Open Innovation in Science (OIS) Research Workshop

02 – 03 May 2019 | Vienna

The organizing committee of the OIS Research Workshop 2019 in Vienna invites you to join the discussion about open and collaborative approaches to generating and disseminating scientific research.

Our workshop aims at mapping the research landscape and outlining future research opportunities on the antecedents, consequences, and contingencies of OIS. In addition to opportunities to present research results or ideas and receiving feedback from colleagues, we hope to have exciting discussions that culminate in a collaborative framework article for a special issue on Open Innovation in Science in the journal Industry and Innovation.

If you would like to present your research at the workshop, please submit an abstract of 200-500 words to one of the following tracks:

Track 1: Open and collaborative approaches along the entire research process. Possible topics include but are not limited to:

- crowdfunding, crowdsourcing and citizen science
- open data leveraging, translation of science into practice, academic entrepreneurship

Track 2: Ecosystems and organizational designs facilitating open and collaborative research approaches. Possible topics include but are not limited to:

- institutional factors
- local and national policies
- intellectual property and copyright supporting OIS
- incentive systems

Track 3: Microfoundations of open and collaborative research approaches. Possible topics include but are not limited to:

- scientists' motives for engaging in OIS,
- skills and capabilities for OIS,
- characteristics and motives of institutional entrepreneurs

To register, please send the registration form (with or without abstract) to: susanne.beck@lbg.ac.at by March 15, 2019. Submitted abstracts will be reviewed by the organizing committee and – given their fit – assigned a presentation slot at the workshop. After the workshop, selected projects will be invited for submission to the special issue in Industry and Innovation.

Please note that

- registration and participation is possible without submitting an abstract.
- the paper of the submitted abstract must not have been accepted for journal publication.

Participating in the OIS Research Workshop (including meals and social program) is free; travel and hotel expenses are not included. If you need help finding an appropriate accommodation in Vienna, we'll be happy to assist you. Please send an email to susanne.beck@lbq.ac.at.

The workshop starts on May 2nd at 12:00 with a joint lunch and ends on May 3rd with a joint dinner. A detailed conference program will be provided after the registration/submission deadline.

Please do not hesitate to contact us if you have any questions. We are very much looking forward to welcoming you in Vienna!
