As you all know, the AMVC awards took place recently. And as usual, while some people hit the mark, others blew the roof open with their drama while some missed the plot because they obviously got the memo entirely wrong! So naturally, we had a field day choosing the people who fit into all aforementioned categories. One thing I must say is that I was quite impressed with the lengths our designers went to to create such spectacular outfits. They really raised the bar and I was rather proud of them.

In the same tone, I also noticed with some of the clothes worn, the journey of execution was clearly turbulent with bumps and humps and it showed on the finished product. This buttresses my point about how designers have to first master the art of pattern-cutting and selection fabrics before getting adventurous with their 'creations'. The satin fabric, for one, is very hard to work with. It is very unforgiving on the eye and looks extremely cheap if the quality is poor and also the garment is badly made.

In such cases, 'victims' should instead, just opt for a readymade dress. You'd be amazed what you can get for less than 50k! You can then decide to jazz it up with accessories. It is better to look relatively safe albeit overshadowed, than be remembered for being a disaster on the red carpet. Rome was not built in a day. Most of the people who slay today worked hard to get there. There are no short-cuts. So rather than try to frog leap your way into the top 10, take your time, work hard and you will get there one day. No imitation, no limitation.

Nonetheless, it was lovely to see some astonishing numbers and we look forward to seeing more next year!

The Chic Athleisure Outfits

BY FUNKE BABS-KUFEJI

Athleisure has become an integral part of every fashion girl's wardrobe and we're here to make sure you constantly stay up-to-date on fashion happenings. Perfect for your lazy dress up days, brunch or heading somewhere straight from the gym. Athleisure is a trend we're huge fans of and luckily, it's a style that's becoming totally acceptable for any day of the week and can be adjusted for any season and occasion. For a casual cool look this weekend, here's a roundup of ladies doing athleisure really, really well.

A utility jacket gives any athleisure look an even more "model off duty" approach, so consider them a go-to. LOLA OJ

One of the very best things about this style is, there is no need to style your hair. Borrow a baseball cap from the boys, top a hoodie jacket with leggings to match, and you're out the door. LILIAN ESORO

Grab your side stripe leggings and favourite crop top and pair them with moto jacket and sneakers for a slightly fancier take. ANGELA SIMMONS

To stand out in your athleisure outfit up for a short race suit style like this one TIWA SAVAGE is sporting.

Even the baggiest gym outfit can be spun into an appropriate outfit for errands after. Loosely tuck your tee into your pants to create a waist, and pull back a sleek bun. GRACE MOTSWANAZA

Grab your favourite slip-ons to give your running shoes a rest. These refine your outfit without trying too hard and the comfort level remains the same. LILIAN EFEGBAI

WAYS TO MAINTAIN YOUR SNEAKERS

Sneaker Balls

These mini deodorizers are strong enough to keep the smell out of your sneakers.

Spray Them Down

If you have any essential oils (lavender, tee tree, lemon, rosemary, peppermint) put them to use. Another fix-it-all you may already own is white vinegar. For desperate cases, soak your shoes in a sink of water and white vinegar to clean out the bacteria that is causing that stench.

Mr. Clean

While the Magic Eraser may not be able to banish bad smells, the sponge takes away any scuff marks or dirt stains.

Clean Immediately After Using

The sooner you buff abrasions out the easier it will be.

Let Them Breathe

Stacking up shoes might make your room look neater, but no amount of Febreze will help that situation out. Store sneakers and cleats in an open air environment to let them breathe.

Don't Overthink It, Throw Them in the Washing Machine

While most footwear brands advise against the washing machine for a throughout hand washing, sometime a spin in a sudsy whirlpool is all a shoe needs. Remove laces and insoles and add a neutral detergent, wash with bulky items like sheets or towels for a gentler option.

Pull Out the Tongues

This seems simple, but if you're putting mean miles on your shoes be sure to unlaces and pull open uppers as much as possible after use. This extra air flow will let your sneakers breathe and keep odors from being trapped.

Spray Them Down, Part II

If you don't have the time or the motivation to use any of the other advise, spray the with water under the shower then leave them in indirect sunlight to give them a fresh start.

