All-Time NCAA Tournament Record: 10-11 (.476)

Series Record: First Meeting

UCLA All-Time Record As #3 Seed: 4-2 (1999 and 2011)

STORY LINES

• No. 11/12 UCLA (25-7, 14-4 Pac-12) earned a No. 3 seed and heads to Columbus, Ohio to face 14th-seeded Stetson (24-8, 14-4 Atlantic Sun) in the first round of the 2013 NCAA Tournament. The game will take place on Saturday, March 23 at 10:30 a.m. PT/1:30 p.m. ET in St. John Arena and will be televised live on ESPN2.

• While UCLA is 25-7 overall and went 14-4 (third place) in the Pac-12, all four conference losses and six of the seven defeats this season were to Top 7 teams (Top 2 seeds) in the country. UCLA lost to 4th-ranked Stanford (#1 seed) on the road and on a neutral court (Pac-12 Tournament title game), at home to 5th-ranked Notre Dame (#1), at 6th-ranked Stanford (#1), at home to 6th-ranked California (#2) and at 7th-ranked California (#2). The Bruins defeated 5th-ranked California (#2) in the Pac-12 Tournament semifinals and posted victories at 11th-ranked Oklahoma (#6), vs. 12th-ranked Texas (neutral) and at home over 22nd-ranked Colorado (#5). The Bruins were 4-6 vs. ranked teams this season. It is the most ranked teams UCLA has faced in one season since 2006-07. That year, the Bruins faced 10 Top 25 teams (1-9 vs. ranked teams). Additionally, UCLA is 6-6 against the 2013 NCAA Tournament field. The Bruins also posted wins at home over No. 9 seed Saint Joseph's and No. 9 seed Princeton and at No. 10 St. John's in overtime. UCLA also went 6-0 vs. the 2013 WNIT field.

• After a second-place finish at the Pac-12 Tournament with a 51-49 loss to No. 4 Stanford in the championship game, a 70-58 win over No. 5 California in the semis and a 54-43 quarterfinal win over Utah last week, the UCLA Bruins moved up three spots to No. 11 in the AP Top 25 Poll and one spot to No. 12 in the USA Today Coaches Poll. UCLA improved two spots to No. 11 in the NCAA Women's Basketball RPI (NCAA.com). UCLA has been ranked at least one week in both polls in each of the past four seasons.

BRUINS IN STATISTICAL RANKINGS

UCLA is 3rd in the Pac-12 in scoring (67.4 ppg) and is 4th in the Pac-12 and 23rd in the country in rebounding margin (+7.1). The Bruins lead the Pac-12 and rank 17th in the nation in assists (16.3) and also lead the league in steals (10.4). UCLA is also 2nd in the Pac-12 in field goal percentage (.423) and 3rd in offensive rebounds (15.6) and three-point field goal percentage (.313).

ALL-PAC-12 HONORS

Seniors Markel Walker and Alyssia Brewer and junior Atonye Nyingifa were all named All-Pac-12 by both the Pac-12 coaches and media. Additionally, freshmen Kari Korver and Nirra Fields were both chosen as honorable mention selections to the All-Freshmen Team by the league's head coaches. Markel Walker was also named to the five-member Pac-12 All-Defensive Team by both the media and the coaches.

SUCCESSFUL SENIORS

The senior class of Markel Walker, Jasmine Dixon and Mariah Williams as well as redshirt junior Atonye Nyingifa (who should be a senior this year), has won the second-most games in a four-year period in UCLA history. Bolstered by Tennessee transfer, senior Alyssia Brewer, the class is currently 92-37 (.662), which is second behind the 1981 senior class that went 98-32 (.754). This year's group might have already surpassed the Bruin class that played from 1977-78 to 1980-81, had it not been for last year's 14-16 mark. In that season, Walker missed the first seven games with a thumb injury, Nyingifa missed the last 21 games with a knee injury, Brewer was on the bench due to NCAA transfer rules and Dixon missed the entire season with a ruptured Achilles tendon. The 1980-81 senior group started in 1977-78 as Ann Meyers (Drysdale) led the Bruins to a national championship (AIAW) with a 27-3 record. The Bruins, led by Anita Ortega, were 24-10 in 1978-79 and 18-12 in 1979-80. Then with senior Denise Curry and a couple of freshmen phenoms in Necie Thompson and Jackie Joyner, UCLA won a school record 29 games with seven defeats in 1980-81. UCLA is 25-7 this season after last year's 14-16 mark. UCLA also went 28-5 in 2010-11 and 25-9 in 2009-10, to win 25 or more games in three of the last four years, a feat unmatched in Bruin history.

MISSING IN ACTION

Only three of the 13 Bruins have played in all 32 games this season and nobody has started in more than 27 contests, forcing Head Coach Cori Close to go with 11 different starting lineups. Rhema Gardner had knee surgery before the season began and will redshirt the season. Thea Lemberger missed the Notre Dame (Nov. 23) and Princeton (Nov. 25) games due to a knee sprain and the Arizona game (Mar. 3) and the Pac-12 Tournament (Mar. 8-10) with a sprained left elbow. She returned to practice this week and is listed as day-to-day. Lauren Holiday (28 games) and Corinne Costa (26 games) have both missed contests with head injuries and have been shut down for the season and will seek medical hardships. Kacy Swain missed both of the games in New York (Dec. 15-16) with a back injury. Nirra Fields missed the upset win at Oklahoma (Nov. 14) due to personal reasons. Jasmine Dixon missed two games (Princeton on Nov. 25 and Loyola Marymount on Dec. 2) with a left knee sprain. She has played in all other contests, but is only playing 20.6 minutes per game as she is still suffering from pain in her knee and has occasional swelling. Alyssia Brewer missed most (only played three minutes) of the Pepperdine game (Dec. 28) and missed the entire Saint Joseph's game (Dec. 31) with a right ankle sprain. Markel Walker missed the Arizona game (Jan. 25) with back spasms, but returned for the Arizona State game (Jan. 27). The Bruins have used 193 different combinations of players on the court.

WEEKLY AVAILABILITY

The best time for interviews with UCLA Head Women's Basketball Coach, Cori Close, or members of the Bruins' squad, is after practices. This year, the women's basketball team will be practicing in Pauley Pavilion from 3-6 p.m. For access to weekly practices or to schedule an extended interview date and time with a member of the UCLA women's basketball team, please contact Ryan Finney at the numbers above. Practices are closed to the public. Coach Close would like a 24-hour advance notice of media wishing to attend practice.

CREDENTIALS

Admission to Pauley Pavilion's press seating and media room is by credential only. All credential requests should be made by emailing the women's basketball contact, UCLA Associate SID, Ryan Finney at least two days in advance of the game. If you can email one week prior to the date of the game, parking and credentials can be mailed. Requests can be made by contacting Ryan Finney at any of the means listed above. Members of the media covering UCLA should request credentials for road games through Finney via email or phone. Photographers should follow the same instructions as media members.

CREDENTIAL PICKUP

Credentials are available during the week at the Sports Information Office. Credentials not claimed prior to game day will be available at Pauley Pavilion's "Will Call" window (Northwest corner of the arena). The media will call window and entrance opens one hour prior to tip-off.

MEDIA SEATING

A press pass enables entrance at Pauley Pavilion's Northwest media gate (across from the intramural field). Press seating is available on the floor, with overflow seating available at center court in the upper level of the arena's south side (opposite team benches). Photographer credentials are available on a limited basis. Pauley Pavilion's media workroom is located in the Northeast corner of the building on the event level.

POSTGAME PROCEDURE

Head Coach Cori Close and selected players will be available to the media in New Pauley Pavilion's media room following a 10-minute cooling off period after each game. UCLA's locker room is closed to the media, as is all team spaces (weight room, training room, etc.). To access the media room during or after the game if seated in the overflow area, follow the stairwell down to the court and proceed to the northeast corner (elevator access available on the southeast corner of the building). The visiting team's head coach will be available following a 10-minute cooling off period outside the visiting locker room (northwest corner, event level).

WELCOME TO WESTWOOD

UCLA's program welcomed four newcomers for the 2012-13 season – three freshmen and one redshirt senior forward, Alyssia Brewer, who sat out the 2011-12 season after transferring from Tennessee. ESPN.com has ranked UCLA's incoming class as the nation's No. 12 recruiting class (featuring true freshmen Kari Korver, Lauren Holiday and Nirra Fields).

RETURNING HOME

UCLA played 13 home games on campus in 2011-12, all in the John R. Wooden Center, going 9-4 at its home-away-from-home. The Bruins also defeated Westmont College this year, 73-43, in its only exhibition tune-up (Nov. 3). The Bruins return home to New Pauley Pavilion for the 2012-13 season, where they will host 15 games this year.

NEW PAULEY PAVILION

The complete renovation of UCLA's historic arena, Pauley Pavilion, took 33 months and cost just under $136 million. New Pauley Pavilion seats 13,800 fans – 1,000 more than the "old" Pauley Pavilion. Other key features of the renovated facility include a custom-designed video board, additional LED hustle boards, major increases in restrooms and a wider variety of concession stands. Here are a few key features, at a glance:

- New Pauley Pavilion houses a 16-foot by 12-foot, LED, High Definition Daktronics Video board perched above center court with all four sides visible to fans.
- In addition, there are LED hustle boards in each of the corners that track player statistics, as well as an LED ribbon board encircling the top of the arena.
- New Pauley Pavilion now has 154% more restrooms through the building, including on the event level.
- The pavilion's North side hosts a grand lobby that highlights the theme "Champions Made Here" as well as the multi-purpose Pavilion Club for game-day hospitality.
- Additional dining options include California Pizza Kitchen, Subway, Full Court Press Panini, Jamba Juice, Pavilion Market, Joe Brewin Coffee Stand, the outdoor South Plaza and traditional fare.
- Not only does New Pauley Pavilion have a wider variety of concession stands, the arena now features a UCLA team store in the Northeast corner, operated by ASUCLA.
- New Pauley Pavilion includes nearly 100 monitors throughout the building, many of which are used to show the game telecast. Other monitors can be used as menu boards at numerous concession points.
- The renovation established 70,000 additional square feet of usable space than existed in the building's previous configuration. Additions include two state-of-the-art locker rooms with cherry wood lockers and adjacent lounge areas, a 24-seat film room, weight room and sports medicine room.
- Teams that called Pauley Pavilion home prior to the renovation (m/w basketball, m/w volleyball, and gymnastics) will continue to compete there. In addition, the 2013 NCAA Women's Gymnastics Championships and NCAA Men's Volleyball Championships will take place in Pauley.

TOUGH SLEDDING

The Bruins have faced eight different teams in 2012-13 that made the NCAA Tournament a year ago and another seven squads that were selected for the NIT field. The non-conference slate was one of the toughest in school history and was rated No. 6 by Jeff Sagarin in the strength of schedule column on rpiratings.com. The Bruins opened the season with four straight 2012 NCAA Tournament teams, starting with a win over San Diego State in the season-opener. Then UCLA went to Norman, Okla., and knocked off the 11th-ranked Oklahoma Sooners, which lost in the second round of the NCAA Tournament last year to St. John's. The Bruins returned home and fell to No. 5 Notre Dame on Nov. 23. The Fighting Irish lost to Baylor in the 2012 NCAA Championship game. UCLA returned to its winning ways, hosting another NCAA Tournament team, Princeton (Nov. 25). After a non-conference victory over local foe, Loyola Marymount (Dec. 2), the Bruins traveled to Houston's Reliant Stadium with the men's team for a double-header against No. 12 Texas. After a 20-point upset win over the Longhorns, which also made the NCAA Tournament last year, the Bruins headed to New York to compete in their only regular-season tournament (St. John's Chartwells Holiday Classic). UCLA opened with a win over Saint Mary's (Dec. 15), which made the NIT in 2012. UCLA won the title game at St. John's on Dec. 16. The Red Storm lost in the NCAA Regional Semifinals last year. UCLA suffered a 77-72 setback to an NIT squad in Cal State Northridge (Dec. 20), but rebounded to post a blowout win at Pepperdine (Dec. 28) and concluded its nonconference slate with a home win over another NIT team in Saint Joseph's (Dec. 31).

PRESEASON PROJECTIONS

UCLA was picked to finish third in the Pac-12 Conference women's basketball standings in both preseason polls (coaches and media). The Bruins trailed nationally-ranked Stanford and California in both polls. In fact, both polls were identical, with USC being picked fourth and Oregon State coming in fifth. The only difference in the two polls is that Arizona State tied for fifth in the Coaches Poll, but was sixth in the Media Poll. Washington, Utah and Colorado were selected seventh, eighth and ninth, respectively. Rounding out the conference's preseason poll, in order, were Washington State, Oregon and Arizona. Stanford has won the Conference's regular-season crown in each of the last 12 years.

