Jordin Canada (Los Angeles, Calif.) is the media's defensive player of the year after leading the No. 15 Bruins to a No. 4 seeding in the Pac-12 Tournament and a first-round bye. The junior guard is the Conference's steals leader, averaging 2.48 steals per game, also helping the team post the second-best team steals average in the league (10.38). She also helps the Bruins log the second-best turnover margin in the league at +5.21, forcing opponents to turnover the ball at a rate of 17.6 turnovers per game. Canada is the league's third-leading scorer at 17.5 ppg, leads the league in assists (6.7 apg) and also ranks 17th with 5.4 rebounds per game.

The media also selected a 15-member All-Pac-12 team, a five-member All-Defensive team and a five-member All-Freshman team.

It is the eighth year of the Pac-12 media awards and are in addition to the Conference awards voted on by the league coaches, which were announced on Tuesday. The panel included local and national media members.

BRUINS ON TELEVISION

UCLA will have 19 women's basketball games televised live during the 2016-17 regular season. That adds up to 86 television appearances since the 2012-13 season. The Bruins will have games televised on three different networks, including 15 on the Pac-12 Networks, three on the ESPN family of networks, and one on Fox Sports Plus. All three games slated to be televised by ESPN will be on the road. The Bruins' non-conference game at South Carolina (Dec. 18) will be televised nationally on ESPN2 while league road games at Washington (Jan. 8) and at Stanford (Feb. 6) will air on ESPN. The Pac-12 Networks is slated to carry two non-conference games, Hawai'i (Dec. 4) and Michigan (Dec. 11). The remaining 13 games on the Pac-12 Networks are all league contests – at Washington State (Jan. 6), Oregon State (Jan. 13), Oregon (Jan. 15), at USC (Jan. 18), USC (Jan. 22), Arizona State (Jan. 27), at California (Feb. 3), at Oregon (Feb. 10), at Oregon State (Feb. 12), Washington (Feb. 17), Washington State (Feb. 19), at Arizona (Feb. 24) and at Arizona State (Feb. 26).

PAC-12 STRONG(ER) IN 2016-17

The Pac-12 is coming off its most historic women's basketball season, claiming two teams in the NCAA Women's Final Four. Five teams earned NCAA Tournament bids and league teams went 5-0 in the first round. Other firsts from last season included four teams in the Sweet 16 and three teams in the Elite Eight. The Conference also welcomes back eight of the 14 All-Pac-12 honorees and five top-20 recruiting classes. Charlie Creme currently has six Pac-12 teams in the 2017 NCAA Tournament field in his recent Bracketology on espn.com (Feb. 14, 2017).

BRUINS SIGN ANOTHER TOP 10 RECRUITING CLASS

UCLA signed four Top 50 standouts during the 2017-18 early signing period and its class is ranked No. 6 by espnW. UCLA landed 6-2 forward Laurn Miller (Kirkwood, Mo./Kirkwood HS), 6-1 guard Chantel Horvat (Geelong, Australia/Basketball Australia Centre of Excellence), 6-1 guard Kayla Owens (Houston, Texas/Langham Creek HS) and 5-11 forward Michaela Onyenwere (Aurora, Colo./Grandview HS). Miller is ranked 16th by Prospects Nation while Onyenwere (10th), Horvat (15th) and Owens (36th) were all ranked by espnW. This follows a No. 9 class (now sophomores) in 2015 and a No. 1 class in 2014 (now juniors).

BRUINS DOWN UNDER

UCLA spent 10 full days in Australia in August 2016, going 4-0 in the preseason games (NCAA rules allow college programs to take a foreign trip once every four years). The Bruins opened with an 83-48 win over Southern Districts and then posted a 101-58 win at the Cairns Dolphins. UCLA rallied past the Sydney Flames, 73-69 (WNBL) and then defeated the Sydney Comets, 78-58 (WNBL). Five Bruins averaged in double figures, led by Nicole Kornet's 16.0 ppg. Monique Billings was second (13.0 ppg) and led the Bruins in rebound (8.3 rpg). Kari Korver (11.0 ppg), Jordin Canada (10.8 ppg) and Kelli Hayes (10.3 ppg) rounded out the five players in double digits. Sophomore Kennedy Burke just missed the double-digit mark at 9.3 ppg.

PRESEASON PROJECTIONS

For the first time since 1999-2000 and the third time in program history, UCLA was voted first in the Pac-12 women's basketball preseason poll. The Bruins received eight first-place votes and 116 points for the top spot. UCLA was also picked first by the Pac-12 media. Both polls were identical with Stanford being picked second and Washington third. Arizona State and Oregon State rounded out the top five. California was projected to finish sixth with Oregon, Utah and USC right behind. In 10th was Washington State while Colorado and Arizona were picked to claim the last two spots.

