2016 Zinfandel, Paso Robles, bottled 11/17

A wet winter helped the vines recover from drought. Yields returned to normal. Summer warmth ripened the crop for a late August harvest. Destemmed and fully crushed grapes were sent to tanks for submerged-cap fermentation, lasting eleven days. This made a wine with great complexity and richness. Showing Paso Robles' warm region character, it's appealing now, and will continue to develop over the next eight years. EB (8/17)

Ingredients: Hand-harvested grapes; indigenous yeasts; naturally occurring malolactic bacteria; oak from barrel aging; minimum effective SO₂. EB (8/17)
