Amici is, at its core, a story about friends. In 1991, a group of friends with a passion for good wine crushed a few tons of grapes in the Napa Valley for our personal cellars. The resulting wines received such outstanding accolades that we started producing wine the very next year to share with the public. We chose to name the wine, appropriately, Amici ("friends" in Italian).

Today at Amici we continue our tradition of making small production, artfully crafted wines to share with friends. Because we insist on keeping our production small, we can carefully control the process of creating each wine, crafting what we like to consider a small work of art in each bottle.

This Russian River Valley Pinot Noir displays a dark ruby color with a bouquet of ripe crushed cherries, deep red raspberry and a touch of cocoa powder. The expansive, layered flavors of cherries, ripe raspberry and a hint of spice combine with velvety tannins into a long rich finish.
