

I envisioned a pristine cluster of strangely-named neutral portals. I threw twenty-two fields, none of them nested, and three words emerged. They made me somewhat cross; their correct order was anyone's guess.