VINEYARD

Vino de Cuyo

1,050mest. The soils of the Pampas, located in the heart of the wine country, are rich in minerals and organic matter. They are very fertile and provide the grapes with nutrients, with water rising from the Andes Mountains. The climate is mild and cool, the intensity of the sunlight is not too harsh, and the grapes are grown in a very healthy environment. The vines are trained in a way that allows them to receive the maximum amount of sunlight and water. The grapes are harvested at the peak of ripeness and are then fermented in stainless steel tanks. The wine is then aged in oak barrels for a period of 12 months before being bottled.
