- are of equal value, irrespective of their special needs and diversity, and will be encouraged to develop to their full potential. All students are unique and will be respected for the contribution that they make to Northfield School and in their future lives in their chosen communities
- will be provided with an educational provision in which the highest levels of teaching and learning are consistently delivered, and students are empowered to learn in a positive and creative environment
- will be taught by staff who strive to understand students' needs, who are well qualified and have respect for their special needs and diversity
- will be taught in a safe and stimulating learning environment, designed to specifically meet their special educational needs and disabilities (SEND) and where first and foremost, every teacher is a teacher of SEND

The vision is that all students:

- to have a clear and transferable connection from policy to practice
- to ensure that best practice is consistent, accessible and understood by all
- to embed basic expectations with certainty, whilst allowing staff the autonomy and flexibility to differentiate according to need
- to approach behaviour management in a positive manner, establishing mutual respect and supporting students in taking responsibility for their behaviour to work within the Five Pillars of Practice which underpin this policy
- are of equal value, irrespective of their special needs and diversity, and will be encouraged to develop to their full potential. All students are unique and will be respected for the contribution that they make to Northfield School and in their future lives in their chosen communities

Aims of this policy

Our students have a range of additional needs, including Autistic Spectrum Condition, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder, Speech and Language Difficulties, and Specific and Moderate Learning Difficulties. Working with this diverse community requires us to have a flexible approach to support positive behaviour, which recognises the need of each individual student, whilst providing a clear and consistent message to both staff and students.

Northfield School is a Special School for students in years 6 - 13, with Social, Emotional, and Mental Health Needs. It is a small, specialised school, where students are respected, supported and encouraged.

Context

Northfield School is aspirational for all our students and expects them to:

- a) achieve their best
- b) become confident individuals living fulfilling lives
- c) make a successful transition into adulthood

We are aspirational for all our families and expect them to:

- a) work in partnership with the school to make informed choices for their child by:
 - sharing important family information
 - encouraging and supporting their child to attend school regularly
 - talking to staff about the challenges they face and action the support they need from the school and or other agencies
- b) support the school in setting aspirational targets for their child in the following areas:
 - friendships, relationships, community, safety and transport
 - education and learning for life
 - good health

This behaviour policy ensures consistency across the school. Behaviour is carefully monitored and we will contact parents and carers at an early stage if we feel a student's actions are outside the normal range of expected behaviours or a cause for concern. Working collaboratively with families is of upmost importance.

Ready, Respectful, Safe

These are the three guidelines that have been adopted by staff and students and offer a memorable balance between guidelines and values across all different school contexts.

Each classroom displays a Ready, Respectful, Safe display to serve as a reminder to students about appropriate behaviour. These rules are reinforced in assemblies, off-site visits and in everyday classroom practice.

Northfield School staff recognise that visible consistency is a fundamental strategy to create an environment in which students may enjoy working purposefully and safely, and where relationships between staff and students, between our staff community and between the students themselves are based on mutual respect and tolerance. We believe that students who are treated in a consistently positive way are more likely to behave in positive and respectful way. We also recognise that consistency does not necessarily mean responding to students and their behaviour in the same way.

- Consistent follow up: ensure consistency in the classroom, around the school site, in the corridors, etc. with teachers taking responsibility for behaviour
- Consistent positive reinforcement: encouraging and celebrating positive behaviours, through assemblies, recognition boards, extreme behaviour e.g. through assemblies, corridor conversations, etc.
- Consistent expectations: promotion of appropriate behaviours e.g. scripted conversations, restorative time and mend it meetings
- Consistent respect towards the whole school community and not just taught, where staff are role models for learning and learn alongside the students
- Consistent emotional control: emotional restraint that is modelled consistently reinforced routines for behaviour around the site
- Consistent environment: displays which echo core values, positive images of learners, visual messages, Behaviour Blueprint, etc.
- Consistent, calm adult behaviour
- First attention for best conduct
- Relentless routines
- Scripting difficult interventions
- Restorative follow up

Meeting the individual needs of students with challenging behavioural needs

1. Consistent, calm adult behaviour
2. First attention for best conduct
3. Relentless routines
4. Scripting difficult interventions
5. Restorative follow up

The aim of this framework is to provide a balance between consistent practice, whilst allowing for reasonable adjustment for staff to deploy different teaching styles, approaches and personalities. Northfield School staff have adopted these five approaches to develop positive working relationships between staff and students:

The Five Pillars of Practice

- Consistent language: simple, clear explanations in all conversations about behaviour
- Consistent follow up: seeking support but never delegating interventions, through assemblies, recognition boards, extreme behaviour e.g. through conversations, corridor conversations, etc.
- Consistent positive reinforcement: encouraging and celebrating positive behaviours, through assemblies, recognition boards, extreme behaviour e.g. through assemblies, corridor conversations, etc.
- Consistent expectations: promotion of appropriate behaviours e.g. scripted conversations, restorative time and mend it meetings
- Consistent respect towards the whole school community and not just taught, where staff are role models for learning and learn alongside the students
- Consistent emotional control: emotional restraint that is modelled consistently reinforced routines for behaviour around the site
- Consistent environment: displays which echo core values, positive images of learners, visual messages, Behaviour Blueprint, etc.
- Consistent, calm adult behaviour

Northfield School practices visible consistency through the following ways:

Students with Positive Handling Plans (PHPs) and Risk Assessments (RA) have specific, adult-led strategies and these should be referred to by all staff working with them. A copy of the current paperwork can be found in the Staff Shared Area of the ICT network.

It is the responsibility of all staff to ensure that they read the current paperwork for each student. Staff teams should be actively engaged in monitoring and making amendments to the PHPs and RAs where required.

It may be that risky behaviours are identified but a PHP or RA is not required. In this case a Positive Response Plan (PRP) should be actioned. An example of this could be for a student who does not need restrictive physical interventions, does not display challenging behaviours but is unable to remain safe due to a lack of understanding of risk.

Out of the classroom

Within the classroom the teacher has responsibility for the behaviour management of the class but if situations within the classroom are not resolved by the procedures outlined above it may be necessary to refer the student to a member of the Bridge or Senior Leadership Team. It is important that students understand how others have been affected by their behaviour and are clear about the behaviour that will be expected when they re-enter the classroom. The students will be supported by a member of the Bridge Pastoral Support Team, if needed.

Racial harassment, sexually derogatory language and homophobic language of any kind will not be tolerated at Northfield School and any incident of this nature will result in a senior leader being informed immediately. Parents will then be informed

The Bridge Pastoral Support Team

This team comprises a Behaviour Support Manager, and Therapeutic and Pastoral Support Workers, who support the whole school community by contributing towards a safe, learning environment; making provision for students who are out of class, working with students within their classrooms, responding to challenging behaviour and running interventions which promote mutual respect, protective behaviours and a wide range of other skills.

Behaviour Monitoring

The Bridge Team is responsible for logging the detailed records of behaviour on a database at the end of each school week. This data supports the school's tracking of positive and negative trends of behaviour and also is used to share behavioural concerns with other professionals and informs staff deployment to support our students.

- Think of one incident this week where you could have made a better choice
- What happened?
- What were you thinking/feeling at this point?
- Who has been affected by what happened? Why?
- What do you need so things can be put right?
- What can you do to help put things right?
- What will change next time?

Students who have not earned enough points throughout the week will be supported in Restorative Time where they will reflect on choices made during the week and identify ways to put right harm or prevent things from happening again. Staff will also inform the end of term reward treat.

The points are used to earn Privilege Time on a Friday afternoon. Privilege Time is where the students have a choice from a number of activities and can access these depending on their points total for the week. Points accrued throughout the term will also alongside the students reflecting on the following questions:

- Were you prepared and ready to learn?
- Did you demonstrate learning in the lesson?
- Did you show effort and perseverance?
- Did you make a positive impact on the learning environment?
- Can you self-assess how well you have done?

The following questions are asked at the end of each lesson, with the class adult supporting each student to reflect on their learning behaviour for the lesson:

Each student has their own Learning Passport which runs from Friday to Thursday. Students can earn up to 50 points throughout the day, 10 points for each lesson for their attitude and engagement in learning. An additional 10 points can be earned for making a positive contribution in assembly.

Northfield School has a reward system which is designed to promote self-discipline and self-regulation in our students and encourage them to be responsible, hardworking members of the school community.

These records of behaviour should be written by the member of staff observing the behaviour. Staff will be required to record: the antecedent, the behaviour, the resolution and specific 1:1 intervention that follows the behaviour. This process informs our practice, allows us to reflect on behaviour and reflect on how we as professionals have resolved issues within the school.
