Jackie Robinson Stadium

Quick Facts

- Located approximately 3 miles west of the UCLA Campus on the grounds of the West Los Angeles Veterans Administration Medical Center, Jackie Robinson Stadium provides the Bruins with one of the top college baseball fields in the nation. The Stadium was made possible by a private gift from Hoyt Pardee (UCLA '41), a classmate of Jackie Robinson.
- Set along trees in a natural environment, Jackie Robinson Stadium can host as many as 1672 fans in stadium-style seats, installed prior to the 2006 season. Additional bleacher seating for 308 is also available. Each seat offers an excellent view of the symmetrical field. The 8' high fences are 330' down each foul line, 370' in the power alleys and 395' to straight-away center field. A dirt warning track surrounds the grass field. A padded backstop, built into the base of the stands, is 55' from home plate, providing adequate foul territory behind the plate. The stadium was dedicated on February 7, 1981 with an exhibition game between the Bruins and the Los Angeles Dodgers.
- Jackie Robinson, for whom the stadium is named, was the first African-American baseball player to compete in the major league's when he joined the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947. As a student-athlete at UCLA, Robinson became the Bruins' first 4-sport letterman, playing football, basketball, track and baseball. A bronze statue of Robinson is located on the concourse level. The statue was dedicated on April 27, 1985, before the UCLA – Arizona State game.
