New assistant principals named at three Salem schools

Superintendent Dr. Curtis Hicks announced assistant principal appointments at several schools in the division

Jamie Garst is returning to Salem High School to serve as an assistant principal, Nikki Mitchem is set to resume her administrative career as an assistant principal at Andrew Lewis Middle and Marcee McMillan is leaving the classroom for an assistant principal position at East Salem Elementary.

"It is truly rare to have the opportunity to hire administrators with this level of experience and commitment to students," said Hicks. "Each of these Salem School Division leaders brings a unique set of skills and an unwavering dedication to our division, and I am confident they will have an immediate and positive impact on their respective schools."

Garst is back in an administrative role after a brief return to the classroom for the past two years. He is a Salem native and Salem High School graduate who has served as both an assistant principal and principal for Salem City Schools. In 2022, Garst was named Virginia's Secondary Schools Principal of the Year for his work at Andrew Lewis Middle.

"I am thankful I was able to spend the past two years teaching and coaching our young people," said Garst. "These experiences allowed me to regain my perspective as an educator and focus on the future. I love Salem High School and I'm thankful for the opportunity to once again serve the Salem community as a leader."

Garst earned his bachelor's degree in biochemistry in 2003 from Virginia Tech and later acquired two master's degrees in biochemistry and curriculum and instruction from Virginia Tech. He also has a master's degree in educational leadership from Radford University. He began his teaching career in 2008 in a chemistry classroom at his alma mater, Salem High

Public input kicks off Glenvar Growth Plan as Roanoke County launches long-term vision

Edmee CR Hasler Contributing writer

GLENVAR — On April 30, Roanoke County launched its long-term vision for the Glenvar area with a public input meeting, marking the first step in a multi-year effort to guide development, transportation improvements, economic revitalization.

The Glenvar Center Plan, part of the broader Roanoke County 200 Plan, aims to attract new businesses, expand housing options, and infrastructure over the next 10 to 15 years. Nearly 100 residents attended the meeting to share ideas and concerns about the community's

"This meeting is very open-ended," said Isaac Henry, county planner. "We're sharing data about existing conditions and want to hear from the community—what they like, what's not working, and where they opportunities."

Attendees viewed maps and displays of current land uses and demographics while county staff gathered feedback through surveys and comment boards. The study area spans 809 acres, home to about 874 residents and 30 businesses. Demographic data show Glenvar has an older population and a higher median income than the county average, with a strong base of owner-occupied housing.

Franco reflects on decades of theatre, storytelling and student impact

Aila Boyd

After more than three decades of shaping young performers and bringing powerful stories to life, Glenvar bringing High School theatre director Steve Franco is taking his final bow.

Among the many moments that defined his career, Franco said the most meaningful was the staging of "My Father's War," a play he wrote about his father's battle with dementia. "It was part hysterical comedy combined with heart-wrenching drama," he said. "To be able to honor my father's legacy while also addressing the greater need for Alzheimer's/ Dementia research was deeply gratifying."

Franco directed 70 main-stage productions during his time at Glenvar, but none proved more ambitious than "GRUNTS," play he co-wrote with former student Darren Todd about soldiers in the Vietnam War. "We set out with two goals: to honor the men and women that answered their country's call and to stage a show that was the most realistic play Roanoke Valley residents had ever seen." To prepare, the team conducted roundtable discussions Vietnam veterans, held boot camps, and even staged a mock jungle hike. They hauled 16 tons of dirt onto the stage and into the aisles so that audiences would "take 'Vietnam' home with them."

The production drew national attention, including a phone call from Gen. Norman Schwarzkopf and letters

The Messiah (Part III) at St. Paul's Episcopal Church: St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Salem continues its celebration of the Easter Season on Sunday, May 11 at 4 p.m. with a performance of The Messiah (Part III) by George Frederic Handel. The Easter portion of this beloved oratorio will be sung by the St. Paul's choir, joined by orchestra and soloists Asherah Capellaro, Scott Williamson, Taylor Cobb, and Kari Grim, all under the direction of Steven R. Lawrence, St. Paul's organist and choirmaster. Handel composed the Messiah in 1741, constructing it in three parts. Part 1 focuses on the prophesy and nativity of Jesus Christ, Part 2 on the suffering, death, and resurrection, and Part 3 the triumph of Christ, the resurrection of the dead, and Christ reigning in glory. The oratorio was first performed in Dublin, Ireland in 1742, then in London one year later. The Messiah gained in popularity, making it one of the most frequently performed choral works in Western Music. For more information, please contact the church office at (540) 389-9307. Over the years, Franco has seen live theatre evolve-and not always for the better. "We live in a very visual age," he said. To keep students and audiences engaged, he adapted by writing fastpaced, family-friendly scripts that moved quickly to hold attention.

Franco also played a foundational role in the Roanoke County School for the Performing Arts, now the Center for Performing Arts, which gave aspiring performers a place to grow and helped make live theatre more accessible. "It helped prepare a new generation of performers to carry on the Musical Theatre tradition of professionalism," he said.

His own writing has reached wide audiences. His comedy "In-Laws, Outlaws and Other People (That Should Be Shot)" has been performed more than 600 times in 38 states and five countries. Still, Franco says the Showtimers production in Salem in December was his favorite. "I was both honored that my hometown theatre would choose to stage my work, and highly impressed with the incredible directing and acting talent they displayed.

Franco credits much of his success to his students. "Being willing to be a learner while serving as a teacher has been one of the keys to my success," he said. "It also keeps me humble."

Among the many hats Franco has worn-educator, playwright, designer, coach—his favorite role was "Dad." He directed his son Garrison onstage and worked backstage with his son Micah. "Few parents get to do their job along with their children—I am very blessed in that sense."

