

Mountain West Men's Basketball Championship – Semifinals
Postgame Notes | March 15
#6 New Mexico 74, #7 Colorado State 61

Championship Notes

- For the first time in the 25-year history of the Mountain West men's basketball championship, a team has advanced from the first round all the way to the championship game.

New Mexico Notes

- New Mexico will make its seventh championship game appearance and the first since 2018. The Lobos will be seeking their fifth MW tournament title and first since 2014.
- UNM is now 7-2 in MW tournament semifinal contests.
- The Lobos and San Diego State have met three times prior in the MW championship game, with UNM winning the first two showdowns, but the Aztecs winning most recently in 2018. Overall in the Conference tournament, SDSU holds a 4-2 head-to-head record over New Mexico.
- New Mexico never trailed on Friday night, leading for 38:22 and tied for 1:37.
- The Lobos improved to 24-20 all-time in MW tournament games.

Colorado State Notes

- The Rams fell to 19-24 all-time in the MW championship.