Hampta Pass Trek with Chandratal (4N/5D)

Introduction

OVERVIEW

The mesmerizing Hampta Pass Trek derives its name from the quaint Hampta Village. Nestled at an altitude of 14,107 feet in the Himalayan Pin Panjal range, this passage connects Lahaul and Kullu, offering a delightful blend of two different cultures. The trail, once a trade route, is now frequented by shepherds seeking grasslands in the deserted Lahaul and Spiti valleys during the summers. Embarking on this journey, trekkers are treated to the breathtaking scenery of snow-capped Himalayan peaks, lush valleys, and the enchanting turquoise waters of Chandratal Lake. At an altitude of 4,270 meters, Hampta Pass rewards adventurers with awe-inspiring mountain vistas. The trek culminates at the stunning Chandratal Lake, shimmering like a gem at 4,300 meters above sea level, surrounded by majestic snow-capped peaks. As you traverse through quaint villages, immerse yourself in the rich local culture and traditions. With an easy to moderate difficulty level, this trek welcomes both beginners and experienced trekkers. Camping under the starlit Himalayan skies adds to the thrill of the adventure. The Hampta Pass and Chandratal Trek is an absolute must-do for those seeking breathtaking landscapes, cultural experiences, and an unforgettable journey through the heart of Himachal Pradesh's picturesque landscapes.