He also cherishes his one-man show portraying Mark Twain, inspired by his high school English teacher and encouraged by the late Hal Holbrook himself, who told Franco, "You're alright with me."

To future theatre educators, Franco offers this advice: "Your love for theatre can't be about your love for theatre. If we want to keep live theatre alive-we have to woo audiences with what interests them, then keep them with professionally staged, highly entertaining performances.'

As he enters retirement, Franco looks forward to traveling with his wife Ann and writing new plays with collaborator Dale Bayless. "While I'm retiring from teaching—I'm not going to spend much time sitting," he said. "No matter where I end up—Glenvar will always be my home.'

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

One thing I always associate with Mother's Day is rhubarb. My mom's favorite pie was strawberry-rhubarb pie. My first experience with rhubarb was with my neighbor, Cathy, in Michigan. I was 7 and she was 10 so of course I thought Cathy was sagacious, the smartest girl, and I did everything she did. One late spring day she broke off a stalk of a red leafy plant, peeled the strings off and dunked it in a bowl of sugar she got from her mom. When she handed me some, I took it without hesitation. That first taste of raw rhubarb; the combo of very sour and gritty sweetness is one I will never forget. I was mesmerized by the ping pong of sweet and tart flavors. I have heard that some call it the "Devil's Celery". You either like it or hate it. I loved it.

Rhubarb is a spring vegetable, one of the few that is still truly seasonal. Rhubarb is a long, stalky perennial plant that looks a lot like red celery. The stalks can range in color from deep red to light pink, and even pale green. The pretty stalks come into season in late March to early April and stick around until the beginning of June. It's a good source of fiber, vitamin K, and antioxidants, but its leaves are toxic and should not be eaten.

The ancient Chinese used it as a medicinal herb over 5,000 years ago. Native to southern Siberia, it got its name from the Russians who grew it along the Rha River (now the Volga). For centuries it was traded alongside tea as a cure for stomach aches and fevers.

The English were the first to eat rhubarb, beginning in the 17th century, but unfortunately chose to begin with the leaves that look like chard. The leaves, however, contain a toxic amount of oxalic acid and are poisonous. The ensuing cramps, nausea and sometimes death from ingestion suppressed interest in the plant for about two hundred years. But by the late 18th century Europeans had discovered that the tart stalks were the part to eat since sugar became easier to get. It was brought to the Americas before 1800 and folklore credits Benjamin Franklin, but others credit an unnamed gardener in Maine.

Rhubarb acts and tastes like a fruit, but it's a vegetable. There's a good reason for this confusion: In 1947, a case involving the tariff classification of fresh rhubarb from Canada, known as the "Great Rhubarb Controversy," arose. The question was whether rhubarb should be classified as a fruit (subject to a 35% duty) or a vegetable (subject to a 50% duty). The USDA, in this case, sided with the importer, classifying rhubarb as a fruit, as the tariffs on fruits were lower than on vegetables. The USDA's decision was since rhubarb is often used in desserts and sauces, like fruits, rather than as a vegetable side dish. The tariff classification of rhubarb as a fruit for tariff purposes has remained ever since that 1947 ruling, despite it being a vegetable. Today, in the United States, Washington State is responsible for producing an impressive 92% of the rhubarb harvest.

Shelly Koon

Rhubarb is very tart, so it needs to be balanced out with something sweet like strawberries (and doused in sugar, of course). It's great for jams, sauces, and baked goods like this easy crumble dessert. This strawberry rhubarb crumble can be made with either fresh or frozen, strawberries and rhubarb.

Strawberry Rhubarb Crumble Ingredients For the Fruit Filling

• 2 cups strawberries, quartered

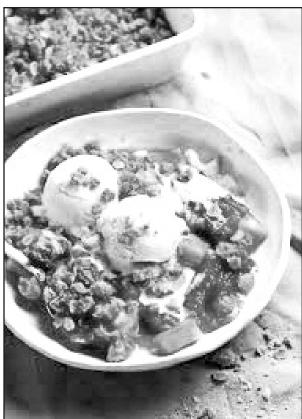

- 2 cups (about 3/4 pound) rhubarb, cleaned, ends trimmed, cut into 1/2-inch pieces
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1 & 1/2 tablespoons corn starch
- 1/8 teaspoon kosher salt
- Crumble Topping
- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/3 cup packed brown sugar3 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/8 teaspoon kosher salt
- 6 tablespoons cold unsalted butter, cut into small pieces

For Serving

Ice cream or whipped cream

Instructions

Preheat oven to 375 degrees F with rack in the middle position. Coat a 9×9-inch baking dish with nonstick cooking spray. In a large bowl, toss strawberries and rhubarb with the sugar, cornstarch, and salt, making sure everything gets mixed and coated. Pour into prepared baking dish. For the crumble topping, in a medium bowl, mix the flour, brown sugar, granulated sugar, cinnamon, and salt. Work in the butter with your hands, until large moist clumps form. Sprinkle over the strawberry- rhubarb mixture. Place dish on a foil-lined baking sheet; bake until topping is browned, and fruit is bubbly and tender underneath, 45 minutes. Let cool for 10-15 minutes. Serve with ice cream or whipped cream!

The second second

Note: Fresh verses Frozen Fruit. Fresh ingredients taste richer and wonderful in this dessert, but frozen works too. It's not necessary to let the fruit thaw first before using, as long as it's chopped, but you might need to increase the bake time by a few minutes. Tent the baking dish with foil if you notice the topping is over browning. If you do let the fruit thaw, however, drain any liquid before using.

leadership make him an exceptional fit for Salem High School," said Hicks. "We are thrilled to have him return to our administrative team."

