Planning board approves cannabis regulations

Steve Hemphill
steve@mainstreetnewspapers.com

Sales of cannabis will be legal in Virginia next summer. This is something government entities in Southwest Virginia cannot dispute.

They can, however, regulate when and where marijuana and hemp-derived products are sold, and the Salem Planning Commission

"They gave us a list of uses and use types that we are allowed to define in our zoning ordinance," Salem planning and zoning administrator Mary Ellen Wines told the board last Thursday. "We are allowed to decide which zoning districts meet the specifications for us and we do have a few use of design standards we are allowed to place.

"Unfortunately or fortunately, depending on how you look at it, we have no option to not allow the retail market."

The commission reviewed a proposal presented by the city's planning and zoning department that actually placed provisions on six different types of cannabis-related businesses: storefronts, cultivation, processing, testing, and broader establishment or microbusiness categories.

The commission was also told that Salem could collect as much as a 3.5% retail tax on sales within the city limits, but that will be addressed at a later date. For now, the focus was on what parts of Salem should the city allow a cannabis retailer to be located. The plan there is to keep them away from schools, churches, daycare centers and public parks. These stipulations are similar to how smoking and vape shops are zoned.

Store hours were also discussed. The proposal there is to have similar opening and closing times as area ABC stores. The Salem location for liquor sales is open 10 a.m.-9 p.m. everyday except Sunday, when it is open 10-6. They are also closed on Christmas Day.

The board approved both of those regulations, although they know they could be forced to alter these preemptive measures once the Virginia Cannabis Control Authority is up and operating.

"Again, this is all new and I know many calls have been made to the state level, and no one can answer everything.

The zoning changes still must be approved by the Salem City Council, although more alterations could be added once the VCCA gets all its rules out. Because so many questions have yet to be answered, town council will likely wait until the new year before approving the zoning changes.

Alpaca show a hit at Salem Civic Center

Elaine and Preston Simpson of Craigsville, Virginia, hold onto and say goodbye to male Huacaya named Heylav, which they sold to another alpaca farmer during the weekend.

The Virginia Alpaca Owners & Breeders Association held its annual Alpaca Expo and Derby Show at the Salem Civic Center for the first time last Saturday and Sunday, and show superintendent Patty Fuller said the event, which features three different shows -- the fall derby, expo and walking fleece competition -- and featured 190 alpacas from as far away as New York and Colorado, was one of the organization's best in many years.

"Having it here in Salem has been incredible," Fuller said. "They have treated us so well and we can't wait to come back next year, if they'll have us."

Show judge Wade Gease said an alpaca show is partially run like kennel club shows "Think of the movie Best of Show," he said. But then each animal's fleece is also judged, which separates it from canine events.

Dee King nabs 2 awards in 1 day

Next week, we'll all be celebrating Thanksgiving.

This week, people around Salem are saying thanks to Dee King.

On Tuesday, Salem Kiwanis Club named King its "Humanitarian of the Year," and she was also announced the recipient of Roanoke College's Charles R. Brown Award during the school's annual Salem Appreciation Breakfast.

The Kiwanis award comes with another perk: King, who retired in 2023 from the company she founded, Land Records Research LLC, will serve as the grand marshall of the 2026 City of Salem Christmas Parade on Friday, Dec. 4. And even though she is offcially a retiree, Kiwanis Club member Susan Mini said the recognition is not some honorary award for someone whose best days have already passed.

"If you know Dee, you know she has not slowed down!" Mini said on Tuesday. "She is a member of the planning commission of the City of Salem and also spends much of her time giving back to the community in many ways."

King currently serves as chair of the planning commission. She also is an active Rotarian who held the role of club secretary for the Rotary Club of

Salem food bank director retires

The job assignment was fairly straightforward when Mickey Estienne was hired as executive director of the Salem-Roanoke County Food Bank back in 2021.

Like most food banks, he needed to maintain a good-sized list of volunteers, maintain friendly relations with both individual and corporate donors and be there for both the regular clients sent in his direction, as well as those facing unexpected needs.

Oh, ... and also, he needed to find a new location for the operation.

"We had a house at the Moyer Complex, but they wanted to use that land for something else," Estienne said. "So I started looking."

Estienne had already taken a leap of faith when he accepted the position. The native of the Hampton Roads part of Virginia spent more than a decade working in the landscaping business before becoming the youth minister at Woodland Heights Baptist Church in Chesapeake. Part of his duties was managing the church's food bank.

In Salem, Estienne was taking charge of a nonprofit entity that was established in the 1970s to help low-income families in need of groceries and sometimes other assistance. Currently, the pantry serves about 75 families per week.

Mickey Estienne, right, has retired as executive director of the Salem-Roanoke County Food Bank. Rob Mischianti, left, Estienne's former assistant, was hired to replace him.

Other services include emergency financial assistance and a crib ministry for those who need help with diapers, formula and other items for their newborns.

It took some time, but the real estate assignment worked out when he found out the God's Church of Deliverance & Power down the street from Billy Sample Field at Kiwanis Park.

"The family was looking to sell this church and then start two three other churches elsewhere," he said. "But it was a good fit."

Estienne found the pantry to be a good fit for him as well. Inside the building, the freezers have stayed full, area donors have been generous, and a good nucleus of volunteers has the pantry on solid ground. So Estienne announced in October that he would be retiring in November.

He plans on staying in the area. He and his wife, Lauretta, have a house in Newport.

"For Mickey, I think it was a calling for him," said John Shaner, the chairman of the pantry's board of directors. "He has such a passionate heart, and he cares about people. ... He has just put his heart and soul into it."

Estienne and the board believe his successor, Rob Mischianti, has similar passions for helping people.

Mischianti, a Salem High School alum who worked in real estate for a number of years after graduating, first became acquainted with the pantry when he joined his then girlfriend in volunteering.

"She had gotten into a car accident and was doing volunteer hours here — not because she was told to — but hoped it would look good to the judge," Mischianti said. "She didn't like doing it, but I really ended up loving it, so I kept coming."

His primary assignment at the time was to help pick up the USDA beef donations they received each week down the road at Feeding Southwest Virginia (the two organizations are partners, but also separate entities). About 18 months ago, Estienne offered Mischianti a position as assistant director, which he readily accepted. There were no guarantees that this job would lead to the top position when Estienne departed, but Mischianti's work ethic assured him of being a worthy option.

"We went through the full process," Shaner said of the board's search for a new executive director. "Robert was a part of that. We interviewed an enormous amount of people. ... And the more we kept going through this process, Robert was standing out for us."

Mischianti said the "well oiled machine" Estienne left him to oversee gives him a tremendous head start to taking over the job. He said he will continue to look for other funding sources -- both private and public .

"If I can just maintain that level of integrity of what we've done here, then we should be more than fine," he said.

