COVERING THE CAVALIERS

UNIQUELY UVA

The University of Virginia is an institution rich with history and tradition. Here is some of the terminology that contributes to UVA's culture.

Grounds: The term used by students, faculty and alumni to refer to the University dating as far back as Thomas Jefferson. "Campus" is never used.

First Year, Second Year, Third Year, Fourth Year: Instead of freshman, sophomore, junior, senior. Why you may ask? To be a "senior" implies that a person has reached the final phase of learning, a feat that Thomas Jefferson believed to be impossible, arguing instead that education is a life-long process.

Commonwealth: Virginia is one of four constituent states of the United States of America that officially uses the name "Commonwealth" instead of the word state in all references. The other three commonwealths are Kentucky, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania.

UNIVERSITY NICKNAMES

Virginia's athletics teams have been accompanied by a somewhat confusing array of nicknames. The most prominent and widely accepted of these monikers are "Cavaliers," "Wahoos" and "Hoos."

Although the terms "Cavaliers," "Wahoos" and "Hoos" are used almost interchangeably to refer to University teams and players, "Cavaliers" is more often used by the media, while "Wahoos" and "Hoos" are frequently used by Virginia students and fans.

Legend has it that Washington & Lee baseball fans dubbed the Virginia players "Wahoos" during the fiercely contested rivalry that existed between the two in-state schools in the 1890s. By 1940, "Wahoos" was in general use around Grounds to denote University students or events relating to them. The abbreviated "Hoos" sprang up later in student newspapers and has gained growing popularity in recent years.

THE CAVALIER MASCOT

The costumed Cavalier with a large character head debuted during Virginia's 1984 football season and has remained the official mascot of the University.

UNIVERSITY COLORS

Orange and blue were adopted as the University of Virginia's official athletic colors at a mass student meeting in 1888. UVA athletic teams had previously worn silver gray and cardinal red, but those colors did not stand out on muddy football fields, prompting a student movement to change them.

One of the students attending the mass meeting was Allen Potts, a star athlete who played on Virginia's first football team in 1888. Potts showed up at the meeting wearing a navy blue-and-orange scarf that he had acquired during a summer boating expedition at Oxford University. Orange and blue were chosen as the official athletic colors after one of Potts' fellow students pulled the scarf off Potts' neck and, waving it to the crowd, yelled, "How will this do?" UVA later served as the inspiration for schools like Auburn and Florida when they selected school colors.

WAH-HOO-WAH

The origin of "Wah-hoo-wah" is uncertain. The cheer was used to root on Virginia teams as early as 1890 and may have been borrowed from Dartmouth College, whose athletics teams were once known as the Indians.

Legend attributes the yell to Natalie Floyd Otey, who sang the ballad "Where'er You Are, There Shall My Love Be" at Charlottesville's Levy Opera House in 1893. The predominantly student audience noticed that Otey warbled the first three words of the song between each of the stanzas and decided to join in the refrain. By evening's end, goes the legend, the crowd had corrupted "Where'er You Are" into "Wah-hoo-wah."

The Levy Opera House stands at the corner of High Street and Park Street and has since been renovated into an office building.

THE SERIES VS. THE BLUE DEVILS

- Virginia leads the all-time series by a 49-34 margin, but Duke has won 19 of the last 20.
- Duke had won eight in a row before losing to UVA in the ACC Tournament on April 23, 2010, serving as the longest series winning streak since winning seven in a row from 1939-50.
- UVA and Duke played three times in 2010. After UVA beat the Blue Devils in the 2010 ACC Tournament, Duke topped the Cavaliers in the 2010 NCAA semifinal round, 14-13, starting a current 11-game winning streak for the Blue Devils.
- The Cavaliers have defeated Duke more than any other team in school history but one (UNC-52).
- No current Cavalier has ever beaten Duke in their careers.

DUKE SHUTS DOWN THE CAVALIER OFFENSE

- Duke has been among the most powerful offenses in the country recently, but it has been the Blue Devil defense that has helped during the streak of 19 wins over last 20 meetings with UVA.
- The Cavaliers reached double figures in 34-of-35 meetings from 1962-98, but have scored 10+ in just 15 of the last 30.
- Virginia reached double digits once during the former eight-game losing streak to Duke (2009 regular season).
- Prior to the regular season loss in 2009, the last time Virginia scored at least 10 goals occurred in a 13-4 win in 2004, which also represented UVA's last victory until a 16-12 triumph on April 23, 2010 in the ACC Tournament in College Park, Md.

TURNER AGAINST DUKE

- It was 12 years ago in the regular season that current UVA assistant coach Kip Turner made 20 saves against Duke in a 7-6 overtime loss in Durham, N.C., on April 14, 2017.

TIFFANY CONNECTED TO UVA'S TITLE COACHES

- UVA head coach Lars Tiffany is connected in the lacrosse world to both Glenn Thiel and Dom Starsia, the two Virginia coaches who brought NCAA titles to Charlottesville.
- Tiffany played for Starsia at Brown and coached under Thiel at Penn State (2000-04).