Mitchem is also stepping back into an administrative role after three years as a teacher at East Salem. She will join Principal Matt Coe's staff at Andrew Lewis Middle School as an assistant principal. She has 10 years of administrative experience, including seven years as a principal in Roanoke City Public Schools.

"I am honored to join the Andrew Lewis Middle School community, and I look forward to partnering with students, staff, and families to foster a safe, engaging, and empowering learning environment where every student can thrive," said Mitchem. "I'm especially excited to reconnect with many of the families I had the pleasure of working with at East Salem Elementary. I will always be grateful for my time there and the lasting relationships that helped shape who I am as an educator and leader."

Mitchem has a bachelor's degree from Concord University and a master's degree in teaching from Hollins University. In addition, she has a master's degree in educational leadership from Radford University. She began her teaching career at Roanoke's Virgina Heights Elementary and after five years there as a fifthgrade teacher, she became the dean of instruction at Lincoln Terrace Elementary. In 2015, she moved to Fallon Park Elementary to become an assistant principal, and from 2016-22 she served as Fallon Park's principal.

"She is a thoughtful, student-centered leader who knows how to support teachers and help students thrive and we are excited to welcome her to Andrew Lewis," said Hicks. "Her familiarity with our reading curriculum and the requirements of the Virginia Literacy Act will serve her well as these programs begin to take root and expand into the middle school environment."

At East Salem Elementary School, Marcee McMillan is set to join the front office staff and complete the brand-new leadership team that includes recently named Principal Kenya Motley.

"Ít is a true privilege and honor to be able to give back to the community that gave so much to m and I'm looking forward to working alongside the teachers, student and the families at East Salem." sa McMillan. "Teaching has shown nother powers of patience and empathy well as the importance of cultivating relationships and believing in every child's potential, and I am excited begin this new journey."

McMillan has a bachelor's degr from Ferrum College and a maste degree in teaching from Holli University. She will comple requirements for her Education Leadership certificate later th summer from James Madisc University. She began her teachin career at Roanoke's Westsic Elementary and since 2017 she h been a valued faculty member at G.V. Carver Elementary. She was vote as the school's teacher of the year 2024.

"Marcee McMillan is another prous Salem graduate, and her appointme as assistant principal at East Sale Elementary is a great reflection our homegrown talent," Hicks note "She has a strong understanding curriculum and instruction, includit the Virginia Literacy Act and the virginia Literacy Act and the relationships she has built we be incredible assets to our student staff, and families at East Salem."

McMillan is taking over f Christina Rose, who is moving the central office. Rose is replacing the retiring Dr. Elizabeth Arthur the division's coordinator of stude services. Mitchem is stepping into Motley's former position at Andrew Lewis Middle, and Garst is replacing Chris Wilkes, who is moving to Roanoke College to lead the Maroons regiment marching and spirit bands.

All three appointments were formally approved by the Salem School Board during last week's meeting. They will take effect on July 1.

"This is an exciting time for the Salem City School Division," Hicks concluded. "With leaders like Nikki, Jamie, and Marcee stepping into these important roles, our future is in excellent hands."

"Infrastructure and development projects happen on long timelinestransportation funding, for instance, is often awarded for projects five years down the road. But looking further than 15 years is hard, especially with how fast things change with technology and development

Henry said he was encouraged by the turnout. "The turnout's great—especially for a first meeting, and especially at this early, open-ended stage," he said. "Usually, it's harder to get people engaged when we're not presenting a specific project but instead asking broad questions about the community. People are more likely to show up when they're reacting to a specific proposal. So, to see this level of interest for an openended discussion is encouraging."

From an economic development standpoint, Alexander Jones, assistant director of economic development, said the plan could help attract new businesses to underutilized corridors like U.S. Routes 460 and 11.

when tradition, ceremony, and meaning come together to connect us across generations, anchor us to enduring ideas, and remind us that we are part of something larger than ourselves," he said. "Rituals like this often mark transitions — weddings, bar and bat mitzvahs, confirmations, funerals each carrying deep lessons about faith, commitment, love, loss and the passage of time. They also reflect shared values, offering all who participate a chance to recommit to what matters most."

Shushok urged the crowd to make the most of these moments that make up "the architecture of life."

"Maroons, may you live bravely and beautifully. May you find a kicking post wherever you land. May you find something so worthwhile that nothing can stop you from working, waiting even leaping for it. May you find joy in every moment — the big Rs and the small. We'll be cheering for you every step of the way."

The Class of 2025 hails from 29 states and 12 countries, and the graduates range in age from 19 to 37. This year's class included eight young women who shared the valedictorian honor, as well as one outstanding salutatorian.

The 2025 valedictorians are:

Julia Olsen Bassett, a health and exercise science major from Midlothian.

Peyton Olivia Bradford, a psychology major from Salisbury, Maryland.

Simran Kaur Gill, a psychology major from Salem.

Rhianna Nicole Gleason, a criminal justice major from Midlothian.

Rebecca M. Goldstein, an education studies major from Medford, New Jersey.

Madeline Diane Higgins, an English education major from Danville.

Riya Amit Patel, a biochemistry and public health studies double major from Salem.

Sydney LeVette Pennix, a psychology major from Roanoke.

Salutatorian honors went to Connor Joseph Tyson, a health and exercise science major from Waxhaw, North Carolina. All valedictorians were invited to the stage to deliver brief remarks.

"I would like to express deep gratitude to the professors who challenged us, to the families who supported us, to the coaches and mentors who guided us, to the friends who laughed and cried with us, to the dining staff who fueled us, and to each person who believed in us and helped us reach this moment," said

Said Madeline Higgins, "Mother Teresa said, 'The problem with the world is that we draw the circle of our family too small.' In my time here, I have been lucky to draw my circle wide. As we go off and find home in strange places, let us cherish the people we hold dear and have excitement for those we are yet to also awarded honorary degrees to two individuals who have transformed the commonwealth and the Roanoke Valley into a thriving hub for research, talent and economic development: Dr. Michael Friedlander and Heywood Fralin.

