The Georgia Bulldogs travel to Lexington, Ky., on Tuesday night to face Kentucky in an ESPN-televized Super Tuesday matchup.

In a couple of respects, the Bulldogs and Wildcats have been the SEC's most successful programs over the past two seasons. UGA and UK are the only two teams to earn top-4 seeds – and therefore “double-byes” – in the 2014 and 2015 SEC Tournaments. The Dogs and Cats also are the only two squads to reach the semifinals of both those tourneys.

The Bulldogs improved to 13-8 overall and 6-4 in SEC play with a pair of home victories last week. Georgia topped No. 25/23 South Carolina, 69-56, on Tuesday before besting Auburn, 65-55, on Saturday.

Junior J.J. Frazier leads Georgia offensively at 16.3 ppg. In SEC play, that average jumps to 16.8 ppg. Frazier currently ranks among the SEC's top-10 leaders in a league-most seven major statistical categories.

Three more Bulldogs are contributing points at a double-digit rate, both overall and in league action.

Yante Maten is posting 15.6 ppg and a team-high 7.9 rpg overall. In SEC games, Maten is averaging 14.7 ppg and 8.3 rpg. Seniors Kenny Gaines (14.0 overall/13.5 SEC) and Charles Mann (10.7 overall/11.3 SEC) round out Georgia's double-digits.

All told, the aforementioned quartet has posted 62 double-figure scoring outputs for the Bulldogs this season.

Kentucky upped its records to 17-6 overall and 7-3 in the SEC with an impressive 80-61 victory over Florida last Saturday.

Jamal Murray, the only Wildcat to start all 23 games, paces Kentucky on the offensive end at 18.3 ppg. Tyler Ullis chips in 16.3 ppg and an SEC-leading 7.1 apg. Alex Poythress adds 10.0 ppg and a team-best 6.6 rpg. Isaiah Briscoe is a single bucket shy of giving UK a fourth double-digit average at 9.9 ppg.

SERIES HISTORY WITH THE CATS

Kentucky owns 119-26 advantage in the all-time series between the Bulldogs and the Wildcats, including a 58-5 mark in Lexington.

In the most recent meeting last March 3 in Athens, Kentucky used 16-2 run in the final 4:48 to defeat Georgia 72-64 at Stegeman Coliseum in a game featured 18 lead changes.

“Really a hard-fought basketball game versus a great team that we have great respect for,” Mark Fox said. “Our effort wasn't good enough. We played hard, we played very well, but we didn't play perfect. And they are so dang good that you almost have to play perfect, and that's not realistic. You have to anticipate that you're not going to play perfect, but we played our tails off and it just wasn't quite good enough.”

After a 32-32 halftime tie, the Bulldogs went on a 13-2 run early in the second half to grab a 52-45 lead with 10:30 remaining. Georgia extended its lead to nine, the largest lead of the night, on a tip-in from Yante Maten at the 9:12 mark that put the Bulldogs up 56-47.

Georgia led 62-56 before an Aaron Harrison layup with 4:48 left began an 14-0 Kentucky run. Karl-Anthony Towns proved to be Kentucky's go-to option in the closing minutes, scoring seven points.

A complete box score from that game – as well as results from the last 10 games in the series – can be found in the right-hand column on Page 3 of these Game Notes.

One month earlier to the day the Bulldogs suffered a 69-58 setback to the Wildcats at Rupp Arena. Nemanja Djuricic paced the Bulldogs with 17 points on 7-of-10 shooting from the floor.

Down 15 at the break, Georgia rallied to cut the lead to as little as five points with just two minutes remaining. The comeback fell just short, however.

Kentucky jumped out to an early 11-1 lead, but Georgia fought back and narrowed the gap to six on two occasions.

The Bulldogs battled back in the second half, using a 20-9 surge to cut Kentucky's lead to 56-49. Georgia later cut the lead to just five points with 2:06 remaining, but Kentucky held the Dogs scoreless in the final two minutes.

LAST TIME OUT

Georgia picked up its second straight SEC win by defeating Auburn, 65-55, Saturday in front of a sold-out Stegeman Coliseum.

Georgia was led by J.J. Frazier with 16 points, followed by Charles Mann and Yante Maten with 12 points each. Maten paced the team with 12 rebounds for his fifth double-double of the season.

The Bulldogs held the Tigers to 25.9 percent shooting from the field.

After a slow start a Derek Ogbeide tip-in put Georgia up at the 16:36 mark, and the Bulldogs led the for the remainder of the game.

