TEXAS ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE COMMISSION

RANGER CREEK .44 RYE

In the mid 1840's Texas Ranger Captain Samuel H. Walker saw a need for a new handgun that was extremely powerful and very reliable. Samuel Colt built him one. Weighing four and one-half pounds, the .44 "Walker Colt" was the largest and most powerful black powder repeating handgun ever made. Named for the famous Texas Ranger captain, the Walker Colt evolved from the original .36 Paterson Colt. Like the ammunition used in the Walker Colt, Ranger Creek's .44 Texas Rye Whiskey is powerful. This 94 proof, 100% rye whiskey highlights the complexity of the grain. It pours a rich gold with a nose of cinnamon, mint, and toffee. The taste is strong and compact with notes of clove. It has a clean, warming finish with lingering notes of fresh bread crust. The third installment of our Small Caliber Series, this premium sipping whiskey was made from grain to glass in San Antonio and is best enjoyed neat or on the rocks.