CHAMPIONSHIP WEEKEND NO STRANGER TO STAFF

- UVA head coach Lars Tiffany and assistants Kip Turner and Sean Kirwan are no strangers to Championship Weekend. The trip brought Brown to Championship Weekend in 2016.
- Turner won a championship in 2006 as the starting goalie of Virginia. That championship was won in Philadelphia.
- Kirwan won a DIII championship at Championship Weekend in 2010 as a player at Tufts and as a coach at Tufts in 2014.
- Volunteer assistant Coach Bo Lori also has Championship Weekend experience as a player. Lori played for Ohio State as the Buckeyes made Championship Weekend in 2017, losing in the title game to Maryland.

UVA IN CHAMPIONSHIP WEEKEND FOR 23RD TIME

- Virginia is making its 23rd appearance at Championship Weekend and its first since 2011 when the Cavaliers won their fifth NCAA title.
- UVA is No. 4 all-time in NCAA semifinal appearances, trailing only Johns Hopkins (29), Syracuse (26) and Maryland (26).
- UVA is 9-13 all-time in the NCAA semifinal round.

CONRAD IS A SPECIAL KIND OF MIDFIELDER

- Ryan Conrad has 83 ground balls and 46 points (28-18) this season.
- Conrad is the only player in the nation with at least 70 ground balls and 11+ points. Yale's faceoff specialist TD Ierlan is the closest to Conrad, tallying 10 points to go with his nation-leading 262 ground balls.
- Conrad leads the nation's offensive players with 83 ground balls.
- Running on UVA's first midfield, Conrad has 28 goals and 18 assists.
- Conrad trails only FO specialist Petey LaSalla (89) for the UVA team lead in ground balls.
- UVA is No. 1 in the nation in ground balls per game with 41.06 per game. More on UVA and the ground ball on page 12.

He had 25 against Princeton and 20 at Stony Brook last season.

- Klöckner Stadium first hosted lacrosse in 1993.

A LACROSSE FIRST IN 2019

- Virginia scored seven goals on its first seven shots of the game against VMI on April 16. No team in the country this year has accomplished this feat. UVA won the game 24-5.
- Also from the VMI game, UVA's 24 goals are the most scored by the Cavaliers in a game since scoring 24 against VMI in 2008. The score of the 2008 game with the Keydets was also 24-5.

WIN STREAK NUGGETS

- Early this season UVA enjoyed its first eight-game winning streak since starting the 2012 season 8-0. The streak was snapped at Duke (April 13).
- After winning the first three games of the streak in overtime, UVA had outscored opponents by a 5.6 goals average over the last five wins of the streak.
- UVA's eight-game winning streak was the longest active streak in the nation at the time it was snapped.

VIRGINIA AND OVERTIME IN 2019

- UVA is 4-0 in overtime in 2019.
- It is the most times UVA has played overtime in a season since going to overtime five times in 2008.
- UVA is 6-2 all-time in overtime under Lars Tiffany, including 2-1 at Klöckner Stadium.
- UVA had a three-game stretch where the Cavaliers played three overtime games in a row.
- It is only the third time in program history UVA played three consecutive games that went to overtime. It was the first time in program history UVA won all three games with wins at then-No. 19 Princeton (12-11), at then No. 14 Syracuse (15-14) and vs. Brown (14-13).
- UVA last played three consecutive overtime games in 2017, going 1-2 with wins vs. Cornell and back-to-back losses to Notre Dame and Johns Hopkins. UVA also played three overtime games in a row in the 1980 NCAA Tournament, beating Cornell and North Carolina before falling to Johns Hopkins in double OT for the NCAA title.
- UVA has never played four consecutive overtime games.

TIFFANY DOES A RARE THING VS. BROWN

- UVA head coach Lars Tiffany has been the head coach at Stony Brook, Brown and now Virginia.
- With UVA's win over Brown, Tiffany owns at least one career win over every program he has served as a head coach. Tiffany is 2-0 all-time against Stony Brook, winning once as the Brown head coach and once as the UVA head coach. Tiffany is 1-1 against Virginia, winning as the Brown head coach and losing as the Stony Brook head coach. He is 1-0 against Brown, winning at the Virginia head coach.
- Only one other active coach that has had at least three DI head coaching jobs has career wins over each of the three programs he has coached. Tiffany joins Duke's John Danowski who coached C.W. Post when they were a DI program, as well as Hofstra and Duke. Danowski has beat all three of those DI programs as a DI head coach.

Loyola 17, Virginia 9
Feb. 9 • Baltimore, Md.

The No. 6 Virginia Cavaliers fell in the season opener against the No. 4 Loyola Greyhounds, 17-9, at the Ridley Athletic Complex.

The Greyhounds' goalie Jacob Stover was hot between the pipes, saving 18 shots by the Cavaliers. UVA opened the game with an extra-man goal by junior Dox Aitken 48 seconds into the game on a Michael Kraus helper. Loyola outscored UVA 8-3 the rest of the first half to take a four-point lead into the intermission, 8-4.

HOW IT HAPPENED

UVA was leading 1-0 when a 3-0 Loyola run gave the Greyhounds the lead for good, 3-1. Two goals by Loyola's Pat Spencer sparked a five-goal first quarter for LU.

After being outshot in the first quarter, 15-6, the Cavaliers managed 13 shots in the second quarter but only managed one goal as Stover made six saves in the second quarter.

