Peak Vista Community Health Centers Achieves 2020 Breakfast of Champions® Fundraising Goal; Brings Virtual Giving Campaign to a Close

Peak Vista Community Health Centers' (Peak Vista) annual fundraiser, Breakfast of Champions, celebrated its 16th year as a virtual month-long giving campaign. Despite the change from an in-person event, Peak Vista still achieved its fundraising goal. These funds support Peak Vista's ability to provide exceptional health care to people facing access barriers.

More than 120 individuals, companies and nonprofits donated to Peak Vista during the giving campaign. Pam McManus, president and CEO of Peak Vista, commented on the success of the 2020 Breakfast of Champions, "Peak Vista has a very special and unique mission, especially during this time, and because of our donors, our light continues to shine brightly in the communities we serve." Peak Vista would like to give special recognition to its top sponsors: El Pomar Foundation, Vectra Bank, Covington Homes, GE Johnson and KeyBank.

Breakfast of Champions in years previous has been a premier in-person event featuring different Olympic athletes as keynote speakers. For the safety of its staff and community, Peak Vista made the transition to a month-long, virtual giving campaign. On its social media pages, Peak Vista paid homage to its legacy with messages from past keynote speakers like Olympic champions Apolo Ohno, Amy Van Dyken and Gary Hall Jr., stories from patients and staff and spotlights on its key sponsors.

McManus says it best: "We've truly seen our community's generous heart through all of this. Thank you."