Recipe of the Week

Shelly Koon

Contributing Writer

November 20th is peanut butter fudge day. I love fudge! It's always a go to treat when visiting candy shops in Pigeon Forge or Colonial Williamsburg.

The first time that I can remember having fudge was on Mackinac Island in Michigan. Mackinac Island is known as the "Fudge Capital of the World," where shops produce roughly 10,000 pounds of fresh, handcrafted fudge daily during peak season. Confectioners cook the sugar mixture in copper kettles to about 230 degrees, pour the molten liquid onto large marble slabs, and paddle it by hand until it cools and sets into a smooth consistency. Emerging during the Victorian resort boom, buying a box of fudge became a rite of passage for island visitors, earning tourists the affectionate nickname "fudgies".

Fudge originated in the United States, possibly by a happy accident. Fudge was created in the United States around Feb. 14, 1886, in Baltimore, Maryland, when a confectioner "fudged" (messed up) a batch of French caramels, resulting in a soft, crystallized texture.

In 1888, the recipe was shared with a student at Vassar College in Poughkeepsie, New York, who made 30 pounds of it for a school auction, helping it to spread across women's colleges like Wellesley and Smith.

Here are four different fudge recipes. They each use a different method and ingredients but all of them are tasty!

Easiest Peanut Butter Fudge

Yield: 1 (8x8-inch) pan

Ingredients

- ½ cup butter
- 1 (16 ounce) package brown sugar
- ½ cup milk
- ¾ cup peanut butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 3 ½ cups confectioners' sugar

Instructions

Gather the ingredients. Melt butter in a medium saucepan over medium heat; stir in brown sugar and milk. Bring to a boil and boil for 2 minutes, stirring frequently. Remove the pot from heat; stir in peanut butter and vanilla. Place confectioners' sugar in a large mixing bowl. Pour in peanut butter mixture and beat with an electric mixer until smooth. Pour peanut butter mixture into an 8x8-inch dish. Chill until firm before slicing, about 1 hour. Enjoy!

Chocolate Fudge

Ingredients

3 cups chocolate chips either semi-sweet or milk chocolate (18.6 ounces)

14 ounces sweetened condensed milk

1 teaspoon vanilla extract

Instructions

Line an 8 inch by 8-inch baking dish with aluminum foil or two pieces of parchment paper overlapping to make an X. In a medium saucepan, combine the chocolate chips and sweetened condensed milk. Place the pan over medium low heat. Stir consistently until the chocolate is partially melted. Stir in the vanilla extract. Continue stirring until the chocolate is fully melted and the mixture is smooth and starts to turn shiny. Pour the mixture into the prepared pan. It will be very thick – if it doesn't pour well because of the thickness, don't stress, you're still on the right track. Once it is all in the pan, you can gently shake the pan back and forth to help it settle. You can also use a rubber spatula to spread it. Allow the fudge to completely set. This can be done on the countertop and will take about four hours. Remove the fudge from the pan and take off the aluminum foil. Trim off the rounded edges from the pan. Cut the fudge in half one way and then the other to make four equal squares. Cut each small square into 9 equal pieces by cutting into thirds one way and then the other. This will result in 36 equal pieces of fudge.

Vanilla Walnut Fudge

Ingredients

- 12 ounces white chocolate bars or chips (see note below)
- 7 ounces sweetened condensed milk
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 3/4 cups chopped walnuts 2 tablespoons reserved

Instructions

Combine the white chocolate, the milk, and the butter in a medium size glass bowl and heat in the microwave for 90 seconds. Stir to combine and heat another 15 seconds. Stir and heat an additional 15 seconds, only if needed. There will still be a few pieces of unmelted chocolate in the bowl.

Stir until mostly smooth with just a few unmelted flecks of white chocolate. Add the vanilla extract and walnuts (reserving 2 tablespoons of walnuts) and stir to combine. Scoop onto a parchment lined loaf pan. Spread with a spatula. Sprinkle with reserved walnut pieces. Chill until ready to serve. Slice into 1-inch squares and store in an airtight container in the refrigerator for up to two weeks.

Christmas Sprinkle Fudge

Ingredients

- 1 bag (12 oz) white vanilla baking chips
- 1 tub (16 oz) Betty Crocker™ Rich & Creamy Vanilla Frosting
- 1/3 cup Christmas sprinkles, plus more to sprinkle on top

Instructions

Line 8-inch square pan with foil, leaving foil overhanging at 2 opposite sides of pan; spray foil with cooking spray. In large microwavable bowl, microwave white chips uncovered on High 1 minute. Spoon frosting over chips. Microwave on High 30 seconds; stir. If necessary, continue to microwave in 15-second increments until mixture can be stirred smooth. Stir in sprinkles. Spread evenly in prepared pan. Sprinkle with additional sprinkles and press lightly to adhere. Refrigerate uncovered until set, about 1 hour. Remove from pan by lifting foil; peel foil away. Cut into 6 rows by 6 rows. Store covered in refrigerator.

OBITUARY

PASFIELD, ROBERT EDWARD

Robert Edward Pasfield, of Venice, Florida, died Sunday evening, Oct. 11, 2026, surrounded by loved ones. He was born Nov. 30, 1945, in Queens, New York. Bob spent his life helping other people, being a good father, and generally making the world a better place.

Early Years

Bob grew up in Mineola, New York, as the middle of five children. He was a terrific brother, cousin, and friend. Growing up on Long Island, young Bob enjoyed both being close to nature; and the bustling activity of New York City. Bob was often mischievous and wild, and had many fun adventures as a child. As a young teenager, Bob would sometimes sneak out at night to ride horses with a friend. When he would sneak back in through his sister's first floor bedroom window, he convinced the much younger Debbie that she was dreaming. Only many years later did he tell her the truth!

Meeting his Match

After graduating from Mineola High School in 1963, Bob moved south to attend Roanoke College in Salem, Virginia. Bob immediately met fellow freshman Martha Goode on campus. He knew at first sight that he wanted to get to know her, so he pretended to be lost just so he could strike up a conversation. Bob and Marty's connection was instantaneous, and they dated throughout college. They could not have imagined the life that they would build together and the love story they lived out.

Marriage and Early Family

Bob and Marty married soon after graduation in 1967 and stayed in Roanoke a few years. Tracy was born in 1970 before they decided to move to small town Madison, Indiana, where they eventually had a total of five children in 7 years. For each birth, Bob and Marty traveled to Louisville, Kentucky, as this was the closest hospital that would allow the dad in the delivery room. During this time, Bob worked as a school psychologist and guidance counselor, and Marty was a teacher.

There were many fun summers with their five children. Summers included road trips to Virginia and Long Island to see the grandparents, as well as fun annual stays in the Edgewater condo at Virginia Beach. Bob was a hands-on dad. He played many games and taught many lessons to the kids. Put simply, his family was his world. He could even recite all of his kids' birthdays, birth times, and birth weights.