After owning a 31-22 lead at the half, Georgia opened the second stanza on an 18-5 spurt to take complete control of the contest. The Bulldogs held Auburn to just one field goal in the first 11 minutes in the second period. Georgia eventually led by 25 points twice, lastly at 60-35 before the Tigers closed the game on a 20-5 surge.

UGA IN MIDST OF MOST SEC SUCCESS

Georgia entered Southeastern Conference competition looking to extend its most successful two- and three-year stretches in league play ever.

The Bulldogs finished 11-7 and tied for third in the SEC last season. That followed a 12-6 record in 2013-14 when Georgia tied for second in the league and a 9-9 effort during the 2012-13 season.

The Bulldogs' 32 wins over the past three seasons and 23 during the past two campaign represent UGA's most ever.

Georgia is one of only two teams to secure a top-4 seed to each of the past two SEC Tournaments, along with Kentucky. The Bulldogs and Wildcats also are the only two teams to reach the semifinals of both the 2014 and 2015 SEC Tourneys.

REBOUND COUNT EQUALLY KEY

In addition to the scoreboard, the "board-board" has been a relatively strong indicator of Georgia's fortunes this season.

The Bulldogs are 11-0 when winning or tying the rebound count. That stat has been even more telling in SEC play, where Georgia is 6-0 when out-rebounding its opposition and 0-4 otherwise.

Last Tuesday's rebounding effort against South Carolina may have been the Bulldogs' best of the campaign to date. The Gamecocks entered the contest ranked first in the SEC and 10th nationally with a rebound margin of +9.9 before Georgia won the battle of the boards, 44-37.

DOGS DRAWING REGULAR SELLOUTS

Saturday's win over Auburn marked Georgia's third consecutive Saturday sellout crowd of 10,523 at Stegeman Coliseum. It also represented the Bulldogs' fourth capacity crowd in its last eight home outings.

DOGS' "D" HAS BEEN CONSISTENT

Georgia currently leads the SEC ranks No. 6 nationally in field goal defense, with opponents shooting just 37.5 percent. The Bulldogs have held 19 of 21 opponents – and all 11 non-conference foes – under their season FG percentage.

During the 2015 calendar portion of the schedule, Georgia's opponents connected on a paltry 36.6 percent (218-of-596) of their shots from the field against the Bulldogs. Subtract out those totals and UGA's opposition made 45.8 percent (3203-of-6990) of their field goals attempted.

Georgia also has held eight of its 10 SEC foes under their season FG percentage.

Florida became the first team to shoot a better percentage against the Bulldogs than otherwise. The Gators entered the SEC opener shooting 42.2 percent but hit 42.3 – yes, .1 of one percent better – versus Georgia.

Texas A&M became the first – and still only – team to make half its attempts against the Bulldogs, shooting 52.7 percent on Jan. 16.

MANN BREAKS UGA FT RECORD

With his successful trip to the line at the 8:22 mark of the second half against South Carolina, Charles Mann became Georgia Basketball's most prolific free throw shooter.

Mann broke Alec Kessler's Georgia career record for free throw makes. In January, Mann broke Litterial Green's UGA record for career free throw attempts.

Mann now has converted 559-of-813 free throw attempts for the Bulldogs and is the nation's active leader in trips to the line.

On the SEC's career leaders ledgers, Mann is currently No. 5 in free throw attempts and No. 6 in free throw makes as outlined below.

J.J. ALMOST EVERYWHERE IN SEC STATS

J.J. Frazier is ranked among the SEC's top-10 leaders in a league-high seven of 11 major statistical categories.

The 5-10, junior from Glennville, Ga., is currently ranked No. 4 in both 3-point percentage (.416) and steals (1.8 spg); No. 6 in assist-to-TOs (2.6 ratio); No. 7 in 3-pointers per game (2.5 3FGs pg); No. 8 in free throw percentage (.810); and No. 9 in both scoring (16.3 ppg) and assists (4.4 apg).

The only categories without Frazier listed are FG percentage, rebounds, blocks and minutes. Kentucky's Tyler Ulis, Tennessee's Kevin Punter and LSU's Ben Simmons are second to Frazier with top-10s rankings in six stats each.

In statistics for SEC games only, Frazier also is listed in seven of 11 stats, subtracting 3-pointers per game and adding field goal percentage on the aforementioned list.

GAINES, MANN REWRITING RECORDS

Kenny Gaines and Charles Mann are consistently making moves on UGA's career scoring leaders ledger.

