KNIGHT NOTES

campaign.

- UCF also clinched the No. 2 seed in The American Championship - its highest seed since the 2011 squad entered the tournament as the No. 2 seed and went on to win the championship to clinch UCF's most recent NCAA Tournament bid.

KUDOS FOR KAY KAY

- On Feb. 25, Kay Kay Wright became the first Knight to earn multiple American Athletic Conference Player of the Week honors.
- The Orlando native topped that on Feb. 26 by becoming the first Knight to be named the USBWA National Player of the Week.
- The junior point guard averaged 22.5 points per game while shooting 51.3 percent from the field and became the 19th Knight in UCF history to score her 1,000th career point. She also led the Knights with 6.5 rebounds per game and 2.5 assists per contest.
- Her 24 points on 55 percent shooting against the Owls was the fourth time this season that she has registered a 20-point game while shooting over 50 percent from the field.
- Earlier this season, Wright became just the third Knight (Zykira Lewis, Nov. 17, 2014; Aliyah Gregory, Feb. 20, 2017) to earn the league honor since the program became a member of The American in 2013-14.

VOTE GETTERS

- After appearing in the receiving votes section of the USA Today/WBCA Preseason Top 25 poll on Nov. 1, UCF has received votes in 18 consecutive ranking releases.
- For a program-best six straight weeks, UCF was receiving votes in both the AP Top 25 and the USA Today/WBCA Top 25. The Knights have again received votes in both polls the last two weeks.
- The Knights earned a program-best 31 votes in the Jan. 22 coaches poll and collected 20 points in the AP Top 25 on Jan. 21.
- Based on the information available to the UCF Athletics Communications office, UCF received a vote in the national coaches poll for the first time in program history on Feb. 27, 2018 and earned the program's first AP vote on Jan. 7, 2019.
- UCF previously received a vote in three consecutive coaches polls (Feb. 27, March 6, March 12) at the end of the 2017-18 campaign.

JUST WRIGHT

- Kay Kay Wright continues to leave her mark at UCF, etching her name all over the record books.
- Wright currently sits in fourth on the all-time list with 375 assists.
- Her 199 career steals moved her into seventh on the career top 10, jumping Gylaunda Henderson (1993-94).
- She is just the fourth Knight to amass at least 300 assists and 150 steals in their UCF careers (Chariya Davis, Aisha Patrick, Marcie Swilley).
- The point guard has stepped up her scoring game this season as well, dropping a career-best performance at Central Michigan with 31 points.
- The Orlando native made her first nine field goal attempts and finished the game 11-for-15 from the floor, including 3-for-3 from three. She was also a perfect 6-for-6 from the free throw line, dished out three assists and collected a pair of steals.
- The junior has nearly doubled her scoring average in each of the last two seasons. After averaging just 4.8 points per game as a freshman, she averaged 10.8 points per game last year as a sophomore.
- She has scored in double figures in 26 contests this season and averages 18.3 PPG.
- Her 532 points in 2018-19 moved her into the single season Top 10 in the category.
- Wright has also reached the 20-point mark 14 times this season, the most in a single season of her career.

700 800 CLUB

- Another hometown product, Nyala Shuler, used a seven-rebound outing against Temple to become just the fifth Knight with at least 800 career rebounds and currently has 816 boards.
- Shuler entered the 2018-19 campaign with 620 rebounds and has now surpassed the 700- and 800-board marks this season.
- The redshirt senior is the only Knight in program history with 800 rebounds and 80 blocks.
- After opening the season with double-digit rebounding performances in three of first four games and is the only Knight with a pair of double-doubles this

- The Orlando native has registered at least one block in four of the last seven outings, tying teammate Fifi Ndour for seventh all-time at UCF with 81.
- She earned her bachelor's degree in health sciences in August 2017 and is currently pursuing a master's degree in interdisciplinary studies with concentrations in microbiology and sociology. She plans to go on to medical school and become a pediatrician.