Career Move

Motivated by a desire to provide more for the family and to expand our horizons, Marty got the itch to start a career on Wall Street. Bob fully supported her, and the family made the move to Baldwin, New York, and lived there for almost all of the 80s. With Marty becoming the main breadwinner, Bob gladly handled a lot of household and parenting duties. He made all of the family meals, took the kids to doctors appointments and practices, and got called into his fair share of principals' offices. Bob affectionately became known as "Mr. Mom", and our family was a living example of the women's work movement.

This entire time, Bob continued his career in psychology and social work. He earned the last of his three master's degrees, and found rewarding work at United Cerebral Palsy. His work during this time was dedicated to helping people with disabilities live rewarding lives.

Bob also ran a very small private counseling practice from our home, often for the families of those facing these tremendous challenges. Bob advocated and helped individuals and families affected with intellectual and physical disabilities. In addition to his foundation as a family man, Bob had a meaningful and fulfilling life's work.

Life in the City

The years in New York meant lots of family trips into the city. The young family of seven would walk together for miles and take the subway all around town. Favorites were the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Natural History Museum, Central Park, Battery Park, the Twin Towers, South Street Seaport, and the Statue of Liberty.

Bob and Marty showed their kids that the world is a beautiful place. They instilled a genuine appreciation of art and culture. They taught their children that we should celebrate our differences and respect other cultures. They supported civil rights, equal rights, gay rights, and justice for all people regardless of gender, sexual orientation, race, or religion. They believed in peace, love, and a better future.

2 More Moves

In 1989, the family returned to Roanoke and moved back into Marty's childhood home just off the Blue Ridge Parkway. Bob continued his work helping those with disabilities, and Marty continued her banking career. This slower pace of life gave them a renewed sense of balance and satisfaction. Bob picked up bird-watching, walking, and hiking during this time.

In 1993, a bank merger took the family to Charlotte, North Carolina. Bob and Marty continued excelling in their careers. They put all 5 children through college. They took vacations and traveled as much as they could. They were very happy together, and began enjoying the fruits of their labor.

Unexpected News

Right as they became empty nesters, Marty was diagnosed with a very serious brain tumor in late 1999. Given months to live, she defied the odds and stayed with us for over 15 years. The disease and treatments slowly took away her speech, mobility, and exceptional communication skills. Bob continued to be by her side, advocating for her and providing her excellent care through it all. Bob and Marty continued to be happy and live life to the fullest. Their love grew stronger and deeper, if that was even possible.

Bob and Marty welcomed eight grandchildren during those years. Thanks to Bob's efforts and excellent care of Marty, they were able to be active grandparents and attended countless recitals, concerts, graduations, and birthdays. They made happy memories, often having the grandchildren over for sleepovers and dinners out. They enjoyed trips to Florida and visits with family. Bob was by her side when she died peacefully at home on Sept. 8, 2015.

Widowhood

Bob then began a new chapter as a widower. Losing Marty proved a very difficult transition. Bob worked hard to manage mental health challenges during this time. He sought treatment, and joined grief support groups for spouses. With time, Bob learned to live with his grief. He was able to travel more, spend time with grandchildren, and eventually moved to Venice, Florida, where he and Marty planned their retirement. With hard work, Bob obtained true peace and happiness.

Eventually, Bob experienced physical health challenges and was diagnosed with Parkinson's disease. He suffered a significant decline in late 2022, nearly losing his life to sepsis. He required assistance and companion care after this time, but also had an impressive recovery. He was able to regain some lost mobility, and continued to live an active and fulfilling life during this time. He even made a final return to New York City in 2024 to spread Marty's ashes with his children.

Bob's health took a sharper downturn in early 2026, with his body giving way to advanced stage Parkinson's. Through it all, Bob handled everything with such grace and selflessness. He enjoyed the time he had left, and continued to touch those around him. He kept smiling until the end. His personality and memory remained remarkable in his final days.

Bob's Gifts

One of Bob's greatest gifts was his ability to make people feel understood, and to feel accepted as they are. He loved unconditionally, and never gave up on anyone. He never judged or disparaged. He was a remarkable listener, and loved making people feel special. He cared deeply for other people's well being. He gave amazing advice, and had a way of breaking through to the root of things.

Bob lived a full life of wonderful and amazing experiences, full of laughter, tears, and joy. We were so lucky to have him in our lives.

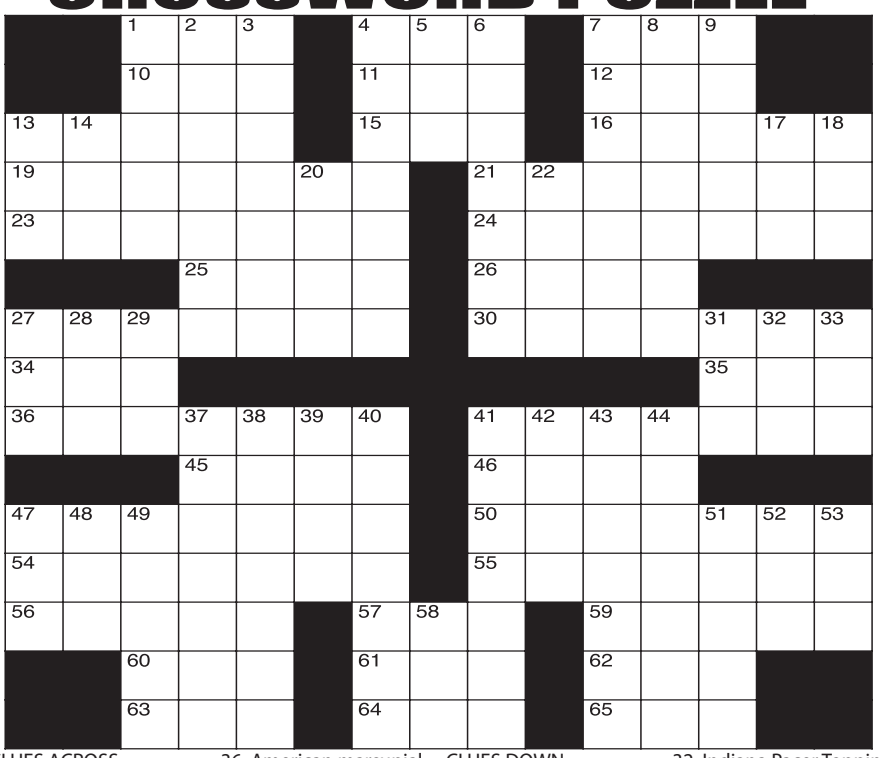

Surviving Family

Bob is survived by his daughters Tracy Pasfield and husband, Vincent Dubman of Charlotte, Laura Pasfield of Venice, Dawn Pasfield-Blevins and husband, Chris Blevins, of Charlotte, sons; Todd Pasfield and wife, Megan Porter of Charlotte, Justin Pasfield and wife, Sarah Bowen-Pasfield of Raleigh, brother, Kenneth Pasfield and wife, Ingrid of Cary, North Carolina; Gary Pasfield and wife, Jennifer of NY, sister Debbie White, and husband, Steve White of Kentucky, grandchildren; Robbie, William, Carter, Caitlin, Jack, Taylor, Ashton, and Beckett, and many loving dear friends.

