NEUQUÉN RED WINE

2004

The Alpataco tree is found throughout the San Patricio del Chanar Valley of Patagonia. Meaning "Tree of the Earth" in the aboriginal language, the Alpataco tree grows its roots deep in to the earth while its branches protect other species of the valley and provide stunning scenery.

The Alpataco Merlot was created as a tribute to this great tree. As a testament to personality, strength and character of Patagonia, the wine features a deep red color with complex aromas of red fruit fused with mint and spice. A touch of oak provides a hint of vanilla that provides a warm, fruity and bold finish with supple tannins.