WELCOME TO PAULEY PAVILION

The complete renovation of UCLA's historic arena, Pauley Pavilion, took 33 months (from 2010-12) and cost just under $136 million. New Pauley Pavilion seats 13,800 fans – 1,000 more than the “old” Pauley Pavilion. Other key features of the renovated facility include a custom-designed video board, additional LED hustle boards, major increases in restrooms and a wider variety of concession stands. Here are a few key features, at a glance:

- New Pauley Pavilion houses a 16-foot by 12-foot, LED, High Definition Daktronics Video board perched above center court with all four sides visible to fans.
- In addition, there are LED hustle boards in each of the corners that track player statistics, as well as an LED ribbon board encircling the top of the arena.
- New Pauley Pavilion now has 154% more restrooms throughout the building, including on the event level.
- The pavilion's North side hosts a grand lobby that highlights the theme “Champions Made Here” as well as the multi-purpose Pavilion Club for game-day hospitality.
- Additional dining options include California Pizza Kitchen, Subway, Full Court Press Panini, Jamba Juice, Pavilion Market, Joe Brewin Coffee Stand, the outdoor South Plaza and traditional fare.
- Not only does New Pauley Pavilion have a wider variety of concession stands, the arena now features a UCLA team store in the Northeast corner, operated by ASUCLA.
- New Pauley Pavilion includes nearly 100 monitors throughout the building, many of which are used to show the game telecast. Other monitors can be used as menu boards at numerous concession points.
- The renovation established 70,000 additional square feet of usable space than existed in the building's previous configuration. Additions include two state-of-the-art locker rooms with cherry wood lockers and adjacent lounge areas, a 24-seat film room, weight room and sports medicine room.
- Teams that called Pauley Pavilion home prior to the renovation (m/w basketball, m/w volleyball, and gymnastics) will continue to compete there. In addition, the 2013 NCAA Women's Gymnastics Championships and NCAA Men's Volleyball Championships took place in Pauley.

THE MO OSTIN BASKETBALL CENTER

In 2014, UCLA Athletics announced its efforts to raise private funds for a state-of-the-art basketball practice facility. Named after legendary music industry executive and philanthropist Morris “Mo” Ostin, the Mo Ostin Basketball Center is currently being constructed near Pauley Pavilion at the south end of the Los Angeles Tennis Center and is on-schedule to open in fall 2017, less than three-and-a-half years after the campaign's launch.

The new The Mo Ostin Basketball Center will be a comprehensive basketball practice facility located near Pauley Pavilion. Highlights of the new building design include:

- State-Of-The-Art basketball practice facility dedicated to honoring current and former UCLA Basketball student-athletes
- Practice gyms for both men's and women's programs
- Locker rooms for both men's and women's basketball programs
- Men's and women's basketball training area
- Exclusive use for both men's and women's basketball programs and their student-athletes

HEAD COACH CORI CLOSE

Cori Close was named head women's basketball coach at UCLA on April 21, 2011, and is currently 123-77 (.615) overall. She is in her sixth season at the helm of the Bruins' program in 2016-17. She posted her 100th victory in a 95-47 win over Southern (Nov. 18). Close was named the 2016 United States Marine Corps/WBCA NCAA Division I Region 5 Co-Coach of the Year (with Arizona State's Charli Turner Thorne).

Close guided the Bruins to a 26-9 overall record in 2015-16, including a third-place finish in the Pac-12 with a 14-4 record (the No. 1 conference in the country in RPI) and guided the Bruins to the Sweet Sixteen for the first time since 1999.

She led the Bruins to their first WNIT Championship in school history in UCLA's first-ever appearance in the postseason tournament with a 62-60 win over West Virginia in Charleston, W.Va., on April 4, 2015. It marked UCLA's first postseason title of any kind since winning the Pac-10 Tournament in 2006.

This is the first head coaching assignment for Close, who has worked as associate head coach or assistant on teams that have advanced to the NCAA Tournament in 16 seasons, won at least 20 games in 16 of the previous 18 seasons and won or shared a total of 11 conference championships.

Close, who served on the Bruin coaching staff in 1994 and 1995, returns to Westwood after spending seven seasons as associate head coach at Florida State University. Considered one of the top offensive minds in the game, Close helped guide the Seminoles into a nationally-recognized program in her time. FSU ranked among the nation's top 30 teams in scoring, field goal percentage and three-point field goal percentage her last two seasons.

Florida State advanced to the NCAA Tournament in each of coach Close's seasons in Tallahassee and won at least 20 games in all but one. Point guard play and offensive efficiency were strong points under Close's direction. FSU shot at least .418 from the field in each of the last seven seasons and hit over 37% of its three-point attempts the last two seasons, including a school-record 212 made three-point shots in 2010.