Mann entered the season at No. 36 among the Bulldogs' all-time points leaders and has ascended into top-20 during last Saturday's victory over Auburn. Mann is currently the No. 19 scorer in Georgia Basketball history with 1,266 points – a dozen points shy of No. 18 tally of Charles Claxton.

Gaines became Georgia's 46th 1,000-point scorer against Clemson on Dec. 22. He is now No. 26, 50 points from No. 25 Ray Harrison.

A POSITIVE BREAKOUT

Not that the media needs any self affirmation but the folks who predicted Yante Maten would be one of the nation's "breakout" players this season – including those at CBS, NBC and SI – are probably feeling pretty good.

Most expected Maten to up his contributions following the departure of seniors front-court mates Nemanja Djuric and Marcus Thornton. He's done more than just that.

A year ago, Maten averaged 5.0 points, 4.3 rebounds and 18.2 minutes per game.

This season, Maten has more than tripled his scoring (15.6 ppg) and also has upped both his rebounding (7.9 rpg) and playing time (29.6 mpg) by massive chunks.

Maten posted four career-high scoring outputs in the first seven games, improving from 13 points entering the year to 17 points versus Chattanooga in the opener to 21 points to back-to-back outings against Seton Hall and Oakland and 24 points versus Winthrop.

Maten's increased production can actually be traced back to last year's postseason. He notched his first career double-double with 13 points and 10 rebounds against South Carolina in the quarterfinals of the SEC Tournament.

That opened an active 24-game stretch in which Maten has recorded 18 of his 22 double-digit scoring outputs, as well as all seven of his career double-figure rebounding efforts and all six of his double-doubles.

GEORGIA MAKING THE GRADE

Georgia has enjoyed great success both on the court and in the classroom during Mark Fox's tenure with the Bulldogs.

Georgia has three 20-win campaigns under Fox and is the midst of its winningest three-year stretch in SEC play ever (32 victories).

All told, 24 Bulldogs – including former NBA players Jarvis Hayes and Damien Wilkins – have graduated from UGA since Fox arrived in 2009. That tally features a current and former Bulldog who received their diplomas on Dec. 18.

Junior Juwan Parker (pictured above with Fox) earned his degree in Management, impressively in just two and a half years after his arrival in Athens. He will begin pursuing a master's degree in Sport Management in January. Adrian Jones, who played for the Bulldogs from 1997-01, also secured his bachelor's in Recreation and Leisure Studies. Three more – Kenny Gaines, Houston Kessler and Charles Mann – are on track to add to that total in May.

Georgia's academic successes are evident in the two primary tracking systems of the NCAA – the Academic Performance Rate (APR) and Graduation Success Rate (GSR). The Bulldogs are one of two SEC schools to receive public recognition from the NCAA for having an APR among the nation's top-10 percent twice in the past three years. In October, the NCAA announced that Georgia has a 100 percent GSR for its 2014-15 measuring window.

MANN JOINS UGA TOP-10 ASSIST LIST

Charles Mann moved into Georgia's all-time top-10 assists leaders during the Bulldogs' Jan. 23 victory over Arkansas.

Mann distributed five buckets-to-be against the Razorbacks to up his career total to 355. That tied Donald Hartry, who was a member of Georgia's 1983 NCAA Final Four and 1984 and 1986 NIT teams, for the No. 10 slot.

Mann enters the Kentucky game with 366 assists, 11 away from No. 9 Ray Harrison.

INJURIES AT AN INOPPORTUNE TIME

After a relatively injury-free preseason, the Bulldogs were bitten hard in the week of the season opener.

Following a Nov. 6 exhibition outing, freshman Derek Ogbeide (pronounced "Ohwg-Bay-Day") suffered a shoulder injury that kept him out of action for four weeks.

In addition, Juwan Parker, who started the first 18 games last season, has been held out of action since the exhibition due to soreness in his Achilles. Parker missed virtually the entire second half of last season due to that injury, which required offseason surgery.

The lateness of those changes forced Georgia to mix and match rotation combinations for much of the first several games.

OGBEIDE BACK, MAKING BIG STRIDES

Following the aforementioned injury-induced detour, Derek Ogbeide has shown signs of becoming an inside presence.

Ogbeide enjoyed an impressive unofficial debut in a Nov. 6 exhibition win over Armstrong State with a game-high 10 rebounds in 19 minutes of action.

