Liebling (darling)

Our family has been farming and ranching around the Cummins Creek area since our arrival to the Republic of Texas from Germany in 1845.

Over the years, we've occasionally taken the time to make a little wine from the wild grapes that grow along its banks. Our family is passing on this tradition and encouraging the sixth generation of agriculturists.

Just as our family has evolved, so have the grapes we now grow. The Blanc du Bois variety is a hybrid grape that thrives in the Texas weather and is transformed into a smooth white wine that releases aromas of flowers and fruits infused by the surrounding countryside.

We named this sweet wine "Liebling" for our family's love of all things grown and raised along the banks of Cummins Creek.
