Head Coach: Lou Belken, 23rd year (Carroll College, '72)
Assistant Coach: Laurie Warder, ninth year

Comments from head coach Lou Belken on the 2004-05 team and season as he begins his 23rd year at the helm of the Sun Devil program:

Overview:

We are fortunate to have a team that likes to compete, work hard and wants to get better. That's going to our strength... we are going to be able to put nine players on the court that are all going to fight at their positions.

The team is essentially a seven-man unit and I would feel very comfortable playing any of them. This year four players Clint Letcher, Chris Biro, Jonathan Kinsella and Andy Colombo can play at the top four spots. Ryan McBride, Mike Beatty and Nick Hegarty are all competitive in the five, six and seven positions.

Team Makeup:

The team is a year older physically and mentally. Last year they made the round of 32 and would be disappointed if they did not go further this year. In every way the squad is better right now than last years, so we all expect the end result to be better as well.

The lineup is staggered age wise, but also personality wise. Some are laid back off the court, while others are fiery on the court. It's a good blend that complements each other well.

Expectations:

First we need everyone competing at all nine spots and make sure they keep that mentality going throughout the season. Secondly is to make the NCAA Tournament and once that is accomplished, make sure the team is playing its best tennis in May and improving everyday to get to that point.

Schedule:

As always it is one of the best in the country, especially with a heavy March schedule. There's a three-week period where we can make or break ourselves, so all of us need to make sure the players are physically strong and playing very good tennis at that point.

It will be a big challenge starting with the USC and UCLA weekend at home. Then we are on the road for Clemson and Auburn, while finishing up at home against Georgia Tech and Tulane. The last four are non-conference matches, but they are all "get into the NCAA Tournament matches." Those are important duals that are scheduled deliberately because those are going to be the ones that will have implications when the national committee makes sections for the tournament.

Summary:

This is a strong and athletic lineup of players that have good attitudes on the court as well as in the classroom. The first semester grade-point average was the highest this program has accomplished in many years, if not ever, and I believe that's reflective of their attitudes. I also feel that those efforts they put into the classroom have carried over onto the court.

In Addition to competing at the highest level, along with their academics, the men's tennis team also contributors in the community. Here the Sun Devils work with the PASS (Phoenix After School Sports) program.

Lou Belken enters his 23rd season as head coach of the Arizona State men's tennis program, one, which has been known over the years for its accomplishments on the national level. Heading into his 23rd year, Belken is only the 12th coach (currently only the second active) in Arizona State athletic history to achieve such a milestone.

During Belken's tenure, he has guided the Sun Devils to NCAA postseason berths in 13 of the last 17 years, including five berths in the NCAA Sweet 16 and one quarterfinal appearance.

In addition, Belken has tutored and produced 14 All-American players and 17 All-Pacific-10 selections. Academically since 1991, Belken has placed 19 players on the Pacific-10 All-Academic teams and has placed several players on the Academic All-American teams, including three-time performer Ed Carter.

Last season, the Sun Devils advanced to NCAA Regional action for the 10th time in the past 11 years under Belken. The team also upset the National Champion runner-up UCLA, 5-2 and had four singles players and three doubles teams compete in the Pacific-10 Conference Championships with the duo of Chris Stewart and Jonathan Kinsella advancing to the semifinals of the Conference Championships.

In 2003, Belken guided ASU to a fourth-place (3-3) finish in the extremely competitive Pacific-10 Conference, its best finish since the 1999 season. ASU's 6-1 victory against Santa Clara set two historical records as Belken achieved his 250th career win, while Arizona State earned the 600th win in the program's history. Other highlights from Belken's 21st season include knocking off defending NCAA national champion USC, 4-3 and defeating the University of Arizona for the 13th straight time at home. Additionally, Belken tutored the doubles team of Olivier Charroin and Chris Stewart to a berth into the NCAA doubles championships after they won the Southern California Regional doubles championship.