Dr. Michael Friedlander is vice president for health sciences and technology at Virginia Tech, founding executive director of the Fralin Biomedical Research Institute at Virginia Tech Carilion, and senior dean for research at the Virginia Tech Carilion School of Medicine. He has grown the institute from one employee - him — to a world-class facility with more than 400 employees. He remains actively engaged in research.

Friedlander has fostered deep connections in the region between higher education, research, health care, community organizations and economic development, creating educational and workforce pipelines that encourage participation in health care and healthrelated fields. This has served as both a model and a catalyst for Roanoke College as it strives to become the Roanoke Valley's premier educational partner, as expressed in the college's strategic plan.

Heywood Fralin is a visionary philanthropist, education advocate, and civic and business leader who has played a pivotal role in advancing collaboration among higher education, industry and government throughout the Roanoke Valley and the Commonwealth of Virginia. As chairman of the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia, he championed policies to promote access, affordability and innovation.

In 2018, Fralin made a $50 million gift through the Fralin Family Trust to establish the Fralin Biomedical Research Institute at Virginia Tech Carilion. His gift has elevated the region's standing as a destination for medical research and health care innovation, and that has opened doors for Roanoke College students and alumni by creating opportunities for internships, research experiences and career advancement.

Friedlander was present at the Commencement ceremonies to accept his degree; Fralin, who was traveling, will collect his degree at a later date.

Two retiring faculty members were recognized with the Simon Carson Wells Medal, an honor bestowed on tenured, retiring faculty with at least 15 years of service to the institution: Thomas J. Carter, professor of English and communication studies, 31 years of service. Hans M. Zorn, professor of philosophy, 35 years of service. Also retiring this year is Marc LaChance, director of the Roanoke College Wind and Jazz Ensembles, which performed during the Commencement

Salem Moose Lodge #2573 holds annual pet benefit

The annual pet benefit at Salem Moose Lodge #2573, was held Sunday, April 27. All monetary proceeds went to Paws4people, a service dog group and all dog and cat food and supplies went to the Salem Animal Shelter. Randy Powers (Layla) and Scott Graham (Leia) attended the benefit with their dogs for everyone to meet. Ann Whitenack, the organizer of the benefit, along with many volunteers, worked tireless hours collecting donations from the public and area businesses to make this benefit such a great success.

Salem's Jackson Wininger shoots and scores in last week's win over Rockbridge.

GHS-Floyd tennis rematch Monday

The Glenvar tennis teams will take Radford in key Three Rivers District matches Friday. The boys will be home and the girls are at Radford.

The boys lost a big district match at Floyd County last week, 7-2. The Buffaloes are considered district favorites but Glenvar gave them some tough matches. "We had a lot of close matches," said GHS coach Bob Haynie. "Floyd won three matches easily, Glenvar won two. Four matches came down to the wire and Floyd won all four to get the team win.'

The boys beat Carroll County on Friday, 8-1. The Highlanders will host Floyd for a much anticipated rematch next Monday.

The girls are 5-4 after losing to Floyd and their match at Carroll County on Thursday was suspended by rain with the Highlanders winning five of six singles matches when things came to a halt.

Spartan lacrosse dominating

The Salem High boys' lacrosse team is on a roll. Since losing to nationally ranked St. Anne's-Bellfield on April 22nd the Spartans have won four straight and outscored their opponents by a combined 76-6.

Salem downed two rivals in the past week by lopsided scores. The beat Rockbridge, who was a challenge not many years ago, 22-2 at Spartan Field last Thursday then shut out Hidden Valley, 24-0, in Salem on Monday.

In the Rockbridge game the Spartans opened a 17-1 lead at the half and called off the dogs.

Holden Custer finished with four goals to lead the Spartans while Wade Marble had three. Jackson Wininger had two goals and four assists, Jackson Jones and Logan Sparks had two goals each and nine other Spartans had one goal each. Ryan Warren won 15 of 16 faceoffs to keep Salem in control of the ball.

On Monday at Spartan Field Richard Hof and Jack Ellis only had to make a combined three saves to shutout Hidden Valley. They rarely had possession as Warren dominated the faceoffs again, winning 12 of 14.

Parker Dallas had five goals and four assists to lead the Salem offense while Jones scored twice and handed out five dimes. Custer had three goals and scoring two each were Sparks, Wininger and Tucker Preas.

With the win Salem is now 9-2 and the Spartans have not lost to a Virginia High School League team, falling only to two private school lacrosse powerhouses. The Salemites will face off again tonight against William Byrd at 7:15 pm at Vinton's Robert A. Patterson Stadium. Next Monday they'll host Blacksburg at 7 pm.

Lax girls open doubleheader at Byrd tonite

The Salem High girls lacrosse team will be in action tonight in Vinton as they play the opening game of a doubleheader with the boys. The Salem-William Byrd girls' game is scheduled to start at 5:30 pm, followed by a game between the Salem and

The Spartans are 6-4 after defeating Hidden Valley at Spartan Field Monday, 14-5. Salem raced to an 8-3 lead by halftime and controlled the action after intermission. Eleven caused turnovers helped secure the win for the Spartans.

"This was a full team effort," said Spartan coach Mary Schwartz.

Bailey Redford was solid in the cage for Salem with 11 saves, three caused turnovers and five ground balls. Rylee McNeill had four goals and three assists and Mia Potter had four foals and two draw controls. London Fralin had three goals and Anne Thomas handed out three assists in win.

