

IGA FOR SOLIDS AND STRUCTURES

*Alessandro Reali*¹, Roger Sauer² and Thomas Elguedj³*

¹Universita degli Studi di Pavia

²Aachen University

³INSA-Lyon

MINISYMPOSIUM

From the beginning, isogeometric analysis has been successfully applied to the discretization of a wide range of problems in solid and structural mechanics. This minisymposium provides a platform for exchanging novel and innovative research in this area, including new method developments and applications in continuum solid mechanics, structural mechanics, contact, damage and fracture, and coupled problems.