BRUINS ON TELEVISION

In addition to kicking off the Pac-12 women's basketball television slate when they hosted Notre Dame on Nov. 23, 2012 UCLA made a total of 15 television appearances during the 2012-13 regular season. That number increased to 18 television appearances with the three Pac-12 Tournament games and the Bruins will have its 19th game this weekend vs. Stetson on ESPN2. That number is up from just four televised games a year ago.

2013-14 UCLA EARLY SIGNING CLASS

UCLA head women's basketball coach Cori Close announced the signing of two highly-rated high school standouts - Savanna Trapp (Esko, Minn./Esko HS) and Dominique Williams (Phoenix, Ariz./St. Mary's HS) - to national letters of intent. The two newcomers complete the Bruins' early signing class and will enter UCLA in the fall of 2013 as freshmen and will become members of the 2013-14 women's basketball team.

"We had two major priorities for this class and we think we filled them perfectly," Coach Close said. "We needed a dominant presence in the post and a quarterback-type leader at point guard, and we think we got both of those in Savanna (Trapp) and Dominique (Williams). They will both be great representatives of this excellent institution. They are leaders at their schools on and off the court and embody great character. UCLA will be very fortunate to have them as ambassadors."

Trapp, a 6-9 center, averaged 20.1 points and 9.5 rebounds in the 2011-12 season, helping lead her Esko High School team out of Esko, Minn., to a third straight Section 7AA championship game. Trapp will be the tallest Bruin in UCLA women's basketball history (Sissy Pickett, 6-7, Coughatta, La., 2002-05). She set single-season school records for points (604) and shooting percentage (.66.0) last year and blocked 153 shots, shy of her single-season state record of 204 set during her sophomore season (2010-11). The Eskomos are 75-14 (.843) during her three years under Esko Head Coach Scott Antonutti. They have gone 10-0 in Polar League play in each of the last two seasons, winning conference titles both years. Trapp was named honorable mention All-Polar League in 2009-10, a second team All-League pick in 2010-11 and a first team All-League selection in 2011-12. She was also named to the second team Duluth News Tribune All-Area Team in 2010-11 and to the first team last year. An MGBCA Class AA All-Star Selection in 2011-12, Trapp also earned honorable mention All-State accolades last year.

"Savanna has unlimited potential," Close said. "She is still growing into her skill set, but her agility and her ability to catch the ball, combined with her abilities on defense can be a game changer for us. She will definitely fuel our fast break. Blocked shots do more for your up-tempo offense than anything else, and we're excited to see her do that. The only thing bigger than her 6-foot-9 frame, is her smile and personality. She is a hard worker and has an adventurous spirit, and I think it is that spirit and personality that is going to help us lead our team to a championship level."

Williams, a 5-9 point guard, averaged 11 points, 9.0 assists, 7.0 rebounds and 6.0 steals per game last year, leading the Knights to a 30-0 record. St. Mary's won a state and national championship in 2011-12 as she registered a 6-to-1 assist to turnover ratio. She has guided St. Mary's to the state championship game all three years, winning the last two, and has never lost a home game under Head Coach Curtis Ekmekci. She is rated the No. 21 point guard in the country and the No. 94 player overall by ESPN's HoopGurlz. The St. Mary's girls' basketball team won the elite Joe Smith Division of the Nike Tournament Championship, widely considered the unofficial national championship of girls' high school basketball.

"Dominique is a winner," Close said. "She has helped build a program from obscurity to winning a national championship last year. Our practices will be better because Dominique is in them. She inspires people around her to play at a higher level. Not only will she make a great impact on our program, but she will raise the level of her teammates because she is there." • New Pauley Pavilion houses a 16-foot by 12-foot, LED, High Definition Daktronics Video board perched above center court with all four sides visible to fans.

HEAD COACH CORI CLOSE

Cori Close, who has coached in 15 NCAA Basketball Tournaments, was named head women's basketball coach at UCLA on April 21, 2011. Coach Close is currently 39-23 (.629) overall in her second season at the helm of the Bruins' program.

This is the first head coaching assignment for Close, who has worked as associate head coach or assistant on teams that have advanced to the NCAA Tournament in 15 seasons, won at least 20 games in 15 of the previous 17 seasons and won or shared a total of 11 conference championships.

Close, who served on the Bruin coaching staff in 1994 and 1995, returns to Westwood after spending the last seven seasons as associate head coach at Florida State University. Considered one of the top offensive minds in the game, Close helped guide the Seminoles into a nationally-recognized program in her time. FSU ranked among the nation's top 30 teams in scoring, field goal percentage and three-point field goal percentage the last two seasons.

Florida State advanced to the NCAA Tournament in each of coach Close's seasons in Tallahassee and won at least 20 games in all but one. Point guard play and offensive efficiency were strong points under Close's direction. FSU shot at least .418 from the field in each of the last seven seasons and hit over 37% of its three-point attempts the last two seasons, including a school-record 212 made three-point shots in 2010.

In addition to her on-court tasks, Close was also instrumental in recruiting (she coached four first-team All-ACC Freshman team selections and five players selected in the WNBA draft while at FSU) while also working with the school's marketing department in their efforts to promote the program.

In 2010-11, Florida State posted a 24-8 record, finished third in the Atlantic Coast Conference with an 11-3 mark, was ranked No. 20 in the final ESPN/USA Today poll and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament after matching the program's best tournament seed ever at No. 3. The 2010 FSU squad captured a share of the ACC regular season championship, set a school record with 29 wins and advanced to the Elite 8 of the NCAA Tournament for the first time in school history. Jacinta Monroe was selected in the first round of the WNBA draft, No. 6 overall, the highest of any FSU player.

The 2009 Seminole squad also won a share of the conference regular season crown and earned the highest seed into the NCAA Tournament in school history, at the time, at No. 3. The 2008 FSU team earned its highest regular season ranking ever in the polls to that point in time, at No. 18. In 2007, Florida State advanced to the Sweet 16 for the first time in school history and earned its highest ranking to that point, at No. 19, in the season's final national poll. In Close's initial season in Tallahassee, FSU posted its first 20-win campaign in 14 seasons.

Close joined the FSU staff after serving nine seasons (1995-2004), the last three as associate head coach, at her alma mater, UC Santa Barbara, class of 1993. Some of her duties included overseeing skill development of the players, on-court offensive coaching, recruiting and scheduling.

As UCSB's player development coordinator, Close's work led to such achievements as a 98 percent graduation rate, seven WNBA players, 15 professional players overseas, 12 Big West Conference MVPs, nine district All-Americans and one second-team All-American. Close was responsible for all offensive tactics, offensive instruction and game-time decisions which helped result in eight NCAA appearances, including three second round games and a trip to the Sweet 16, one NIT consolation championship and 10 Big West Conference regular season or tournament championships. The Gauchos landed three top-10 ranked recruiting classes during her tenure.

Close was also instrumental in fostering support and increasing revenue streams for the UCSB basketball program. She developed and implemented a comprehensive marketing plan, designed fundraising initiatives, coordinated speaking, community service and radio/television appearances and created a Fastbreakers booster program. Her efforts were rewarded in the women's hoops program becoming the largest revenue producer in the department of athletics.

Close began her collegiate coaching career at UCLA while serving in the role of the restricted earnings coach on the first staff of then-new head coach Kathy Olivier in the 1994 and 1995 seasons. She earned her Master's Degree in educational administration during her time at the University.

As a player, Close was a four-year starting point guard at UC Santa Barbara and captained the 1992 and 1993 teams which each advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament. A native of Milpitas, CA, she was a 1993 first-team all-Big West selection and the MVP of the 1993 Conference Tournament. Close was the first player in school history to record more than 1,000 points and 500 assists for a career and ranked among the top 10 in seven Gaucha statistical categories. She averaged a school-record 8.3 assists per game in 1993 which was among the top 10 marks in the nation that season. On April 30, 2005, Close was inducted into the UC Santa Barbara Athletics Hall of Fame.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING

Sue Semrau - Florida State Head Women's Basketball Coach (1998 – present)

"Cori is one of the finest up-and-coming associate coaches in America. She has tremendous experience and everything you would want in a head coach. She has passion for her players, passion for the game, the university and the community. I can't think of anybody who would be a better fit for UCLA than Cori Close."

Ann Meyers Drysdale – UCLA Hall of Famer and four-time All-American; current General Manager of the WNBA's Phoenix Mercury

"Cori has always been close to the UCLA program, from her years working at UCSB and her relationship with Coach Wooden. I look forward to Cori continuing the ideal of being a Bruin, to doing your best and striving to bring a national championship back to UCLA."

Mark French – UC Santa Barbara Head Coach (1988-2008)

"Cori has as good a grasp on what the total college experience should be about as any coach in the country. Anyone who comes to UCLA to play for her will get everything possible, the total package, that the university has to offer. Somewhere, today, Coach Wooden is smiling because I know she kept in touch with him over the years."

NO. 14/13 UCLA 49 VS. NO. 4 STANFORD 51 (3/10/13)

It was a perfect game plan executed by UCLA that almost ended the Cardinal's run atop the conference tournament. Markel Walker led UCLA (25-7) with 16 points, but the Bruins lost to Stanford in the title game of the Pac-12 Tournament, 51-49. UCLA rallied from an 11-0 deficit to lead 27-26 at halftime after missing its first 12 shots and 20 of its first 22. That lead increased to 42-35 with 9:02 remaining after Ogwumike was called for traveling and Alyssia Brewer scored on a pick-and-roll to give the Bruins their largest lead. VanDerveer burned another timeout and Ruef snapped a 4-minute drought for the Cardinal, only to see Kacy Swain flash open in the lane for a layup and a 44-37 lead with 7:07 left. Orrange then started her scoring streak to close the game. Joslyn Tinkle hit two free throws before six straight points by Orrange gave Stanford a 45-44 lead, its first since 31-30 early in the half. It didn't last long. After the teams traded misses, Walker converted a three-point play for a 47-45 lead, only to see Orrange answer on a driving layup with 1:38 left. Ruef gave Stanford a 49-47 lead on a desperation fling with 50 seconds remaining, but Walker answered by driving past Ogwumike for a left-handed scoop with 36 seconds left. Orrange began her winning drive with 11 seconds left and spun through the defense for a double-clutch shot. UCLA didn't call timeout and Walker drove to the basket, her shot bouncing around and off. Brewer got the offensive rebound but couldn't get a putback attempt up and was knocked out of bounds. After a replay review, 0.2 seconds were put on the clock, but UCLA couldn't get an attempt off. UCLA had its six-game winning streak snapped and lost to Stanford for the 16th straight time. Atonye Nyingifa added 10 points and nine rebounds.

NO. 14/13 UCLA 70 VS. NO. 5 CALIFORNIA 58 (3/9/13)

Despite earning some impressive wins during the regular season, UCLA could not solve the elite of the Pac-12. At least until Saturday night when the No. 14 Bruins took down fifth-ranked California in stunning fashion. Markel Walker matched her season high with 23 points, Jasmine Dixon added 15 points and 12 rebounds, and UCLA advanced to its fourth Pac-12 tournament title game with a dominant 70-58 win. UCLA was efficient offensively and California could not solve the Bruins' zone defense. California (28-3) shot just 29 percent and saw its 16-game win streak come to an end. UCLA avenged two regular-season losses to Cal, including a 28-point loss at home in mid-February. UCLA has now won six straight since getting swept by the Bay Area schools. Walker made 10 of 13 shots and grabbed seven rebounds. Alyssia Brewer added 13 points and Atonye Nyingifa scored 11 for the Bruins. UCLA played a nearly flawless first half, leading by as many as 22. The Bruins shot 55 percent, were perfect at the free throw line and had assists on 10 of their 15 field goals. Walker had 13 in the first half and came up with two of UCLA's seven steals. The Bruins outscored Cal 22-6 in the paint in the first half and 42-22 for the game. The Bruins led by as many as 26—the biggest deficit California faced in any game this season. The 14 points in the first half for the Bears were a season-worst. Brittany Boyd led California with 18 points, but the Bears may have seen any hope of a No. 1 seed in the NCAA tournament come to an end.

UTAH 43 VS. NO. 14/13 UCLA 54 (3/8/13)

Jasmine Dixon and Atonye Nyingifa both scored 11 points, and No. 14 UCLA held off Utah's second-half rally for a 54-43 win over the Utes in the quarterfinals of the Pac-12 Conference tournament on Friday. The Bruins will play No. 5 California in the semifinals on Saturday night. UCLA (24-6) was swept by California during the regular season, including a 28-point loss at home last month. Alyssia Brewer added 10 points for the Bruins, but missed a large portion of the game after leaving with an injury midway through the first half. She limped off the court with 8:59 left in the first half, but returned early in the second half. Michelle Plouffe had 10 points and 14 rebounds for Utah (18-13), but made just 3 of 13 shots. Despite losing Brewer, the Bruins led by as many as 13 in the first half and 11 early in the second half before watching Utah stages a furious rally to take its only lead of the game on Cheyenne Wilson's baseline jumper with 9:30 left that gave the Utes a 37-35 lead and capped a 15-2 run. The response by UCLA to losing its lead was even better. The Bruins answered with a 16-2 run to push the lead back to 12 (51-39) with 2:08 remaining.