Salem was coming off a 14-5 loss at Rockbridge County last Thursday. The Wildcats are solid again with a 9-2 record and they're undefeated against region teams, but the Salem girls battled them to a 1-1 draw in the first quarter and only trailed 6-3 at intermission.

Schwartz. "We were only able to control three draw controls, which made it challenging to gain possession against this strong Rockbrige team."

"We had a strong showing in the first half," said

Redford helped keep Salem in the game with 15 saves as she was peppered in the goal. Potter had three goals and Thomas had two for the Spartans.

Salem High tennis teams play Bruins

The Salem tennis teams played Cave Spring with mixed results last Friday. The boys had their three game win streak halted with a 9-0 loss in Salem while the girls won 9-0 at Cave Spring.

an experienced and deep roster, which provided an advantage on key points."

girls allowed Cave The Spring just six total points in sweeping the singles, then won all three doubles by a combined "The Knights, however, boast won 8-0 in singles and Rawlins and Loveday combined to win 8-0 at first doubles.

The Spartans were scheduled to play Blacksburg teams on Thursday, and Friday they take on Hidden Valley with the girls at home and the boys at Hidden "Most of the games were 24-6 for a match total score of Valley. With 710 collegiate saves, he has 29 more stops than any other keeper in school history. In addition to leading the program in career saves, Pilat has also coached six of the nine other players ranked in the top 10 all-time saves list at the school. Three of those goalies have earned All-

"His accolades speak for themselves," said former Roanoke College Athletic Director Scott Allison, who hired Pilat to lead the program in 1989. "Nobody loves Roanoke College more than Bill, and he loved and fought for his players. He has been a great representative of Roanoke College and a first-class role

Pilat graduated cum laude from Roanoke in 1985 and earned a master's degree from Alfred University in education in 1986. While at Alfred, he served as a graduate assistant with the Saxons' lacrosse program. Pilat spent the 1987 season as a member of the Washington & Lee University staff, helping the Generals to a national semifinal appearance, before returning to Roanoke as an assistant in

Since the 1989 Pilat has led the Maroons to a 413-187 record over 37 seasons. He is the fourth winningest active coach in the country across all divisions and seventh overall among active and retired coaches. Pilat has a 202-50 record in the Old Dominion Athletic Conference (ODAC) for a winning percentage of over 80

Pilat was inducted into the Roanoke College Athletic Hall of Fame in 1995, and his number 37 jersey was retired. He's also a member of the New Jersey Lacrosse

Pilat coached the Maroons to 10 ODAC titles, 14 NCAA Tournament appearances with four trips to the Final Four. He has been named the ODAC Coach of the Year 11 times and has coached 19 Roanoke College Male Athletes of the Year. Pilat has mentored 22 student-athletes inducted into the RC Sports Hall of Fame and he played with an additional four Hall of Famers. His players have earned 114 All-American Awards.

"Although I've only had the opportunity to work with Coach Pilat for the past two years, it's been immediately clear why he has earned such deep respect across the campus and the lacrosse community," said RC Director of Athletics Curtis Campbell. "His dedication to student-athletes, integrity in leadership, and passion for the game have left a lasting impression. I wish him all the best in his well-earned retirement and thank him for the legacy he leaves behind." Pilat's son Will was a standout player for the Maroons and among the highlights of Bill's career was being able to coach his son. Some of the memorable moments include beating Ithaca in the 1992 NCAA Semi finals at Alumni field to go on to the National Championship Game in Philadelphia and beating Stevenson in the 2011 NCAA Quarter Finals on their home field when they were the team picked to win the NCAA title. They had beaten Roanoke by 10 goals during the regular season. Roanoke finished the 2025 season 13-6 and 8-2 in the Old Dominion Athletic Conference. The Maroons rank third in points (578) and points per game (19.0) and fifth in assists (217) in NCAA Division III. The Maroons lost a semifinal game to the University of Lynchburg, 15-11 in Lynchburg, and weren't included in the NCAA Division III tournament despite a number 25 ranking in the United States Intercollegiate Lacrosse Association Poll.

Pilat won't be on the Maroon sideline next season but he's not entirely stepping away from the game he loves. He'll continue to run his goalie camps, which are considered to be among the best in the nation.

"I will continue with my Goalie camps as I enjoy coaching and teaching," he said. "The camps take up a lot of my time as they have grown considerably over the years. I have goalie camps in 10 different states now. I plan to spend more time at the Outer Banks in North Carolina and to play a little golf. I would like to see my twins Will and Emily as often as possible.

A national search for Pilat's replacement will begin immediately. Assistant coach Chris Piatelli will serve as the interim head coach until a replacement is

"I am so proud to have been the coach of Roanoke men's lacrosse for the past 37 years," said Pilat. "The players I have coached mean everything to me. I've worked alongside some great coaches, administrators and athletes and this has been the best 37 years anyone could ask for. Our tradition of excellence in men's lacrosse is well known throughout all of Division III and this is due to the hard work, commitment and dedication of our players, coaches and assistant coaches from the 1960s to the present day. Thank you to everyone who supported our program and who continue to support Roanoke lacrosse. I am proud to be a Maroon forever."

Highlanders sweep middle school championships at Cosmo Track meet

The Andrew Lewis and Glenvar Middle School track teams ended their seasons in style last week with strong performances in the Cosmopolitan Club track meet. The Highlanders won both the boys' and girls' championships at William Fleming and the Wolverines also had a big day. The championships were the first time in school history for Glenvar. Ava Poindexter began the ompetition with victories in the Long Jump, Triple Jump and High Jump. She started the final day of competition with a Cosmopolitan Meet record in the girls' 100 meter hurdles with a time of 15.29 seconds, in all winning five first place medals and a silver to earn the meet's Most Outstanding Runner and Most Outstanding Field Event Athlete Awards. Glenvar's Grayson Harris also had a tremendous Ji'Zaiah Haynes was the top scorer for the Wolverine boys' team. Haynes took home silvers in the 100 and 200 meter dashes.