Stover made seven saves in the third quarter as the Greyhounds started to pull away from UVA. Loyola picked up 11 ground balls in the fourth quarter and outscored UVA 5-2 in the final frame to solidify the win. Spencer and Kevin Lindley each scored five goals in the winning effort for Loyola, while Spencer also added two assists.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"Fantastic overall effort from the entire Loyola team. It would be easy to focus on a Herculean effort by their goalie, Jacob Stover, and certainly look at potentially the nation's best player in Pat Spencer and what those two did, but that would take away from the entire team effort that we encountered. It was a heck of a team effort by Loyola on both sides of the field. We tried to hold our slides on defense and they made us pay for that. When we did slide and double the ball, they seemed to find openings. It was one of those frustrating days as defensive coordinator trying to figure out the magic formula and there wasn't one. It is easier to learn from the sting of a loss and we have the opportunity to learn from this loss. I love this team." – Lars Tiffany.

Game 2

Virginia 11, Lehigh 8
Feb. 15 • Charlottesville, Va.

The No. 11 Virginia Cavaliers used an 8-2 run to overcome an early deficit and dispose of the Lehigh Mountain Hawks, 11-8, at Klöckner Stadium. The game which was originally scheduled for Saturday was moved up a day due to a forecast for inclement weather in the Charlottesville area.

Cavalier goalie Alex Rode made three key saves in the third quarter, two of which came in man-down situations. The saves aided Virginia in holding Lehigh scoreless for 19:57 from the second quarter until the fourth quarter.

HOW IT HAPPENED

For the second week in a row UVA scored first, but then found itself in a hole. With a 2-0 lead over the Mountain Hawks, Lehigh responded by scoring five goals in a row to take a 5-2 lead at 7:42 in the second quarter.

Lehigh owned a two-goal lead, 6-4, at halftime. UVA, who handed Lehigh three extra-man goals in the first half on four penalties, settled in nicely. Dox Aitken scored a big goal to lead the third-quarter scoring. Michael Kraus scored back-to-back goals to give UVA the lead for good.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"We had a couple man down stops in the third quarter and those two stops were big. Rode made a couple nice saves that could have been big momentum goals for Lehigh. From there we just got smarter about what we were doing physically. We're a physical team, we put some people on the ground after they take shots and we want to get after it in the ride. We take a lot of pride in our riding here and we had another good game in that phase. You have to put a lot of pressure on the ball and sometimes we do foul. Michael Kraus right here at the midline got that hold and I can't get upset with Michael because we're asking him to be relentless. We tell our attackmen that they are the defensive frontline of a football team, you got to get pressure. If we can get pressure with three or four rushing the passer then we don't have to implement a 10-man [ride] and we can cause turnovers, which we saw tonight. But it starts with our defensive line, they have to pressure. We tell them you don't have to make the sack, just force a bad pass or an interception because our safeties, our middies, they're ready to jump on errant passes." – Lars Tiffany

Game 3

High Point 14, Virginia 13
Feb. 18 • Charlottesville, Va.

A fourth-quarter surge by No. 13 High Point lifted the Panthers over the No. 12 Virginia Cavaliers, 14-13, at Klöckner Stadium. UVA entered the final period with a 12-11 lead before High Point reeled off three-straight goals to take a 14-12 lead with 2:02 left to play.

Jeff Conner brought UVA to within one goal, 14-13, with 1:04 left to play. HPU won the ensuing faceoff and tried to kill the clock. UVA goalie Alex Rode forced a turnover and the Cavaliers had a chance for one more play. UVA attackman Matt Moore unleashed a shot with a couple seconds left, but High Point goalie Tim Troutner made his 17th save of the game to end the HPU win. The win for the Panthers is their second this season against an ACC team. They won at then-No. 2 Duke on Feb 6, 13-9.

HOW IT HAPPENED

For the third game in a row UVA scored first, but then found itself in a hole. With a 3-0 lead over the Panthers, HPU responded by scoring five goals in a row to take a 5-3 lead at 9:10 in the second quarter.

UVA used a 4-2 run to tie the game, 7-7, heading into the intermission. Grayson Sallade scored his first career goal to start the spurt. Ian Laviano scored twice and Dox Aitken tallied on goal during the run.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"Let's first give credit to the High Point goalie. What a fantastic performance all game with 17 saves. Especially in the fourth quarter he shut the door on us for the most part, we couldn't sneak one by him. I do think we rushed things. I just told my team that we took some home run swings, when we can only score one goal at a time. This isn't baseball with grand slams. Trust the offense, trust Coach Kirwan. We also don't want to decrease the creativity of our men. We've allowed our men to play fast and enjoy competing, throwing the ball, and taking chances. But there were, you were right, some where we forced the issue a little too early." – Lars Tiffany

Game 4

Virginia 12, Princeton 11 - OT
Feb. 23 • Princeton, N.J.

Michael Kraus found Ian Laviano 1:02 into overtime and the No. 12 Virginia Cavaliers escaped New Jersey with a 12-11 triumph over the No. 19 Princeton Tigers at Class of 1952 Stadium.

UVA goalie Patrick Burkinshaw made his first collegiate start and collegiate debut against the Tigers. He was stingy in the goal, saving 24 shots. The 24 saves set a UVA freshman goalie record, a UVA first career goalie start record, a Class of 1952 Stadium record and is tied for the most single-game saves in the nation this year. Burkinshaw made six fourth-quarter saves, but no was bigger than the clutch save he made with 32 seconds left in regulation on a Charlie Durbin missile from 10 yards out. Durbin had already found nylon four times on the afternoon.