Belken's 2002 team advanced to the NCAA Regional for the eighth time in the past nine seasons. Belken also guided Matt Klinger and the doubles tandem of Klinger and Mitchell Bowen to the NCAA Singles and Doubles Championships with the doubles team finishing 22nd in the country.

During the 2001 season, Belken's squad defeated rival Arizona for the 11th consecutive season at home, and defeated 12th-ranked Auburn and 13th-ranked USC by 4-3 scores. Keeping his team ranked nationally for most of the season, Belken also guided the doubles team of Olivier Charroin and Pim Van Mele to the finals of the Pacific-10 Conference Doubles Championships.

Belken and his team of Sun Devils achieved several milestones during the 1999 season. One of Belken's crowning achievements was earning his first Pacific-10 Conference Coach of the Year honor, as well as being named the Region VIII Coach of the Year. Under Belken, he guided ASU to its fourth NCAA

Sweet 16 team appearance and a final ranking of 16th in the country. Belken forged the team to a 16-6 overall record and a 5-2 third place mark in the Pac-10, the team's best conference finish in school history. The 1999 season also saw Belken tailor another first in ASU history when the Sun Devils knocked off fifth-ranked UCLA, 4-3 in Tempe.

During the 1998 season Belken's 25th-ranked Sun Devil squad secured him his 200th career victory by defeating the University of Washington Huskies, 4-3 in Seattle. Also in 1998, Belken coached three players to 20 or more overall wins, as well as four players with double-digit dual wins. Already competing in arguably the toughest conference in the country, Belken also won't back down from scheduling top-flight competition. Alone in '98, Belken's team competed against seven top-10 teams in the nation, and of the 22 total matches, 19 were against nationally ranked opponents.

Also, 1995 was a banner year for Belken's team as Sargis Sargsian gave the Sun Devils not only its first No. 1 ranked player in the country, but its first NCAA champion as well. Under Belken's tutelage, Sargsian also became the first player in NCAA history to win four ITA Grand Slam crowns. He was showered with acclaim including Player of the Year and All-America honors. As a team, the Sun Devils made it to the round of sixteen in the NCAA tournament before being eliminated by Georgia. ASU defeated Colorado and Indiana State in regional action to reach that point.

Over the years, Belken steadily built the Arizona State program, guiding it to one of its finest seasons in 1991. The Sun Devils finished No. 8 in the country and advanced to the quarterfinals of the NCAA tournament, posting an overall record of 21-10.

Brian Gyetko and Dave Lomicky garnered All-American acclaim in doubles while Gyetko also earned All-American status in singles. It was the second year in a row the duo had accomplished that feat. Gyetko went on to represent Canada at the 1992 Summer Olympics in Barcelona.

Four of Belken's pupils won national titles in 1990. Dave Lomicky was the first, winning the National Amateur indoor singles championship, followed by doubles partner Bryan Gyetko who captured the Canadian National men's singles championship. Ross Matheson then won the singles and doubles titles at the Scottish National Championships and Joel Finnigan concluded the run with a singles title at the U.S. Amateur.

Belken also directed his squad to the NCAA championships in 1988, its first trip since the dual match format was introduced. Belken's Sun Devils posted an 18-10 mark and were ranked among the nation's top-10 for the first time in a decade, eventually finishing the campaign ranked 11th. Among those 18 victories was a 5-4 triumph over top-ranked Southern California. It was ASU's first win over the Trojans since 1979 and the initial conquest of USC for Belken. That same year, Doug Sachs became Belken's initial All-America selection by downing two of the top three ranked singles players in the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association (ITCA) rankings.

Belken took over the Sun Devil program in August of 1982 after a nine-year stint as head professional at Scottsdale (Ariz.) Racquet Club. Belken took that position in 1973 with no nationally ranked players in the club, and within several years had developed two Wimbledon final eight participants, two national champions and numerous nationally ranked juniors.

Former ASU star Gary Donnelly and two-time All-American Jim Grabb were Belken's top students at the club. Both were ranked among the top-40 in the Association of Tennis Professionals (ATP) singles rankings and top-10 in doubles.