Ogbeide suffered a right shoulder injury in practice thereafter and missed Georgia's first five games of the season.

He finally made his official premiere against Kansas State, checking at the 17:27 mark of the first half versus the Wildcats and playing two minutes in the contest.

"He was just cleared today a little before 2 o'clock," Mark Fox said. "I just wanted to get him 45 seconds here and there just to get him to relax and so he'd been out there before."

The day before the Kansas State contest Fox was asked about what Georgia was missing without Ogbeide.

"He would allow us to impose our size and physicality on people" Fox said.

The Pebblebrook High School product now is helping Georgia doing just that.

Ogbeide played a combined five minutes against Kansas State and Winthrop before UGA's 11-day break for Final Exams.

In the 14 games since, he is contributing 4.0 points and 5.2 rebounds in 13.8 minutes. Ogbeide's impact has been even more dramatic in SEC play where he is averaging 5.6 rpg. In fact, equating out 40-minute production makes Ogbeide the SEC's most proficient rebounder among league leaders in conference play as outlined below.

BULLDOGS IN THE BPI & RPI

Georgia is currently No. 52 in the ESPN's Basketball Power Index (BPI) and No. 66 in the NCAA's Ratings Percentage Index (RPI).

The Bulldogs' strength of schedule, which was ranked as the nation's toughest in both ledgers for a good bit of December, is now at No. 9 in the BPI and No. 27 in the RPI.

UGA'S ALL-SEC TANDEM...

Kenny Gaines and Charles Mann were both named preseason first-team All-SEC in voting of league coaches, becoming just the second duo of Bulldogs to earn first-team preseason honors since the recognition began prior to the 2004-05 season.

Travis Leslie and Trey Thompkins were first-team preseason All-SEC selections prior to the 2010-11 season.

Mann became Georgia's first-ever two-time first-team preseason All-SEC selection.

...HAS VERY STRONG TIES

The duo of Peach State natives Kenny Gaines, who is from Atlanta, and Charles Mann, who hails from Alpharetta, has played a significant role since they arrived on campus in 2012.

Between them, Gaines and Mann have a combined 232 games played, 174 starts and 6,010 minutes played.

Much of those numbers have been compiled together.

Gaines and Mann have started together for 77 of Georgia's 87 contests since the beginning of their sophomore year of 2013-14. All told, they have played 1,891 minutes and 40 seconds together at Georgia.

MORE PT FOR KPG

Kenny Paul Geno entered the 2015-16 season with a career high of 21 minutes played against Missouri late last season.

This season, Geno is averaging 20.8 minutes of action per game. The Booneville, Miss., native has matched or bettered his previous career-most MP in 10 games, including a career-best of 35 versus Chattanooga.

MANN'S VERSATILITY NOT JUST HYPE

It's not uncommon to hear a comment like "Ya know, he could play all five positions."

Charles Mann proved that isn't idle hyperbole when discussing his game, largely due to the aforementioned rotation shuffling early in the season following injuries to Derek Ogbeide and Juwan Parker.

Mann, one of two Bulldogs along with Yante Maten to start every game this season, got the nod at four different positions during Georgia's first eight outings.

He started at his natural '1' slot in five games but also did so at the '2' versus Winthrop, at the '3' against Georgia Tech and at the '5' – yes the '5' – against Chattanooga.

Against High Point, Mann saw action at all five spots. Perhaps most impressive was his defensive effort in several matchups with John Brown, the nation's No. 4 active scorer.

"He's been so unselfish and willing and has not complained one time," Mark Fox said.

TIGERS MAKE RECORD TRIPS TO LINE

LSU's 55 free throw attempts against the Bulldogs on Jan. 26 represented the most-ever by a Georgia opponent in 111 seasons – and 2,586 games played to that point – in the program's history.

Tim Quarterman made 19 trips to the charity stripe, and Ben Simmons ventured there on 17 occasions. Those efforts equaled the sixth- and eighth-most ever by opposing players against the Bulldogs.

Georgia was whistled for 33 fouls in Baton Rouge, tying the third-most in school history.

DOGS REWRITE DICKENS VS. VOLS

Sincerest of apologies to literature professors on UGA's North campus; however, it's too easy to compare Georgia's Jan. 13 game versus Tennessee with Charles Dickens' novel "A Tale of Two Cities."

As in "It was the worst of halves, it was the best of halves, it was the age of foolishness, it was the age of wisdom."

Georgia produced a season-low 28 first-half points against the Vols, largely due to 16 turnovers in the opening 20 minutes.