HOW IT HAPPENED

With Princeton leading 11-10 with 6:55 left in regulation, the UVA defense held firm and kept the Tigers scoreless for the game's final 7:57, including overtime. Ryan Conrad scored an unassisted goal at 4:01 in the fourth quarter to tie the game, 11-11.

The Cavaliers also overcame a two-goal deficit early in the third quarter, 7-5 and 9-7. A Laviano goal at the end of the third quarter, followed by a Kraus goal at the start of the fourth tied the game at 9-9. It was one of seven ties in the game.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"At UVA we believe in creating a culture of competition and you have to earn your playing time all year, not just in the Fall or in pre-season. We are not going to create a starting lineup game number one and stick with it. We believe that creates better intensity in practice and continually promotes each man's moment and what we saw today was positive output of that process. In practice we have seen Patrick Burkinshaw emerge and we let the goalies know on Thursday Patrick earned the start. What a performance by Patrick in his first career start. I want to give Patrick tremendous credit in the power of believing. He believes in himself. He had the eye and said 'I am ready coach.'" – Lars Tiffany

Virginia 15, Syracuse 14 - OT
March 2 • Syracuse, N.Y.

The No. 10 Virginia Cavaliers used a 6-1 run to overcome a four-goal deficit in the fourth quarter, upending the No. 14 Syracuse Orange in overtime, 15-14, inside the Carrier Dome.

Virginia won the overtime faceoff and with 1:31 left in the extra game Mike Herring scored his first goal of the season after Michael Kraus found the senior five yards out. It was Herring's only shot of the day and Kraus' third assist of the game.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Syracuse went up 13-9 with 10:02 left in the game after Stephen Reh fuss capped a 4-1 Orange run. Dox Aitken responded with a goal with 9:00 left in the game, jumpstarting a 6-1 UVA sprint to close the day. During the run six different Cavaliers scored. Matt Moore scored an EMO goal, followed by a Ryan Conrad score with 5:36 left. Conrad's goal capped a 3-0 UVA run and brought the score to 13-12, advantage Syracuse.

Bradley Voight scored a man-down goal for the Orange with 3:45 on a fast break, pushing the Cuse lead back to two goals, 14-12. Jared Conners scored a clutch long-pole goal on a Kraus helper at 2:09 as the junior was camped on the crease. Kraus followed at 1:12 with the game-tying score from five yards out.

Syracuse won the ensuing faceoff, but a big save from UVA goalie Alex Rode with two seconds left sent the game into overtime, setting up Herring's heroics.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"Another fantastic game between two traditional powers. Statistically this game was pretty balanced. We had an offensive flurry there in the end and I am really proud of our men to stay positive down four with 10 minutes to go. In the second half it started with Ryan Conrad as he was not be denied on those ground balls off the faceoff wing, especially in the fourth quarter. I told him 'this is a good time to be selfish Ryan, every ground ball is yours.' I was amazed at what Conrad was doing with his faceoff wing play because those were 50-50 balls and Syracuse has some great wings that come in. For Ryan to deal with those good Syracuse wing players and get those ground balls is what set us up to go on that run late in the game." – Lars Tiffany

March 10 • Charlottesville, Va.

UVA attackman Michael Kraus scored his fifth goal of the game with 1:02 left in the first overtime to lift the No. 12 Virginia Cavaliers past the Brown Bears, 14-13, at Klöckner Stadium.

Virginia won the overtime faceoff and with 1:02 left in the extra game Kraus scored from 10 yards out on a clear look from Mikey Herring. It was Kraus' fifth goal of the game and capped a 6-1 UVA run to end the game.

HOW IT HAPPENED

The Bears went up 12-8 with 14:42 left in the game after Carson Song capped a 7-2 Brown run. Dox Aitken responded with a goal on a Matt Moore helper with 11:11 left in the game, jumpstarting a 6-1 UVA sprint to close the day.

After Ian Laviano scored on a Herring assist with 8:03 left, Brown scored its last goal of the game in transition from George Pike. The Pike goal gave the Bears a three-goal lead, 13-10, with 6:52 left to play. The Pike goal came after Laviano was stuffed on the crease by Brown goalie Phil Goss.

Laviano responded on another Herring helper at 5:51, cutting UVA's deficit back to two goals, 13-11. Petey LaSalla won the faceoff again for UVA and Kraus found Matt Moore with 5:05 left, cutting the deficit to one goal, 13-12.

After an unnecessary roughness call on Brown's Matt McShea on the ensuing faceoff, Kraus tied the game with an extra-man goal at 3:21 via a Ryan Conrad helper. LaSalla won the overtime faceoff, setting up Kraus' heroics.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"We saw this against Princeton down two, we were down four against Syracuse. It feeds on itself, and then they really start believing it. It's not just words. I think a lot of teams say we never doubted ourselves, this team really doesn't doubt. The key is for us to build a lead here, and go into a third or fourth quarter with a strong lead, and I don't know if we have done that yet. And play better lacrosse early. The confidence that these men have wearing these Virginia jerseys is as high as I've ever seen when they are down as much as we've been down. I'm really fortunate to have a group of men that may play better down. We just have to make sure we can play better up." – Lars Tiffany

Game 7

Virginia 13, Notre Dame 11
March 16 • Charlottesville, Va.

The No. 11 Virginia Cavaliers overcame a five-goal deficit in the second half, disposing the No. 7 Notre Dame Fighting Irish, 13-11, at Klöckner Stadium. UVA used an 8-1 run over the game's final 23:59 to snatch the key league victory.

