Peak Vista Appoints Vice President of Development

Colorado Springs, Colo. – Peak Vista Community Health Centers (Peak Vista) welcomes Beth Ann Taylor as vice president of development. Taylor brings in-depth knowledge of fund development and relationship management to further support Peak Vista’s mission to provide exceptional health care to people facing access barriers through clinical programs and education.

Taylor brings more than 20 years of Business Development experience with her, 10 years which were in the health care industry working for Pharmaceutical organizations Takeda/ Abbott Laboratories and Pfizer. Moreover, Taylor served on the original team for Governor Hickenlooper’s Economic Strategic Plan during her tenure with the Office of Economic Development and International Trade (OEDIT), and was the western Colorado business development representative for 22 counties in Colorado.

Taylor holds a bachelor of arts in Communication and conflict management from Regis University in Denver, Colorado. Taylor volunteers with Junior Achievement and belongs to Southern Colorado Women’s Chamber of Commerce.

A native of Colorado, Taylor enjoys spending her free time with husband, Bruce Panter, five children and two grandchildren. Her goal in life is to help people connect with one another.
