Tempranillo is the fourth most widely planted grape varietal in the world. Its fame stems from wines made in Northern Spain, specifically the Rioja region. Tempranillo thrives in climates with high diurnal temperature variations such as in the Texas climate where warm days promote ripening, and cool nights preserve acidity. The result is a wine characterized by a duality of savory earth, and fruit flavors. Enoch's Tempranillo is a medium plus bodied wine displaying hints of red berries, plum, fig, tobacco, vanilla, leather, cherries, and herb. Serve room temperature.
