About TalkIQ

TalkIQ helps companies understand and take action on the most important insights from every phone conversation their businesses have with their customers at every point in the lifecycle of a customer relationship. TalkIQ's proprietary enterprise speech recognition (ESR) capabilities offer the most accurate call summaries available. These are then analyzed via natural language processing along with machine learning to extract key insights from conversations. The solutions are tailored to thrive in high-volume sales and service environments and are ready to drive efficiency throughout teams, reduce ramp and training time, drive more deals, and quantify the voice of the customer.

About SalesLoft

SalesLoft has created the Modern Sales Engagement Platform, allowing you to reach prospects faster and more effectively. SalesLoft helps your modern sales organization set and execute on a cadence of phone, email, and social communications so you can convert more target accounts into customer accounts.

We're constantly working to add new capabilities to better serve our customers' needs.
