ALBARINO

Our family has a love of seafood and pasta. What better wine to pair with fried oysters or lemon swordfish with a side of penne than Albarino, a grape native to the north Atlantic coast of Spain. We grow our Albarino in the Texas High Plains, near the Texas panhandle, or as we say "Ocean front property in West Texas". The long, cool nights of the High Plains offer the same weather as northern Spain, and ripen our Albarino to perfection with notes of citrus, lemon and a bright finish loaded with crisp acidity.

Food Pairings: Serve with your favorite fish, fried oysters, or light pasta dish.