On Saturday, Nov. 28, 2026 the family will receive friends at 4 p.m. with a memorial service at Mallard Creek Presbyterian Church, in Charlotte, with Pastor Rich Lambert officiating.

McDonalds plans new restaurant

From the January 16, 1986 edition of The Salem Times-Register

McDonalds is planning to buy a one-acre tract of land from Lakeside Amusement Park in Salem for a new restaurant pending rezoning of the new property by the city of Salem.

McDonald's officials will go before the Salem Planning Commission on Feb. 12 to request that the property on East Main Street, adjacent to Lakeside and across from Ray's Restaurant, be rezoned from M-1 to B-3. If that request is approved, it will then have to go before city council for final approval.

Lakeside put the one-acre tract of land up for sale in December because of the damage sustained to that portion of the park in last November's flood. The property had been the site of Lakeside's miniature golf course, picnic pavilion and part of its parking facility and railroad ride. All were damaged in the flood.

At a press conference in December, Lakeside's General Manager Wayne Saunders said the damage to that potion of the park had been "insurmountable" and that the park would "focus its future development on the 10-acre tract of land across from Mason's Creek."

McDonalds and Lakesides officials are not commenting at this time whether the restaurant will be accessible from inside the amusement park.

McDonalds' officials are only announcing that the company "is under contract to buy land based on the pending details." Nancy Meachum, a spokesman for the company, said if the rezoning is approved, construction could start by the end of the summer. She would not comment on the pending purchase price or why the Lakeside location was selected.

Presently, there are two McDonalds restaurants in Salem-one on West Main Street and one at the Lee High Shopping Center near Brendle's.

Salem from 2024-25. In 2020, the Rotary Club awarded King the Roy W. Hendrickson Outstanding Citizen of the Year Award. On earning that award, many people said she exemplifies "service before self," the Rotary's motto.

King joined the Roanoke Valley Greenway Committee in 2025 and has served as president of the region's Chamber of Commerce. Additionally, she was a member of the board of directors for LewisGale Medical Center for several years. As a staunch advocate for expanded neonatal intensive care services at LewisGale, she continues to support Roanoke Valley families who need access to more specialized care and advocate for this region's need for more healthcare options. In addition, she volunteers with Reading Across America, Christmas for Kids and Olde Salem Days.

The Charles L. Brown award is named after Roanoke College's first dean and a former mayor of Salem. It recognizes Salem residents who have made significant professional and civic contributions to the community's quality of life.

Salem city manager Christopher Dorsey, who accepted the Roanoke College award on King's behalf said she is always ready to lend a helping hand

"She shows up. She pays attention. She asks questions," Dorsey said. "She wants to know what is happening, and she makes it her business to stay."

The Christmas parade is held in Downtown Salem and begins after the tree-lighting ceremony in front of the Salem Public Library. King will then lead the way as grand marshall.

"I am sure she will appreciate a wave and a smile!" Mini said. "Thanks, Dee, for all you do for our City!"

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given to all interested persons that the Board of Zoning Appeals of the City of Salem, Virginia will hold a public hearing, in accordance with the provisions of Sections 15.2-2204 and 15.2-2309 of the 1950 Code of Virginia, as amended, on WEDNESDAY, November 25, 2026, at 4:00 p.m. in the Council Chambers of City Hall, 114 North Broad Street, in the City of Salem, Virginia, to consider the following applications.

Request of Kevin and Cindy Emmerich, property owners, for a variance from Section 106-202.3(B)(1), minimum setback requirements, of the Code of the City of Salem, to allow the construction of an attached garage addition at 1505 Millwood Drive (Tax Map # 205 – 1 – 2.3). Section 106-202.3(B)(1) states that the side setback shall be 10% of the lot width, i.e. nine (9) feet. The petitioner is therefore requesting a variance of 4 feet to allow for the garage addition.

At this hearing all parties in interest will be given an opportunity to be heard, present evidence, and show cause why such requests should or should not be granted. For additional information, contact the Office of the Zoning Administrator, 21 South Bruffey Street, Salem, Virginia (Phone 540-375 3032).

Henderson.

With the win Salem improved to 10-1 on the season and believe it or not that's the worst record among the four survivors in Region 4D. The Spartans will be at 11-0 George Washington of Danville this Friday while Jefferson Forest will host Sherando in a battle of unbeatens.

GW is coming off a playoff opening 42-14 win over E.C. Glass. Salem also has a win over Glass and the only other common opponent is William Fleming, who Salem beat 45-12 and the Eagles beat 31-13.

"They(GW) have great size, but so do we," said Holter. "Their team speed is outstanding and they do things similar to us. They have an explosive offense and a sound defense. We'll have to have another great week of preparation."

Friday's winner will play the winner of the Sherando-Jefferson Forest game, and whoever wins that game would be the host if Salem is still playing the day after Thanksgiving.

Cleveland Rocks to win contest for big Browns fan

Every week of the football season Salem's Gary Sovine puts "Go Browns" on his entry blank, and last week the Cleveland entry in the NFL did him justice.

It's not easy being a Browns fan. If you remember watching Otto Graham you're much older than me, and I turned 74 on Tuesday. When I was a kid I marveled at how Jim Brown ran over my Eagles twice a season and in 1964 they won the NFL championship with a 27-0 win over the Baltimore Colts. That was the last time the Browns won anything.

That 1964 win is somewhat ironic as after the Colts left for Indianapolis in 1984 the Browns left for Baltimore a dozen years later and became the Ravens. Cleveland got a new "Browns" team in 1999 and neither the old nor new Browns have ever won the Super Bowl. In fact, they've never even been in it. Tackle Joe Thomas, a first ballot NFL Hall of Famer, played 11 years for the Browns and never played in a playoff game.

But last week the Browns won something for Gary. Sovine was one of several contestants with four misses and he won by the high point total tie-breaker, which was 68 by Salem. Of the folks who missed four Gary was the only one who had the Browns beating Houston, so in essence Cleveland won him the $50 gift certificate from Mac & Bob's with the win over the Texans.

As for last week's 19th hole, there wasn't one. I was planning to put the Salem game on there but got so wrapped up in writing about Hidden Valley's first win since 2023 I forgot all about it.