NO. 16/17 UCLA 68 AT ARIZONA 57 (3/3/13)

Senior Alyssia Brewer scored a season-high 22 points on 11-for-14 shooting and No. 17 UCLA finished the Pac-12 regular season with a 68-57 victory at Arizona on Sunday afternoon at McKale Center. Freshman Nirra Fields scored a Pac-12-high 21 points and tied Brewer and senior Jasmine Dixon with a team-high eight rebounds for the Bruins (23-6, 14-4), who have won four in a row. UCLA is the third seed and will receive a bye in the Pac-12 Tournament that begins Thursday in Seattle. Senior Markel Walker had 10 points and seven assists for the Bruins, who played without junior Thea Lemberger, who injured her elbow in Friday's win at Arizona State. Davellyn White had 16 points, nine rebounds and seven assists for Arizona (12-17, 4-14). The Wildcats have lost four in a row.

NO. 16/17 UCLA 58 AT ARIZONA STATE 50 (3/1/13)

Kari Korver scored a career-high 17 points - including all five of UCLA's 3-pointers - and the 17th-ranked Bruins defeated Arizona State 58-50 Friday night in Wells Fargo Arena. The victory clinched third place for UCLA (22-6, 13-4) in the Pac-12 and assured the Bruins of the No. 3 seed in next week's Pac-12 Tournament in Seattle. The Bruins have won four straight games in Tempe, Ariz., and eight straight over the Sun Devils. Alyssia Brewer had 12 points and nine rebounds and Markel Walker contributed nine points, six rebounds and nine assists for UCLA, which closes its regular season Sunday at Arizona. Janae Fulcher led Arizona State (13-16, 5-12) with 11 points. Micaela Pickens and Haley Videckis scored 10 each. UCLA's Thea Lemberger left the game midway through the first half and never returned. She injured her left elbow on a fall as an Arizona State player landed on top of her, trapping her arm. Lemberger is questionable for the Arizona game on Mar. 3 and is listed as day-to-day.

USC 58 AT NO. 16/17 UCLA 63 (2/24/13)

UCLA was swept in both meetings against crosstown Pac-12 rival Southern Cal last season. The 17th-ranked Bruins returned the favor this year. Nirra Fields and Thea Lemberger each scored 12 points as UCLA held off USC's big second-half rally to beat the Trojans for the second time in six days, 63-58 on Sunday in Pauley Pavilion. Lemberger made 5 of 6 free throws in the final 30 seconds to seal the win for the Bruins (21-6, 12-4). The Trojans (8-19, 5-11) lost their eighth consecutive game - and 11th of 12 - with two games remaining. On Tuesday, UCLA defeated USC 68-54, and have beaten the Trojans in six of their last eight meetings. USC's 19 losses this season are the second-most in the program's history. Cassie Harberts made 7 of 12 shots and led USC with 22 points and 11 rebounds - her 8th double-double of the season.

NO. 16/17 UCLA 68 AT USC 54 (2/19/13)

UCLA's 68-54 win over rival Southern California Tuesday night wasn't so much about Xs and Os as it was about Ps. That is, P, as in passion. Atonye Nyingifa scored 22 points on 11-of-14 shooting to lead No. 17 UCLA in the Pac-12 matchup, and Nyingifa had help from Thea Lemberger (12 points), Jasmine Dixon (10 points) and Markel Walker (12 rebounds, eight assists) as the Bruins (20-6, 11-4 Pac-12) built a lead as large as 27 points and ended a two-game losing streak. USC (8-18, 5-10) lost its seventh in a row, and its 18 losses are the second-most in school history, surpassed only by 20 losses in 1998-99. Cassie Harberts, who began the night ranked third in the Pac-12 averaging 17.8 points per game, led USC with 17 points and nine rebounds. Ariya Crook added 10 points for the Trojans but was just 4 of 19 from the field. USC shot 28 percent for the game and was outrebounded 49-40.

NO. 4 STANFORD 68 AT NO. 15/16 UCLA 57 (2/17/13)

UCLA stayed close with the No. 4 Cardinal for most of the game, but ultimately fell 68-57 on Sunday at Pauley Pavilion. Stanford (24-2, 13-1 Pac-12), the 12-time defending conference champion, has won its last 15 matchups against the Bruins (19-6, 10-4). Like just about everyone else this year, UCLA couldn't stop Stanford junior forward Chiney Ogwumike. She scored 26 points to go along with seven rebounds and four blocks. Joslyn Tinkle added 10 points and nine rebounds and Mikaela Ruef had a double-double with 10 points and 10 rebounds for the Cardinal, which is 15-0 on the road this season. Atonye Nyingifa led UCLA (19-6, 10-4) with 12 points and five rebounds and Brewer and Markel Walker both scored 10 points. UCLA led for only the first 1 minute, 24 seconds of the game, but trailed by just five at halftime and with 15 minutes remaining.

NO. 6 CALIFORNIA 79 AT NO. 15/16 UCLA 51 (2/15/13)

UCLA wanted to get off to a good start against sixth-ranked California. However, after falling behind by 19 points, the 15th-ranked Bruins made a push in the second half, but it wasn't nearly enough to avoid their first home loss in conference play this season. Gennifer Brandon scored 16 points to lead a balanced offense to help the Bears (22-2, 12-1) get their 10th straight win, 79-51 over UCLA on Friday night. Atonye Nyingifa scored 20 points for UCLA (19-5, 10-3), which had won six straight since a loss at California on Jan. 20. The Bruins shot just 34 percent (19 for 56) from the field. Boyd and Layshia Clarendon had 14 points each for California, and Reshanda Gray added 10.

NO. 17 UCLA 80 AT WASHINGTON STATE 65 (2/10/13)

Seniors Jasmine Dixon, Alyssia Brewer and Mariah Williams scored 14 points each and No. 17 UCLA won its sixth in a row, defeating Washington State 80-65 on Sunday at Beasley Coliseum. Nirra Fields added 12 points and Atonye Nyingifa scored 10 for the Bruins (19-4, 10-2 Pac-12), who broke away from a two-point halftime lead by shooting 85 percent (17 of 20) in the second half. UCLA finished the game at 64 percent (30 of 47). It was the first time a UCLA squad shot 60 percent or better for a game in 13 years. The Bruins shot 69.5 percent from the field in a victory at Washington State on Feb. 27, 1999. Brewer also had a team-high nine rebounds and five assists against the Cougars. Lia Galdeira led Washington State (9-14, 5-7) with 19 points and Sage Romberg scored 10. The Cougars had won four in a row. The Bruins used a 9-0 run to take the lead for good. Fields scored six of the nine points as UCLA went ahead 50-42 with 13:37 to go.

NO. 17 UCLA 65 AT WASHINGTON 61 (2/8/13)

Alyssia Brewer had a season-high 20 points and 12 rebounds Friday night at Alaska Airlines Arena and No. 17 UCLA defeated Washington 65-61 for its fifth win in a row. Atonye Nyingifa added 15 points and Thea Lemberger had 12 points and 12 rebounds for the Bruins (18-4, 9-2), now alone in third place in the Pac-12 behind No. 4 Stanford and No. 6 California. Lemberger made four free throws in the final 32 seconds to help seal the win. Jasmine Dixon scored 11 points and Markel Walker contributed 10 rebounds and seven assists. UCLA had a 54-33 edge in rebounding in a game neither team led by more than six points. The Bruins scored 30 points in the paint while Washington finished with 12. Talia Walton led the Huskies (16-6, 8-3) with 18 points. Jazmine Davis scored 17, Kristi Kingma had 11 points and Aminah Williams had 13 rebounds for Washington, which saw a six-game winning streak end. The Huskies' last loss was at UCLA on Jan. 13.

UTAH 42 AT NO. 18/19 UCLA 70 (2/3/13)

UCLA's smothering defense and balanced offense easily overcame a Utah team beaten up by a stretch of games against ranked opponents. Alyssia Brewer scored 16 points and the 18th-ranked Bruins forced 18 turnovers in a 70-42 victory on Sunday, extending the Bruins' winning streak to four games. All 10 UCLA players scored and nine of them grabbed at least one rebound. The Bruins held the Utes to 16 points in the first half. Atonye Nyingifa added 13 points and eight rebounds, and Nirra Fields had 11 points for the Bruins (17-4, 8-2 Pac-12), who have won 10 of 12. They limited their turnovers to 11 after committing a season-high 29 on Friday. Michelle Plouffe had 14 points and 12 rebounds for her third double-double of the season, and Iwalani Rodrigues added 11 points for the Utes (11-10, 2-8). They've lost four straight - all on the road - and 10 of 11 after winning their first seven games. The losing stretch included playing ranked Stanford, California and Colorado twice each last month.

NO. 22/23 COLORADO 46 AT NO. 18/19 UCLA 62 (2/1/13)

No. 18 UCLA pulled out a victory with its defense and rebounding - two things the Bruins needed. Markel Walker had 17 points, 12 rebounds and eight assists in a 62-46 victory over No. 22 Colorado on Friday night in Pauley Pavilion for the Bruins' third straight win. Jasmine Dixon grabbed 10 rebounds in helping the Bruins (16-4, 7-2 Pac-12) control the boards 44-29 against the league's second-best rebounding team. Walker bounced back after having just two points in 19 minutes in a win against Arizona State last weekend. Brittany Wilson scored 12 points and Chucky Jeffery had eight of her 11 points in the second half for the Buffaloes (15-5, 4-5), who lost their third in a row against a ranked opponent on the road. The Buffs were swept by California and Stanford last weekend, the two teams that have accounted for four of their five losses.

ARIZONA STATE 50 AT NO. 19/20 UCLA 54 (1/27/13)

Once again, No. 19 UCLA needed a strong finish in order to avoid losing to an unranked Pac-12 opponent at home. And once again, the Bruins got it. Nirra Fields scored 13 points, Thea Lemberger hit a go-ahead 3-pointer midway through the second half, and UCLA held on to beat Arizona State 54-50 on Sunday. UCLA (15-4, 6-2) took its first lead with 11:31 remaining in the first half and never trailed again. But the Sun Devils (11-9, 3-5) kept it close throughout and tied the game at 38 with 7:59 remaining. Lemberger then hit her 3-pointer to give UCLA the lead back and they held on tightly from there. In three of their last four home games - all against unranked conference opponents - the Bruins led by four points or less at halftime. In their other game, they trailed by one at the break. Each time, they were able to win. Janae Fulcher was the only Sun Devil to hit double figures, finishing with 13 points.

ARIZONA 57 AT NO. 19/20 UCLA 73 (1/25/13)

After suffering two road losses last weekend to No. 6 Stanford and No. 7 California, UCLA returned to Pauley Pavilion Friday night. And the return to familiar surrounding was the change of scenery the 19th-ranked Bruins needed. Atonye Nyingifa scored a season-high 20 points and had 12 rebounds and Kari Korver scored 14 points to lead UCLA to a 73-57 victory over Arizona in a Pac 12 Conference game Friday. Nyingifa made 10 of 15 shots and recorded her second double-double of the season as the Bruins (14-4, 5-2) snapped a two-game skid. Korver, a freshman starting in place of injured guard Markel Walker, made three 3-pointers on the way to her season high in points as UCLA remains in third place in the Pac-12, tied with Washington. Walker, who leads UCLA this season in scoring, rebounding, steals, and assists, did not play due to a back injury. Walker, a 6-1 senior guard, sustained the injury in the Stanford game. Friday was the first game Walker has missed this season. Wildcats guard Kama Griffiths led all scorers with 22 points. Davelyn Whyte added 17 points, 12 rebounds and six assists for Arizona. Nirra Fields scored 12 points and had four steals for UCLA. The Bruins had 22 assists and forced 22 turnovers. Alyssia Brewer had nine rebounds and Thea Lemberger contributed nine assists and five steals for UCLA.

NO. 14/15 UCLA 65 AT NO. 7 CALIFORNIA 70 (1/20/13)

Layshia Clarendon scored 22 points to help No. 7 California beat No. 14 UCLA 70-65 on Sunday at Haas Pavilion. Talia Caldwell added 14 points and 11 rebounds while Gennifer Brandon also had a double-double with 12 points and 14 rebounds for the Golden Bears (15-2, 5-1). It's Cal's third win over a Top 25 team in its last five games. UCLA was within 54-50 late in the second half when Clarendon made a 3-pointer. She later stole an inbounds pass as part of a 10-2 run then made four free throws in the final 54 seconds left to seal the win. Thea Lemberger scored 15 points for the Bruins (13-4, 4-2). Freshman guard Kari Korver and senior forward Alyssia Brewer finished with 13 points apiece for UCLA. UCLA has lost two straight after winning its previous six.

