Welcome

The Trevor Project has stayed resolute in our mission to end suicide among LGBTQ+ young people – and this year was no different. LGBTQ+ young people continued to reach out to us in their moments of need, and our commitment to being there for them has never wavered.

Our counselors supported more than 390,000 calls, texts, and online chats from LGBTQ+ youth. Our public awareness, education, and training efforts provided millions of adults and allies with tangible ways to support the LGBTQ+ young people in their lives.

The Trevor Project’s research team continued to set the standard in the field – through work that advances understanding and elevates the experiences of LGBTQ+ young people – contributing to national discourse on LGBTQ+ youth mental health and suicide prevention across both mainstream and academic audiences. And in another year defined by historic waves of anti-LGBTQ+ legislation, our advocacy team worked tirelessly to push back against harmful policies and fight for protections for LGBTQ+ young people in communities everywhere.

This year, the news of the abrupt cancellation of the 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline’s specialized services for LGBTQ+ youth both shocked and saddened our community. This decision from the federal government eliminated approximately $50 million in annual federal funding across the broader 988 LGBTQ+ specialized services network, including an estimated $25 million that The Trevor Project relied on each year. It directly impacted our ability to reach

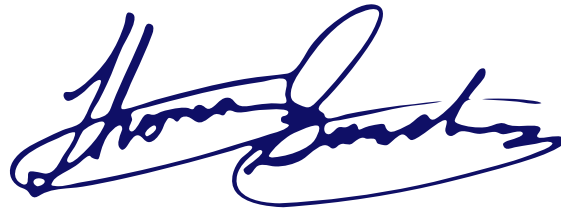

LGBTQ+ young people in the moments when they need us most. Research consistently shows that LGBTQ+ young people face higher risk for suicide due to stigma, discrimination, and lack of access to care – which is why this work has long had strong, bipartisan support in Washington, D.C. and communities across the country.

But this extraordinary challenge created an even more extraordinary response: supporters, allies, peers, and partners showed up like never before. Thousands and thousands of individuals reached out, signed our petition to protect these life-saving services, shared our news on social media, and donated to support our emergency fundraising campaign launched in response to this news. From longtime partners, to first-time supporters, we were amazed to see such support for The Trevor Project in a serious time of need.

As we reflect on the year, we are endlessly grateful to The Trevor Project’s volunteers, donors, partners, Board members, and supporters who continue to uplift our work and mission, no matter what. Thank you for your commitment to LGBTQ+ young people. And for being part of this movement to save young lives.

Crisis Intervention: The 988 Lifeline’s LGBTQ+ Youth Services Shutdown

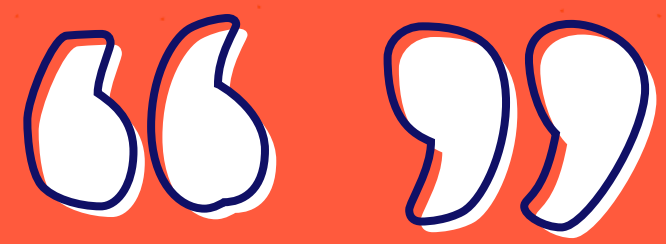

The 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline is the national three-digit dial code that connects people across the U.S. with free and confidential support for mental or behavioral health emergencies.

Since launching in 2022, The 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline operated specialized services for groups at highest risk for suicide in the U.S., including veterans and LGBTQ+ youth.

The Trevor Project played a major role in managing the federal lifeline’s operations for LGBTQ+ youth specialized services, supporting approximately half of the more than 1.5 million LGBTQ+ young people who contacted 988’s LGBTQ+ youth lifeline in crisis.

Devastatingly, and with limited notice, the federal government shut down the 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline’s LGBTQ+ youth specialized services, effective July 17, 2025. While the general 988 Lifeline remains in operation, LGBTQ+ youth can no longer reach out to the three-digit federal hotline to be connected with a counselor who is trained to support their unique needs.

It’s hard to find the words today. Our country’s federal government — including the very agency in charge of protecting our mental health — cut a literal lifeline that has provided 1.5 million LGBTQ+ youth with suicide prevention services. It is unfathomable.

The program was created with overwhelming bipartisan support because, despite our political differences, we should all agree that every young person’s life is worth saving. I am heartbroken that this administration has decided to say, loudly and clearly, that they believe some young people’s lives are not worth saving.

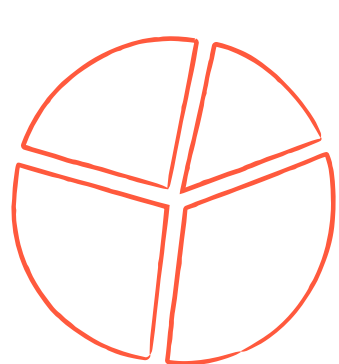

I want every LGBTQ+ young person to know that you are worthy, valued, and loved exactly as you are. No matter what the federal government says or does, you have millions of people — all across the country — in your corner, and we are here to support you, always.

The Trevor Project CEO Jaymes Black’s response to the shutdown of The 988 Suicide & Lifeline’s LGBTQ+ youth specialized services on July 17, 2025

Preventing Suicide

Our Suicide Prevention teams work to improve mental health and reduce suicidality among LGBTQ+ youth by creating welcoming and supportive environments through:

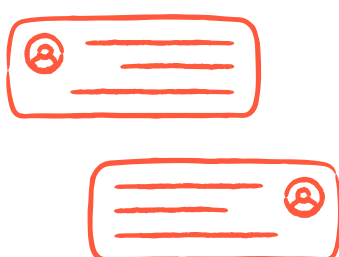

Research

Develop and disseminate actionable insights to grow support for LGBTQ+ youth and improve their mental health

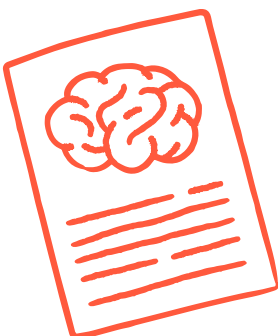

Advocacy & Government Affairs

Increase and defend legal protections and access to resources

TrevorSpace

Facilitate safe and positive peer-to-peer connection and community

Education & Public Awareness

Grow public awareness to create safer institutions and communities

All of these strategies are driven by The Trevor Project’s rigorous, ongoing research illuminating which tactics and activities have the greatest impact on increasing protective factors and decreasing suicidal risk.