In addition to her on-court tasks, Close was also instrumental in recruiting (she coached four first-team All-ACC Freshman team selections and five players selected in the WNBA draft while at FSU) while also working with the school's marketing department in their efforts to promote the program.

In 2010-11, Florida State posted a 24-8 record, finished third in the Atlantic Coast Conference with an 11-3 mark, was ranked No. 20 in the final ESPN/USA Today poll and advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament after matching the program's best tournament seed ever at No. 3. The 2010 FSU squad captured a share of the ACC regular season championship, set a school record with 29 wins and advanced to the Elite 8 of the NCAA Tournament for the first time in school history. Jacinta Monroe was selected in the first round of the WNBA draft, No. 6 overall, the highest of any FSU player.

The 2009 Seminole squad also won a share of the conference regular season crown and earned the highest seed into the NCAA Tournament in school history, at the time, at No. 3. The 2008 FSU team earned its highest regular season ranking ever in the polls to that point in time, at No. 18. In 2007, Florida State advanced to the Sweet 16 for the first time in school history and earned its highest ranking to that point, at No. 19, in the season's final national poll. In Close's initial season in Tallahassee, FSU posted its first 20-win campaign in 14 seasons.

Close joined the FSU staff after serving nine seasons (1995-2004), the last three as associate head coach, at her alma mater, UC Santa Barbara, class of 1993. Some of her duties included overseeing skill development of the players, on-court offensive coaching, recruiting and scheduling.

As UCSB's player development coordinator, Close's work led to such achievements as a 98 percent graduation rate, seven WNBA players, 15 professional players overseas, 12 Big West Conference MVPs, nine district All-Americans and one second-team All-American. Close was responsible for all offensive tactics, offensive instruction and game-time decisions which helped result in eight NCAA appearances, including three second round games and a trip to the Sweet 16, one NIT consolation championship and 10 Big West Conference regular season or tournament championships. The Gauchos landed three top-10 ranked recruiting classes during her tenure.

Close was also instrumental in fostering support and increasing revenue streams for the UCSB basketball program. She developed and implemented a comprehensive marketing plan, designed fundraising initiatives, coordinated speaking, community service and radio/television appearances and created a Fastbreakers booster program. Her efforts were rewarded in the women's hoops program becoming the largest revenue producer in the department of athletics.

Close began her collegiate coaching career at UCLA while serving in the role of the restricted earnings coach on the first staff of then-new head coach Kathy Olivier in the 1994 and 1995 seasons. She earned her Master's Degree in educational administration during her time at the University.

As a player, Close was a four-year starting point guard at UC Santa Barbara and captained the 1992 and 1993 teams which each advanced to the second round of the NCAA Tournament. A native of Milpitas, CA, she was a 1993 first-team all-Big West selection and the MVP of the 1993 Conference Tournament. Close was the first player in school history to record more than 1,000 points and 500 assists for a career and ranked among the top 10 in seven Gauchito statistical categories. She averaged a school-record 8.3 assists per game in 1993 which was among the top 10 marks in the nation that season. On April 30, 2005, Close was inducted into the UC Santa Barbara Athletics Hall of Fame.

Pac-12 Feature: UCLA's Billings has renewed focus in 2017

*By Michelle Smith, Pac-12 Conference
Jan. 6, 2017*

UCLA's Monique Billings walked with her coach Cori Close to the postgame press conference after the Bruins tough loss to South Carolina last month.

Billings, who pulled down a career-high 22 rebounds in that game, put her arm around her coach and asked if coach could cut some film and show her the rebounds she didn't get that game and what she could do better.

"As a coach, you want players who are going to add to their 'toolbox' every year, who set goals to improve and put in the work to do it, and rarely does it happen like that," Close said. "But with Monique, that's what she's done. She drives to be a better player."

As the Bruins head to Washington this weekend to take on Washington State and Washington — in one of the top matchups of the Pac-12 season — Billings, the junior forward from Corona, California, is averaging 17.2 points a game, close behind leading scorer Jordin Canada at 18.0 and ranks second in the Pac-12 in rebounding at 11.0 per game. She also ranks among the Pac-12 leaders in field-goal percentage, blocked shots and steals.

Billings was named Pac-12 Player of the Week after averaging 18.5 points and 15.5 points a game in wins over Colorado and Utah.

Billings said she is focused this season on consistency. Her goal is to maintain a high level of play from game-to-game. Averaging a double-double would certainly indicate she's heading in the right direction.

Billings has worked on her face-up game and her passing heading into this season. And she's become a better leader, Close said.

