MLBEC 2006-11-16
100% Malbec

Coordinates: 37° latitude South.
Altitude: 920 meters above sea level.
Age: 12 months in French oak barrels.

Algodon Malbec 2006 shows intense and deep ruby-red color with notes of red, it generously offers aromas of red berries and plum jam, with subtle touch and pronounced notes provided by the aging process in French oak barrels. There is a wonderfully balanced and big structured mouth-feel with sweet and concentrated purities.

This wine has been lightly filtered before bottling; it may have a light tartaric deposit which does not affect quality at all.

The vineyards of Algodon Wine Estates are located in the foothills of the Sierra de la Cruz Mountains in San Rafael, Mendoza. With vines dating back to the 1940s, this two thousand acre property is nestled in the heart of Argentina's wine country. This wine is brought to you by Carlos Algodon, the owner of Argentina's wine industry, as well as the brilliant young winemaker, Mauro Nazzari. Both the owner and the winemaker are dedicated to the art of winemaking. Algodon employs state-of-the-art technology in order to bring you this most quality wine vintage after vintage. "Be healthy, be happy, and appreciate all good things in life."

Algodon - Only the Best.