Dustin Peters got a silver medal in the 110 meter hurdles while Eli Yates took bronze in the high jump. Zyere Richardson took home bronze in the 300 meter hurdles and the 400 meter relay of Haynes, Yates, Richardson, and Jemari Allen won silver medals for the Wolverines.

The Salem High track team competed in two meets last weekend. Some Spartans were at the Dogwood Invitational in Charlottesville while others were at William Fleming for the 58th annual Cosmopolitan meet. In Charlottesville

Mitchel Taylor took seventh in the 110 hurdles and ran a state qualifying time. The meet was canceled after a twohour rain delay so some Spartans didn't get to compete.

For the girls, Sophia Hammersley took first in the Triple Jump and second in both the 100 and 300 hurdles.

The Highlanders were at Franklin County Wednesday, and this Saturday they're back in Christiansburg for the Blue Demon Invitational.

Salem soccer teams fall to Bruins again

As good as Salem's soccer teams have been in the past few years, Blacksburg continues to be a pain in the . . . side. On Tuesday both Salem teams lost to the Bruins, with the boys falling 4-1 in the Blacksburg and the girls losing 3-0 at Spartan Field.

Blacksburg scored on four set plays to beat the boys. Anthony Rugama's goal tied the score at 1-1 in the first half but the Bruins answered for a 2-1 lead at the half and outscored Salem 2-0 after intermission. The loss dropped the boys to 7-5 on the year, including a 5-2 win over Cave Spring last Friday on Spartan Field. Elijah Clark opened the scoring on a corner kick, assisted by Logan Lavinder, then TJ Fisher scored on a set piece, assisted by Lavinder, to put Salem up 2-1 at the break. In the second half decision at Cave Spring last Friday. Emma Elder scored Salem's goal.

On Tuesday keeper Karis Guy kept the girls in the game against Blacksburg but the Spartans weren't able to find the twine in the shutout loss.

Both teams are back in action tonight with the girls in Danville to take on George Washington High and the boys' hosting the Eagles on Spartan Field. On Friday the girls are home to host Hidden The girls are 6-6 Valley for "Senior Night" after Cave Spring ended and the boys are at Hidden Valley for a game on Bruce Mahan Field.

Sox take four of five from Fred-Nats

The Salem Red Sox took four of five games from the Fredricksburg Nationals in Salem last week to make up some ground in the Carolina League's North Division standings. The Sox are now six games behind the Carolina Mudcats as they head to Fayetteville for a sixgame series with the Woodpeckers this The Sox dropped the first game to Fredricksburg, 9-5, but rallied to win the next four around a Saturday rainout. That game will be made up when the Nationals return on June 18.

Salem won three closes, 4-2 on Wednesday, 5-4 on Thursday and 3-2 on Friday as Luis Cohen, Blake Alta and Michael Sansone picked up wins. On Sunday Andruw Musett was three for five with a pair of home runs, including a three-run shot in the sixth inning that nearly ignited a brawl. After Musett crossed the plate words were exchanged and both dugouts and bullpens emptied before order was quickly restored. Musett's sixth inning homer was the highlight of an eight run inning that included an RBI double by

Shenandoah tops RC in ODAC baseball

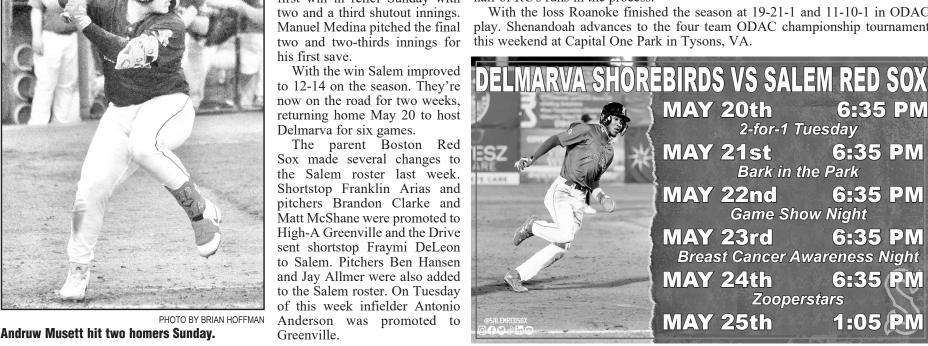

Shenandoah University proved to be a thorn in the side of the Roanoke College baseball team as the Hornets eliminated the Maroons from the ODAC tournament last week. Shenandoah won by scores of 22-4 and 10-4 to send the Maroons home from Winchester in the best-of-three series.

Roanoke had lost to the Hornets twice during the regular season, 12-4 and 10-9 at Pulaski's Calfee Park, and came into the ODAC tournament as the fifth seed while Shenandoah was fourth, earning home field advantage at Bridgeforth Stadium in Winchester. In Friday's tournament opener at 1 pm it was all Hornets with one of RC's highlights being a two-run homer by Salem native Parker That left the Maroons having to win the next two to stay alive, and that didn't happen. Shenandoah ended RC's season Friday evening with a 10-4 win after the Maroons had taken an early 4-1 lead. Corey Coogan and Tyler Galloway had multi-hit games, recording two each.

Galloway hit his third home run of the campaign in the top of the third, tallying half of RC's runs in the process. With the loss Roanoke finished the season at 19-21-1 and 11-10-1 in ODAC

GHS softball team has big district games with Radford, James River

The Glenvar High softball team improved to 10-5 on the season with a 7-0 shutout win over Liberty High at Glenvar Monday.