Virginia led early, 4-2, after Michael Kraus found Mikey Herring across the crease with 11:24 left to play in the second quarter. Notre Dame surged to a 10-5 lead on the heels of its own 8-1 run which was capped by Connor Morin with 8:59 left to play in the third quarter.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Ian Laviano started the UVA comeback with an extra-man goal on a Matt Moore helper at 7:27 left in the third quarter. The goal jump-started UVA's 8-1 streak to end the game. Laviano scored three of his game-high five goals during run, capping his day with the go-ahead score with 6:26 left to play on another assist from Moore.

After UVA took the lead for good, Moore scored unassisted to give UVA a two-goal cushion, 12-10. The Irish broke through with 2:54 left on a Quinn McCahon goal via a Brian Willetts pass. Notre Dame won the ensuing faceoff, but a clutch caused turnover from John Fox of Notre Dame's Griffin Westlin created another UVA offensive opportunity. With 54 seconds left, Dox Aitken stuck a high-to-high shot to give the Cavaliers the final two-goal win. The Irish won the following faceoff, but Moore and Fox each caused turnovers that derailed all comeback plans for Notre Dame.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"What a game of runs. First it was Notre Dame's turn to pull far far away from us over the second and third quarter, and they just made plays. They were picking up the tough ground balls and getting extra possessions, and then converting on man-up opportunities. I have to give them a lot of credit for their man-up and what they did to us in the first half. We have been down four [goals] and come from behind, but we hadn't been down five [goals] before. Fortunately, we were able to get those late ground balls. Ryan Conrad had seven ground balls and it was huge, he gives us those extra possessions. I felt as the game went on, those in-between, those 50-50's, they went our way." – Lars Tiffany

Game 8

Virginia 16, Johns Hopkins 11
March 23 • Baltimore, Md.

The No. 9 Virginia Cavaliers walked away with an impressive 16-11 triumph over the No. 15 Johns Hopkins Blue Jays at historic Homewood Field, returning the Doyle Smith Cup to Charlottesville for the first time since 2016.

The game began as a see-saw battle that boasted seven ties and five lead changes, but the Cavaliers trailing 8-7 early in the third quarter went on a 9-2 run to take a commanding six-goal lead with 7:36 left to play. The five-goal win was also UVA's largest all-time win over the Blue Jays at Homewood Field. The previous best was four goals in 1997 (16-12).

HOW IT HAPPENED

Michael Kraus scored an unassisted goal after dodging from X to tie the game at 8-8 with 7:50 left in the third quarter. The Kraus goal started a 3-0 UVA run that gave the Cavaliers the lead for good. Ryan Conrad continued the run when he took the ball to the rack in transition with 7:26 left in the third quarter. Dox Aitken capped the spurt when he dodged to space and got his hands free with 5:01 left in the third, giving UVA its first two-goal lead of the game (10-8) since the Cavaliers led 2-0 to start the contest.

Johns Hopkins narrowed its deficit to one goal, 10-9, after Evan Zinn found nylon at 4:40 in the third. However, UVA quickly reeled off four-straight goals to take a commanding 14-9 lead. Aitken capped the streak when he completed his hat-trick on an Ian Laviano pass, scoring an extra-man goal with 9:51 left to play.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"What I was really happy with in the second half was our ride. We challenged our attackers at halftime and we take a lot of pride in the way we ride. At halftime Hopkins was perfect and I told Ian [Laviano], Michael [Kraus] and Matt [Moore], we need more pressure and create some more errant passes. That was a big part of our ability to surge ahead in the second half the way we did." – Lars Tiffany

Game 9

Virginia 16, Richmond 7
March 29 • Charlottesville, Va.

The No. 7 Virginia Cavaliers cruised to a 16-7 victory over the Richmond Spiders at Klöckner Stadium.

UVA started strong against the Spiders, as Richmond committed 12 first-half turnovers and only registered eight shots. Meanwhile, UVA scored early and often, owning an 8-2 lead at the intermission. In the first half alone UVA shot the ball 34 times, picked up 27 ground balls and won 10-of-12 faceoffs.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Ryan Conrad put UVA on the board 55 seconds into the game when Matt Moore found the UVA senior streaking toward the goal. The Cavaliers held the lead the remainder of the night. Dox Aitken, Ian Laviano and Conrad all scored two goals in the opening half. Michael Kraus and Moore also added scores to help give UVA a substantial lead.

In the third quarter UVA outscored Richmond, 5-3. Kraus' second goal of the game, via a Petey LaSalla helper off a faceoff, capped the scoring in the third quarter as UVA led the Spiders by eight, 13-5. As the third quarter started to come to a close UVA head coach Lars Tiffany began to empty his bench. In the fourth quarter first-year Paul Rodriguez scored his first career goal on an assist by Mitch Gordon. Rodriguez, who made his collegiate debut in the game, gave UVA a 15-5 lead with 6:45 left.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"Our whole staff is really excited about the energy we brought to this game. Richmond is an opponent that has given us great challenges in the past. I respect that. I am really happy with how we rode today, we created turnovers in the ride, we created goals and scoring situations from the ride and that was key to get off to an early start, because they have a really good team defense. Petey LaSalla was continually giving us the ball and created some offense out of it as well. What he was able to do was very impressive and much needed today." – Lars Tiffany

Game 10

Virginia 17, Utah 6
March 31 • Charlottesville, Va.

