

A pre-built survey designed to improve your employees' return to work experience

"In the circumstances, employers should listen to employees' concerns about returning to work." - Hardwicke

Why businesses must focus on their return to work experience

- Returning to the workplace creates stress for your people. It's imperative to open dialogue and understand what concerns they have and what support they need.
- This is a golden opportunity to reshape the future of work within your business and build a workplace that utilises employee input into flexibility around hours, remote working, workplace setup, communication strategies... or any other areas you and your people want to innovate.

The impact of our Return to Work Survey

- Understand and combat any anxieties or stresses your people may have.
- Effectively manage the return to work process and create an open dialogue with your staff.
- Keep on the pulse of the physical, emotional and mental wellbeing of your newly returned workers.

Insights & Reporting

Executive Report

- Executive summary
- Boardroom insight
- Drive cultural strategy

Full Report

- Holistic insight
- Locate focus areas
- Cross-company trends

Manager Report

- Empower managers
- Focussed insight
- Team/location data