NO. 14/15 UCLA 49 AT NO. 6 STANFORD 75 (1/18/13)

Chiney Ogumike had 25 points and 13 rebounds to lead No. 6 Stanford past No. 14 UCLA 75-49 on Friday night in Maples Pavilion in a much-needed victory that throws the Pac-12 race wide open. The Cardinal had their 82-game home winning streak snapped by then-No. 2 Connecticut last month and California stopped Stanford's 81-game home win streak against conference opponents last Sunday. Joslyn Tinkle added 16 points and Amber Orrange had 15 for the Cardinal (15-2, 4-1), who have won four of their last five. Alyssia Brewer scored 14 points to lead the Bruins (14-3, 4-1), who had won six in a row. Thea Lemberger added 12 points and Atonye Nyingifa had 11 for the Bruins, which were held to a season-low 49 points on a season-low 31.4 percent from the field (16-for-51). The Cardinal also became the first team to shoot better than 50 percent against the Bruins (52.9 percent, 27-for-51 from the floor).

Jasmine Dixon tied her season high with 13 points and also pulled down 11 rebounds for her first double-double of the season to lead a well-rounded effort for UCLA, which beat Washington 85-68 on Sunday in Pauley Pavilion for its sixth straight victory. UCLA (13-2, 4-0 Pac-12) had five players score in double figures. Atonye Nyingifa had 17 points for the second straight game, Markel Walker scored 11 and Alyssia Brewer and Thea Lemberger each scored 10. The Bruins have won 10 of the past 12 meetings between the teams and 11 straight at home. Jasmine Davis scored a game-high 19 points to lead the Huskies (10-5, 2-2), and Talia Walton added 18 points. Washington hung with UCLA for much of the game. The back-and-forth affair featured 11 lead changes in the game's first 30 minutes, and the Huskies held a 59-58 lead with 9:05 remaining. UCLA freshman Kari Korver then hit a long 3-pointer in front of her own bench to give her team the lead back and start a 14-4 run.

WASHINGTON STATE 52 AT NO. 14/15 UCLA 78 (1/11/13)

Atonye Nyingifa scored 17 points and UCLA pulled away to start the second half, beating Washington State 78-52 on Friday night in Pauley Pavilion for its fifth straight victory. Thea Lemberger added 13 points, and Nirra Fields scored all 10 of her points in the first half for the Bruins (12-2, 3-0 Pac-12). They improved to 47-7 in the all-time series, having won all 27 games played in Los Angeles. Tia Presley scored 16 points to lead the Cougars (5-9, 1-2), who got 11 points from Lia Galdeira in losing for the fourth time in six games. The Bruins stretched a four-point halftime lead into a 55-35 advantage to open the second half. Markel Walker scored six points, and Nyingifa and Lemberger had four points each in the 18-4 run that gave them the lead for good.

NO. 16/17 UCLA 68 AT OREGON STATE 64 (1/6/13)

Alyssia Brewer scored 15 points and grabbed eight rebounds to lead No. 16/17 UCLA past Oregon State 68-64 Sunday in Gill Coliseum. Brewer was 7 of 13 from the field for the Bruins (11-2, 2-0 Pac-12). Atonye Nyingifa scored 14 points and had six rebounds, three assists and two steals while Markel Walker had 13 points, five assists, four rebounds and two steals for the Bruins. Oregon State led 34-29 at halftime. The Beavers shot 40.6 percent from the field for the game, while UCLA shot 37.1 percent. But the Beavers had 24 turnovers compared to a season-low 11 for the Bruins. Ali Gibson led Oregon State with 15 points, and Jamie Weisner had 13 points and eight rebounds. Alyssa Martin had 11 points for Oregon State, which lost to the Bruins for the eighth consecutive time, including three in a row in Corvallis. Deven Hunter had nine points and a team-high nine rebounds for the Beavers (6-8, 0-2).

NO. 16/17 UCLA 89 AT OREGON 80 (1/4/13)

Atonye Nyingifa scored a season-high 18 points, leading five Bruins in double figures, to help No. 16 UCLA beat Oregon 89-80 Friday night in Matthew Knight Arena in the Pac-12 opener for both teams. The Bruins led 50-32 at halftime and by as many as 26 points. The 50 points were the most scored by UCLA in any half this season while the 89 points were a season-high. UCLA held a double-digit lead for most of the game (34-04) and did so until Devyn Galland hit a three-pointer with eight seconds remaining in the game. Nirra Fields scored 14 points and added six rebounds for UCLA, and Thea Lemberger chipped in 11 points and made her seventh-consecutive three-pointer before missing late in the game. Kari Korver also scored 11 points for the Bruins and Markel Walker added 10 points, 11 rebounds and six assists for UCLA (10-2, 1-0). Jillian Alleyne had 19 points and 12 rebounds for the Ducks (2-11, 0-1). Ariel Thomas led the Ducks in scoring with 20 points. Galland added 11 points, and Danielle Love had 10 for Oregon.

SAINT JOSEPH'S 65 AT NO. 16/18 UCLA 73 (12/31/12)

Thea Lemberger tied her career high with four 3-pointers in scoring 20 points in a 73-65 victory over the Saint Joseph's Hawks on Dec. 31, 2012 in Pauley Pavilion. Atonye Nyingifa added season highs of 16 points and 12 rebounds for the Bruins (9-2). They've won seven of their last eight and enter Pac-12 Conference play with two straight victories. Erin Shields scored career-highs of 24 points and six 3-pointers, for the Hawks (8-5), who had their three-game winning snapped in their first visit to Pauley Pavilion. They beat the Bruins last year in the teams' first-ever meeting in Philadelphia. The Hawks twice rallied to get within one point in the final 5:57. Natasha Cloud stole the ball and scored on a fastbreak layup the first time. After Nyingifa made one of two free throws, Sarah Fairbanks made one of two from the foul line to leave the Hawks trailing 61-60. UCLA closed the game on a 12-5 run, making 10 of 12 free throws. The Bruins controlled the boards, 42-33, including a 25-16 edge on the defensive glass.

NO. 17/18 UCLA 77 AT PEPPERDINE 46 (12/28/12)

Freshman Nirra Fields scored 19 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead No. 17/18 UCLA to a 77-46 win at Pepperdine on Friday night at Firestone Fieldhouse. In addition to her first career double-double, Fields added career-highs in assists (six) and steals (six). Atonye Nyingifa had a season-high 12 rebounds to go with eight points while Markel Walker had 11 points, nine rebounds and four steals for the Bruins, which improved to 8-2 on the year and 5-0 in games away from home (3-0 on the road). UCLA led 34-17 at halftime and never trailed in the game. UCLA had 34 points off 24 Pepperdine turnovers and got 44 points from its bench. The Bruins shot 44 percent from the field for the game, while the Waves shot 34.7 percent. UCLA also outrebounded the Waves, 52-28, the Bruins' third consecutive game with a +16-rebound advantage. The Bruins were able to do that without the services of its leading rebounder, Alyssia Brewer, who left the game after three minutes of action with a sprained ankle and never returned.

CAL STATE NORTHRIDGE 77 AT NO. 12/16 UCLA 72 (12/20/12)

Ashlee Guay scored a career-high 25 points and freshman Marta Masoni made a season-high six three-pointers as Cal State Northridge upset No. 12 UCLA 77-72 on Dec. 20. UCLA (7-2) pulled to 74-71 on a 3-pointer by Nirra Fields before the Matadors made four free throws down the stretch to snap a five-game winning streak by the Bruins. It was Cal State Northridge's first victory against a ranked team in its Division I history and its first win against a Pac-12 team since 1996. Masoni finished with 18 points for CSUN. Alyssia Brewer had 14 points and 12 rebounds for UCLA and Fields had 12 points. Markel Walker also had a double-double with 12 points and 12 rebounds as the Bruins committed a season-high 25 turnovers and shot 38.7 percent from the field. The game featured 12 ties and 17 lead changes.

NO. 14/17 UCLA 53 AT ST. JOHN'S 52 (12/16/12)

The 14th-ranked Bruins needed a last-second lay-in from Jasmine Dixon in overtime to beat the Red Storm 53-52 on Dec. 16 in the championship game of the St. John's Holiday Classic. Trailing by one, Markel Walker inbounded the ball to Dixon for the wide-open basket with 1.5 seconds left. Shenneika Smith's 60-foot fling was short at the buzzer. Brewer led UCLA (7-1) with 14 points and 15 rebounds, earning MVP honors for the tournament. Walker finished with eight points, 11 rebounds and eight assists. Smith scored a season-high 25 points for St. John's (5-4). UCLA trailed 45-43 with 21 seconds left in regulation when Brewer made a nifty pass from the post to Dixon for an easy lay-in to tie the game. St. John's had a chance to win in regulation but Smith's 3-pointer from the wing was off the rim.

SAINT MARY'S 62 VS. NO. 14/17 UCLA 76 (12/15/12)

Jasmine Dixon scored five of her 13 points during a run in the second half and No. 14 UCLA beat Saint Mary's 76-62 on Dec. 15 in the St. John's Holiday Classic in Carnesecca Arena. Trailing 49-48 midway through the second half, Dixon sparked a 12-0 burst that lifted UCLA (6-1) to the victory. Atonye Nyingifa had eight straight points to seal the win. Nyingifa finished with 14 points for the Bruins. Markel Walker had 15 points and 12 rebounds to lead UCLA. Alyssia Brewer added 12 points and 10 rebounds to complete her third consecutive double-double performance. UCLA also received 13 points from Thea Lemberger to finish with five Bruins in double figures for the second time this season.

NO. 17/19 UCLA 62 VS. NO. 12/16 TEXAS 42 (12/08/12)

Alyssia Brewer had 12 points and 11 rebounds, and No. 17 UCLA held No. 12 Texas to 24 percent shooting en route to a 62-42 victory on Dec. 8 in the MD Anderson Proton Therapy Showcase at Reliant Stadium in Houston, Texas. UCLA's defense held Texas to a season-low 42 points, a season-low 23.8 percent shooting and forced a season-high 29 turnovers by the Longhorns. Defensively, those figures were also season-bests for UCLA.

LOYOLA MARYMOUNT 66 AT NO. 19/21 UCLA 86 (12/02/12)

Markel Walker had 17 points, 10 rebounds and seven assists to lead five players in double figures, and No. 19 UCLA routed Loyola Marymount 86-66 on Dec. 2. Alyssia Brewer had 14 points and 11 rebounds, and Kacy Swain added 14 points for the Bruins, who had a season-high 55 rebounds and were 22 of 25 from the free-throw line. Atonye Nyingifa made all 10 of her free throws, where she scored all of her points. Nirra Fields added 10 points.

PRINCETON 52 AT NO. 19/22 UCLA 65 (11/25/12)

Freshman Nirra Fields scored 26 points and Markel Walker added 23 points, as No. 19 UCLA overcame an 11-point first-half deficit to beat Princeton 65-52 on Nov. 25. Walker also had nine rebounds, six steals and six assists for the Bruins. Niveen Rasheed led Princeton with 17 points. The Tigers held a double-digit lead midway through the first half, but UCLA held Princeton to 27 percent shooting in the second half and 34 percent for the game.

NO. 5 NOTRE DAME 76 AT NO. 19/22 UCLA 64 (11/23/12)

Markel Walker led all scorers with 21 points and added nine rebounds, four steals and three assists in the 76-64 home loss to No. 5 Notre Dame on Nov. 23. Freshman Jewell Loyd led the Irish with 19 points and seven rebounds. The Bruins outrebounded the Irish 39-38 and had fewer turnovers (20-18), but were outshot from all areas of the floor. The Bruins were without the services of starting guard, Thea Lemberger, who missed the game due to a knee sprain.

UCLA 86 AT NO. 11 OKLAHOMA 80 (11/14/12)

Thea Lemberger scored 18 points for UCLA to lead the Bruins to an 86-80 upset at No. 11 Oklahoma on Nov. 14 in Lloyd Noble Center. Senior Alyssia Brewer had a successful return to her home state (Tulsa, Okla.) with 15 points and 16 rebounds for UCLA. Markel Walker added 16 points and Jasmine Dixon had 11 points for the Bruins. Atonye Nyingifa just missed a double-double with nine points and 10 rebounds for UCLA, which dominated the Sooners on the boards, 56-34.

SAN DIEGO STATE 52 AT UCLA 66 (11/10/12)

The Bruins opened the 2012-13 season with a 66-52 win over San Diego State on Nov. 10, in the first women's sporting event in New Pauley Pavilion. Seniors Markel Walker and Alyssia Brewer each scored in double figures with 15 and 12 points, respectively. Freshman Kari Korver had 11 points off the bench, including three from long range.

2013 NCAA Division I Women's BASKETBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

The Bruin Elite

Ann Meyers
1975-1978
Guard

Considered the pioneer of collegiate women's basketball, Ann Meyers was the first female athlete ever to earn a four-year scholarship to UCLA, and she finished her collegiate career as the first four-time All-American in her sport.