Donnelly was a doubles finalist at Wimbledon, the U.S. Open and French Open. His best singles effort was an appearance in the round of 16 at the 1985 U.S. Open and posting a top 50 singles ranking.

Grabb won the 1992 U.S. Open doubles title with Richey Reneberg and won the 1990 French Open doubles title with Patrick McEnroe. Grabb was ranked No. 1 in the world in ATP doubles and among the top-30 in singles.

Belken's first Arizona State team in 1983 posted an 8-19 overall record, but within three years, the Sun Devils made their first seasonal appearance in the nation's top-20.

Belken is a member of the ITA and United States Professional Tennis Association (USPTA).

A native of Rockford, Ill., Belken graduated from Carroll College in Waukesha, Wisconsin in 1972 with a bachelor's degree in business administration. He graduated from Guilford High School in 1968.

ASSISTANT COACH LAURIE WARDER

Laurie Warder begins his ninth season as the men's tennis assistant coach at Arizona State University. Warder's impact on the Sun Devil tennis program has been dynamic in both singles and doubles play.

Warder's hard work was not just noticed locally, but nationally as he was named the 2000 Intercollegiate Tennis Association's Assistant Coach of the Year for Region VIII.

In addition to intense individual instruction, Warder also helped tutor the doubles teams to over 300 victories the last six years (average over 52 wins a season). In 2003, the Sun Devils' two top doubles teams combined for a 32-13 record, while in the 2000 and 2001 seasons, ASU's top three doubles teams all posted double digit wins, including a 40-20 dual record.

Warder vast doubles experience also helped lead the pair of Ed Carter and Jeff Williams to 1999 All-American honors, finishing 10th in the nation.

Warder, a native of Sydney, Australia, arrived at Arizona State from the Association of Tennis Professionals' Tour (ATP) where he was one of the most prominent and consistent doubles players on the circuit.

Warder's wealth of experience on the ATP Tour spans 13 years from 1982-1994 where he captured 12 doubles titles, including the 1993 Australian Open. Warder also reached the final of the Australian Open doubles in 1987 and the semifinals in 1985 and 1983.

In addition, Warder reached the quarterfinals of the French Open doubles in 1987, 1991 and 1992, the quarterfinals of Wimbledon doubles in 1986 and 1989, and the quarterfinals of the US Open doubles in 1988.

Warder qualified for the year-end ATP World Doubles Championship three times and had a career-high world doubles ranking of No. 12 in 1991.

*Pacific-10 Conference match.

^Arizona State Quad (Pepperdine, TCU, UW).

NCAA 1st/2nd Round Regionals, Champaign, Ill.

Men's tennis started as a club sport in 1902, making it the second oldest sport to be played on ASU's campus, following only by football (1897).

From 1903 to 1931, men's tennis was undergoing a metamorphosis from a club sport to an intercollegiate sport, as seen in 1913 when there was competition in both. In that year, the Tempe Normal team lost a dual match to the University of Arizona while the interclass senior team won the cup for the third year in a row.

In 1932, Arizona State Teachers College (ASTC) became part of the Border Conference and hired its first full-time coach, Earle Pomeroy. Pomeroy led the Bulldogs to a 7-3-1 record the following year, the first winning tennis season in ASU history.

Unclear or nonexistent records typify Arizona State's experience in the Border Conference. However, coach's Pomeroy and Marlowe Keith each posted back-to-back fourth-place finishes, Pomeroy in 1941 and '42 and Keith in 1957 and '58.

Charles Roach (1951-52), Fred Hickernell (1951-53) and Bob Gilbert (1952-54) were stalwarts in the Sun Devil lineup during the Border Conference days.

In 1963, Arizona State moved to the Western Athletic Conference under the guidance of coach Ted Bredehoft, who also coached wrestling at Arizona State from 1962-71.

Among numerous others, former Sun Devil All-Americans John Fort (1971) and Mark Joffey (1975) helped ASU accumulate a 253-107-1 (.700) record in the WAC.