So, without farther adieu, this week's 19th hole question is to pick the score of Salem's game with GW-Danville this Friday night. The winner gets a free day of golf at the Municipal Course on Academy Street.

The Browns have a bye this week but what the hey, "GO BROWNS!"

-- Brian Hoffman

ended the regular season with a 24-7 win over Floyd on November sixth.

Floyd, the third seed in the region, earned a rematch with Glenvar by beating Gretna last Friday, 51-18, as the top four seeds in the tournament all advanced. Top-seeded Radford beat Patrick County, 35-14, Glenvar is the second seed and fourth seeded Appomattox eliminated Martinsville, 36-19. Appomattox is at Radford Friday.

If Glenvar and Radford both win this week, the Highlanders would play a third rematch against a Three Rivers District rival the day after Thanksgiving. Unlike the first two weeks, that one would be on the road against a team Glenvar didn't beat the first time.

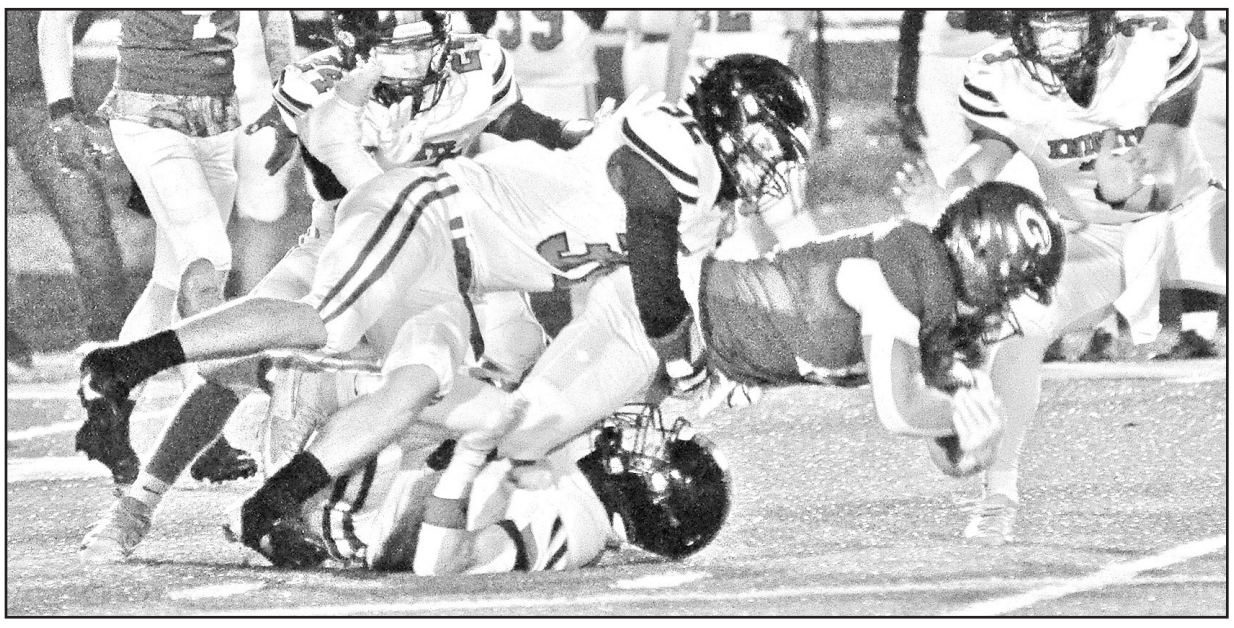

With that said, the Highlanders appear to be peaking at the right time. Glenvar's defense shut down River's running attack last Friday. Take away one 56 yard run and the Knights had 105 yards rushing on 35 carries, an average of just three yards per attempt. And James River had no passing yards.

"Glenvar has a pretty good football team," said River coach Jack Baker. "They're physically impressive, a little too much for us."

Meanwhile, Glenvar had 186 yards rushing and 50 yards passing. The Highlanders led 7-0 after the first quarter as Ranger Swanson polished off a drive with a one yard run. In the second period Tyler Shannon kicked a 31 yard field goal 50 seconds into the quarter and Kiptyn Jones scored on a seven yard run with a minute and a half before halftime to give the Highlanders a 17-0 lead at the break.

Jones found Garrison Burris in the end zone for a six yard TD with 1:21 remaining in the third period and that was plenty of points for the win. Swanson ran for 127 yards on 32 carries and Jones passed for 51 and ran for 39. Haden Henderson had two catches for 45 yards.

On defense Burris led the team with 17 tackles. Swanson had 11 and Jake Franklin had a dozen tackles with a forced fumble, a sack and three tackles for losses.

"Our kids played really hard, I'm proud of their effort," said Glenvar coach Kevin Clifford. "They've showed toughness all year."

The Highlanders are now 7-4 on the season and they've won their last three games. Floyd is also 7-4 after beating Gretna. Clifford looks at this week's game as just another step on the journey and not a rematch with a big district rival.

"Who we play is out of our control," he said. "How we play is what we can control."

Hampden-Sydney (9-1, 7-0 ODAC) will get a week off through the first round of the NCAA tournament before competing in one of 16 games in the second round on Saturday, November 28. Play will continue through the semifinals on December 19 and break before the Stagg Bowl is played on Sunday, January 3, at Salem Stadium.

Washington & Lee and Randolph-Macon College will compete in the Chesapeake Challenge this Saturday, pitting teams from the ODAC against teams from the Landmark Conference in Pennsylvania. W&L will host Wilkes University in the Cape Charles Bowl this Saturday in Lexington, beginning at noon, while Randolph-Macon will play at Lycoming College in the Cape Henry Bowl in Pennsylvania, same date and time.

Highlanders fall to Ridgeview in state volleyball

The Glenvar girls saw their volleyball season come to an end with a disappointing trip to Clintwood last Saturday. The Highlanders dropped a three-set match to Ridgeview in the state quarterfinal round, 25-12, 25-15 and 25-21.

It was a frustrating day for the Highlanders, who had to make the long trip after losing a five set Region 2C final to Appomattox on Tuesday of last week. Nothing seemed to go Glenvar's way in a somewhat hostile enviorment.