In her senior season (1978), she led UCLA to the AIAW national championship, won the Broderick Award as the women's basketball player of the year and went on to win the prestigious Broderick Cup as the Collegiate Female Athlete of the Year in any sport. Also that year, she became the only player in UCLA history to record a quadruple-double, recording 20 points, 14 rebounds, 10 assists and 10 steals in a game against Stephen F. Austin.

For almost two decades, Meyers held the school record for assists in a game (15) and was the school leader in career assists (544) until the marks were broken in 1999. She remains the school leader in steals (403) and blocked shots (101-tied) and is ninth in scoring (1685).

Meyers, who won a silver medal as a member of the 1976 U.S. Olympic team, has been inducted into the Naismith, FIBA and Women's Basketball Halls of Fame. In 1988, her first year of eligibility, she was the first woman inducted into UCLA's Hall of Fame, and two years later, she had her uniform #15 retired.

The widow of the late Major League Baseball Hall of Famer Don Drysdale, she has worked for years as a radio/television broadcaster (called the action at the 2008 Olympic Games). In the summer of 2006, she was named the general manager of the WNBA's Phoenix franchise, which has won the 2007 and 2009 WNBA Championships.

Anita Ortega
1976-1979
Guard

After scoring a game-high 23 points in the 1978 national championship game against Maryland, Anita Ortega forever etched her name in Bruin lore as she led UCLA to the AIAW title.

Ortega, who also led the Bruins to the 1979 Final Four, still ranks seventh in career scoring with 1751 points and is in the Top 20 in rebounding with 559 rebounds. She is also listed amongst the Bruin leaders in all-time scoring average (16.1), field goals made (705), steals (240) and double-digit scoring games (91). Ortega, a four-year starter, was a three-time first-team all-conference performer (1977-79).

Following her career at UCLA, she went on to earn All-Pro honors in the Women's Professional Basketball League. She later served as an assistant coach for the Bruins from 1981-83 and was inducted into the UCLA Athletic Hall of Fame in 2002.

Ortega is currently a captain in the Los Angeles Police Department and one of only two female African-Americans who have ever held the rank of captain in the LAPD. She also remains involved in women's basketball as a Division I college basketball official.

Denise Curry
1977-1981
Forward

The consistent Denise Curry, a three-time All-American, set a collegiate record by scoring in double figures in all 130 games she played for the Bruins.

The Davis, CA native set 14 school records in her career at Westwood and still ranks No. 1 in career scoring (3,198) and rebounding (1,310) in addition to eight other categories. She played in two Final Fours and helped lead UCLA to the 1978 AIAW National Championship as a freshman. From 1977-81, Curry's teams won 98 games, including a school-record 29 during her senior season.

Curry won a gold medal at the 1984 Olympic Games, four years after being selected to the 1980 U.S. Olympic Team that did not compete due to the U.S. boycott. Curry went on to play professional ball in Europe for several seasons.

In 1990, UCLA retired her uniform number (#12), and she was inducted into the UCLA Hall of Fame in 1994 and into the Naismith Basketball Hall of Fame in 1997.

Curry was an assistant coach with the San Jose franchise of the American Basketball League in 1996-97 and then went on to serve as the head coach at Cal State Fullerton from 1998-2000. She has also worked as an assistant coach at Long Beach State, working on the staff of fellow Bruin alum Mary Hegarty.

The Bruin Elite

Rehema Stephens
1989-1992 • Guard

Rehema Stephens, a third-team All-American as a senior and a three-time All-Pac-10 selection (1990-92), finished her career ranked second at UCLA in career points (1,887), second in scoring average (21.7) and eighth in career rebounds (643).

She twice led the Pac-10 in scoring (1990 - 20.1 average; 1991 - 25.3 average) and helped the Bruins reach the NCAA Tournament in two (1990 and 1992) of her three seasons. The 1992 squad advanced to the Sweet 16 round of the NCAA Tournament and finished the season ranked 18th in the USA Today poll. Her 34-point effort against Oregon in a 1991 game is the most points ever scored by a Bruin in a game played in the Wooden Center. Stephens' 25.3 points-per-game mark in the 1991 season still ranks as the third-best in UCLA history.

Stephens earned a bronze medal while representing the United States as a member of its 1991 Jones Cup team. In 1987, she took home gold in the USA Olympic Sports Festival.

Stephens was selected by the Richmond franchise in the 1996 American Basketball League draft and went on to play with the Sacramento Monarchs of the WNBA in 1998.

Natalie Williams
1990-1994 • Forward

Natalie Williams, a 2004 UCLA Hall of Fame inductee, dominated the backboards like no other player. Her career average of 12.8 rebounds is more than 2.5 rebounds higher than any other Bruin and ranks first in Pac-10 Conference history.

She led the Pac-10 in rebounding three times (the three highest averages in league history) and twice led the Pac-10 in scoring. She holds the Pac-10 records for career rebound average and single-game rebounds. At UCLA, she ranks No. 5 in scoring (1,813) and No. 3 in scoring average (20.4).

Williams, a two-time first-team All-American, was selected to the 1994 Kodak All-America team and was named Pac-10 Player of the Year as a senior.

She was also an All-American in volleyball, earning National Player of the Year honors twice. She accumulated a total of 16 Pac-10 Player of the Week honors (eight in each sport), and in February of 1996, she was selected the Pac-10 Female Athlete of the Decade (1987-96).

Professionally, she enjoyed an MVP season in 1997-98 with Portland of the ABL, leading the league in both scoring and rebounding for a second-straight season. In 1999, she ranked first in the WNBA in rebounding and fourth in scoring. In the summer of 2000, she helped the U.S. win the gold medal at the Olympic Games. She retired from professional basketball at the end of the 2005 season.

Maylana Martin
1997-2000 • Forward

Maylana Martin led the Bruins to 77 wins in her career which saw her help take UCLA to its only Pac-10 championship, the Elite Eight of the NCAA tournament in 1999 and a school-best three-straight NCAA tournaments overall.

She became just the third player ever selected first-team All-Pac-10 in all four seasons and was chosen the 1997 Pac-10 Freshman of the Year and the 1999 Pac-10 Player of the Year. Martin earned first-team Kodak All-America honors in 1999 after leading the Bruins to the Pac-10 Championship and to 26 victories.

Martin is one of only two Bruins to have surpassed the 2,000-point barrier, and she still ranks in the school's all-time top-five in 11 categories. She ended her collegiate career ranked eighth on the all-time conference rebound list with 935 boards and sixth on the all-time conference scoring list with 2,101 points.

The No. 10 overall selection in the 2000 WNBA Draft, Martin played two seasons with the Minnesota Lynx and also played with the Charlotte Sting. She was an assistant coach at the University of Portland before returning to UCLA as an assistant in the summer of 2004. As a Bruin coach (2004-08), she helped lead UCLA to its first Pac-10 Tournament title in the 2006 season. After her playing career, she moved into coaching and was an assistant coach at Portland, UCLA and Pepperdine.

Michelle Greco
1999-2003 • Guard

Michelle Greco, a finalist for the State Farm Wade Trophy as a senior, helped the Bruins win 71 games in her career and their first Pac-10 Conference title. She also played a large role in UCLA's run to the Elite Eight in 1999 after being thrust into the starting point guard role in the West Regionals as a true freshman. Her play in the regional earned her All-NCAA West Regional honors.

Greco led the Pac-10 in scoring twice during her career (2001-19.9, 2003-18.9) and was selected first-team all-conference in 2001 and 2003. She also led the Pac-10 in free throw percentage in 2001 (.865) and in steals in 2003 (2.8). With 1,707 total points, she finished her career ranked sixth on the school scoring list. In addition, she concluded her career ranked amongst the Top 10 in 10 other statistical categories.

In her rookie season in the WNBA in 2004, she won a WNBA title with the Seattle Storm. Greco currently plays in Italy.

The Bruin Elite

Nikki Blue
2003-2006 • Guard

One of the Pac-10's all-time great point guards, Nikki Blue became just the fifth player in conference history to be named to the All-Conference team four straight years.

She finished her career ranked fifth on the all-time UCLA list in scoring (1,797), second in assists (602), third in steals (325), fourth in made three-point shots (114), seventh in three-point shooting percentage (.355) and second in career made free throws (455).

Blue, a two-time honorable mention All-American and four-time Pac-10 All-Tournament selection, produced 89 double-figure scoring games for her career. Her 189 assists were the most ever by a Bruin senior, and she became the first Bruin to lead the Pac-10 in assists. Blue wound up her UCLA career ranked second on the Pac-10 career list for steals, eighth in assists and 18th in scoring. In 2006, she helped to lead the Bruins to their first Pac-10 Conference Tournament title.

She was selected in the second round of the 2006 WNBA draft by the Washington Mystics and is serving as an assistant coach at UNLV.

Lisa Willis
2003-2006 • Guard

The best three-point shooter in UCLA history, Lisa Willis finished her career as the school's all-time leader in three-point shots made with 256 and the Pac-10's all-time leader in career steals with 368.

She also left UCLA ranked ninth on the school scoring list (1,677), fifth on the games played list (120), 13th on the rebounding list (625) and eighth on the free throw percentage list (76%). Her total of 87 double-digit scoring games ranked sixth at UCLA.

She finished her career ranked first on the all-time Pac-10 steals list, second on the conference made three-point shot list and 21st in scoring. Willis was the Pac-10 leader in steals in her last three seasons and was the first player in UCLA history to record three-straight seasons with 100 or more steals. Willis was a two-time first-team all-conference selection and was named Most Valuable Player of the 2006 Pac-10 Tournament and an honorable mention All-American in 2006.

Willis was selected with the fifth pick in the first round of the 2006 WNBA draft by the Los Angeles Sparks and also went on to play with the New York Liberty.

Noelle Quinn
2004-2007 • Guard

Noelle Quinn achieved something no other Bruin basketball player, male or female, has ever done - total at least 1,700 points, 700 rebounds and 400 assists for a career. She concluded her career just short of becoming only the second player in Pac-10 history to have reached 1,800 points, 800 rebounds and 400 assists.

Quinn finished her career ranked in the school's top 10 in 14 different categories, including points (4th), rebounds (8th) and assists (7th). She earned first-team All-Pac-10 honors as a freshman, junior and senior and earned Pac-10 All-Tournament honors in 2006 and 2007. Quinn was the leading scorer for the Bruins in the championship game at the 2006 Pac-10 Tournament, scoring the game-tying basket with five seconds remaining to force overtime in the eventual Bruin victory over Stanford.

She was honored a Pac-10 record eight times in her career as the conference Player of the Week and was a two-time honorable mention All-American.

Quinn was selected by the Minnesota Lynx with the fourth pick of the first round of the 2007 WNBA draft. She is currently playing overseas and with the Los Angeles Sparks.

Lindsey Pluimer
2005-2008 • Forward

Lindsey Pluimer, a fixture in the Bruin starting lineup from day one, became the first UCLA player in the NCAA era to earn a start in every game of her career, 123 games, third-most in school history.

After those 123 games, she became one of just five Bruin players ever to record career totals of 1,500 points, 700 rebounds and 75 blocks. She completed her career ranked 12th on UCLA's career scoring list with 1,558 points, 10th in rebounds with 737, sixth in blocked shots with 93 and seventh in 3-point field goals made (84).

In her senior season, Pluimer led the team in scoring, rebounding, blocked shots and three-pointers and ranked in the Pac-10's Top 10 in six of 13 individual categories, including sixth in scoring (14.1) and tied for eighth in rebounding (6.5).

A three-time Academic All-District VIII and two-time first-team Pac-10 All-Academic selection, Pluimer was named the 2007-08 Toyo Tires Pac-10 Scholar Athlete of the Year for women's basketball.

She was the second round selection (No. 20 overall) of the Washington Mystics in the 2008 WNBA draft. She has played professionally in Australia and currently plays in Spain.

UCLA Honors 15 Greatest Players and 1978 National Championship Team

UCLA Olympians (l-r) Denise Curry (1980, 1984), coach Billie Moore (1976), Ann Meyers (1976) and Natalie Williams (2000)

UCLA women's basketball's past and present merged February 21, 1998 when UCLA honored its 15 greatest players of all-time at halftime of the UCLA-USC game. It was an all-around day of celebration for the UCLA program, as the current team defeated USC, 87-73, to complete a season sweep against its cross-town rival in front of what was then a Pauley Pavilion regular season record crowd of 7,258. The 1978 team was also honored on the 20th anniversary of UCLA's first national title in women's basketball.

The list of 15 included two Naismith Basketball Hall of Famers (Denise Curry and Ann Meyers), the Pac-10 Conference Female Athlete of the Decade (Natalie Williams) and a winner of six Olympic medals (Jackie Joyner).

These 15 greatest players were selected by a committee that included current UCLA coaches, former UCLA players and coaches and current and former UCLA administrators. The number 15 was chosen to mirror the amount of scholarships available in the sport of women's basketball.