ASU was represented by four singles players and two doubles teams at four NCAA Championships in a row (1973-76). At the 1978 NAAs, ASU downed Oklahoma State 6-3 to advance to the quarterfinals before being ousted by eventual champion Stanford.

From 1973 to 1979, Marty Pincus coached the men's tennis team to three first-place finishes in the WAC (1975, '76, '78). In 1976, the Sun Devils posted their best NCAA finish ever — fifth.

During the Pincus era, ASU compiled a 161-31 (.839) record, giving him the second-highest winning percentage among coaches of NCAA-sanctioned sports at ASU. At the time, he trailed only former football coach Dan Devine who had a percentage of .887.

In 1979, ASU's men's tennis program entered the Pacific-10 Southern Division, the most competitive conference in the country. Since 1946, when the first Division I team champion was crowned, Pac-10 Southern Division teams have captured 40 of the 48 national titles.

Also in 1979, ASU produced its third All-American, Alan Waldman. He led his Sun Devil teammates to a 17th-place finish at the NAAs that year.

As ASU men's tennis entered the 1980s, Myron McNamara was named head coach and Gary Donnelly was just beginning his ASU tennis career. Donnelly, who played under the watchful eye of ASU's current head coach Lou Belken at Scottsdale Racquet Club, went on to achieve fame as a doubles finalist at Wimbledon in 1986. He also competed in the doubles semifinals at the 1985 U.S. Open and the 1987 French Open. Donnelly also competes in singles play. His singles career has been highlighted by his appearance in the round of 16 at the 1985 U.S. Open.

Lou Belken was named head tennis coach in 1983. He is the second-winningest coach in Sun Devil annals with 144 victories. In 1988, Belken's Devils, led by Doug Sachs, posted an 18-9 record, a fourth-place finish in the conference (ASU's best ever), and an 11th-place finish at the NAAs. ASU was ranked 11th in the nation and Sachs earned All-American accolades.

Dave Lomicky and Joel Finnigan won the 1989 U.S. Amateur doubles championship, while future Sun Devil Chris Gambino reached the semifinals in singles action.

In 1990, ASU had four national champions: Finnigan, Lomicky, Brian Gyetko and Ross Matheson. Finnigan captured the U.S. Amateur singles crown, while Lomicky won the 1990 National Amateur Indoor singles championship. Gyetko was crowned the Canadian National singles champion and Matheson earned the Scottish National singles and doubles titles.

In 1991, Belken led the Sun Devils to their best season ever during his reign, compiling a 21-10 record, and a quarterfinal berth at the NAAs. Brian Gyetko, who in 1990 became the first ASU tennis player to earn All-American acclaim in singles and doubles in the same year, duplicated the feat in 1991. Gyetko reached the quarterfinals of singles action at the NAAs (the farthest advancement by an ASU player since Mark Joffey in 1975) and the round of 16 in doubles with Lomicky.

Arizona State earned NCAA Tournament berths in 1988, '90 and '91. Also, since 1983, the Sun Devils' final postseason ranking has been higher than the preseason ranking every year but four.

In 1995, Sargis Sargsian became the first Sun Devil to win the NCAA Tournament, defeating USC's Brett Hansen in the finals 3-6, 6-3, 6-4. It was Sargsian's fourth collegiate Grand Slam title, which is more than any other player in collegiate tennis history. He finished the year as the NCAA Player of the Year, an All-American and the top-ranked player in the country.

The 1997 doubles tandem of Ed Carter and Sergio Elias entered the first round of the NCAA championships with an at-large bid, and proceeded to defeat the second-seeded team from Fresno State 6-3, 6-4. The duo went on to the second round of the championships, but was defeated. Earlier in the season, Carter and Elias not once, but twice defeated the second-ranked doubles team from UCLA. The Sun Devils No. 1 doubles team ended the season ranked 18th in the nation.