"She really understands now that your best players have to be your best leaders, the ones who sacrifice the most and put in the time," Close said. "She's really stepped into that role."

Close said that when Billings first arrived in Westwood, she thought that if she took care of her business and her teammates took care of theirs, success would follow.

"But she really gets now that it's about team and the influence she has on everyone in terms of work ethic," Close said.

Billings said she is taking advantage of the "resources" at her disposal, including the feedback of coaches, teammates and inspiration from two of the best players in Pac-12 history.

"I talked with Nneka Ogwumike a few weeks ago and she was really helpful," Billings said. "I've talked to Chiney too. I really look up to their games. It's good for me to talk to people like them."

Billings said she is not focused on what UCLA has already accomplished — an 11-2 record and a No. 7 national ranking — but on the work still to be done.

"There is always room for improvement," Billings said. "We are off to a great start, but I don't want to dwell on that because we want more."

Close said she recently heard from a WNBA coach who complimented Close on Billings' improvement.

"It's not me," Close said. "Monique has done this on her own. She gets all the credit."

Pac-12 Feature: Women's Basketball Midseason Check-in

By Michelle Smith, Pac-12 Conference
Feb. 8, 2017

The UCLA women's basketball team has been meeting with a mental trainer during the course of the season. He has been talking to them about success on the road.

"We talk about how home court advantage is not a place, it's a feeling. And if it's a feeling, you can take it with you," said Bruins coach Cori Close. "It's a feeling, a comfort zone. And we are really trying to embrace that."

UCLA came home from the Bay Area with a split, a loss at Cal on Friday that was salvaged Monday night with a big win at Stanford on national television, the program's first win at Maples Pavilion since 1999 and UCLA's first road win against a ranked team in the last 16 attempts.

UCLA is 12-0 at home this season and 4-5 on the road. No win was bigger than Monday's.

"I'm proud of our resilience. The Stanford win was a major milestone for us," Close said of her Bruins squad, who now sit in third place in the conference standings at 9-3. "Our team has to play a certain way and we don't have a lot of margin for error. We have to play possessions, force turnovers, we need passion plays."

UCLA will spend four of the next five weekends on the road, including the Pac-12 Tournament. "We have known this all year and we are prepared for it," Close said. "You need a good point guard to be good on the road, you need to have a go-to person in the post, you need to shoot well. That's the formula for being a good road team. We haven't quite shown that yet. But (Monday) night was some of the best basketball we have played all year."

View from the top

The view is pretty good from the top of the Pac-12 standings. While the conference's top teams have done epic battle through the bulk of the conference season so far, only one has emerged almost entirely unscathed.

Oregon State assumed a one-game lead with six to go following UCLA's upset win over Stanford Monday night. Meanwhile, Oregon State took care of business against the Arizona schools on the road.

"Winning is fun," said Oregon State coach Scott Rueck.

Hard to argue.

The Beavers continue to ride their stellar defensive play and the leadership of Sydney Wiese in a bruising, but successful Pac-12 run.

"We have gotten the stops we've needed, and we have a closer in Syd," Rueck said. "Our execution down the stretch has really closed the door in tough games."

The Beavers will host the Los Angeles schools this coming weekend, before heading to Colorado and Utah and then finishing with the Bay Area schools in Corvallis before the Pac-12 Tournament.

"This conference is what it is, an absolute grind," Rueck said. "I just want to see some increased offensive efficiency and to maintain what we are doing on defense. We have six tough games, but I like the maturity of our team on the road."

Sun Devils regrouping

Arizona State. The Sun Devils have lost four of their last five games – and 5 of 7 overall – to drop to 6-6 in the conference standings.

It was an undeniably tough stretch, facing Stanford, UCLA and Oregon State over the course of a four-game span, and ASU didn't get what it wanted, at least one big, statement-making win.

"We are hanging in there," said ASU coach Charli Turner Thorne. "It's nice to get back on track and get some perimeter shooting."

The Sun Devils are still playing without one of their top perimeter scorers, guard Kelsey Moos. Moos who has missed 10 games with a foot injury, might be ready to return to the lineup as soon as this weekend at Washington State and Washington. But Turner Thorne sounded skeptical.

"She's day by day, but I'm not super confident she will be ready this weekend. I think it will be one more week," Turner Thorne said.

But Moos will bring back a level of experience that the Sun Devils need as they move forward with three freshmen averaging 28 minutes a gain in the backcourt.

"It is what it is," Turner Thorne said. "I'm excited for this group. I don't think I've ever had four freshmen and a sophomore as my perimeter game. They are positive, they work hard and we are getting better. I think we'd be right there in the mix, had Kelsey not gotten hurt. But she did. And I think we have what it takes to finish strong enough to get a decent seed in the conference tournament."