Baking Soda

Sprinkle baking soda into your runners, basketball shoes, cleats, or trainers post workout to deodorize sweaty shoes and keep you smelling clean. If your shoes have any mesh layers be sure to shake powder loose before wearing again to avoid puffs of white clouds with each step.

Polka Dots

The polka dot may be a strong feature of dresses, suits, underwear all the way to bedsheets and numerous other products. But as patterns go, this print hasn't been around for that long. The eye-popping pattern gets its name from the polka music craze that engulfed Europe in the mid-1800s.

THEY'RE NOT CALLED POLKA DOTS EVERYWHERE.

In Germany, they're Thalertupfen, after the silver coin called a Thaler, used as currency throughout Europe until the 1800s. In Spanish, the term is lunares, or little moons (also the word for moles). In French, clothes are à pois, or marked with peas. The English term comes from the mass popularity of polka music in Europe and the U.S. in the 19th century.

IT'S UNCLEAR WHAT DOTS HAVE TO DO WITH POLKA.

The connection between the dance and the patterns on all that spotted merch is murky at best. Possibly the spotted pattern evoked the lively half-step of the dance. It's also unclear whether marketers intended all those polka hats, vests, and shoes as dancewear, or if calling something 'polka' just made a product seem more cheerful.

POLKA-DOT FASHION WASN'T POSSIBLE IN THE PRE-INDUSTRIAL ERA.

Dotted patterns didn't become popular until there were machines that could make them perfectly spaced. In Medieval Europe, irregular spots on fabrics would have reminded people of skin blemishes and of the blood-spotted handkerchiefs.

THERE'S A BATMAN VILLAIN WHO LOVED POLKA DOTS.

Mister Polka-Dot, a character who first appeared in a February 1962 comic, wore a skin-tight costume covered in colourful polka dots that would swell up to create deadly weapons at the push of a button. He used a getaway car called the Flying Polka Dot.

ARTISTS HAVE MADE CAREERS OUT OF POLKA DOTS.

Chuck Close an artist who creates photorealistic portraits out of pixelated dots discovered about 150 dots being the minimum number of dots to make a specific recognizable design.

THERE'S A NAME FOR THE FIVE-DOT PATTERN ON A DIE.

It's called a quincunx, or in French, quinconce. The term comes from a pattern on Roman coins.

POLKA DOTS MADE FRANK SINATRA FAMOUS.

His first hit, recorded with jazz musician Tommy Dorsey in 1940, was a song called "Polka Dots and Moonbeams."

AMVCA AWARDS

Asides being one of the biggest nights in the Nigerian entertainment industry, the AMVCA (African Magic Viewer's Choice Award) event is also one of the most anticipated fashion events. With lots of Oscar worthy evening dresses and loads of blings, sequins and accessories, the red carpet usually is anything but boring. This year, some of the fashion risks paid off. Others, well...there's always next year. From couture confections to prom-like numbers, we decided to play fashion police and pick out all the hits and misses on the red carpet. Read on. This should be fun.

THE BEST DRESSED (FEMALE)

OLO OSAKIODUWA

Now this is a statement dress! The texture, the layers, the sleeves- definitely a red-carpet winner. And what makes it even more interesting are the details of the dress but yet it remains so delightful to the eye.

BAMIKE OLAWUNMI

This outfit may not be a favourite of everyone, but we are definitely here for it. Think high fashion, think Lady Gaga! Get with the program. It's so full of character and personality and a one-off - yes, it is shocking but it is also very tongue-in-cheek and we love it.

TOKUNBOR IDOWU

The embellishment on this fabric is pretty and delicate, the colour: on-trend and stunning. The gold mesh fabric truly suits her and adds a lovely glow to her skin. The train? Red carpet appropriate.

DAKORE AKANDE

Dakore looks flawless in this gown; like an egg that metamorphosed into a beautiful butterfly blooming in such array of colours. A print as busy as this has the potential to overpower, but instead, it makes the wearer the center of attention.

NANCY ISIME

Nancy looks the height of glamour in this beautiful lace number. The belt/skirt as the only standout accessory is subtle, yet impactful - this is certainly one of the most alluring looks on the red carpet. Top marks for enthralling.

OJOY OKPE

This vintage-inspired outfit is all shades of elegant. The detailing is so pretty that it just makes her look classy and timeless. True epitome of 'less is more'.