The 1998 Sun Devils earned a NCAA postseason berth for the eighth time in the past 11 years. Junior Gustavo Marcaccio advanced to the second round of the NCAA individual championships, finishing with a 28-12 record. Additionally, ASU posted its biggest win in several seasons, knocking off No. 6 ranked USC, 4-3.

Earning its first bid to the round of 16 team championship since 1995, ASU's 1999 team steamrolled its way through regional play only to fall to Illinois in the quarterfinals. ASU hosted its first-ever regional, posting 4-0 shut-out wins against Hofstra and Pepperdine. ASU finished the year with a 16-6 record, marking the most wins since the '91 season. Head coach Lou Belken earned his first Pacific-10 Conference Coach of the Year award after guiding ASU to an all-time high third place finish in the Pac-10. The doubles team of Ed Carter and Jeff Williams earned All-American acclaim after finishing 10th in the country. Senior Gustavo Marcaccio advanced to the Pac-10 singles final for the first time since Sargis Sargsian in '95. The Sun Devils also recorded the school's first victory over UCLA, a 4-3 decision in Tempe.

Head coach Lou Belken enters his 20th season at the helm of the men's tennis program in 2002. He becomes only the 12th coach in all of ASU athletic history to achieve such a milestone.

In 2003, ASU's 6-1 victory against Santa Clara set two historical records as head coach Lou Belken achieved his 250th career win, while Arizona State claimed the 600th win in the program's history. The Sun Devils also knocked off defending NCAA National Champion USC, 4-3.

Advanced to the 2004 NCAA Regional for the 13th time under Belken and the tenth time in the past 11 years. ASU upset the 2003 National Champion runner-up UCLA, 5-2.

The Arizona State Department of Intercollegiate Athletics recently moved back into the Carson Student-Athlete Center. The 165,000-Square foot facility houses the entire athletic department and gives ASU one of the finest student-athlete centers in the country. Sun Devil student-athletes can accomplish everything they need to do in a given day from meeting with an academic adviser to taping and treatment to getting ready for practice without leaving the building.

ACADEMIC HIGHLIGHTS AT ARIZONA STATE UNIVERSITY

• ASU is a Doctoral/Research-Extensive Institution, the highest distinction of the prestigious Carnegie Foundation classification system.

• ASU's Tempe campus offers more than 100 majors through eight colleges and schools, 94 bachelors degree programs, 92 masters degrees, a highly regarded law degree and 51 doctoral degrees.

• Nearly 60 percent of ASU's student-athlete population were Maroon and Gold Scholars (had at least 3.00 semester or cumulative GPA in the most recent calendar year), while 40 percent of the student-athlete population had a cumulative GPA of 3.0 or above.

• For the 10th time in 10 years, ASU has had a student on USA Today's list of the nation's top 40 undergraduates. Since USA Today began naming the top undergraduates in 1991, ASU has been a leading university in the number of students chosen for the USA Today Academic First-Team honors (top 20 undergraduates), currently ranking second in the country behind Harvard.

• The Barrett Honors College is at its largest enrollment (2,700). Almost 100 percent of students in the college who apply to medical and law school are accepted.

• ASU ranks third among public universities in the U.S. in the number of freshman National Merit Scholars enrolling last year (173). There are currently 444 National Merit Scholars studying at ASU.

• ASU students have impressive records for Congressional Goldwater Scholarships (mathematics, science and engineering), British Marshall Scholarships (academics and leadership), Truman Scholarships (careers in public service) and Udall Scholarships (environmental/Native American).

• Last year's 10 Fulbright grants to ASU students put ASU at number seven among public universities for this award.

• ASU students this year won more NSEP/David L. Boren Scholarships for study overseas than any other university in the US.

• ASU is known as a powerhouse in national scholarship circles. This year, a record 27 ASU students won national competitions for elite academic awards.

building of a sustainable environment and economy for Arizona. He has committed the university to global engagement, and to setting a new standard for public service.

