What is your coaching philosophy?:

My philosophy involves building the whole player. I like to build off of the individual specific attributes that are strong, and grow the weaker areas. My overarching goal is to give players confidence to challenge themselves to failure as long as they learn and grow from it. They can learn that there is not one correct way of doing things on and off the field.

What is the most important skill you learned from soccer?

How to control your attitude and mindset when things are not going as you expected. You can't change the past, but can change the future with a short memory, positive outlook and the mentality to get what you want.

What do you love the most about coaching?

I love seeing the growth of players over time. How their hard work and dedication pays off and they become better players and individuals.

Why FC Dutchmen?

FC Dutchmen has become a 2nd family to me. The clubs overall philosophy and ways it tries to provide players and coaches the best opportunities to grow is second to none.