The Highlanders were hanging on to a 3-0 lead until the sixth inning when their bats came alive and they scored four runs on five hits. Chloe Maxey got things started in the bottom of the sixth inning with a single, and Cora Meade followed with another single to put two on base for Zella Hayes. The freshman slugger then put the game out of reach with a three-run blast to make it 6-0. Glenvar got one more run in the inning when Abby Teubert singled and scored on a double by Haley Leginus.

Glenvar was led by Hayes, who had three hits and three RBIs, and Teubert, who had three hits and an RBI. Leginus added two hits and two RBIs. Hannah Street went the distance on the mound, allowing four hits and striking out four.

The victory followed a 4-3 win over Carroll County last Thursday in Hillsville. Glenvar scored all four runs in the first inning and held on to win.

The first inning rally started with Hayes walked and Audrey Moles singled.

Teubert then doubled, scoring both runners, and Leginus then singled to knock in Teubert. Amelia Gierke reached base on an error and scored on a single by Madison Duncan, giving Glenvar the 4-0 lead.

Carroll County scored one run in the bottom of the first and added two more in the third but that's all they would get against Street, who picked up the win on the mound. Hannah struck out seven.

The win lifted Glenvar to 4-3 in Three Rivers District games. They're at Northside for a non-district game tonight, followed by a district game at Radford Friday and a trip to James River on Monday.

Spartans top Bruins in softball

The Salem High softball team saw their 9 game win streak come to an end last week with a 10-3 loss at Cave Spring. The Spartans bounced back Tuesday with a 9-4 win over Blacksburg at the Moyer Complex in

The Spartans had given up just five runs total in their previous 12 games before Cave Spring hung 10 on them last Friday in Roanoke County. That included a string of six straight shutouts, one being a 4-0 win over Cave Spring at the complex. However, the Knights touched Cora Robinson for seven earned runs in four innings this time despite Cora fanning nine. Caitlin Wells led Salem at the plate going three-for-four and Evie Van Liew was two-for-four with a pair of RBIs.

Last Wednesday at Northside the Salem bats were on fire in a 17-2 win over the host Vikings. Piper Furmage drove in four runs for the Spartans, including a two-run homer in the first inning. Furmage went four-for-four on the day and Robinson was four-forfive with a pair of runs batted in. Anne Crew and Cora Grace Sparger each had three hits and Sparger got the win in the circle for Salem in a slaughter-rule shortened game.

With Tuesday's win over Blacksburg the Spartans are now 12-4 on the season and 7-1 in the River Ridge District. Wells had three hits against the Bruins and Van Liew smacked her third home run of the season. Robinson pitched the first four innings to pick up the win and Sparger went the last three for a save.

Tonight the Spartans go to Franklin County for a non-district game, but it will be a big test to see how much the Salemites have improved since the beginning of the season. The Spartans were shut out by the Eagles, 15-0, in the season opener at the Moyer Complex and Franklin County is now 14-3.

On Friday Salem will host Hidden Valley at 5 pm at Moyer, followed by a trip to Christiansburg next Tuesday.

Salem's Piper Furmage drives one over the fence in last week's win at Northside.

Maroons ousted in ODAC softball

The Roanoke College softball team battled over two days and came up 2-2 but that wasn't enough to stay alive in the Old Dominion Athletic Conference Tournament last weekend. Top seeded Virginia Wesleyan and Randolph-Macon advanced out of the first weekend of play and will meet Friday and Saturday in Virginia Beach to decide the ODAC champ.

Last weekend's eight-team affair was played at the James I. Moyer Complex in Salem, with the winner of two fourteam pods advancing. Roanoke was in a pod with Bridgewater, Randolph-Macon and Ferrum while the other pod had Virginia Wesleyan, Lynchburg, Averett and Shenandoah.

After rain postponed Saturday's openers the Maroons took on second seeded Bridgewater at noon Sunday. This was a wild affair with the Maroons winning 6-4 in 11 innings. The game was tied 1-1 after the regulation seven innings and two more. The International Tie-Breaker came into effect in the 10th, opening the inning with a runner on second, and both teams scored one run to make it

In the top of the 11th RC's Carsyn Michaels belted an RBI triple and Leah Butts ripped a three-run double put the Maroons ahead 6-2. The Eagles rallied for two in the bottom of the inning but

RC ace Maggie McCray got out of the jam to seal the win. McCray broke the ODAC singlegame record with 20 strikeouts in this the fifth to the seventh innings. She tossed 171 pitches in the contest and allowed just three hits, three walks and one unearned run. With the win the Maroons were matched up with Randolph-Macon for Sunday's second game. The Yellowjackets had beaten Ferrum in their opener and they kept pace with a 3-0 win over the Maroons. Roanoke had six hits but left one runner on base in the first, second and fourth innings and two in the third and fifth frames.

Bridgewater eliminated Ferrum in their second game Sunday and were matched up with the Maroons again in an elimination game Monday. This was another low-scoring affair and the Maroons pulled it out again, knocking the Eagles out of the tournament with a 2-1 win. McCray allowed just four hits, one walk and one earned run with eight strikeouts to win her 13th game

Randolph-Macon was still undefeated in the pod so the Maroons needed to beat the Jackets twice to advance. They gave it a good shot but came up short in the first meeting, 2-1 in 10 innings.

RC broke a scoreless tie with a run in the fifth. Randolph-Macon tied the game with a run in the bottom of the sixth and won it on a walk-off suicide squeeze in the 10th.

Baylee Compton threw six innings of five-hit, one-run ball and Lindsay Gedro didn't allow a hit or an earned run in three and a third innings out of the bullpen for the Maroons. Gracie Ellis pitched a complete game for the Yellowjackets, striking out 11.