UCLA Women's Basketball's 15 Greatest Players (alphabetical order, as selected 2/21/98):

The National Championship Season - 1978

Led by four-time All-American Ann Meyers, Anita Ortega, Denise Curry and first-year head coach Billie Moore, UCLA captured the 1978 AIAW (Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women) national basketball championship in Pauley Pavilion. The title drive included Bruin wins in the final 21 games of the season and culminated in the 90-74 championship victory over Maryland before an AIAW record crowd of 9,351. In all, the Final Four weekend drew more than 17,000 fans to Pauley Pavilion and included a national semifinal win over Montclair State by an 85-77 count.

After capturing the WCAA conference championship, the road to the Final Four began with regional wins in Stanford, CA over Stanford (80-54), Long Beach State (79-78) and UNLV (100-88). Sectional wins followed over BYU (102-57) and Stephen F. Austin (86-60). UCLA finished with a 27-3 record, with all three losses coming on the road against top-10 ranked opponents. It averaged 96.2 points per game and outscored its opponents by an average of 28 points per contest.

AIAW Semifinals - Mar. 23, 1978

UCLA dominated the game, taking a 52-38 lead into halftime and never relinquishing it. Three Bruins recorded double-doubles - Denise Curry with 22 points and 14 rebounds, Heidi Nestor with 22/10 and Ann Meyers with 19/14. The Bruins controlled the boards, outrebounding Montclair State 61-29. MSC had 40 points from Carol Blazejowski but only 37 from the rest of the team.

UCLA Women Are Excited with Seeding in NCAA Tournament

The Bruins (25-7) are the third-seeded team in the Oklahoma City Regional and will play No. 14 Stetson (24-8) in Columbus, Ohio. It's a big improvement from two years ago when UCLA had to play Gonzaga on its home court.

By Diane Pucin
March 18, 2013

It couldn't be better.

That's how UCLA women's basketball Coach Cori Close described what happened Monday after the NCAA women's college basketball tournament draw was revealed.

The Bruins (25-7) received a No. 3 seeding, which is the best they have ever received. They will play their first game, against 14th-seeded Stetson (24-8), and, if they win, their second game against either sixth-seeded Oklahoma or 11th-seeded Central Michigan, at what is a neutral site, in Columbus, Ohio.

UCLA last played in the tournament two years ago at Gonzaga even though the Bruins had the better seeding (No. 3) to the Bulldogs' No. 11), and host Gonzaga pulled a second-round upset, 89-75.

Atonye Nyingifa, a redshirt junior forward, said she still hears the Gonzaga crowd noise ringing in her ears. "It's difficult," Nyingifa said. "This is a much better situation."

Defending national champion Baylor (32-1) is the top-seeded team in UCLA's region, Oklahoma City.

Also receiving No. 1 seedings were Connecticut (29-4) which was placed in the Bridgeport (Conn.) Regional; Notre Dame (31-1) in the Norfolk (Va.) Regional and Stanford (31-2) in the Spokane (Wash.) Regional.

Carolayne Henry, chairman of the Division I women's basketball committee, took some heat over the seedings that might have Stanford playing Pac-12 Conference rival California in the regional final and the placement of Notre Dame.

The Fighting Irish will play first at Iowa City and, if they win two games, move on to Norfolk.

Notre Dame, with its better overall record than Connecticut and with a 3-0 record against the Huskies, thought it should have been sent to Columbus for its first two rounds.

All the other No. 1-seeded teams will probably play two games at home. Notre Dame, trying to reach its third straight national championship game, has a potential second-round matchup against Iowa at Iowa's home court.

When Notre Dame's placement was announced on television, there was little cheering from the team.

The Bruins, however, were thrilled when it was official — that they were seeded third and heading to Columbus.

Thea Lemberger, a junior guard from Santa Monica, who had been starting until injuring her elbow against Arizona State on March 1, is back at practice and thrilled about the trip.

"I'm super excited about this," Lemberger said. "It's awesome to be at a neutral site, a three seed. Pretty cool and a good draw for us."

If UCLA beats Stetson, it could play Oklahoma in the second round, and last November the Bruins beat the Sooners, 86-80, on the road. Lemberger scored a team-high 18 points in that victory.

Close said she had prepared her team to be seeded anywhere from No. 3 to No. 5. Her only disappointment in watching the draw, she said, was to see that Stanford and California might play for a spot in the Final Four. "I hate for that matchup, potentially, to end the other's season," she said. "It's a little disappointing. I hated to see that come up."

Otherwise, Close said, she couldn't be happier. Close spent seven years at Florida State before coming to UCLA in April 2011. She said she is familiar with Stetson's fast pace under Coach Lynn Bria.

Bria was also satisfied with how things turned out.

"I'm really, really happy," Bria said. "I'm a bit surprised just because I had my mind made up that we were going to be a 15 seed. I did think our body of work was good enough to be a 14 seed, but I didn't know if the committee would give it to us. It shows respect for our program and how far we have come."

No. 13/14 UCLA Upsets No. 5 California, 70-58

Markel Walker matched her season high with 23 points in the win over the Golden Bears.

March 9, 2013

SEATTLE (AP) - Despite earning some impressive wins during the regular season, UCLA could not solve the elite of the Pac-12.

At least until Saturday night when the No. 14 Bruins took down fifth-ranked California in stunning fashion.

Markel Walker matched her season high with 23 points, Jasmine Dixon added 15 points and 12 rebounds, and UCLA advanced to its fourth Pac-12 tournament title game with a dominant 70-58 win.

"This win means a lot to us because they are such a formidable opponent and we've respected them all year," UCLA coach Cori Close said. "... But I'm proud of our basketball team."

The Bruins will seek their second Pac-12 crown in Sunday night's final against either No. 4 Stanford or No. 18 Colorado. UCLA won its only Pac-12 tournament title in 2006 when it pulled off upsets of Arizona State and Stanford to win the title. This will be the Bruins' third appearance in the title game in the last four years.

UCLA was efficient offensively and California could not solve the Bruins' zone defense. California (28-3) shot just 29 percent and saw its 16-game win streak come to an end.

The loss also ruined a possible third showdown between California and Bay Area rival Stanford in the conference title game. Instead it'll be the Bruins playing for the title--and deservedly so.

UCLA avenged two regular-season losses to Cal, including a 28-point loss at home in mid-February. UCLA has now won six straight since getting swept by the Bay Area schools. Walker made 10 of 13 shots and grabbed seven rebounds. Alyssia Brewer added 13 points and Atonye Nyingifa scored 11 for the Bruins.

UCLA played a nearly flawless first half, leading by as many as 22. The Bruins shot 55 percent, were perfect at the free throw line and had assists on 10 of their 15 field goals. Walker had 13 in the first half and came up with two of UCLA's seven steals. The Bruins outscored Cal 22-6 in the paint in the first half and 42-22 for the game.

That was the game plan UCLA tried to use against California in the first meeting back in January when the Bears pulled out a 70-65 win at home. That game plan was out of the picture when the teams played in Los Angeles about a month ago when the Bears used their transition offense to play with a lead.

"I thought our guards handled the pressure and we got the ball in places that we wanted this time," Close said. "At Cal, we let their pressure get to us, even at our place as well. I'm not sure the game plan changed so much, it's more that we executed well at the beginning."

The Bruins led by as many as 26--the biggest deficit California faced in any game this season. The 14 points in the first half for the Bears were a season-worst. Brittany Boyd led California with 18 points, but the Bears may have seen any hope of a No. 1 seed in the NCAA tournament come to an end.

"We didn't see this coming," Cal's Layshia Clarendon said after scoring 14 points on 6 of 22 shooting. "(The Bruins) were well-prepared. They gave us punches in the first half. You can't give a good team a 21-point lead; they're just too good."

Clarendon was part of a miserable shooting night for the Bears, especially the opening 20 minutes. California's horrific first half featured a stretch of nine straight missed shots during an 8-minute span without a field goal and zero ability to solve UCLA's zone defense. The Bears missed all 11 3-point attempts, shot just 20 percent and were dominated on the boards.

Clarendon was the most frustrated. The Bears' leading scorer got plenty of open looks, but missed eight of her final nine shots in the half. Eliza Pierre's steal and layup with 2:41 left in the half finally snapped the Bears shooting skid and that basket finally got California into double figures.

It didn't get much better in the second half. California missed its first 13 3-point attempts total before Boyd hit from deep with 14:45 remaining. By that point, the Bruins still led by 21 and the deficit never reached single-digits.

"We have to use this to help us and we will," California coach Lindsay Gottlieb said.

UCLA's Upset Bid of No. 4 Stanford Falls Short, 51-49

Markel Walker led the Bruins for the second straight game with 16 points.

March 10, 2013

SEATTLE (AP) - It was a perfect game plan executed by UCLA that almost ended the Cardinal's run atop the conference tournament. Markel Walker led UCLA (25-7) with 16 points, but the Bruins lost to Stanford, 51-49, in the title game of the Pac-12 Tournament.

"We're hurting right now. My heart just hurts for our seniors," UCLA coach Cori Close said. "I felt they gave so much of themselves in that game today. Hard for them not to be rewarded with the win at the end."

UCLA rallied from an 11-0 deficit to lead 27-26 at halftime after missing its first 12 shots and 20 of its first 22. That lead increased to 42-35 with 9:02 remaining after Alyssia Brewer scored on a pick-and-roll to give the Bruins their largest lead.

VanDerveer burned another timeout and Ruef snapped a 4-minute drought for the Cardinal, only to see Kacy Swain flash open in the lane for a layup and a 44-37 lead with 7:07 left.

Orrange then started her scoring streak to close the game. Joslyn Tinkle hit two free throws before six straight points by Orrange gave Stanford a 45-44 lead, its first since 31-30 early in the half.

It didn't last long. After the teams traded misses, Walker converted a three-point play for a 47-45 lead, only to see Orrange answer on a driving layup with 1:38 left. Ruef gave Stanford a 49-47 lead on a desperation fling with 50 seconds remaining, but Walker answered by driving past Ogwumike for a left-handed scoop with 36 seconds left.

Orrange began her winning drive with 11 seconds left and spun through the defense for a double-clutch shot. UCLA didn't call timeout and Walker drove to the basket, her shot bouncing around and off. Brewer got the offensive rebound but couldn't get a putback attempt up and was knocked out of bounds. After a replay review, 0.2 seconds were put on the clock, but UCLA couldn't get an attempt off.

UCLA had its six-game winning streak snapped and lost to Stanford for the 16th straight time. Atonye Nyingifa added 10 points and nine rebounds.

"I feel like this whole weekend is something we can go back on and feel we accomplished something," Walker said. "We saw something in us we didn't know we had. The only thing we have to do is go on and see what's next."

The worst scoring game of Chiney Ogwumike's career became proof that No. 4 Stanford goes beyond just its All-American.

Don't forget about Amber Orrange when the NCAA tournament comes around. Stanford's sophomore guard showed she can carry the Cardinal by herself.

Orrange capped a career-high 20-point performance by scoring on a spinning drive with 8.3 seconds left, and No. 4 Stanford won its seventh straight Pac-12 tournament title by rallying past No. 14 UCLA 51-49 on Sunday night.

Orrange scored 10 of Stanford's final 12 points as the teams exchanged the lead seven times in the second half. Orrange's drive pulled Stanford even at 47 with 1:38 left. Mikaela Ruef's basket with 50 seconds left gave the Cardinal the lead and, after Markel Walker scored for UCLA, Orrange spun through two defenders for the winning score.

It's a shot she practices regularly and executed with perfection to all but assure the Cardinal of yet another No. 1 seed in the NCAA tournament. Perhaps more importantly, Stanford passed a gritty, possibly needed test before the NCAAAs arrive.

"Our team had to grit it out and quite honestly we haven't had to do that a lot during this year," Stanford coach Tara VanDerveer said. "We learned a lot about ourselves. I think we'll just be better because of this experience."

Orrange shot 9 of 15 overall, including 7 of 11 in the second half, and was the only Stanford player in double figures, making up for a night when Ogwumike was held to a career-low three points and missed eight of nine shots. Orrange never left the floor in the second half, playing all 20 minutes and coming up with one key play after another.

Ogwumike's struggles were stunning after two memorable performances to open the conference tournament. She had 48 points and 40 rebounds combined in the first two games, yet was a complete non-factor offensively Sunday. She failed to score for the final 38 minutes after hitting a free throw with 18:07 left in the first half. Wherever Ogwumike roamed around the paint, she was surrounded by two or three UCLA defenders.

Threes Run in the Family

by Mirin Fader / for Slam Online

Last November, Pauley Pavilion was new. Fresh. Vibrant. Full of possibilities. The UCLA women's basketball team ran on to the newly renovated court and began splitting into layup lines before tipoff of its season opener.

Some dribbled down the right side and finished with a reverse on the left. Others crossed over then double-clutched before tapping the backboard and putting the layup in. Then the rhythm changed.

Freshman Kari Korver was the only one to pull up for jumpers, inching farther back each turn. Her teammate, running parallel, often nodded with approval. There were no unnecessary moves, no long rebounds—just makes.