MAKING HISTORY, AGAIN

- A 66-54 win over SMU on Feb. 9 gave UCF its third consecutive 20-win season.
- In each of the Knights' last three seasons, the team has registered at least 20 wins, marking the first time in the program's Division I history with three straight 20-win campaigns.
- Katie Abrahamson-Henderson is the first UCF head coach since Joe Sanchez (1981-85) to lead her squad to three straight 20-win seasons.
- UCF competed as a member of AIAW and NCAA Division II in Sanchez' first three campaigns.

RECORD KNIGHT

- Kay Kay Wright tallied a record-setting performance at the foul line in UCF's win over Pacific on Dec. 17.
- The junior set the UCF single game record, sinking 16 shots from the line.
- Wright also tied the American Athletic Conference record in the category, matching SMU's McKenzie Adams' record of 16 made free throws.
- The Orlando native also made the seventh-most in a single NCAA Division I game this season.

GETTING DEFENSIVE

- UCF has held 23 of its 29 opponents to 60 points or fewer this season.
- The Knights held opponents to 56.4 points per game last year, which ranked 17th nationally.
- This year, UCF is limiting its opponents to 55.2 points per game, which ranks 15th in the country.
- Ten times this season, the Black and Gold have held their opponent under 50 and the Knights limited Chattanooga to a season-low 37 points.
- UCF's 10.3 steals per game mark the third consecutive year averaging double-figure steals per contest.
- The Knights have forced 19 opponents into 20+ turnovers and are ranked 30th in the country in turnovers forced (20.10). UCF is averaging 20.1 points per game off of turnovers.

MILESTONES FOR COACH "ABE"

- A 55-43 win over SMU marked the 300th career victory for Katie Abrahamson-Henderson. Assistant coach Tahnee Balerio has been part of her 100th, 200th and now 300th victory.
- With the Dec. 9 win at Delaware, Coach "ABE" became the fourth UCF head coach with 50 Division I victories and the fifth coach with 50 wins overall with the Knights.
- She is the second-fastest to 50 wins behind Joe Sanchez (1981-85).
- Coach "ABE" is the fastest to 50 Division I wins, as three of UCF's campaigns under Sanchez took place when UCF was a Division II program.

CHALLENGING CAMPAIGN

- The Knights faced nine non-conference opponents who advanced to the NCAA or WNIT tournaments a year ago. Five of those squads finished last season with a top-100 RPI, and none of them were below 175.
- UCF faced UConn, South Florida, Cincinnati and Houston after each team advanced to the NCAA Tournament or WNIT last year.
- UCF has an 12-4 record against those squads this season.
- The Knights have been rewarded for their tough slate, ranking among the top 25 in the NCAA RPI for 12 straight weeks. UCF has been as high as No. 14 and is currently No. 15.

UCF guard Kay Kay Wright pushes to be leader on, off court

By Brian Murphy
Orlando Sentinel Correspondent

FEBRUARY 16, 2019, 8:15 PM

UCF guard Kay Kay Wright's love for basketball is clear and profound.

Just go looking for the junior point guard on Twitter. You won't see her name at the top of her profile, but you will find 10 letters, each separated by a single space and in all caps:

B A S K E T B A L L.

"Basketball is everything to me," she says.

Wright has been everything for the UCF women's basketball team this season. Her do-it-all role wasn't thrust upon her; she knew she had to take the initiative and step up. That's why her summer vacation was no day at the beach. She spent it in the gym, grinding for at least two to three hours per day, every day.

"I put up, minimum, 500 shots a day," said Wright, an Orlando Jones High alum. "... I never had a day off. I was in the weight room, running, focusing on being in shape because I have to play a lot of minutes. I was always doing something to get better."

That work has paid off as Wright has become one of the best players in the American Athletic Conference and is pacing the Knights in points, assists, steals, field-goal percentage and minutes.

She will face a big test Sunday, leading the Knights (20-4, 9-2 AAC) against No. 4 UConn (22-2, 10-0 AAC) at 2 p.m. at CFE Arena.

Wright likes to model her game after guards such as the WNBA's Kristi Toliver and the NBA's Kyrie Irving. She describes herself a pretty serious player but also one that is "pretty flashy." So given her versatile and outstanding skill set, what part of Wright's game does she think is her strongest?

