Gentleman's Relish, our Brown Ale, gives a nod to the Northern English Brown style. However, since defeating the English in 1783, it is anachronistic that the American version be stronger to reflect an England's vanquishment. Gentleman's Relish uses Maris Otter malt as the base, augmented with dark crystal and chocolate malts. Whole cone English hops are used throughout the boil, imparting their characteristic smooth bitterness. The beer is named after an Englishman's favorite snack, an anchovy paste, typically eaten on toast.

Tasting Notes: dark brown with a thick creamy head; chocolate-caramel-sweetness yields to a clean hoppy finish. It makes one almost wish that the English were still here to share a pint of this fine brew. . . almost.

Ingredients: Maris Otter, Dark Crystal, Wheat, and Chocolate Malts, First Gold Whole Cone Hops, House Yeast.

Our ale is unfiltered and unpasteurized.
Decant with care as some yeast settling is normal.

Lone Pint Brewery is a grassroots intersection with the true beer lover in mind. We are dedicated to creating distinctive local Texas ales that are tasty, happy, and quaffable. We use raw whole cone hops for bittering, flavoring, aroma, and dry hopping additions in all of our brews. However, an equally important ingredient is the renewable energy that powers our Brewery. The spent grain is fed to a local dairy farmer's cows and the spent hops are composted.

Craft brewing is an American institution. Our brewhouse and tanks are from Nevada, our boiler from Pennsylvania, our kegging machine from California, our chiller from Oregon, and our mill from Canada (close enough, eh? Point being, we kept the love at home, doing our part to insure that craft brewing will always remain an American institution.