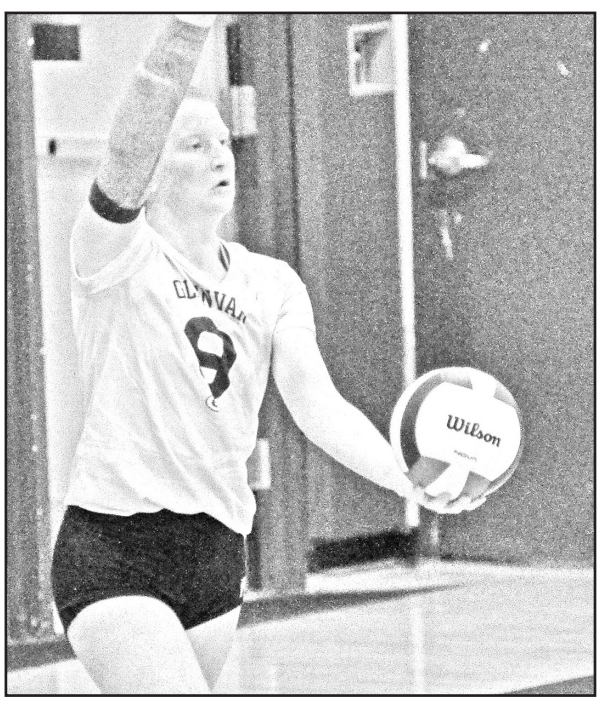

"It was a frustrating experience," said Glenvar coach Mark Rohrback. "Give them credit, they nine seniors on a team that won the state two years ago."

Zella Hayes led Glenvar with 11 kills. Emily Rohrback had four kills and 12 assists while freshman Kherington Jewell had six kills. Macy McMahon had 15 digs.

The All-Three Rivers District and All-Region 2C teams were released last week and Glenvar was well represented. Senior McMahon was the first team libero on both and junior Hayes and sophomore Rohrback were also named first team both all-district and all-region. Junior Grace Fiedler was second team on both and junior Olivia Collins was second team all-district. Coach Rohrback was named the Three Rivers District Coach of the Year.

Glenvar finished 18-6 and will graduate just two seniors, McMahon and outside hitter Rebecca Magruder.

"We got to the region final and made the state tournament," said Rohrback. "Only losing two, we should be really good again next year."

State v'ball finals for Class 1, 2 & 3 at Salem Civic Center Saturday

The Salem Civic Center will be the site for the Virginia High School League Class 1, 2 and 3 volleyball state championship matches on Saturday.

Finalists were still being decided at home sites on Tuesday in state semifinal matches. On Saturday the Class 2 championship is at noon followed by Class 3 at 2:15 pm and Class 1 at 4:30 pm.

Class 2 semifinals on Tuesday had John Battle at Ridgeview and Madison County at Fort Defiance. In Class 3 New Kent was hosting Christiansburg in the semis while Abingdon was at Kettle Run. In Class 1 Auburn was at PH-Glade Spring on Tuesday while Northumberland was at Middlesex in the other state semifinal.

Maroons fall to W&L in ODAC v'ball

Roanoke College juniors Emma Catoe and Teagan Hubble earned All-Old Dominion Athletic Conference third-team honors Tuesday, with voting from the conference's coaches.

Catoe, also an All-ODAC third-teamer a year ago, is a middle hitter from Axton, Va. She led the team with 67 blocks and ranks 11th in the conference in blocks per game (0.74). Catoe's .274 hitting percentage is also good for 11th in the ODAC.

Hubble, a libero from Greenville, S.C., is fourth in the league in digs per game (4.5) and accumulated 423 on the year. She led the team with 43 service aces, good for 13th in the ODAC per set. Hubble was third on the team with 124 assists.

The Maroon women were eliminated by Washington & Lee in the first round of the Old Dominion Athletic Conference volleyball tournament last week. The Generals defeated the Maroons in three sets, 25-13, 25-9 and 25-23, at the Duchossois Athletic & Recreation Center in Lexington.

RC freshman Zarah Love had a match-high 15 kills, tying her season best, while Kaci Morrison had six kills. Raygan Wade handed out 18 assists with nine digs and Hubble had 27 digs.

With the loss the Maroons finished their season at 16-10. Batten University won the ODAC championship with a three sets to one win over the University of Lynchburg in the final.

Salem, Glenvar have scrimmages

The official start of VHSL winter sports is the first week of December and Salem and Glenvar teams are practicing for the coming games, meets and matches. The basketball teams will have scrimmages in the next couple weeks to get ready.

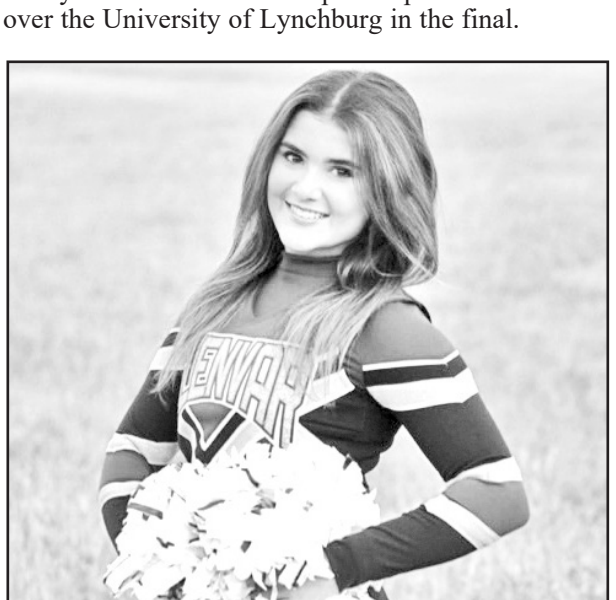

Tonight the Salem boys will host William Byrd in a basketball scrimmage while the Spartan girls are in Vinton to take on the Terriers. Glenvar's girls are at home against Northside.

Next Monday the Glenvar boys will host Galax while the girls go to Auburn. On Tuesday of next week the Salem boys host Amherst and the Glenvar boys are at Patrick Henry. Then, the day before Thanksgiving, Salem's girls play in a jamboree at GeorgeWythe High in Wytheville.

Official games begin for Glenvar hoop teams on Tuesday, December 1, with the boys hosting Hidden Valley and the girls at Hidden Valley. On December 2nd the Glenvar wrestlers open at Patrick County.

Salem's basketball teams won't open until Friday, December 4, with the boys at Northside and the girls hosting Northside.

Glenvar girls named to All-State cheer team

The combined Virginia High School League Class 1 & 2 All-State competitive cheering team was named this week and Glenvar had two girls make the team. Freshman Toryn Leonard(left with trophy) made the first team and senior Elle Graffeo is a second team selection. "Toryn is a very talented and hard working kid," said Glenvar coach Sarah Hatfield. "We're really lucky to have a lot of young talent in the program." SUBMITTED PHOTOS

Middle School Hoops

The Andrew Lewis and Glenvar Middle School basketball teams will be in action today at various locations. The Andrew Lewis boys will be home to Cave Spring while the girls are at Cave Spring. Glenvar will host Craig County in a boys-girls doubleheader with the boys opening at 5:30 pm.

All four local middle school teams were in action Monday with doubleheaders at Lewis and Glenvar. The Lewis boys won against Pulaski County, 63-33, behind 30 points by Lane Williamson. Lewis had a 23 point run in the first half to pull away.