Since he took office, ASU has marked a number of important milestones, including the establishment of the Arizona Biodesign Institute; the initiation of many new interdisciplinary research initiatives; the groundbreaking for new state-of-the-art research facilities; and the

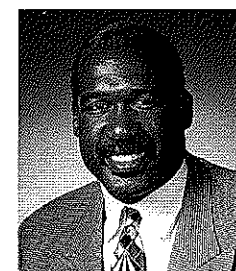

Michael M. Crow became the 16th president of Arizona State University on July 1, 2002. He is guiding the transformation of ASU into one of the nation's leading public metropolitan research universities, one that is directly engaged in the economic, social, and cultural vitality of its region. Under his direction the university pursues teaching, research, and creative excellence focused on the major intellectual questions of our time, as well as those central to the announcement of two $50 million gifts, endowing the W. P. Carey School of Business, and the Ira A. Fulton School of Engineering, and a $10 million gift to establish the Virginia G. Piper Center for Creative Writing.

Prior to joining ASU, he was executive vice provost of Columbia University, where he also was professor of science and technology policy in the School of International and Public Affairs. Dr. Crow oversaw Columbia's research enterprise, technology and innovation transfer operations, strategic initiative program, and interdisciplinary program development.

He played the lead role in the creation of the Columbia Earth Institute (CEI), and helped found the Center for Science, Policy and Outcomes (CSPO) in Washington, D.C., a think tank dedicated to linking science and technology to desired social, economic, and environmental outcomes.

He is the author of books and articles relating to the analysis of research organizations, technology transfer, science and technology policy, and the practice and theory of public policy.

GENE SMITH

socially. In his first four years at Arizona State, Smith hit the ground running, starting his own legacy of success in Tempe. He has hired nationally regarded coaches in football, soccer, wrestling, women's golf, water polo and volleyball while directing each of ASU's 22-sports programs, many of which saw unprecedented competitive success the past three years. Smith also oversaw completion of a $30 million capital campaign, which in part funded the construction of the $19 million Ed and Nadine Carson Student-Athlete Center, completed in May, 2002. The state-of-the-art facility affords Arizona State one of the finest student-athlete centers in the country, including perhaps the premier weight room and sports rehabilitation area in the nation.

Smith, who was named the 2003 Division I West Region Athletics Director of the Year by NACDA, has created a winning environment, dedicated to building stronger programs and committed to providing student-athletes the opportunity to be successful academically, athletically and socially. Nearly 60 percent of the 480 Sun Devil student-athletes were Maroon & Gold Scholars in 2003-04, posting at least a one-semester grade-point average of 3.0 while more than 10 percent achieved a perfect 4.0 grade-point. The graduation rate hit a school record, improving 11 percentage points over the highest previous mark and 13 percent higher than the university average.

Smith has a long history of national leadership and service. Since arriving at ASU, Smith has been appointed to the NCAA Infractions Committee, the NCAA Football Rules Committee, the NCAA Administrative Review Committee and the BCS Athletic Director's Advisory Committee. Smith is a member of the Tempe Convention and Visitor's Bureau Board of Directors and the Maricopa County Sports Authority Board of Directors. He also serves on the Fiesta Bowl Board in Tempe. Smith is currently vice president of the Pacific-10 Conference Executive Committee, chair of the Pac-10 Football officiating Committee and a member of the Pac-10 Selection, Athletics Directors' Revenue Sharing, Rose Bowl Management and Bowl (Ad Hoc) committees.

Smith's strong reputation among his peers was affirmed in June, 1994 when the Notre Dame graduate was named president of NACDA. In 1991, Smith was appointed to a four-year term on NACDA's 32-member executive committee. In 1992, he was elected third vice president of NACDA and was named to the Division 1-A Executive Committee. He was elected First Vice President of NACDA in 1993. Smith has also served on the NCAA President's Commission Liaison Committee, the NCAA Executive Committee, the NCAA Men's Basketball Committee and the NCAA Working Committee to Study Basketball Issues. He was appointed to the NCAA's Management Council in May of 1996 and continues to serve on that committee.

