had been the Associate Head Coach for the past four years after spending eight years as an assistant. She is currently listed as "interim coach" but has taken on responsibilities for her new job as well as her previous one.

"I'm doing the head coaching stuff, but I still have my Associate Head Coach responsibilities," she said. "It's been pretty crazy, because the day-to-day decisions are now on me."

As Associate head coach Fasnacht's duties included scheduling, domestic and international recruiting, player development, opponent scouting, game and practice preparations, elite and summer team camps as well as external relations. Fasnacht has helped lead SMC to a 193-140 record during her time with the program.

St. Mary's comes into this year's tournament with a 12-17 overall record. The Gaels play in a historically strong basketball conference with the likes of Gonzaga, Brigham Young, Pepperdine and other nationally competitive schools.
