

Privacy Policy

This website provides safe services, so we respect and protect the privacy rights of the website users.

The content below will help you understand how we collect, use, and protect the personal information that you provide.

Personal Information Collection Policy

To confirm the transactions and services you carry out on this website and to facilitate your access to the website information, we will ask you to provide personal information, including your user ID (account), password, name, ID number, contact number, fax number, email, contact address, etc.

Policy on the Use of Collected Personal Information

All information that you provide on this website is only used for transaction-related operations and when sending event information, newsletters, or mailed DMs.

Policy on Sharing Data with Third Parties

1. Personal information collected by this site will never be arbitrarily sold, exchanged, or rented out to other organizations or individuals, or used for other uses other than those listed above without your prior permission.
2. If in order to provide other services or preferential rights this website needs to share user information with a third party that provides the service or benefit (jointly launching an event or special offer with other business partners), we will provide a full explanation at the event. You can choose whether to accept that service or offer at your discretion.

Cookies Use and Policy

Cookies are short text data that the browser writes onto the user's hard drive in order to distinguish the user's different preferences. You can choose to modify your browser's acceptance of cookies. If you use IE (Internet Explorer), this feature is in the ""Security"" section of ""Internet Options."" If you use Netscape, this feature is in the ""Advanced"" section of ""Feature Settings."" There are three levels here, including allowing all cookies, being notified when cookies are set, rejecting all cookies, etc. If you choose to reject all cookies, you may not be able to use some personalized services or participate in certain activities on the site.

In order to improve the convenience and accuracy of user input data and to provide better services, the data fields on the website will use cookies to store the data you have entered. Therefore, under this policy principle, the hotel website will write and read cookies in your browser.

Regarding the Right to Amend the Terms of Privacy Rights Protection

To fulfill the intention of protecting the privacy of users, this website's terms of privacy rights protection will be appropriately modified in accordance with technological development trends, revisions of related laws and regulations, or other environmental changes. The revised terms will be adjusted at any time and immediately published on this website.