Then a few minutes later the 5-9 guard blended in with her teammates on the bench. After the referee tossed the ball into the air, Kari looked into the stands and spotted her cousin Kyle Korver, the 10-year NBA veteran and current guard for the Atlanta Hawks, who was in town for his team's game against the Clippers the next day.

Knocking down three threes off the bench to finish with 11 points in 18 minutes of play in the team's 66-52 win against San Diego State, Kari seemed to answer everyone's question that night: Yes, the Korver family shooting gene is alive and well.

"Kari goes to UCLA, you know? That's big time," Kyle said. "I was really impressed with the way she played that night. One of the hardest things for me when I was a freshman was not just knowing the play, but knowing how to play within the play. She was directing people where to go in different sets. She knew exactly where she was supposed to be.

"I want nothing to do with Kari Korver in a shooting contest, I'll tell you that!" Kyle laughed.

That's high praise coming from someone who set the NBA record for highest three-point shooting percentage in a single season with 53.6 percent in 2010 with the Jazz.

Kari, born in Paramount, CA, was usually the one in the crowd watching Kyle's games for the Sixers, Jazz and Bulls, growing up studying the quick release on his shot while perfecting her own.

"I was in third grade when he was getting ready to get drafted," Kari said. "It was so cool to watch him on TV and to get to go to Lakers and Clippers games. I brought a ball with me to school every day like he did.

"To have someone in your family succeed in basketball like that gives you hope that you can do it too."

Kari is the first woman in the family to play Division I basketball, as she currently leads No. 14 UCLA (23-6) in three pointers made (34), and is ranked fourth in the Pac-12 in three-point percentage (34.7 percent), earning honorable mention Pac-12 All-Freshman Team. Kyle was the fifth all-time scorer at Creighton, and his three brothers Klayton (Drake), Kaleb (Creighton) and Kirk (Missouri-Kansas City) also played at the Division I level. Kari and Kyle's many uncles, as well as Kyle's father, all played Division III basketball. Kyle's mother Laine once scored 74 points in a high school game before competing for Division III Central College in Pella, IA.

The Korvers don't just come to each other's basketball games to cheer. Each person in the family sees something that the average fan doesn't—he could have set a back screen before he rolled to the basket, or her teammate should have skipped the ball to hit her for the fade three in the corner—such resembles talk at the dinner table.

“Our family really celebrated playing basketball the right way,” Kyle said. “We may not be the most athletic family but we play hard, smart, and we can shoot the ball. We stick to that.”

Separated by more than a decade, the two shot around together for the first time at a family gathering at a local gym when Kari was a freshman at Valley Christian high school.

“Kari walked in a little late and just started popping threes,” Kyle recalled, who was born in Lakewood, CA, before moving to Iowa for his teenage years. “And I was like, Woah—Kari can shoot that thing!”

Though Kari once hit 11 threes in a high school game, she and Kyle have never played one-on-one. A friendly game of H-O-R-S-E usually turns into a three-point shootout, with Kyle often the victor.

Now that the two are adults, Kyle has served as a mentor to Kari. She’s made at least one or more threes in 11 of her last 13 games in 16.6 minutes of tick, including a career-high five threes (17 points total) in a 58-50 win at Arizona State (March 1) that secured the No. 3 seed for UCLA in the Pac-12 Tournament.

“Kyle tells me that your shot is going to be off some days, but to just keep working hard before and after practice,” Kari said. “He really stresses to take care of my body.”

After averaging 25.3 points and 7.8 rebounds a game as a junior in high school, Kari tore her ACL in the summer, causing her to miss her final season. She managed to recover and win the American Family Insurance High School Girls Three-Point Championship at the NCAA Men’s Final Four in New Orleans last March.

Formerly the No. 85-ranked player in the nation, Kari is now making the most of her minutes in decisive games against ranked opponents.

The Bruins defeated then-ranked No. 11 Oklahoma (November 14) on the road, as Kari had 6 points, 1 assist and 1 steal in 10 minutes of play. She scored 13 points (including three threes) in a five-point loss to No. 7 California (January 20).

“I couldn’t be more thrilled to have her,” UCLA head coach Cori Close said. “She plays with incredible passion. The day I left Florida State to accept the UCLA job, my assistants there told me, ‘You have to recruit her, she’s an amazing shooter,’ and the fourth day on the job here I got a call from Kari’s club coach saying that this kid’s dream school is UCLA.

“It was destined to be. She’s an integral piece to this team.”

Though Kari was recruited for her offensive abilities, she doesn’t want to become a one-dimensional player. With a Pac-12 Conference quarterfinal in Seattle approaching on March 8, Kari knows that the scouting report is out; she hears the opposing coach yell “shooter” as she subs into the game.

“Shooting is my best thing, but I want to help the team in other ways too,” Kari said. “Whether it be trying to get a rebound or pass into the post, whatever is needed, that’s what I wanted to do this year.

“I’m just really excited to be playing. It was a long year for me during my senior year not getting to play. It was hard to be patient. Now finally getting to play, and at Pauley Pavilion, is something I’ve been dreaming about for a long time.”

UCLA Has Motivation to Thrive in Women's Pac-12 Tournament

Bruins can count on NCAA tournament spot, but Coach Cori Close recognizes a team's need to play its best in March.

By Gary Klein

March 6, 2013

UCLA already is a lock to make the NCAA women's basketball tournament.

The 14th-ranked Bruins are assured of a bid in the 64-team field regardless of how they perform in the Pac-12 Conference tournament, which begins Thursday at KeyArena in Seattle.

But UCLA Coach Cori Close said the Bruins have plenty of motivation. "It's about playing your best basketball in March," she said.

Six-time tournament champion Stanford (28-2) is seeded first, California (27-2) second, UCLA (23-6) third and Colorado (24-5) fourth. All have first-round byes and will play Friday.

Seventh-seeded USC (10-19) plays 10th-seeded Oregon State (10-20) on Thursday in the tournament opener.

UCLA plays the winner of Thursday's game between sixth-seeded Utah (17-12) and 11th-seeded Arizona (12-17).

A UCLA victory would set up a probable matchup against Cal, which handed Stanford its only Pac-12 defeat and shared the regular-season title.

UCLA lost only four games during conference play — two to Cal and two to Stanford.

So the Bruins have their work cut out for them if they hope to improve their already solid standing with the NCAA tournament selection committee.

UCLA lost to Cal, 70-65, in January at Berkeley and by a 79-51 score last month at home. The Bruins lost at Stanford, 75-49, and were defeated by the Cardinal at home, 68-57.

Junior forward Atonye Nyingifa is averaging 11.5 points a game, fifth-year senior forward Alyssia Brewer 11.3 for the Bruins. Senior guard-forward Markel Walker is averaging 10.3 points.

Close, a former UCLA assistant and John Wooden disciple in her second season as head coach, anticipates a sense of postseason urgency from veteran players, especially seniors.

"They really want an opportunity to compete at the highest level," she said.

UCLA Has Won More Games as Cori Close Has Won Her Team's Trust

By David Wharton

February 14, 2013

The players Cori Close inherited when she took over as coach of the UCLA women's basketball program were not a cheerful bunch.

It was the spring of 2011 and the Bruins had just lost their previous coach, the charismatic Nikki Caldwell, who bolted to Louisiana State for more money and a job closer to family.

Fans grumbled, wondering if Athletic Director Dan Guerrero had tried hard enough to keep Caldwell. The players felt betrayed.

"We had a lot of trust issues," forward Jasmine Dixon recalls. "We didn't want to open our hearts to a new coaching staff."

That was no recipe for success. Yet, this season — Close's second in Westwood — the Bruins have shown progress. Thanks to a couple of upsets over ranked teams, they have climbed to No. 15 in the Associated Press poll, adopting a style that combines quick passing with aggressive defense and physical rebounding.

"It has taken some time to get to this point," Close said. "It's been hard."

Now comes a test at home against No. 6 California and No. 4 Stanford, conference opponents that overpowered the Bruins on the road. If nothing else, this weekend will provide a measuring stick for a team on the mend.

During her three-year stint, Caldwell did more than breathe new life into the Bruins. She did it with style.

A strikingly attractive woman in five-inch heels. A devoted Harley rider. A fiery presence that commanded the spotlight.

As Rosalyn Gold-Onwude, an ESPN analyst, explains, "Those were some big pumps to fill."

Close does not claim to be glamorous, wearing blue sweats at practice, keeping her hair tied back. She ranks among the game's top offensive minds, but there is something else, something that dates to the mid-1990s, when she served as a UCLA assistant and showed up at John Wooden's home.

"How do you spell your name?" the legendary coach asked.

"C-O-R-I."

"Really? Come right in."

Wooden explained that his great-granddaughter had the same name, and a friendship was born. Close began stopping by regularly.

Not surprisingly, defense and hustle became essential parts of her repertoire, even as subsequent assistant jobs at UC Santa Barbara and Florida State forced her to focus on scoring. But she also recalls Wooden saying: "You can't do it like me, you have to find your own personality."

This advice proved crucial when Close returned to UCLA for her first head coaching job. She could not be another Caldwell, and she could not win her team's fealty right away.

"That was a hurting group of people and they weren't sure what I was all about," Close said. "I had to be patient."

The Bruins never stood a chance in 2011-12, when a rash of injuries left them with only seven healthy bodies. During a high-altitude game at Colorado, Close recalls, "we had players with oxygen masks on the bench. It was crazy."

The new coaching staff looked past the 14-16 record, focusing on the foundation of Wooden's Pyramid of Success — loyalty and enthusiasm.

The players could sense Close's energy. And they could see at least one improvement over Caldwell who, despite the hype, was criticized for not fully developing athletes.

"Coach Cori is more of a hands-on coach," forward Markel Walker said. "We feel like we've gotten better from the workouts she puts us through."

As that first season came to an end, the Bruins found one more reason to play hard, tapping into hurt and anger.

As Walker put it, "We wanted to show Coach Nikki what she left behind."

This fall, those injured players returned and forward Alyssia Brewer, a transfer from Tennessee, became eligible. Freshmen Nirra Fields and Kari Korver figured to contribute right away.

Still, Close did not really know about her players until they traveled to No. 11 Oklahoma in November. An 86-80 upset victory set a tone.

"Physical on the ball, physical away from the ball," Oklahoma Coach Sherri Coale said. "We couldn't make a pass, we couldn't enter the post because of the physical play.... It affected every phase of the game."

Subsequent wins over No. 12 Texas and No. 22 Colorado nudged UCLA higher in the polls. The Bruins established themselves among the national leaders in rebounding margin and assists.

Walker, projected as a high pick in the next WNBA draft, has sacrificed points to distribute the ball. Working inside, Brewer leads the team in scoring and rebounding. Korver helps spread defenses with her jump shot.

"Our offense is set; we can score," Fields said. "But it's the defensive side that counts."

The Bruins learned that lesson the hard way in mid-January during consecutive losses against Stanford and California.

Since then, the Bruins have shown a renewed commitment to taking advantage of their quickness and accumulating "passion plays," which means setting good screens, deflecting passes and grabbing loose balls.

The result is a six-game winning streak, a 19-4 record and a sense that things might turn out better against their Pac-12 rivals this weekend, starting with Cal on Friday night.

Already a safe bet for the NCAA tournament, UCLA has a chance to sneak its way into the top 10.

And the Bruins might even be learning to trust their coach.

Keeping it Closer to Home

By Chris Kalra / Daily Bruin

March 1, 2013

Jasmine Dixon isn't one for many words when she steps on the court, instead keeping her cool and composure at all times.

But that silence speaks volumes to her teammates. To them, she brings "a swagger and confidence" that they feed off, one that redshirt junior forward Atonye Nyingifa calls a "power energy."

Even though Dixon isn't a team captain, coach Cori Close is quick to point out how that doesn't define the redshirt senior forward's leadership skills.

"Leaders aren't titles. Leaders are people who influence, and Jas influences," Close said.

It's an influence that has led UCLA to a 68-17 (.800) record in her four-year playing tenure, far and away better than its .591 winning percentage without her.

That success has been a lifelong trend for Dixon.

When she arrived at Long Beach Polytechnic High School, it went on to win three consecutive Division I state championships.

And when she switched travel teams in the ninth grade, her new squad went undefeated for two straight seasons, climbing to No. 1 in the national rankings.

"She just has a winning mentality. And it's a lifestyle choice. It's not something you can turn on and off," Close said.

In between all the team success, Dixon has garnered some of the highest individual basketball accolades possible – from McDonald's All-American and Gatorade California Player of the Year in high school to Honorable Mention AP All-American at UCLA.

But when Dixon looks past all that she has accomplished, she understands just how much she had to overcome along the way, and that she didn't do it alone.

Making Sacrifices

Dixon's dad, Billy Brown, didn't play a lot of basketball, but it was clear to him, early on, that his daughter was special.

He could see it in the way she tenaciously drove to the rim against older, stronger boys at the local park, unafraid of contact as just a six-year-old.

