The father and son team of Olivier and Alexis Depardon trace their family roots deep in the hills of Beaujolais to 1848, when Domaine de la Bêche began. You hold in your hand their sumptuous old vine cuvée, coming from 27 acres of Gamay averaging over 70-years of age and spread across Morgon, one of Beaujolais's finest appellations. They harvest by hand, de-stem their grapes, and make their wine traditionally with native yeast. This wine was aged predominately in huge old casks for 9-10 months.