BUKOLA OLADIPUPO

If you're going to go big, go big. Bukola has done just that. This is a sublime dress turns heads for all the right reasons. Without revealing anything, the eyes focus of the intricacy of the elaborate but lovely design.

WAJE

Waje looks sparkling, fabulous, absolutely stunning, sophisticated and totally on trend. She is currently killing it in the style stakes. The 'now-you-see-it-now-you-don't' effect of her dress is a real tease. Naughty but nice!

LALA AKINDOJU

Another lady who made our hit list is Lala in this classic power suit look. She oozes just the right amount of sexy and yet ready for business. White is a stand out colour that definitely goes well with her skin tone. This is a great look!

RITA DOMINIC

OMG! This woman just does no wrong. The older she gets the better she looks. She's the champagne that keeps on popping. This dress is definitely her - classy and style personified.

THE BEST DRESSED (MALE)

A brocade tux can just be as exciting as a velvet one. Ebuka looks impeccably sartorial in this tuxedo. He never fails to bring his A game to every occasion. To a good eye, this look is impeccable.

EBUKA OBI-UCHENDU

ICEBERG SLIM

Yoruba angel or what? Iceberg Slim is the perfect African gentleman in this newly styled white traditional Agbada that stops at the knee. The pants are also tapered according to the style dictates of today. Matched with a pair of suede brown loafers, and the Mohican hairstyle, Slim certainly stands out...for good reason.

The deep green velvet double-breasted suit with the black satin lapel is a winner and with matching velvet shoes, a real cincher. Though he opted for a tie instead of a bowtie, he still looks sharp.

BOVI UGBOMA

IK OGBONA

A blue suit may not be as exciting as the browns or greens, but IK certainly upped the ante with his bright orange waistcoat not to mention the colourful tie to match. What's not to love about his rich combo of colors especially when he remains unimpeachably elegant.

For a while now the go-to item to make a red-carpet statement is a perfectly cut velvet jacket. His white shirt and black bow tie are a perfect mix but what is most exciting about his attire is the green velvet strip on his pants. Desmond Eliot knows this and the results are spectacular.

DESMOND ELLIOT

DENOLA ADEPETUN

Denola puts the G in gentle man in this floral suit with the black silk lapel, black shirt and black tie which stood out on the red carpet to land him a spot on our best dressed list. It sits so well on him, it looks like he was born in it.

Sometimes, being OTT brings the biggest impact to an outfit. But who can carry off this multi-coloured floral suit better than Uti? He wears it well. A perfect fit to boot.

UTI NWACHUKWU

COBHAMS ASUQUO

With solid fashion choices like this, Cobhams stands out looking supper dapper in this velvet black tuxedo with a touch of gold. His white bowtie and black beret is a nice little twist.

Noble is amongst the rare breed of men who can pull off just about everything he wears and this time, it is a navy blue velvet blazer with a hat and blue round glasses to polish off his look.

NOBLE IGWE

IK OSAKIODUWA

Alpha male, alpha blue? Though some men without IK's swagger might not be able to carry off this paisley aqua blue tuxedo, IK looks like he just stepped out of a magazine.

MOST DRAMATIC

DAALA ORUWARI

METALLIC QUEEN

She might not have been the best dressed, but she certainly turned heads with her bald head. Not many women have that courage and for that, we duff our hat. Her silver sequined dress accentuates her svelte figure and compliments her tall frame. She walked through the red carpet like a gazelle and shone through the night in this hot number. Certainly one of the most memorable images of the evening.

DENRELE EDUN

COAT OF MANY COLOURS

We looked for the studied 6" boots, we could not see it. We looked for the long gown, still we did not see it. We then looked for the dramatic hair and guess what...it was no where to be found too! Then we wondered...who might this be? Alas, it was Derenle looking as handsome and as cute as ever...in normal clothes! Yes indeed. But he still had to put his stamp...the many colours...otherwise he would not be the Derenle we know!

DARE TO BARE!

Certainly the most controversial look of the night, one cannot but be amazed at her boldness! Jaws dropped. Tongues wagged. But a flesh coloured lining will have created the same buzz but maybe with less column inches in the media. It might have been better to let them 'wonder if' than simply baring it all...just saying. Still a very beautiful outfit and great figure too we might add.

