Fashion statement or simple practicality? When Miljenko “Mike” Grgich was studying viticulture and enology in the 1950s at the University of Zagreb in Croatia, he didn’t have much money. When he accidentally left his umbrella on a streetcar, Mike couldn’t afford a new one. But, a French beret caught his eye: it would protect his head from the rain and it could fold up into a pocket so he wouldn’t lose it. Even after he became known as “King of Chardonnay” and was eventually inducted into the Vintners Hall of Fame in 2008, Mike never lost his beret. In fact, his famous hat can be found in the Smithsonian National Museum of American History in Washington D.C.

TASTING NOTES: crisp, aromatic flavors of citrus flowers, honey and tropical fruit, with a long finish

ENJOY WITH: your favorite foods and a good story about a blue beret