The Bulldogs followed that with a season-best 53 second-half points with only four giveaways in the period.

That was one of several season-high second-half tallies after intermission.

Georgia also produced its most second-half field goals (19), 3-pointers (seven) and rebounds (25) en route to turning a seven-point halftime deficit into a nine-point victory.

SMALL IN STATURE, BIG ON BOARDS

J.J. Frazier grabbed 10 rebounds against Winthrop on Dec. 8. In the process, the junior became the most prominent name on a list of Division I players under 6-feet tall.

A year ago, Frazier was among seven players under 6-feet who recorded a double-figure rebounding effort. He hauled in 11 boards against Seton Hall.

With his effort against Winthrop, Frazier joined five other under-6-foot players with 10 or more boards at that point this season.

Frazier and Frank Mason III of Kansas are the only players in the nation under 6-feet to have a double-figure rebounding performance in each of the past two seasons. Mason had 10 boards against Texas Tech on Jan. 10 and 10 versus Michigan State last year.

AND A WELL-ROUNDED EFFORT

Along with his 10 boards, J.J. Frazier also scored 15 points – for his first career double-double – and handed out five assists versus Winthrop.

Frazier became just the third Georgia player to post 15 points, 10 rebounds and five assists during Mark Fox’s six-plus seasons as the Bulldogs’ head coach.

Travis Leslie did so twice, both against Vanderbilt. Leslie had 21 points, 13 rebounds and five assists against the Commodores on Jan. 12, 2011, and also notched 22 points, 10 boards and five assists versus Vandy on Feb. 25, 2010. In addition, Trey Thompkins had 23 points, 14 rebounds and six assists against Arkansas in the first round of the SEC Tournament on March 11, 2010.

Thanks to stats guru Dave McMahon for compiling the data in the previous two notes on Frazier’s feats.

GAINES, FRAZIER EARN SEC HONORS

Senior Kenny Gaines and Junior J.J. Frazier were tabbed as the Southeastern Conference’s Player of the Week on Nov. 23 and Dec. 21, respectively.

Gaines, who shared the accolade with Tyler Ulis of Kentucky, was selected after his career-high 35-point outburst against Murray State. Gaines accounted for a school-record 55.6 percent of UGA’s points in the 63-52 win. He also equaled the No. 15 single-game scoring output by a Bulldog, as well as tying marks for No. 6 in 3-pointers made (7) and No. 5 in 3-pointers attempted (14).

Frazier was chosen after he scored 35 points against Georgia Tech, the highest output ever by a Bulldog against the Yellow Jackets. Frazier also dished out four assists, meaning he had a hand in 43 (57.3 percent) of the Bulldogs’ 75 points in the contest. He scored 22 second-half points and converted on 8-of-8 attempts at the line in the final 1:29 to ice the game’s outcome.

MATEN A 20-POINT REGULAR

Yante Maten notched seven 20-point performances in a 10-game span from Nov. 28-Jan. 9.

That stretch featured four straight 20-plus games against Seton Hall (21), Oakland (21), Kansas State (20) and Winthrop (24)

During those 10 games, Maten averaged 18.6 ppg and connected on 60.2 percent of his shots from the floor and 79.0 percent of his free throws.

FRAZIER, GAINES POP FOR 35 EACH

Senior Kenny Gaines and junior J.J. Frazier became the first pair of Bulldog teammates to score 35 points or more in a game during the same season.

Gaines poured in 35 points against Murray State on Nov. 20, and Frazier then matched that output against Georgia Tech on Dec. 19.

Only four times have the Bulldogs had two 35-point performances in a single season, and the other three instances involved a single player doing so.

In 1952-53, Zippy Morocco scored 38 points vs. Tennessee and 37 vs. Alabama. In 1974-75, Jacky Dorsey posted 43 vs. Southern Miss and 41 vs. LSU. In 1990-91, Litterial Green notched 38 vs. UCLA and 35 vs. Florida.

Frazier, who also scored a career-high 37 at Mississippi State on Jan. 24 last season, joined the aforementioned trio of and Willie Anderson as the only five Georgia players to score 35 points or more on two occasions.

GAINES PUTS UP RECORD PERCENTAGE

Kenny Gaines scored 35 of Georgia’s 63 points against Murray State on Nov. 20. His accounting for 55.6 percent of the Bulldogs’ points that night represented the largest chunk by a single player in program history.