With the loss the Maroons finished the season at an even 22-22.

Haleigh Vaughan of Roanoke College gets her hand on the plate to score on a suicide squeeze play in Sunday's ODAC tournament game against Bridgewater.

who are two years old who don't remember Glenvar losing a boys' soccer game!

The Highlanders won beat Radford at Glenvar Tuesday, 4-0, to improve to 12-0 on the season. With the win Glenvar has not lost in their past 50 games, dating back to the first week of April in 2023 when the Highlanders lost to Salem. Glenvar tied Radford on May 10 of that year, 4-4, and the Highalnders have won 42 straight games since, including two Class 2 state championships.

On Tuesday at GHS Aidan

Hylton scored twice, Kian Fisher had a goal and three assists and Adam Saunders scored a goal in the win over Radford. This one went 33 minutes before the Highlanders scored before Hylton's two goals and one by Saunders, all assisted by Fisher, put the Highlanders up 3-1 at the half. following the 2023 season.

The Highlanders are 8-0 in the district, including a 9-0 win over Carroll County in Hillsville last week. Fisher and Kees Van Gerven had two goals each in that one and Glenvar also got goals from Saunders, Avery McClanahan, Griffin Geddes, Wesley Feliciano and Connor Magruder.

The Highlanders will put their 50 game streak on the line again tonight when they host Alleghany. Next Monday they're at Floyd County and Wednesday, May 14, Cave Spring comes to Glenvar.

The Glenvar girls' soccer team winning streak is at 10 games after the Highlanders shut out two more opponents in the past week. The Highlanders won at Northside last Friday, 6-0, then beat the Bobcats in Radford Tuesday, 5-0.

Glenvar is now 11-2 after starting the season 1-2. The Highlanders have allowed just three goals in their 10 game winning streak with eight shutouts.

Last Friday at Northside the defending Class 2 champions beat a Class 3 team as Cam Stevens had a three-goal hat trick and an assist. Davin Tate, Annie George and Ryan Jones also scored, with Jones getting her first high school varsity goal.

On Tuesday in Radford Tate had two goals and two assists, Stevens had two goals and one assist and Adalee Harvey had a goal. Jones contributed an

Spartans lead River Ridge District after win over Blacksburg Tuesday

The Salem High baseball team won a big River Ridge District game Tuesday when they took a 5-3 win at Blacksburg. It was just as important in the Region 4D standings are the Bruins are also a Class 4 team.

With the win Salem moved into first place in the district. The Spartans are now 7-1 in the district and Blacksburg has lost twice. Salem's only district loss was to Blacksburg, so earning the split gave Salem sole possession of first place and a chance to host the district championship game if they win out. The Spartans got up early with four runs in the first inning. Carter Black and Trace Monroe walked, then Brayden White beat out a bunt to load the bases. Ben Keffer walked to force in a run, Thomas Millard drove in a second on a fielders' choice and Mason

Hale singled in two. Salem got a fifth run in the top of the third on freshman Aiden Poff's first varsity home run. That was welcome as the Bruins scored three in the bottom of the inning, paced by a two run homer.

Monroe pitched for the Spartans and picked up the win. He pitched into the seventh before reaching his pitch count and Zach Bocock came on to get the save despite walking two to load the bases before getting a strikeout to end the game. With the win Salem is now 11-5 overall. The Spartans lost a wild 9-8 game to Northside last week at Billy Sample Field. Salem led 5-3 after six innings only to have the Vikings put six on the board in the top of the seventh. Salem answered back with three in the bottom of the inning, coming up one run short. On Friday the Spartans bounced back with a 12-2 win over Cave Spring in Salem. Millard crushed a grand slam home run in the fourth inning and Keffer and Jack Stroud had two hits each. Brayden White got his first start on the mound and gave up two runs on four hits while fanning three over three and a third innings. Stroud relieved in the fourth and threw two and two-thirds innings of scoreless baseball.

The Spartans had a big game in Lynchburg against region foe E.C. Glass on Wednesday, but results were too late for publication. On Friday they'll play a 5 pm game at Hidden Valley.

GHS baseball at Radford Friday

It's been a streaky season for the Glenvar High baseball team. The Highlanders opened the season with six straight losses, then won their next five. However, they've now lost three in a row to fall to 5-9 as the struggle to get to .500. The Highlanders lost two games on the road in the past week. Last Thursday in Hillsville they managed just two hits in a 6-0 loss to Carroll County. The Cavaliers' pitcher had a perfect game, 15 up and 15 down, through five innings before Gray Hutchison and Peyton Deel singled in the Carroll took an early lead off Glenvar starter Cale Vaughan. In the bottom of the first inning the first three Cavaliers reached on a double and two singles and Carroll was up 2-0 after one frame. That proved to be Vaughan settled down and allowed just two more earned runs and struck out five through the fifth inning before Hutchison pitched the sixth. On Monday of this week the Highlanders traveled to Class 3 Christiansburg and got shut out again, this time 3-0. Like the game before they fell behind early, as starting pitcher Rhett Henderson gave up three hits and three runs in the first inning. After that Rhett was strong as he finished his five inning stint with four scoreless innings and

Henderson was one pitch away from an "Immaculate Inning" in the third. He struck out the first two batters on three pitchers and had an 0-2 count on the third. However, a border line pitch that would have given him three outs on nine straight strikes was called a ball and that batter then got a hit before Henderson struck out the next man to end

"I thought it was a strike," said GHS coach Jeremy Cromer of the ninth pitch of the inning.

The Highlanders were back in action Wednesday with a home game against Northside, but results were too late for publication. On Friday they have a big Three Rivers District game at Radford, and on Monday they go to Buchanan for a 3RD game with James River at 5:30 pm.