The No. 7 Virginia Cavaliers cruised to a 17-6 triumph over the visiting Utah Utes at Klöckner Stadium.

Virginia got after Utah early, opening the game on a 6-0 run before the Utes managed to get their first shot off. Utah, a first-year program, didn't record its first shot until the 3:03 mark in the first quarter. During that span Matt Moore scored three goals and Michael Kraus scored two, while adding an assist. In the first quarter the Cavaliers picked up 19 ground balls and made 19 shots, while Utah managed just four shots and picked up 11 ground balls.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Kraus started the game's scoring at 13:03 in the first quarter. A shot by Moore was blocked and Kraus picked up the ground ball in front of the cage and scored easily. The goal was the 100th career goal of his career. Kraus is the 16th different Cavalier to reach 100 career goals and in career game No. 42 he is the third fastest. Only Doug Knight (39 games) and Kevin Pehlke (40 games) reached the milestone quicker.

The Cavaliers opened the game on a 9-0 run. Ryan Lamb capped the streak with an unassisted goal at 8:46 left in the second quarter. After Utah scored its first goal with 2:35 left before the intermission, UVA finished the quarter on a 4-1 streak, which included scoring two goals in the final eight seconds.

UVA went into the break with a 13-2 lead and halfway through the third quarter head coach Lars Tiffany began to empty his bench as for the second game in a row 35 different Cavaliers saw action.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"The passion we're bringing with the ride, when we lose the ball we get that ball back right away and create transition out of that. Game 11

Virginia 11, North Carolina 10
April 6 • Charlottesville, Va.

The No. 4 Virginia Cavaliers clinched the No. 1 seed in the 2019 ACC Tournament with an 11-10 triumph over the No. 18 North Carolina Tar Heels at Klöckner Stadium.

The Cavaliers will be the No. 1 seed in the ACC Tournament for the first time since 2010. The 2010 season was also the last time UVA won the ACC Tournament. UVA will at least own a share of its 25th regular season ACC title and first since sharing the 2012 regular season title with Duke.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Dox Aitken put UVA on the board quickly, scoring on a Matt Moore helper 2:04 into the game. However, the Cavaliers squandered some offensive opportunities and were thwarted by the reigning ACC Defensive Player of the Week, UNC goalie Caton Johnson. In the first quarter alone Johnson recorded six saves as UVA rattled off 16 shots and picked up 17 ground balls.

Offensively, UNC worked quickly after trailing 1-0 early and led Virginia 5-3 at the half.

The Tar Heels scored the first three goals of the fourth quarter to take a 9-7 lead. Matt Gavin scored on a Brian Cameron helper with 11:16 left to play, finishing off the streak. UVA responded going on a 4-1 run to close the game. Moore scored twice, bookends to Kraus' fifth goal of the game. After Timmy Kelly tied the contest for UNC at 6:35 with an extra-man goal, Aitken powered through the game-winning score with 1:34 left to play.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"Every ACC game, as we've proven, is a battle. Each ACC game is filled with talented coaches and super talented players. We were fortunate that we won a lot of faceoffs. Petey LaSalla and the wings, Ryan Conrad and Jared Conners, really kept giving us the ball back in a game where we ran into a hot goalie with UNC'S No. 25 Caton Johnson. They had a good offense. Game 12

Duke 12, Virginia 7
April 13 • Durham, N.C.

The No. 4 Virginia Cavaliers had their eight-game winning streak snapped, 12-7, at the hands of the No. 6 Duke Blue Devils at Koskinen Stadium.

The game was originally scheduled for a noon faceoff at Koskinen Stadium, but inclement weather in the Durham area delayed the start time until 4:30 p.m.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Duke took an early 2-0 lead before Virginia managed a shot, but the Cavaliers took a 3-2 lead after scoring three-straight goals. Matt Moore was involved in all three scores, scoring the first, assisting the second and capping the run on a Mikey Herring helper at 12:27 in the second quarter. The game was knotted, 5-5, at halftime as Moore tied his career high with four goals.

Seven minutes into the third quarter Ryan Conrad found Herring to give UVA a narrow 6-5 lead at 8:00 in the third. Duke responded scoring six-straight goals to take control of the game and commanding 11-7 lead with 4:02 left in the game. Ian Laviano managed to get UVA back on the board with 2:45 left, but it wasn't enough as Duke secured the victory.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"We had a lot of success pushing transition and playing up-tempo in the first half. It was live by the sword, die by the sword when you do that. We were having success so we kept doing that in the third quarter. Problem was [Turner] Uppgren starts making saves on it, their defensemen make some great trail checks and now all of a sudden we are going back and playing a minute or two minutes of defense. The possession time started building up on us, peaking on us in the fourth quarter when Duke had the ball for a period of three minutes in a row when we would make a save and they would pick it up. We make another save and they pick it up again. Give Duke credit for continually pressuring us there and wearing down our defense." - Lars Tiffany

Game 13Virginia 24, VMI 5*April 16 • Charlottesville, Va.

The No. 6 Virginia Cavaliers scored seven goals on their first seven shots of the game, cruising to a mid-week triumph over the VMI Keydets at Klöckner Stadium, 24-5.

