RIESLING

SOLSTICE VINEYARD
Yakima Valley

15,000 years ago, the Missoula Floods ripped across the Pacific Northwest. Colossal walls of water carved the landscape with ten times the strength of all the world's rivers. Volcanoes erupted with lava and ash. The soils of the Yakima Valley were born.

2007 YAKIMA VALLEY RIESLING

In nature, life springs from devastation. The Missoula Floods created soils abundant in minerals, ideal for producing Riesling with bright acidity and complex character. Our Solstice Vineyard rests at 950 foot elevation on a gentle south-facing slope. The old vines—planted in 1972—are picked ripe enabling us to craft an Alsatian-style wine that is rich with flavors and aromas of grapefruit, nutmeg and orange peel.

Soil Types: ① Ash ② Loess ③ Granite ④ Basalt