The Lewis girls opened the doubleheader and won 45-17 to improve to 6-1 on the season. Camden MacBrien and Kaylee Crosswhite led the Wolverines with a dozen points each.

Glenvar hosted Floyd in a doubleheader Monday. The girls opened with a 40-20 win over the Buffaloes. Corra Hayes had 15 points and Olivia Whitney had a bakers' dozen.

In the nightcap Floyd downed the Glenvar boys, 46-16. Ryland Marshall had five points to lead Glenvar.

Last week Glenvar's boys and girls swept both Radford at home and Craig County in New Castle. On Thursday the Lewis boys and girls both had wins over Franklin County.

Lane Williamson had 30 points in Andrew Lewis' win over Pulaski Monday.

Middle School Wrestling

The Andrew Lewis and Glenvar wrestling teams both had matches last week as Lewis hosted Read Mountain and the Highlanders were at Cave Spring.

The Wolverines dropped their match to the Stars, 48-46, in a battle that went down to the final heavyweight match. Brooks Oliver, Brycen Wright and Landynn Booth all had pinfalls for Lewis and Curtis Williams won by major decision, 12-3.

Glenvar middle topped Cave Spring, 57-23, and William Byrd, 62-31, in a tri-match. Going 2-0 for the night for Glenvar were Braylon Cundiff, Tyler Gray, Ethan Yetzer, Wyatt Frantz, Max Milette, Kayden Willams and Knox Kirk.

Maroons roll to championship in Frankie Allen Tip-off Classic

The Roanoke College men's basketball team is off to a hot start. The Maroons are 3-0 after winning games by 29 and 32 points to capture the annual Frankie Allen Tip-Off Classic at the Cregger Center in Salem last weekend.

Roanoke opened the four team tournament Friday night with an 86-57 win over the University of Pittsburg-Greensburg. The Bobcats went ahead 22-21 in the first half but Roanoke ripped off the next 21 straight points to close out the half on a run, taking a 42-22 lead into halftime. Pitt-Greensburg never threatened after intermission.

Jackson Bell, Caleb Franze and Rylan Parkins each scored 14 points to tie for game-high honors. Parkins snared a game-high eight rebounds while Bell had six. Tyler Barnes was four-for-four from the floor for 10 points and Grant Hamilton had nine. Gavin O'Malley netted eight points while Ryan Truitt posted seven.

Salisbury University defeated Greensboro in the second game Friday and joined the Maroons in Saturday afternoon's championship. Again, the Maroons were on fire as they posted an 88-56 win to take the Frankie Allen trophy.

The Maroons jumped ahead early and didn't look back. The game was tied 3-3 when RC had a 14-0 run to go ahead 17-3 just five minutes in. The Maroons led 33-12 with 7:43 remaining in the first half and held at least a 20-point edge the rest of the way.

Parkins had 16 points and six rebounds in just 13 minutes of action. Hamilton netted 15 points and Franze, Barnes, Bell and O'Malley each had eight in a balanced attack. Roanoke enjoyed a 49-27 edge in rebounding.

After the tournament Maroon sophomore forward Parkins took home MVP honors while Truitt was named to the All-Tournament Team.

This weekend the Maroons will be in Salisbury, MD for the Governor's Challenge. Roanoke will take on Notre Dame of Maryland University on Friday at 4 pm and SUNY-Oneonta on Saturday at 3 pm. Roanoke is then off until December 2nd when they play Washington & Lee University in their Old Dominion Athletic Conference opener in Lexington.

The RC men won't play in Salem again until December 29 and 30 when they host the annual Cregger Invitational.

RC women split in Jean Beamer Classic

The Roanoke College women will look to get back on the winning side of the ledger when they take on North Carolina Wesleyan University in Rocky Mount, NC at 2 pm Saturday. The Maroons are 2-2 after splitting two overtime games in the Jean Beamer Tip-Off Classic in Salem last weekend.

The RC women opened the Beamer Classic on Saturday evening with a 52-48 overtime win over St. Mary's of Maryland. Senior Alicea Farmer scored as time expired in regulation to force overtime, and the RC defense clamped down in the extra session, holding the Seahawks scoreless for the five minute overtime period.

Farmer scored Roanoke's last five points of the fourth quarter to send the game to overtime. She had a full stat line of 11 points, seven rebounds, five steals and three assists. Caroline Donaldson had 11 points and six rebounds and Nadia Snesarev also scored 11 points. Abigail Rice posted eight points and Cecilia Robinson grabbed seven rebounds.

On Sunday afternoon the Maroons played another overtime game and this time they lost a heartbreaker to Marymount, 73-59.

Roanoke had a five-point lead heading into the fourth quarter and led for most of regulation but were unable to knock down shots late in the game. The Maroons were up six with under a minute to go in the fourth quarter but the Saints buried two three pointers to send the game into OT. Roanoke's shooting woes continued in the extra period as the visitors scored the first dozen points, capping off a 19 point run that covered the end of regulation and overtime.

Snesarev led the team in scoring with 11 points. Salem High grad Emme Custer, a freshman, recorded a 10 point and six rebound stat line in her first career start. Donaldson and Moriah Tate each had nine points and Donaldson also added six rebounds.

The Maroons' next home game is Saturday, December 5, when they host Batten University in an ODAC game at 2 pm. Batten is the former Virginia Wesleyan.

RC XC men finish 5th in South Region

The Roanoke College cross country teams competed in the NCAA South Regionals in Earlysville, VA last Saturday. The event was hosted by the University of Lynchburg.

The RC men finished fifth among 24 teams. The team's fifth-place finish is the best in program history since 2003.

Sophomores Parker Blosser and Nathaniel Orban finished in the top 15 to earn an automatic qualification for the NCAA Championships. Gabe Ramirez Hannon joined Blosser and Orban in earning All-Region honors with a top 35 finish. This is the first time since 2003 the men's side has had three all-region honorees.

The remaining four runners for the Maroons finished as follows: Elias Ammon at 27:02.9, Jackson Coombes at 27:09.3, Seth Perry at 27.37.0 and Aaron Massey at 27:39.0.

The women finished 13th among 22 teams, their best regional finish since 2016. Maya Herndon placed 28th in 23:18.0, becoming the first All-Region finisher since 2016. The remaining finishers were Riley Larimer 24:42.3, Sadie Teer 24:55.8, Brooke Eichelberger 24:23.3, and Alaina DeFelice 26:29.8 to round out the top five scorers.

Roanoke wrestlers off to hot start, will host Military Duals Saturday

The Roanoke College wrestling team will host the "Military Duals" this Saturday at the Cregger Center in Salem. The Maroons are off to a good start with wins in their first three dual matches of the season.