Dox Aitken scored two of UVA's first three goals to break the program record for career goals by a midfielder. His 95 career goals pass Pete Eldredge (1969-72) and Brian Carroll (2007-10) who shared the record with 94 goals. Aitken broke the record in career game No. 46, which is faster than both Eldredge (47) and Carroll (70).

HOW IT HAPPENED

Virginia scored 16 seconds into the game when Ryan Conrad found Mikey Herring streaking toward the goal. Herring's goal started an 11-0 run for the Cavaliers to start the game. Xander Dickson scored the first of his game-high seven goals to cap the streak with 5:08 left in the first half. At the end of one quarter of play UVA led 14-1. Matt Moore and Ian Laviano both recorded hat-tricks in the first quarter. Theo Dol also scored the first goal of his career on a Laviano helper.

By halftime UVA led 22-3, had won 24-of-27 faceoffs and picked up 43 ground balls. In the second half, UVA held the ball most of its offensive possessions, taking only nine combined shots in the second half and picking up four shot clock violations.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"I'm grateful for the great faceoff play. All three of our faceoff men, Petey LaSalla, Justin Schwenk, and Luke Brugel, were all exceptional with not only their first moves but their exits, gaining possession of the ball themselves. We did rely on our wings for some of our GBs but it was mainly the men on the faceoff X that gave us so many possessions, which allowed our offense to have such a lopsided time of possession. I'm thankful for the energy that we brought on a Tuesday night. This team does not waste an opportunity to play together. They love playing the game of lacrosse together, and it is clearly evident to anyone who comes out to see us practice or compete." - Lars Tiffany

The No. 6 Virginia Cavaliers cruised to a non-conference win on "Senior Day" over the Marist Red Foxes, 22-6, at Klöckner Stadium.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Marist won the opening faceoff and took an early 1-0 lead when Jake Weinman scored on an assist from James Lyons 29 seconds into the game. Virginia responded with a 6-1 run to take a solid four-goal lead, 6-2. Matt Moore found Mikey Herring with 5:20 left in the opening quarter to cap the run.

After Marist scored at 3:03 in the first quarter to make it 6-3 on a Chris Schlappich goal, UVA finished its first-half scoring on an 8-1 streak, taking a commanding 14-4 lead with 31 seconds left in the second quarter. The Cavaliers received two goals apiece from Moore and Dox Aitken during the run. Marist interrupted the Virginia spurt with a goal as time expired in the second quarter, sending the game into the intermission with UVA leading 14-5.

Virginia opened the second half on an 8-0 run, punching an explanation point on the last regular season home game of the 2019 season.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"This was a fantastic way to have Senior Day. We have many fourth and fifth years and I thought they set the tone early. It was really great to see other guys step in and make plays. I was really excited with how they set the tone. Then we brought our regulars back in, we shot the ball really well today. We have a lot of respect for the Marist goalie [Jake Macgregor], and so we placed [on cage] the ball really well today, and that's not an easy thing to do, shoot a scouting report. It sounds a lot easier than it is. I was also very impressed with our faceoff play. Their faceoff man is one of the best in the nation, so it was a battle in there. It was not only our faceoff men, but our faceoff wing play that impressed me." - Lars Tiffany

The No. 6 Virginia Cavaliers used a 6-1 run in the fourth quarter to outlast the North Carolina Tar Heels, 14-13, at UNC Lacrosse Stadium. UVA advances to the ACC Championship final for the second year in a row.

HOW IT HAPPENED

After scoring with 14 seconds left in the first quarter, UVA didn't score again for the a period of 26:17 in which UNC reeled off a 7-0 run to take a commanding 10-6 lead with 8:16 left in the third quarter. Michael Kraus broke through with an unassisted goal at 3:06 to cut UVA's deficit to three goals, 10-7. UNC responded with a 2-0 run, taking a 12-8 lead with 14:09 left to play.

Dox Aitken started the comeback with 7:31 left in the game, scoring back-to-back goals to cut the UVA deficit to two goals, 12-10.

After Aitken's goals, Laviano scored on a Moore helper at 6:32 in the fourth, followed by an acrobatic goal on another Moore assist by Mikey Herring with 5:37 left to play to tie the game at 12-12.

Alex Trippi bounced in a shot at 3:24 to give UNC the lead, 13-12 for the final time. Kraus tied the game, 13-12, with an unassisted goal at 3:05. After a huge save by Patrick Burkinshaw and an ensuing ground ball by Matt Dziamia, UVA moved the ball in transition and Cade Saustad recorded his first career assist when he found Laviano for the game-winning goal at 1:30 in the fourth.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"When it was 12-8 [North Carolina] and Caton Johnson was playing so fantastic along with the UNC defense getting to our sticks and blocking our shots I was very impressed a North Carolina team playing on one-day rest. We kept waiting for them to fade so we could get that extra ground ball, but it wasn't until the last five minutes that we felt that. When you come back a few times during the season like we have, our men truly believe that we are never out of it. The cultural shift of committing to this program, the sacrifice these men have made has been significant behind the scenes and it makes the difference." - Lars Tiffany

Game 16

Virginia 10, Notre Dame 4
May 4 • Charlottesville, Va.

The No. 5 Virginia Cavaliers upended the No. 9 Notre Dame Fighting Irish in the ACC Championship final on Saturday afternoon, 10-4, in front of 4,489 fans at Klöckner Stadium. The win yielded UVA its 18th Atlantic Coast Conference title and first since 2010.

