The Happiness Index

A pre-built survey and question set designed to improve your onboarding experience

“Twenty-three percent of new hires turn over before their first anniversary.”
- Harvard Business Review

Why businesses must focus on improving their onboarding process

- Onboarding (the process of integrating new employees into your organisation) continues for months after an employee’s first day.
- An effective onboarding process nurtures new recruits to create highly-productive, engaged employees more quickly - benefiting not only your new hires but also existing employees and line managers.

The impact of our Onboarding Survey

- By surveying your new hires at 2 weeks, 3 months and 6 months service, your organisation can understand how well job roles match expectations, and if your training and support strategy is fit for purpose.
- Gauge your new hires understanding of your organisation’s values and vision plus their part in delivering on them.