Last Thursday Roanoke opened the dual season with a 36-8 win over the first year University of Lynchburg program at the Cregger Center in Salem. The Maroons opened the bout with victories in the first four weight classes as Jude Robson pinned his foe in 1:55 at 133 pounds while Isiac Paulino (125), Jonah Paulino (141) and Drew Montgomery (149) scored technical falls. Cade Parent (165), Hunter Moore (184) and Brock Sullivan (197) each had major decision victories and Lorenzo Pellot-Vázquez won by decision at 285 pounds.

Last Sunday in Arlington, VA the Maroons swept Albright College, 47-6, and host Marymount, 45-6. The Maroons won nine of the 10 matches in each dual, scoring extra points in all but two bouts.

Lorenzo Pellot-Vázquez scored two technical fall victories at 285 pounds. Brock Sullivan recorded a pin and major decision at 197. William Martin notched two wins at 184 and Cade Parent (165) and Drew Montgomery (149) each had a pin and technical fall.

Montgomery and Parent earned the Old Dominion Athletic Conference (ODAC) Lighter Weight and Heavier Weight Wrestlers of the Week honors for the week of November 16.

Drew Montgomery of Roanoke College is on top and on his way to a win in last week's home match against Lynchburg.

Spartans hammer James Wood, will play at GW-Danville Friday

The Salem Spartans had been running up big scores on weak River Ridge District teams for the last four weeks of the regular season, so fans were wondering how they would respond to a real challenge. Well, last Friday they answered that concern in Winchester.

Salem hung 68 points on the board against a James Wood team that was 9-1 and fourth ranked in the Region 4D playoffs for a 68-34 win. It was an awesome display by the Spartans, who scored their second most points in 115 post-season games since Salem High first made the playoffs in 1986. The only time they scored more in the playoffs was a 70-34 win over Charlottesville to open the region in 2017.

"You saw exactly what can happen when young men stay focused," said Salem coach Don Holter. "We had a great week of practice, a good job of preparing and we didn't let a long ride make us lose focus. When you do that, good things happen."

Salem needed just about all of those points as James Wood never quit. The Spartans scored on their first possession on a 44 yard pass from Pearce Oliver to Jaydin Rudisell and the race was on. Salem led 21-7 after the first quarter but James Wood cut the lead to 28-14 at the half. The Spartans scored two third quarter touchdowns but each time the Colonels answered and with a 42-34 lead after three periods nothing was settled.

The Spartans put it away in the fourth quarter, outscoring James Wood 26-0 to put the Colonels in the rear view mirror. It was an awesome display of offense by the visiting Salemites, who never trailed but couldn't relax until late in the game.

"You get up a couple scores, but you never think the game is over," said Holter. "While we certainly pay attention to the score, it's not all about the scoreboard."

The 34 points was the second most the Spartans have given up all season, with only 41 by Patrick Henry in Salem's only loss being more. However, that didn't concern Holter.

"I thought we played well on defense despite giving up 34 points," he said. "When you play good football teams they'll make some plays, too."

Salem had plenty of good plays in rolling up 459 yards of total offense. Jordan McCadden rushed for 249 yards on 25 carries, a yard under 10 yards per attempt, and he scored three touchdowns. Gabe Johnson had 52 yards on six carries while Nick Baxley had 84 on just four carries and both scored touchdowns.

Pearce Oliver was three for seven passing for 68 yards and two touchdowns, with all three completions to Rudisell. Oliver, a freshman, has thrown for 11 touchdowns since taking over for injured captain Tanner Overstreet in the fourth game of the season.

"I told him in practice last week he's not a freshman anymore," said Holter.

On defense DaVon Jones led the Spartans with 10 tackles. Braylan Smith had seven while Jamalachi Law, Jayden Wood and Rudisell had six each. Wood and Smith had interceptions against the pass heavy Colonels and Salem had nine sacks, three by Robert Herndon and two each by Jake James, Parker Woolwine and Joseph

Highlanders shut out River to open Region 2C playoffs

The Glenvar football team came up big in one rematch last week, and now they hope to do the same in another, and maybe even two.

Glenvar opened the Region 2C playoffs last Friday with a 24-0 shutout win over James River at Highlander Stadium. The Highlanders had beaten the Knights by the same margin of 24 points, only 31-7, during the season. That game kept the Virginia Media Rocking Chair, the prize that goes to the winner of this annual rivalry, in Glenvar for another year.

Last Friday the chair was not on the line but a trip to the Region 2C semifinals was, and the Highlanders rocked the Knights for four quarters to advance to this week's game. Glenvar will have another rematch as Floyd County will be coming to town for the second time in three weeks. Glenvar

Maroons end season 5-5 after loss to W&L

Willis White is honorary captain for Maroons

Former Salem High football coach Willis White talks with Roanoke College captains Ben Holliday(middle) and Nate Johnson(right) prior to last Saturday's game at Salem Stadium. The Spartan coaching legend, who the field at Salem Stadium is named for, was an honorary captain for the Maroons' game with Washington & Lee. Willis joined five RC captains for the coin toss at midfield prior to the game and was recognized on the public address system. The Roanoke College football season came to an end last Saturday with a 21-14 loss to Washington & Lee at Salem Stadium. The Maroons finished 5-5 in their second varsity season since World War II.

The Maroons gave the Generals all they could handle. After a scoreless first quarter the Generals struck first to go ahead 7-0 but RC's KJ Bratton broke a 53-yard run on the next drive to tie the game. W&L scored another touchdown just before halftime and took a 14-7 lead into intermission.

Roanoke quarterback Linwood Johnson found Grey Deal with a 35-yard scoring pass to tie the game again midway through the third period. The Generals then scored the game-winning touchdown on the second play of the fourth quarter. Roanoke was driving for a potential tying or go-ahead score but couldn't convert on a fourth and five from deep in Generals territory in the closing seconds.

Jackson Swanson carried the ball 16 times for 95 yards for RC and caught two passes for another 15. Deal hauled in three passes for 54 yards and a touchdown and Johnson completed 15-of-28 passes for 120 yards.

On defense Tate Kotz was one of three Maroons to record double-figure tackles, ending the day with 13, including eight solos. Josiah Moyer had 11 stops and Brayden Andrews had 10. Connor Cox recovered a fumble and had seven tackles.

Roanoke honored six seniors prior to the game, including Glenvar grads Swanson and Aiden Wolk, who missed the season with an injury. Former Salem High coach Willis White, who the Salem Stadium field is named for, was an honorary captain for the Maroons.

The Generals finished the season with a 7-3 record and a 5-2 ODAC mark, finishing second to Hampden-Sydney in the conference standings. The Division III tournament football bids were announced last Sunday and ODAC champion Hampden-Sydney will be in the tournament. The Tigers won the ODAC with a 36-27 win over Randolph-Macon at Hampden-Sydney last Saturday.