Gaines’ performance was just the eighth time a Bulldog has scored half of Georgia’s points going as far back as complete records for UGA Basketball exist (beginning with the 1960-61 season) as outlined below.

THE MOST...FOULS...EVER

A great deal of digging through dusty files (by sports communications intern Brandon Weiss) revealed that the 63 combined fouls against Chattanooga is likely the most ever in a Georgia game.

UGA archives provide complete box scores beginning with the 1960-61 season. No game since then – all 1,649 of them from the start of the 1960-61 campaign through the matchup with the Mocs – featured as many as fouls.

In fact, only one contest featured 60 fouls. On Feb. 17, 2007, Georgia and Auburn committed 27 and 33 infractions, respectively.

A CHALLENGING NON-CONFERENCE

Georgia's 11 non-conference opponents this season averaged 19.3 wins a year ago and compiled an average NCAA RPI of 115.

"Our goal was a non-conference schedule that would put us in a proper position with the strength of schedule numbers at the end of the season," Mark Fox said. "You never know what kind of season a team will have, but with the numbers from last year, I think we've been able to establish the strength of schedule we want and need."

Five of Georgia's 11 non-conference opponents played into March last season: NCAA participants Baylor and Robert Morris, NIT quarterfinalist Murray State and CIT teams High Point and Oakland.

Nine of 11 the Bulldogs' non-conference opponents ranked No. 153 or better in the final NCAA RPI for the 2014-15 season, and Georgia's 2015-16 slate includes only one team that finished with an RPI in the 200s.

Last season's average RPI is the best by Georgia's non-conference foes since its 2001-02 non-conference opposition finished with an average RPI of 111 during 2000-01.

B.Y. RECEIVES A SCHOLLY

Following two seasons as a walk-on, Brandon Young was placed on scholarship. Mark Fox announced the move during Georgia preseason banquet on Nov. 3.

Fox introduced each player on the Bulldogs' roster alphabetically before arriving at Young, the final name in that process.

"Brandon grew up in a family that loves the University of Georgia," Fox said. "He grew up - much like Houston (Kessler) - bleeding Red and Black. But what I love about 'B.Y.' - and I think our players would say the same thing - is that Brandon Young epitomizes everything that a Georgia Bulldog should be. He's a great student. He's a wonderful person. He is a terrific player. He is the best teammate - would everyone agree? - the best teammate on this team. Because of all that 'B.Y.' I think we should give you a scholarship tonight."

Young was then mobbed by his teammates.

Young was a two-sport standout in basketball and football at the Marist School in Atlanta before joining the Bulldogs in 2013.

Young received the team's Most Inspirational Award last season.

BULLDOGS SIGN CRUMP, HARRIS

Tyree Crump and Jordan Harris, a pair of premier perimeter players generally regarded as top-100 national prospects, signed letters-of-intent with Georgia on Wednesday, Nov. 11.

Both players are from Southwest Georgia. Crump attends Bainbridge High, and Harris is from Seminole County High.

"We are excited to welcome both Tyree and Jordan into our program," Mark Fox said. "They are both very talented basketball players from the state of Georgia who have grown up as fans of UGA and will now have the opportunity to play for the Dogs. We expect both of these guys to be great additions to our team."

Crump (6-2, 175) was named first-team All-State for Class 4A by the Atlanta Journal-Constitution as a junior after earning second-team recognition for Class 5A as a sophomore. Last season, Crump averaged 22.6 points, 4.7 rebounds and 3.3 assists per game for the Bearcats. That followed his averaging 22.4 points, 4.7 rebounds and 2.1 assists per game as a sophomore when Bainbridge reached the quarterfinals of the state tournament. As a freshman, Crump contributed 14.3 ppg.

"Tyree is a very good athlete and has demonstrated a great ability to shoot and score," Fox said. "He is a very competitive young man who we certainly think will have a positive impact on our program in the very near future."

Harris (6-5, 175) was named 2015 Georgia Player of the Year for Class 2A by both the Georgia Sports Writers Association and the AJC after leading Seminole County to a state championship. Harris has been named All-State three times. He was a Class A honorable mention selection as a freshman and a second-team choice as a sophomore before Seminole County moved to Class 2A in 2014. Last season, Harris averaged 27.4 points, 11.2 rebounds, 7.2 assists, 3.6 steals and 1.9 blocks per game for the Indians.

"Jordan brings an element of length and athleticism into our program that we are very excited about," Fox said. "He has the ability to play multiple positions and we love the fact that he led his high school team to a state championship last year."
