TEXAS ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE COMMISSION

Texans Helping Businesses & Protecting Communities

The Agrafo (Uncharted) Mountain Range is in the southwest corner of Thessaly, Greece. During the 400 years of Ottoman rule, this region was the only that remained autonomous; its harrowing landscape and fiercely independent spirit of locals, rendered it unnavigable.

This rough landscape preserved that free and natural spirit, along with a unique character of endemic vines.

Generations later, winemaker Andreas Kontozisis' work is defined by the mountainous terrain and expressive candor of the area's ancestors. Using organic methods, he meticulously cultivates the indigenous Limniona grape, and vinifies wine without interventions or added sulfites.