Prior to his arrival at Iowa State, Smith served as athletic director at Eastern Michigan University for seven years. Smith joined the EMU staff in 1983 as assistant athletic director for non-revenue sports. He was named interim executive athletic director in 1985 and was elevated to the position permanently on June 25, 1986.

Smith earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Notre Dame in 1977. He earned three varsity football letters as a defensive end at Notre Dame and was a member of the Associated Press 1973 national championship team.

Smith also served as an assistant football coach at Notre Dame from 1977-81, helping to guide the squad to its 1977 undisputed national championship. He then spent two years as a marketing representative for IBM prior to joining the Eastern Michigan staff in April 1983.

Gene and his wife, Sheila, have four children: Matt, Nicole, Lindsey, and Summer, and two grandchildren: Marshall and Steele. Sheila, a 1976 Canadian Olympian in basketball, holds a doctorate in Higher Education Administration and currently serves as Senior Vice President for the ASU Foundation, Deputy Vice President for Development and Special Advisor to the ASU President.

SUN ANGEL FOUNDATION

The Sun Angel Foundation is a support group that has served Arizona State University since 1947. It was officially incorporated as a non-profit agency for the purpose of promoting Sun Devil athletic programs and recently came under the direction of Arizona State's intercollegiate athletics department.

The Foundation seeks to join the energy and resources of business leaders, ASU alumni and members of the Valley community with the goals and objectives of Arizona State University to benefit the community at large. Over the past 53 years, Sun Angels have contributed over $65 million in private funding to ASU Athletics.

Annual contributions from Sun Angel members are the lifeblood of ASU Athletics. Contributions from more than 7,000 members support all of the university's 22 varsity teams and over 500 student-athletes.

The umbrella of the Sun Angel Foundation is large and includes specific clubs that strive to meet the needs of specific programs. The Wings of Gold (women's & Olympic sports), On Deck Circle (baseball) and Slam Dunk Club (basketball) are part of the Sun Angel Foundation and donations to the Sun Angel Foundation can be earmarked for specific programs and purposes.

The support Sun Devil athletics has received from its fans and community in the past is greatly appreciated. The Sun Angel Foundation stands ready to meet its half-century long goal of promoting excellence in both academic and athletic programs while becoming the best collegiate support group in the country. To join the team, call the Sun Angels today at 480-727-7700.

WHITEMAN TENNIS CENTER/ROBSON PLAYER FACILITY CARSON STUDENT-ATHLETE CENTER

The Whiteman Tennis Center serves as the home to Arizona State's nationally-ranked men and women's tennis teams. Since the 1998 season, the women's team has produced a 68-26 (.723) overall record at the Whiteman Tennis Center, while the men have tallied a 65-26 (.714) record.

The original complex was dedicated May 8, 1976. It featured eight fully lit asphalt-based courts with a seating capacity of 1,200. The majority of $300,000 it cost to build the tennis center was paid for by Jack Whiteman, president of a local machinery company. The Sun Devil Club also donated funds for the construction of the facility.

Whiteman, born in 1914, passed away in 1999 at the age of 85.

Whiteman Tennis Center served as host to the Women's National Championships in 1977 and 1981, as well as the 1976 Western Athletic Conference Championship. In addition, Whiteman is annually the site of the men and women's Thunderbirds Collegiate Invitational, one of the country's premier tournaments. In addition, the complex is also host to numerous NCAA regional and junior tournaments.

Both programs received a boost and a face-lift in 1999 by the generous support of both the Phoenix Thunderbirds and the Ed Robson family. The Whiteman Tennis Center now boasts a $800,000 state-of-the-art Robson Player Facility that spans an area of 6,640 square feet.

The facility includes men and women's locker rooms, team lounges, coach's offices, training room, public restrooms and concessions stand. The lower level also features several shaded tables, while the second level features a large shaded viewing terrace of the entire complex. Additionally, the Thunderbirds' Terrace is also utilized for dinner and university functions.
