

Park history

The area once called Middle Point, now Manchester State Park, was established in 1900 as a satellite to Fort Ward which is located on Bainbridge Island. It was created to protect the Bremerton shipyards by operating a minefield in Rich Passage. The U.S. Navy operated Middle Point until 1958, when it was decommissioned.

A former "torpedo" (a term for underwater mines at the time) storehouse built in the early 1900s still stands in the park and is now a picnic shelter/event venue. When the fort was operational, the building stored mine cases, anchors and other equipment serving the minefield. The small concrete building, called a mining casemate, sits next to the storehouse and contained the controls for the mines. Gun Battery Mitchell also remains, having never been fitted for the 3-inch rapid fire rifles at the center of its design. In fact, the guns were never delivered. All three structures are listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Park amenities and facilities

Manchester State Park offers several amenities and facilities to make your visit more enjoyable and comfortable, including:

- The old brick "torpedo warehouse" is a large group day-use picnic shelter that accommodates 20 to 150 guests. Reservable by calling (888) CAMPOUT or (888) 226-7688
- Two small picnic shelters reservable by calling (888) CAMPOUT or (888) 226-7688
- 36 picnic tables available on a first-come, first-served basis. Many of the picnic sites have braziers.
- Kayaks or small watercraft may be carried to the beach area for launching.
- Volleyball net that doubles as a badminton net.
- Horseshoe pit
- Modern restrooms with hot showers
- Trailer dump station
- Two miles of pedestrian trails

Things to remember

Manchester State Park is a forested camping park nestled in woods of fir and maple; the park sits along the shore of Rich Passage in Puget Sound. Bainbridge Island and Seattle are visible from the beach.

The 111-acre camping park features 2 miles of trails and 3,400 feet of saltwater shoreline. The park offers a variety of recreational activities: kayaking, boating, swimming, scuba diving, volleyball and horseshoes (bring your own sporting equipment).

Overnight accommodations

The park offers several options for overnight stays. There are 35 standard campsites, 15 partial hookup sites that accommodate RVs up to 60 feet long and three first-come, first-served hiker/biker campsites.

There also is a group camp that accommodates up to 130 guests. It features 12 partial RV hookups, a covered shelter with eight picnic tables and electricity, a large fire circle, five small fire circles, horseshoe pit and several unsheltered picnic tables and braziers. There are two ADA accessible unisex restrooms with showers.

Reservations for individual campsites or the group camp may be made online at www.parks.state.wa.us or by calling (888) CAMPOUT or (888) 226-7688.