Preventing Suicide

Research

In September 2024, The Trevor Project published a first-of-its-kind study on the mental health impacts of anti-transgender state laws in the peer-reviewed journal Nature Human Behaviour, a highly coveted academic journal with a rigorous peer review process.

The study found that transgender and nonbinary youth living in states where anti-transgender state laws were enacted reported up to a 72% increase in past-year suicide attempts, compared to those living in states without such laws.

While we have long known anti-transgender policies are associated with negative mental health outcomes among this group of youth, this is the first time any study has shown evidence of a causal relationship between a state’s anti-transgender laws and higher suicide attempt rates for transgender and nonbinary youth.

The study collected and analyzed data from more than 61,000 transgender and nonbinary youth in the U.S. across a five-year time period (from 2018 - 2022) and remains critical for showing the damaging impact that anti-transgender laws and policies have on young people’s mental health and well-being.

Preventing Suicide

Research

The Trevor Project also released our second “50 State Report” on the mental health of LGBTQ+ young people. This in-depth report offered a state-by-state snapshot of suicide risk factors and protective factors for more than 18,000 LGBTQ+ youth living in all 50 states, Washington, D.C., and Puerto Rico.

In total this fiscal year, The Trevor Project published 11 research briefs, four in-depth research reports (both national and international), and four peer-reviewed manuscripts focused on the mental health of LGBTQ+ young people.

Our research continues to reflect the diversity of LGBTQ+ young people and their unique lived experiences:

- Experiences and Mental Health Outcomes among Intersex LGBTQ+ Young People
- The Mental Health and Experiences of LGBTQ+ Young People in the Rural U.S.
- How to Best Support Transgender and Nonbinary Young People

Preventing Suicide

Advocacy

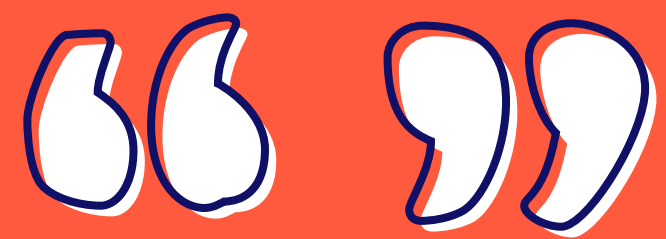

The Trevor Project vigilantly promotes laws and policies that support the mental health and well-being of LGBTQ+ young people at the local, state, and national levels while advocating against anti-LGBTQ+ policies. This year, we:

- Defeated 85% of tracked anti-LGBTQ+ bills, many of which targeted transgender and nonbinary youth
- Secured more than 53,000 signatures on our petition to protect the 988 Suicide & Crisis Lifeline’s LGBTQ+ youth specialized services
- Received support from more than 100 members of the United States Congress, who called to protect funding for the 988 Lifeline’s LGBTQ+ youth specialized services
- Partnered with the state of California to train general 988 Lifeline counselors in LGBTQ+ cultural competency, helping to close the care gap created by the federal government’s decision

Advocacy in Action

The Trevor Project’s advocacy team is talented and deeply passionate about supporting the mental health and well-being of LGBTQ+ youth in every community. This year, we have been working overtime to push back against harmful policies, and promote protective ones at federal, state, and local levels.

Every year, we work alongside lawmakers, allies, and advocates who support our efforts to end suicide among LGBTQ+ young people. Our work is not political or partisan; it is about saving young people’s lives.

Our team is constantly on the move, providing our research-backed expertise and insight to help lawmakers and community leaders support LGBTQ+ youth in all corners of the country.

We remain fiercely committed to using the tools of advocacy and government affairs to help create a world where all LGBTQ+ young people feel safe, supported, and seen exactly as they are.

Financials: Expenses

Amid a challenging economic environment and an increased need for The Trevor Project’s services, the organization made significant shifts to transform its operations. The organization continued to focus on cost-saving measures, including limiting expenses on external service providers, consultants, software, and certain non-essential costs. The organization also transformed its crisis intervention work, scaling back costs while simultaneously increasing the number of individual staff members supporting LGBTQ+ youth who reached out to our crisis lines.

Unfortunately, in June 2025 – during the middle of Pride Month – the organization received notice from the federal government that the 988 Lifeline’s LGBTQ+ Youth Specialized Services program would be abruptly shut down, eliminating a vital service for LGBTQ+ youth, and stripping The Trevor Project of an estimated $25 million received in federal funds each year.

Due to both the challenging financial environment, and the administration’s elimination of the federal lifeline for LGBTQ+ youth, The Trevor Project had to conduct two reductions-in-force during FY25, resulting in approximately half of its staff departing the organization.

Foundations & Government Support

Foundations and government agencies have, historically, been vital for supporting our mission, and our ability to reach LGBTQ+ young people. Even through the uncertainty of this fiscal year, including a loss of federal funds, the role these institutions played in supporting youth in crisis was critical.

Together, we have bolstered The Trevor Project’s life-saving programs and services, while helping our partners fulfill their own goals and missions.