Cardinal potential postseason

Stanford has been ranked 300 straight weeks, second behind Connecticut's streak of 445 straight weeks. According to women's basketball guru Mel Greenberg, Tara VanDerveer (518 weeks) needs five more AP women's basketball poll appearances to move to No. 2 behind Pat Summitt (618) and ahead of Andy Landers (522).

Stanford made the biggest jump from No. 12 to No. 8 in the NCAA Top 16 rankings, a preview of the team's that might be in position to host NCAA Tournament games next month.

But there is one small problem for the Cardinal. Stanford will be unable to host NCAA Basketball games in March in the first and second rounds because Stanford will be hosting the Pac-12 Gymnastics Championships at Maples Pavilion, meaning the Cardinal will have to go on the road for the first two rounds of the NCAA Tournament, even if they are a top 4 seed. That puts Stanford in the unenviable position of potentially a second-round game against a lower-seed team on their home floor.

Pac-12 Feature: UCLA's Jordin Canada Sets Up Teammates for Success

*By Michelle Smith, Pac-12 Conference
Feb. 24, 2017*

Jordin Canada already knows what her lesson is from the 2016-17 season.

"Don't underestimate anyone," Canada said.

With two regular-season games to go against Arizona and Arizona State, a first-round bye in the Pac-12 Tournament already locked up and the NCAA Tournament on the horizon, it's a good time to remember that winning is anything but a given.

The Bruins head into the final weekend of Pac-12 play with a 20-7 record, 11-5 in the Pac-12.

UCLA has stumbled on the road in conference play, getting swept in Washington in January and then in Oregon earlier this month.

That is not a pattern that Canada wants to repeat in the season-closing road trip to the desert. UCLA is coming off a big homestand that included an 11-point over Washington last Friday.

"When we execute the game plan, we play well," Canada said. "I was proud of the way we bounced back after the losses in Oregon. We are going to need more of that this weekend in Arizona."

Canada is leaving out some of the salient details. On Friday, against the Huskies, Canada came in off the bench after missing practice the entire week recovering from a whiplash sustained against Oregon State the previous weekend. Canada finished the game with 22 points.

And then came the food poisoning.

"She hasn't been herself all week," said UCLA coach Cori Close. "She's about 80-85 percent, but I think she will be 100 percent by the time the Pac-12 Tournament starts."

The Bruins will need more of everything that Canada, the stellar junior guard, provides.

Canada, the Pac-12's assists (6.74 apg) and steals (2.44) leader, also leads UCLA in minutes played (34.3 per game) and is second in scoring just behind Monique Billings (17.6 ppg).

"She has been better in every numerical category this year," Close said. "But what you don't see in the statistics is what she does on the defensive end. Her ability to guard all different kinds of people...She doesn't let you get the ball into the post. She doesn't let you bring the ball up. She's really playing at a whole different level."

Canada said her goals for the season were to improve her 3-point shooting, her pick-and-roll play and making her teammates better.

Close said she's done that too, using her assists numbers as evidence. But there's more to it than that, the coach said.

"If you were to ask them, they would tell you, 'She's setting us up better,'" Close said. "She is thinking about the game more globally."

Canada was inspired by a conversation

she had with U.S. Olympian and WNBA Champion Sue Bird, one of the greatest point guards in team history.

Bird's advice, "Your job is to set up the team."

"She's always been such a competent scorer, but this was a new role for her," Close said. "It's something we've been talking to her about, but when you hear it from Sue Bird..."

UCLA was picked to win the conference in the preseason poll, and Canada admitted to a little disappointment that the Bruins aren't in the title chase heading into the final weekend.

But she also knows there is a lot more basketball to be played and she wants her team to be playing at the highest level.

"We just want to be in a good position heading into the Pac-12 Tournament and then into the NCAA Tournament," Canada said. "We need to stay locked into our game plan."

Los Angeles Times Feature: Kari Korver is UCLA's spiritual leader

*By Lindsey Thiry, Los Angeles Times
Mar. 17, 2017*

UCLA opens play in the NCAA tournament Saturday with the goal of extending its season, and the career of Kari Korver.

Korver isn't the Bruins' best player, but she leads the team in motivation.

"Shoot, I want to coach for Kari," Bruins Coach Cori Close said after practice this week. "Kari has served the individuals in this program, she has served the mission of this program and she has sacrificially loved the people in this program."

Said teammate Jordin Canada: "Everything that Kari does behind the scenes is just unbelievable ... she just cares about this team so much and is really the face of UCLA."

Korver, a member of Close's first recruiting class at UCLA in 2012, has played in every game of her five-year career with the exception of a redshirt season that she took after suffering a severe knee injury. This season, Korver is averaging 8.0 points and 3.0 rebounds as one of two players to make all 31 starts.

