After a failed relationship Jennifer and her daughter set out to start a new life. Many setbacks and tough times followed. She was told she would never be successful in her small world. In an effort to make extra money she took-in abandoned baby calves to raise. She continues her cattle business today. She turned her sour grapes into wine. Through hard work and forward thinking, she is a successful mom and business woman. The wine is a product of her ingenuity. The name came from that little twist that is in all of us.