"I would think my leadership."

For some athletes, that's a throwaway answer. For Wright, it's true to her core. After all, basketball wasn't the foremost reason the Jones star decided to stay close to home and commit to UCF over the likes of Florida, Miami and Auburn. She knew the Knights would best provide her with the opportunity to be something more meaningful and longer lasting than a fantastic player: an equally fantastic leader.

That desire was first molded by Kay Kay's father, Willie, who was her first coach. She fell in love with basketball as a small child, dribbling off to the side while Willie would put her two older brothers through practices. Once she was old enough to play, around the age of 6 or 7, Kay Kay's toughness on the court was fortified quickly.

"I started playing with all guys; I was the only girl, and I wasn't really good at it, not at all," she said. "I just always had a work ethic. I had a goal in mind, and I knew I had to work to get better at it.

"I definitely think it helped me mature and just learn the game pretty quick."

That maturation was evident at Jones as she became the Fightin' Tigers' unquestioned floor general and made herself into a top-75 player in the nation. She committed to UCF in November 2015, but it wasn't the basketball program that wowed her most. It was a meeting with C. Keith Harrison.

Whereas Wright tends to speak in an understated tone, Harrison — the chief academic officer of UCF's DeVos Sport Business Management Program — has a voice that commands the room. The passion and energy he speaks with pours out of him, which is why he carries a towel on his shoulder, just like legendary Georgetown basketball coach John Thompson.

When Harrison met with Wright and her parents during a recruiting visit, the university leader and athlete connected instantly.

"We were all in my office, and in my office they could see the synergy of education, hip-hop, sports, entertainment, all of this. So Kay Kay and I just bonded," Harrison recalled.

A couple of weeks later, Wright returned as a guest of Harrison's and sat in the back during one of his lectures inside the Business Administration II building, room 210. Wright now has a class in that room, taught by Harrison, and says getting to be a part of the sports business-management program he founded was the No. 1 reason why she picked UCF.

"I have a really good relationship with Doc Harrison," she said. "He even came to the game the day that I signed [with UCF], so we have a really great relationship.

"I always talk about building with him. He built his program up from only 10 students to now there's a waiting list every single semester. Just having that connection with him and just always being a visionary, I think that's something I always wanted to do."

Currently, Wright is helping to build the Knights into a perennial winner. UCF won just seven games the season before she arrived prior to the 2016-17 season. The Knights then won a total of 43 games in her first two years and are 20-4 this season, putting them in position to make the program's first NCAA Tournament appearance since 2011.

Still, Wright is always coaching, always mentoring. Katie Abrahamson-Henderson, who was named the Knights' coach prior to Wright's freshman campaign, says her star guard "has kind of turned into a mini-me."

Freshman guard Diamond Battles says that Kay Kay became her "big sister" while they played together on the same AAU team.

In fact, as Wright solidified her decision to commit to UCF, she made Battles promise she would join her once she graduated from Winter Haven High.

In 2017, Battles followed through on that promise.

"I really looked up to her because she's a point guard and the way she led on the floor, playing AAU," Battles said of Wright. "The way she handled certain situations and just looking at her grow from AAU to playing college ball, that's always been one of my key factors of loving how she is as a person and as a basketball player. That really hit the mark with me."

Said Wright: "Once I got the chance to be on the same program as [Battles], she's been my little sister ever since. I always talk to her and gave her some of my moves. She took a spin move from me in high school.

"Just being that big sister that she can look up to, it's pretty amazing to me to be able to be that for her."

That's the type of person Kay Kay — only her mother, when she's upset with her daughter, calls her Korneila — strives to be. She wants to have an impact with her words as much as her play.

The words and actions of her family members, professors and coaches planted that mindset within her, and whether she is on the court or off, Wright wants to pass it on to others.

"I think it's a way to give back," Wright said when asked why she aspires to be a coach one day. "My coaches gave back to me through coaching and instilling hard work in me, so I just want to be that person to give back and to inspire others."