"It's always been more about my relationships with the girls on this team than how I performed on the court," said Korver, who is known to leave handwritten notes in teammates' lockers after a tough practice.

Said Canada: "She's always just encouraging us. That's something that people don't see."

Korver's career will stretch at least another 40 minutes Saturday when the Bruins (23-8), the No. 4-seeded team in the Bridgeport Regional, plays host to No. 13 Boise State at Pauley Pavilion.

A perfect ending for Korver and the Bruins would be to advance to the Final Four in Dallas, but to do it they not only would have to defeat Boise State and win again on Monday, but they would also have to get past undefeated Connecticut, the top overall seeded team, in a regional semifinal.

UCLA reached the third round last year before falling to Texas. The Bruins have not made it beyond regional play since 1999.

Boise State (25-7) enters the tournament on a 10-game win streak after winning the Mountain West tournament. This is the program's fourth trip the NCAA tournament, where it has yet to win a game.

"They're athletic," Close said. "They get out and they pressure passing lanes and they hit the three very well."

Said UCLA forward Monique Billings: "They're a really good rebounding team; they have really good three-point shooters. So we are just going to have to be ... just really aggressive, setting the tone and just having them match our aggressiveness."

UCLA finished fourth in the Pac-12 Conference regular season and had won five in a row before falling to Oregon State in a conference tournament semifinal.

Canada and Billings, both juniors, have led the way.

"Canada just controls the game," Close said. "I don't think you can always tell how well Jordin plays by just the numbers. You have to watch her."

Canada leads the Bruins in scoring and assists, averaging 18.0 points and 6.6 assists per game.

Billings averages a double-double in the post.

"She has a various amount of post moves that make her almost impossible to guard," Close said.

The winner of Saturday's first-round game will advance to play the winner of No. 5 Texas A&M (21-11) and No. 12 Pennsylvania (22-7) on Monday at Pauley Pavilion.

Great chemistry helps UCLA women's basketball do the dirty work

*By Robert Morales, Los Angeles Daily News
Mar. 16, 2017*

One reason why the UCLA women's basketball team is 23-8 is because it has a solid offense that averages 73.9 points. But defense, and all that it entails, is probably more responsible.

The Bruins allow only 64 points. They out-rebound opponents by an average of 2.5. They harass teams into 17.5 turnovers per game while committing only 12.1, they average 10.2 steals to just 6.6 for their opponents and they average 5.0 blocks while giving up 2.7.

It's tough to get teams to buy into doing all those little things, because they're not as sexy as a 3-point basket or a sweet dribble-drive and dazzling finish. Not for No. 4-seeded UCLA, which at 3:30 p.m. on Saturday will take on No. 13 Boise State (25-7) in the first round of the NCAA Tournament at Pauley Pavilion (on ESPN2).

No. 5 Texas A & M (21-11) and No. 12 Penn (22-7) will tangle after UCLA-Boise State, about 6 p.m., with the winners playing Monday for a berth in the Sweet Sixteen.

According to sixth-year Bruins coach Cori Close and her players, a tremendous team chemistry is why the team just loves doing the dirty work.

"Yes, of course, on and off the court," said junior point guard Jordin Canada, who averages 18.0 points, 6.5 assists and 2.5 steals - all team-highs - and 5.3 rebounds. "We have a lot of team bonding off the court and that helps us get to know each other more, which makes for a better team on the court.

"During practice, we fight for each other and that's what has built our team chemistry over the years."

According to Close, "Chemistry is everything."

It helps with execution.

"Absolutely," said Close, who a season ago led the Bruins to the first Sweet Sixteen appearance since 1999. "I mean, you're in essence, saying, 'We're going to war together. For the next two hours, we are putting ourselves out on the line and it's going to be hard, it's going to be difficult, things aren't going to go our way.'

"And if you have a really strong chemistry, you just have a confidence about you that, 'My teammate's got my back.' "

Close made sure her point was properly received.

"I think sometimes when you say team chemistry, you think, 'Oh, that just means they like each other,' like it's tea and crumpets or something," she said. "Our chemistry is not about tea and crumpets. It's not any Kumbaya, campfire thing.

"It's about, 'I'm committed to you. You're my sister and I've done the work off the court to know you, I've done the work to serve you as your teammate.' It's sacrificial. And there's a commitment level."

Junior forward Monique Billings said her team's do-it-all credo is a sign of maturity. She gave an example of how it works.

"People aren't afraid to challenge each other and just really get in each other's faces about what needs to happen," she said. "If I mess up on defense, if I'm not handling my assignment, Kari (Korver) is going to come up to me and say, 'Mo, get yourself together. This isn't you.'