THE MISSES

It is correct to say the AMVC awards night is truly one of the biggest events in the Entertainment industry. But the word 'entertainment' should not translate to 'amusement' by what they are wearing on the Red Carpet. Some looks amused more than they delighted...which is why they fall into the category of MISSES.

Her dress looks like it was made out of red plastic stretched beyond its limit. Much as it is nice to show what God blessed you with, there is a point at which you go 'naaa!..OTT...way too much meat exposed!

TINA MBA

When the bottom half of a dress is cut on the bias, any added extension at the bottom to make it longer, should also be cut on the bias to achieve the desired fullness! This attachment at the tailend of the dress looks like it was hurriedly 'nailed together' by a roadside carpenter.

TINA MBA

Satin, as we all know, can be most unforgiving...especially when the sketch on the paper and the execution of the garment get 'lost in transition'. These sleeves look like limp wings begging to be cut off.

SOMADINA ANYAMA

Adonis in the bedroom maybe, but on the red carpet without a shirt...he must have misread the memo!

RUBY AKUBUEZE

We get the 'ethereal' image she is trying to portray here but unfortunately, done with such poor execution. From the quality of fabric to the lining used, the whole ensemble is a very far picture from the 'fairy' she had hoped to look like. From the neck up though, she is cute.

OMOWUNMI AKINIFESI

She has the same hemline problem as her 'twin' in the red velvet dress. Perhaps they used the same carpenter? That aside, with her top half, she looks like she's being strangled...when draping is not done properly, it looks messy and simply put...untidy. Also when plunges go that deep, the mammary glands need to be 'well-cushioned' together like a baby's bottom cheeks with no 'space' inbetween.

Where does one begin here? Red satin seems to have been a hot favourite on the red carpet which is why it is so unpardonable when they are used in such a tardy manner. Is it the length of this dress, or the transparent top half with nothing to support her mammary glands, or the red flaps that play no defined role per se, not to mention the 'train' behind! Who do we sue here...the designer?

Through High Slit

BY KONYE CHELSEA NWABOGOR

Have you ever wondered how to make people stop and stare? Steal the spotlight, turn heads? Then darling, you've got to walk like the world is your runway – better yet, do it in a thigh high slit skirt or dress that channels your inner fashion bombshell. Right now the thigh-high slit is so popular amongst fashion lovers, and the celebrities who graced the red carpet at the recent AMVCA event definitely proved that. We could tell that most of them chose the thigh-high slit because it instantly gives a sexy appeal plus it is a great look for red carpet photos. From Yvonne Nwosu in a captivating damask number from her eponymous brand to Indidima Okojie in a sizzling Fablane by Derin dress, these ladies proved that this thigh high slit look is a must wear.

WHERE DOES SILENCE RESIDE?

From the moment dawn breaks and ones eyes open to the sound of whatever mechanism roused us from the depth of slumber, we are enmeshed in a cacophony of sounds that conspire to tell one is alive while robbing them of any solitude that life may offer. In Africa's megacities, car horns blare, bus conductors shout their intended destinations, hawkers and traders advertise their wares at the top of their voices and those who fight fight while those who just want to get by do so. The radio and TV transmit whatever catches their fancy for the moment, phones constantly on the move and everywhere you go someone seems to be saying something or the other.

In such an environment, noise it seems is everywhere and all around making the value of silence and the price paid for solitude a precious treasure to pursue. It was therefore with some level of anticipation that I walked into the sauna and steam rooms, where the only sound that penetrated was that of rising steam and very soft calming classical music. As my pores opened up and sweat poured down my body, I settled into the art of medication, blocking out the sounds around me. The rush of blood coursing through my veins became the primary sound at the center of my being as silence descended upon my soul.

Our God is the Lord of The Sabbath, a day He set aside as Holy where rest, meditation and reflection is commanded. A day whereupon completing the work of Creation, He stepped back and rested setting the example for mankind to follow. As I embraced the essence of silence and my mind settled into a state of rest, I felt a sense of weightlessness develop as my spirit was drawn upwards to a luminous bright light. Time seemed to take an elastic quality but the strangest discovery was where my thoughts settled, not on worry, work or money but on God, Love and Purpose. In silence it seems, the deepest and purest of our thoughts resides.

May the Lord help us find silence today.
