TANNAT

Uruguay means "river of painted birds" in the native language. A great variety of birds fly over the undulating and natural fields intermingled with the small streams that run into the River Plate on its way to the south Atlantic Ocean.

Tannat is a French variety that has become the most important grape in Uruguay where ideal conditions for Tannat result in wines of great expression and personality. Grapes were entirely hand-picked from our family's vineyards and fermented in our boutique winery in Canelones.

This wine is an outstanding example of the new, more accessible Tannats now emerging from Uruguay.