"And I'm going to say, 'OK,' because I trust her and she trusts me."

Korver, a senior guard, leads the team in 3-point baskets with 62. But again, this team talks about more than its offense.

"We talk about passion plays a lot, which is just 50-50 balls, deflections, just trying to make plays that don't come up on the stat sheet," Korver said. "And, hopefully, those are going to be the things that lead to points."

They have, so far.

Point guards loom large in UCLA, Texas A&M matchup

*By Robert Morales, Los Angeles Daily News
Mar. 19, 2017*

It was Sunday, about 11:30 a.m., when UCLA junior point guard Jordin Canada sat down inside the media room at Pauley Pavilion. The night before, Canada and her teammates watched fifth-seeded Texas A&M come from 21 points down in the fourth quarter to defeat No. 12 Penn 63-61 in the first round of the NCAA Tournament.

That meant the fourth-seeded Bruins would next take on the Aggies on Monday at 7 p.m. at Pauley Pavilion (on ESPNU) for a ticket to the Sweet 16, where either top seed UConn or No. 8 Syracuse will await.

"My first thought was that they're tough," said Canada, whose team walloped No. 13 Boise State 83-56 on Saturday. "Penn was very good and they executed very well. But I thought that Texas A&M just battled and they fought in the fourth quarter and that's what got them back and made them take the lead."

It was an eye-opener.

"So for us, we have to know that they're not just going to give up," Canada said. "We have to keep punching and keep fighting for 40 minutes."

Bruins coach Cori Close said she allowed her players to leave if they wanted to after the third quarter of Texas A&M's victory, so not all of them witnessed the furious rally.

Close stayed, though, and she knew something could happen.

"They've come (from) behind a lot and I think you saw that they referenced that in their own minds, that they were never down and out," she said. "I've coached against (Aggies head coach) Gary Blair and (assistant) Bob Starkey for years and years and I just kept saying to myself, 'There's a run coming, there's a run coming.'"

One of the potentially exciting things about this game will be the matchup of point guards - Canada and senior Curtyce Knox of Texas A&M. Canada averages 17.9 points and 6.8 assists. She had 15 points and a school-record-tying 16 assists Saturday. Knox averages 10.7 points and 9.1 assists. She had an off-night shooting Saturday, scoring seven points on 3 of 12 from the field. She doled out eight assists.

Close said although she will mix it up defensively, Canada will be the primary defender on Knox. Canada is looking forward to it.

"I mean, it's going to be about what point guard can control the game better and what point guard can get their teammates involved the most," she said. "We love to pass the ball, both of us, and we take over when we need to. So it's going to be a fun matchup."

Knox echoed that sentiment.

"We watched a little bit of film on them this morning and she's a very quick point guard," Knox said. "I think she's the quickest point guard I'm going to play against this year, so I'm very excited for that matchup."

Defense and rebounding, as usual, will be big. The Bruins were outrebounded 39-37 by Boise State, which took down 22 offensive rebounds. The Aggies outrebounded Penn 45-34, getting 21 offensive boards.

"You notice last night how many more shots on the goal that Texas A&M got than Penn," Close said; Penn took 53 shots, the Aggies took 66 and shot just 30.3 percent. "You can't allow Texas A&M to get that many more shots."

UCLA 6-foot-4 junior forward Monique Billings will be counted on to help the Bruins in the paint. She's averaging 10.6 rebounds. Sophomore forward Anriel Howard is averaging 10.5 for the Aggies and junior center Khaalia Hillsman is at 8.2; Hillsman, who is 6-5, also averages 16.5 points after scoring 27 Saturday.

"Hillsman, she's a load, boy," Close said. "If she gets deep and gets position and gets touches where she wants to, there is nothing we can do about it."

Hillsman figures she is going to see a lot of Billings, who gets up and down the court like a guard.

"I know personally, for myself, I'm going to have to sprint back every possession because she's extremely athletic, she's extremely long and mobile," Hillsman said. "She's really a 4, but she's playing the 5."

UCLA Women's Head Coach Cori Close Follows John Wooden's Example

By Howard Megdal, New York Times
Nov. 16, 2017

Every day on her way to the practice floor at Pauley Pavilion, U.C.L.A.'s women's basketball coach, Cori Close, makes a point of walking past the 10 banners for the national championships the Bruins' men's team won under John Wooden.

Close, born in 1971, is too young to remember watching Wooden's teams. But after a stellar playing career at the University of California, Santa Barbara, she received the chance to meet and then get to know Wooden through her first job out of college, as an assistant for U.C.L.A.'s women's team. Steve Lavin, who coached the Bruins men at the time, introduced them.

