WASHINGTON

2010 COLUMBIA VALLEY CHARDONNAY

1805 marks the year Lewis and Clark discovered Washington's Columbia River Valley. Wine grapes were soon planted in the region and have been cultivated ever since by a hardy band of grape growers. 1805 Chardonnay offers the lush, vibrant fruit for which Washington wine is renowned. Its delicious green apple, pear, and tropical fruit flavors – complemented by subtle notes of vanilla and toast on the smooth finish – pair beautifully with grilled halibut, salmon and cream-based chicken dishes.
