ARTIST 0043/1800
SHANTELL MARTIN
NEW YORK, NY

Below the surface of Shantell Martin's characteristic black and white compositions is an artist's inquiry into the role of artist and viewer. In Martin's world, a work of art is inseparable from its creator and its audience, and art is more than an object of admiration disconnected from the process of its inception. Rather, she sees her work as a vehicle to forge new connections between education, design, philosophy and technology—the glue in an increasingly interdisciplinary world. Her methodical practice of bringing the audience and surroundings into her drawings is a reflection on ever changing time and space.