Close and Wooden bonded over Close's first name, which she shared with Wooden's great-granddaughter. But that initial encounter spawned regular meetings, usually on Tuesday nights, for years, with Close returning to Wooden's house every chance she got. Wooden died in 2010, a year before Close returned to Westwood as head coach, but the lessons she took from those conversations continue to serve her today.

"I don't know why he let me continue that relationship with him," Close said. "The reality is, he's a much closer person to me than I am to him. And I'm just really humbled and thankful — not only just the stuff he talked to me about, but that I got to watch him live over a long period of time, for 15 years, really.

"I don't know exactly how it started, but I'm grateful that it did."

In important ways, she said, her teams are building on Wooden's legacy. While some critics of the women's game take pains to point out its differences with men's basketball, the similarities between the men's game of Wooden's time and the women's game of today are striking — much more so than the men's games of then and now, particularly in the aspects of coaching most important to Wooden.

"That's one of the reasons I love coaching women's basketball," Close said. "I don't have any one-and-doners. It's not just about helping them develop on the court. One of the things Coach Wooden talked about was being a part of young men's lives — nothing short of creating a transformational experience that helps them reach elite levels in basketball but also prepares them for life, equips them for something bigger and deeper.

"I do think the parallels are strong with women's basketball going back to Coach Wooden's time. It's still about growing young women. It's still about seeing their growth over four years, and that's really a joy to be a part of."

There is a logic to the idea that women's college basketball has, in many ways, reached the rough equivalent of what the Wooden Era was for the men's game. Consider that the N.C.A.A. tournament began in 1939 for the men, and Wooden won his 10th title in 1975, 36 years later. The obvious analogue to Wooden in the women's game is Connecticut's Geno Auriemma, who won his 11th title in 2016, 34 years after the N.C.A.A. created the women's tournament.

Auriemma, whose third-ranked Huskies meet No. 2 Baylor on Thursday night in one of the season's most eagerly awaited games, has long argued that the relative lack of parity at the very top of the women's college game is a consequence of a simple difference between the men's and women's versions: Many of the top male players leave after a single season, while women are not even eligible to declare for the W.N.B.A. unless they turn 22 during the calendar year of a draft.

"Maybe this year, we'll look up and see four completely different teams that have never been" in the Final Four, Auriemma said. "What are the chances of that? Slim. And the reason for that is that everybody stays four years. If we played with one-and-done, there'd be a lot of different teams every year in the Final Four. As long as we get to keep our players for four years, we're going to have a lot of the same teams."

Close is set to benefit from that reality. The Bruins' 2014 recruiting class, led by guard Jordin Canada and forward Monique Billings and rated as the best in the country at the time, has ripened, with the players now entering their junior seasons. U.C.L.A. reached the N.C.A.A. tournament's round of 16 in March and was picked by Pacific-12 coaches and the news media as the preseason favorite to win this season's conference title. An appearance in the Final Four would hardly be a surprise.

But for Close, Wooden's lessons have as much to do with appreciating the shared experiences she has enjoyed through her job as they do with continuing to develop a winning program.

"I remember having a conversation with Jordin Canada and Monique Billings about what they dream of doing in their hometowns," Close said, "and why they'd want the chance to create a legacy. And watching those building blocks right in front of my eyes, those are really special moments."

Wooden's most tangible, and best-known, guide to motivation is his celebrated Pyramid of Success. So Close had a huge version of the pyramid installed in her office. In her first two years, only the traits Wooden placed on the bottom level — industriousness, friendship, loyalty, cooperation and enthusiasm — were lit. In the next phase, the Bruins focused on Level 2: self-control, alertness, initiative and intentness.

"I would say that we're progressing to the third level, if I'm being honest," Close said. "And we're talking about skill now. The first several years were all about culture, habits, building the internal workings. Culture was very adult-driven the first few years. And now it's very player-driven. They're starting to protect the culture, fight for the culture, believe in the culture, and reinforce that. And that's really been a blessing for me because it's not about me. It's about equipping them to be leaders."

Because Wooden died before she took the U.C.L.A. job, Close knows that it is up to her to determine exactly when and how her team reaches the top of the pyramid: competitive greatness. Winning multiple national championships, the way Wooden did and Auriemma has, is not likely to be the determining factor.

Instead, Close looks back to a conversation she had, only days after taking the job, with one of Wooden's former players, John Vallely, a member of the Bruins' 1969 and 1970 title teams.

Close said: "He sat across from me and said: 'I've been married 38 years because of lessons Coach Wooden taught me. I started three successful businesses because of what Coach Wooden taught me. I conquered cancer because of what Coach Wooden taught me. I survived the death of my 12-year-old daughter because Coach Wooden loved me.'

"And for me, that's the standard. And so that's why we won't know. The top of the pyramid is really just the peace of mind, knowing you did your very best."