As Brown put it, "she was fearless."

Dixon caught on to basketball fairly quickly, developing an instinctive feel for the game. Still, for her talent to blossom, she needed guidance, something that her dad provided unconditionally.

Not only did he coach many of her basketball teams up until high school, he took her under his wing for extra practices during that time. Together, they spent hours working on ball handling, footwork and other fundamental skills – week after week, year after year.

Even off the court, Brown didn't stop preparing her.

When Dixon's travel teams played road games – sometimes venturing across the country – he was there, ensuring she would get her eight hours of sleep.

"Any little thing he did was to make me better," she said.

Over time, she emerged as one of the top young players in the nation.

But when Dixon, who soared above her competition, wanted to “chill out,” Brown pressed otherwise.

“I explained to her, ‘The Lisa Leslie’s don’t just chill out.’ ... ‘The (Kobe Bryant’s) don’t just chill out to get to that level,’” he said. “You have to get out and sacrifice.”

At times though, it felt like nobody sacrificed as much as Brown did.

“I pretty much committed my life to raising Jasmine in basketball,” he said. “I sacrificed a lot. There were times where I should have been working or what not, and I was with Jas.”

Getting a Second Chance

At one point in his life, Brown found himself in his daughter’s shoes – a talented, young athlete ready to play at the college level.

A standout high school football safety, he had earned many Division I college scholarship offers.

But in a house with five other children, his parents never had ample time for him, and Brown slipped down the wrong path, getting caught up in gang activity.

“I knew I had decisions that I could make or not make, but I thought that particular life was the decision I was supposed to make because it was glorified, it was like ‘This is the thing to do,’” he said.

It cost him the coveted scholarship offers. Instead of forgetting about his misguided past, Brown used it as a blueprint to keep his daughter, who grew up in the same area as him, from making the same mistakes he did.

“I often tell Jas, ‘This is all about decision-making. It’s so easy to make a bad decision and get into major trouble. But sometimes it’s hard to make a wise decision and say, ‘Hey, I’d rather go the other route,’” Brown said.

Dixon’s family hovered around the poverty line for much of her childhood, and lived in a neighborhood clouded with gang activity.

But Dixon used basketball as her way out, spending almost all her time practicing and playing on any team possible.

When they would travel for basketball, many times to affluent neighborhoods, Brown rarely let her forget about her dream – their dream – that she was chasing.

“I (would) tell Jasmine, ‘Okay Jas, look at how all the cars start to look different now. Look at how all the houses are starting to look different now. This is where you want to get. ... This is why we do what we’re doing. This is why you play basketball,’” he said.

Going and Coming

Brown said that it bothers him when talented Southern California high school girl’s basketball players bolt across the country to play for powerhouse college programs.

If they attended a local school such as UCLA or USC, they could build their own tradition here, he believes.

During the recruiting process, his daughter, who garnered offers from numerous top college programs, began seriously considering Rutgers University in New Jersey, almost 3000 miles from Long Beach.

“I was like, ‘Please don’t, for me and your family, you got a lot of fans here, (stay) here and start a tradition,’ because I wanted her to go to a close (Pac-12) school,” Brown said.

But he understood Dixon was becoming an adult; this was her decision.

She chose to attend Rutgers University, joining four other High School McDonald’s All-Americans in a heralded recruiting class deemed ‘The Next Fab Five.’

The talk of four straight Final Fours and multiple national championships spread throughout the campus before she and her teammates even played a game.

But the fit never quite matched the expectations.

Dixon and her fellow freshmen saw little playing time early, even though they had been recruited on the pretense that they would play right away. It was then she turned to her father, not for his help, but to receive reassurance from the man who had believed in her since day one.

"I had never had this happen, but Jasmine wrote a letter to me," Brown said. "(She) was like, 'I'm (going to) really work hard for you guys and represent our family well. I'm (going to) stay strong.'"

But to Brown, it was a sign that his daughter's situation was serious. Soon thereafter, she called him and her mom, telling them she was ready to leave the program after just five games.

Dixon never had any doubt where she was going next – UCLA.

"It's home. Thirty minutes from my house, my family," Dixon said. "Why not have a new start and have my family with me?"

Pushing to the End

This season hasn't gone quite as Dixon had planned.

She returned from a ruptured Achilles tendon that caused her to miss last season entirely, only to suffer a bone bruise to her leg earlier this season. It's an injury that has hindered her all year.

"This is probably one of the roughest seasons Jas has ever had," Brown said. "She has played at a high level for all of (her) life. This is the first year her stats ... don't reflect her actual ability."

Dixon is averaging just 7.8 points, 5.1 rebounds and 1.1 steals per game this season. Two years ago, she averaged 12.1 points, 7.3 rebounds and 2.4 steals per game, earning AP Honorable Mention All-American as the anchor of a UCLA team that finished with the most regular season and conference wins in school history.

Dixon's precise footwork and lightning-quick hands haven't changed. She still has the same physical strength down low that her teammate, Nyingifa, likens to that of the Hulk. But her aggressive "attack mentality" and explosiveness just aren't what they used to be as she still regains her feel for the game.

She's had to adjust her individual expectations for her final season, as has her dad.

Typically after home games, when the two of them speak, he'll ramble on about game situations that Dixon could have done better in, because he's never really stopped coaching her. But he understands that his daughter isn't 100 percent just yet.

Instead, he asks her about her health and other things. How's she's feeling? Is she eating right? How's school? But occasionally, he'll slip in a pointer or two.

"I have to; it's just in me and she's used to it," Brown said.

Still, Dixon understands her father's relentless passion, and just how far it has brought her.

"Without my dad pushing me, I wouldn't be here," Dixon said.

Atonye Nyingifa Overcomes Adversity to Lead Team

UCLA women's basketball player overcomes two ACL tears in becoming the Bruins' key player on offense.

By Chris Kalra / Daily Bruin

January 16, 2013

When forward Atonye Nyingifa walked into the doctor's office in December of 2011, she prayed lightning wouldn't strike twice.

Nyingifa injured her right leg in a game against Tennessee early last season. Soon thereafter, she went in for an MRI, hoping to avoid a repeat of the worst injury of her basketball career: an ACL tear. She first suffered the injury in the summer of 2009.

"We went in to see (the doctor), and our trainer Pam read the MRI, and it was just immediate tears," coach Cori Close said.

"(Nyingifa) was just so hoping that (her ACL) wasn't torn."

In the span of 2 1/2 years, Nyingifa had torn both of her ACLs.

Even the most daring gamblers would be hard pressed to bet on the oft-injured forward returning to the court to become one of the best players on a top-15 team.

But odds don't mean much to Nyingifa.

After sitting out the rest of the season for the second time in three years, the redshirt junior returned to become UCLA's second leading scorer at 10.9 points per game and the team's third leading rebounder at 7.6 rebounds per game.

"Atonye is a great example of that it's not the traditional stature or statistics that draw your eye to her. It's all the unique ways she finds to score the ball.

"Her shot on paper is too flat. Her moves around the basket are non-traditional. She's undersized in whatever category. But what you can't measure is she's one of the most competitive individuals that you're ever going to meet," Close said. The coach also added that Nyingifa believes she can accomplish anything she sets her mind to.

In her last five games, Nyingifa has pushed her game to a new level, averaging 16.4 points per game on highly efficient 56 percent shooting.

Both she and her coach credit her surge to the top of the stat sheets as a natural occurrence of coming back from injury.

Nyingifa's offensive improvement, though, runs deeper than the scars on her knees.

Close, who preaches about making the right choices to her team on a daily basis, says Nyingifa didn't disappoint in the face of her second ACL tear.

"You have a choice, whether (it) makes you bitter, or (it) makes you better. And she has allowed it to make her better," Close said.

Unable to run, lift weights with her lower body or participate in contact practices during rehab for her torn right ACL, Nyingifa looked elsewhere to improve.

"She did a lot of work on her perimeter jumper when she was out," Close said.

For Nyingifa, it was tons of hours of consistent repetition.

"(She did) a lot of form shooting. Same follow through every time," redshirt senior forward Jasmine Dixon said.

Earlier in the season, Nyingifa struggled with her jumper, regularly clanking shots off the rim during games and adding roughly one airball per game for good measure.

Her shooting form may have warranted those struggles.

On her jump shot, Nyingifa barely leaves the ground, topping about an inch off the floor. A fluid stroke is replaced by a one-handed push-like maneuver. To top it off, the shot is nearly lined at the rim, a far cry from the traditional shooting arc.

"I honestly can remember since high school, I'm a good jumper as far as rebounds. But as far as my shot, I don't like to bend my legs," Nyingifa said.

"I just use all arms. And I just kind of direct it with my upper body."

She stuck out her early season shooting slump, confident that eventually the hours spent working on form would pay off.

Nyingifa didn't have to look deep for that persistence within herself.

"You have to have strength of the mind, of the heart and of the body. So she's developed a really high amount of strength even though it might not be in the manner in which she would of chosen," Close said of Nyingifa's recovery.

Her shot would come around, and in a big way too. Nyingifa has become the team's most reliable mid-range shooter.

In fact, her whole offensive game has opened up.

Always a good offensive rebounder, Nyingifa has improved her post positioning and interior moves. She has also become adept at finding holes in the defense for easy buckets.

"The reality of (sitting and watching last year) is she sees the game more completely from an X-and-O standpoint," Close said.

The expansion of her overall game has shown in her increased scoring and confidence on the court.

Nyingifa's recent success has added a new dimension to the No. 14 UCLA (13-2, 4-0 Pac-12) Bruins, and given the team a better chance to win its first ever outright conference championship and end national powerhouse Stanford's ten-year title streak.

"She's just a skilled player, and it may look non-traditional, but the bottom line is she does a lot of things on the court to help her team win," Close said.

Alyssia Brewer Shines as the Leader of the Bruins

The redshirt senior has been a leader since the day she arrived at UCLA.

By Chris Kalra / Daily Bruin

March 7, 2013

Alyssia Brewer flapped her arms and flashed a hawk-like glare as she played traffic cop, directing her UCLA women's basketball teammates this way and that way. Whether it's practice or game day, she is always guiding her teammates on the court,

"She's commanding what's going on, you know, reminding people, 'Don't do this,' or 'Let's pick it up. Let's get a stop right here. We got this,'" said junior guard Thea Lemberger. "Constant vocal communication is really important during games and she brings that."

Brewer, though, hasn't appeared in many more UCLA games than some of the freshmen have. The redshirt senior forward is playing her first season at UCLA, after transferring from Tennessee two years ago. She practiced with the team last season, but didn't play in games per NCAA transfer rules.

Still, her lack of UCLA game experience hasn't stopped her from becoming the unquestioned leader of the No. 14 Bruins. It's a role coach Cori Close placed on her when she first arrived in Westwood. Even though Brewer hadn't been burdened with such responsibilities before, Close knew she would succeed.

"She's one of the only players I've coached in 20 years that arrived on campus and could lead," Close said. "She hadn't even practiced a day and everybody listened to her."

Close said Brewer's teammates responded to her because "she had already produced at the highest level," referring to her past success, which included SEC Tournament MVP honors and an NCAA tournament Elite Eight appearance.

But when Lemberger was asked what first came to her mind about Brewer, she didn't mention her accomplished past at all.

"Caring. She's caring. I know I can depend on her ... in every aspect. When I throw her the ball, I'm confident that she can deliver. (And) if I'm struggling myself, like with frustration, I know that she's there to pick me up, talk to me," Lemberger said.

Brewer, though, has brought that same personality off the floor as well, and that's what has earned her teammates' respect more than anything else.

"Everyone I feel like respects her because they feel like they can talk to her," Lemberger said. "She has that way with everyone kind of, just by her personality. Kind of like grandma-ish. You know we joke around, call her grandma sometimes – Grandma Lyssi. She's old and she's easy to talk to. She's a good listener."

"She's really sensitive and she's very tuned in the locker room of who might need a little extra time or who might the coaches need to spend some time with or encourage. She's just got a great pulse because she's sort of the mom of the team," Close said.

Before the season began, each of the players voted on two teammates to be chosen for the three co-captain positions, and Brewer was the only unanimous selection, appearing on every single player's ballot before she had even donned a UCLA jersey. It was clear that Brewer had already made a lasting impression.

"I was definitely humbled by that, to see that my teammates looked at me like that," Brewer said. "But I also see it as a level of responsibility that they see me as a captain. I got to be able to step up in that position and help my teammates when they need to be helped."

As UCLA starts postseason play in the Pac-12 tournament this weekend, Brewer, a "program changer" as Close calls her, figures to play a pivotal part in how her team fares in March, just as she has all season.

But to Close, Brewer has changed more than just the direction of the program. She has evolved herself as well.

"I don't think she really saw herself as a leader before she came here. And a lot of people use second chances and transfers to bring their baggage with them, and they never quite recover," Close said.

"She didn't do that. She used her second chance at UCLA to become a leader, to develop new skills and to push her comfort zone."