After dropping the 2018 ACC Championship final to Notre Dame, 17-7, at Klöckner Stadium, UVA won the rematch behind a stellar team defensive effort. With the game tied, 2-2, at the 4:11 mark of the first quarter, Virginia held Notre Dame scoreless for the next 42:12 as the Cavaliers enjoyed an 8-0 run.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Unassisted goals by Matt Moore and Dox Aitken put UVA up early, 2-0, with 8:20 left in the first quarter. Notre Dame bounced back to tie the game, 2-2, after an extra-man goal by Bryan Costabile, followed by a score from Nick Stinn at 4:11 in the first.

A transition goal by Ian Laviano on a Michael Kraus helper started an 8-0 UVA run that spelled doom for the Fighting Irish. Ryan Conrad and Aitken each scored two during the run, while Cory Harris' open-net goal in transition with 9:12 left to play capped the run. Meanwhile, UVA's defense was stingy, causing 16 of Notre Dame's 23 turnovers. Long-stick midfielder Jared Conners finished with four ground balls and caused three turnovers, while also scoring a goal off a faceoff. UVA long-pole Logan Greco picked up five ground balls and caused four turnovers.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"If you saw us two years ago with my first season here as a head coach, also as a defensive coordinator, I like to wear both hats, we've come a long way. I give credit to these group of men for continuing to believe in me after that first year. That all really culminated today with our decision making, when to slide to the man being dodged, and when not to. Because we don't slide to everything, that decision making has taken years to hone. The culmination of it was what we did today against a really tough offensive team. Of course Alex Rode, who every week is in a competition for his starting spot, I give him a lot of credit. He stepped up and shut the door for a couple quarters, huge effort from Alex." - Lars Tiffany

Game 17

Virginia 19, Robert Morris 10
May 11 • Charlottesville, Va.

The No. 3 national seeded Virginia Cavaliers upended the Robert Morris Colonials in the first round of the NCAA Tournament, 19-10, at Klöckner Stadium. The victory snapped a four-game losing streak for the Cavaliers in the NCAA Tournament, their longest in program history.

The Cavaliers received career nights from Mikey Herring and Ryan Conrad, two seniors playing their final career games at Klöckner Stadium. Herring scored a career-high six goals and Conrad scored a career-high five goals, as the duo was responsible for 11 of UVA's 19 goals. Matt Moore also added a career-high seven assists and a career-high nine points.

HOW IT HAPPENED

The wet conditions delayed the scoring to start as the game was scoreless until the 7:18 mark in the first quarter when Michael Kraus fed Matt Moore for the game's first goal. Moore's score initiated a 3-0 UVA run to start the game. Kraus and Mikey Herring all scored during the spurt.

Virginia's 3-0 run was part of a larger 7-2 Cavaliers streak, which was capped by Herring on a Moore assist with 12:26 left in the first half. By Half UVA owned a 9-5 advantage and used an 8-2 streak to start the second half to help put the game away.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"I am very thankful for the men I am able to coach, because of the grit and intensity that we bring. I love the way we ride. We didn't get a lot of opportunities in the first half, but in the second half, wow. Listen to how loud our bench gets when we're riding, they are just feeding the guys on the field and exciting them to go faster and make those plays. John Fox diving for one of those ground balls, that is just symbolic of our team. I am very, very grateful to have men who are passionate and treat every ground ball as if it's the last one on earth." - Lars Tiffany

Game 18

Virginia 13, Maryland 12 - OT
May 18 • Hempstead, N.Y.

The No. 3 national seeded Virginia Cavaliers trailed by five goals with 10:38 remaining, but scored the game's last six goals to squeak past Maryland in overtime, 13-12, in the NCAA Quarterfinal round at James M. Shuart Stadium.

Faceoff specialist Petey LaSalla won his seventh faceoff in a row to start overtime and Michael Kraus found a streaking Matt Moore for the game-winning score 45 seconds into the extra period. The score by Moore was his 40th goal of the season, making him the first single-season 40-goal, 40-assist man

HOW IT HAPPENED

Including overtime, LaSalla won the game's final seven faceoffs and 7-of-8 in the fourth quarter as Virginia mounted its comeback. Maryland's lone faceoff win of the fourth quarter led to the Terps' final score of the game at 10:38, courtesy of an Anthony DeMaio tally.

Ryan Conrad scored back-to-back goals to jumpstart the UVA streak to victory. After Conrad made it 12-9 with 3:25 to go, Ian Laviano scored 20 seconds later on a Kraus assist after LaSalla won the faceoff, cutting UVA's deficit to two goals, 12-10.

Conrad scored his fourth of the game, third of the half, at 2:41 to bring UVA within one goal, 12-11. Virginia tied the game for the fourth time, 12-12, with 1:14 left when Dox Aitken found Kraus, who stung the corner.

LaSalla won the ensuing faceoff, but UVA wasn't able to score before regulation ran out as the stage was set for the overtime heroics.

FROM THE LOCKER ROOM

"These men truly draw upon each other and lean upon each other. It all starts with trust. It was a heroic effort from our first year, Petey LaSalla. For him to do what he did in the second half against a team [Maryland] that is notoriously very good at the faceoff X. He kept giving us those possession in order to make the comeback win happen. Having Ryan Conrad on those faceoff wings. I am very grateful to coach a group that is committed to be successful in every phase." - Lars Tiffany

Virginia Storms Back to Edge Maryland in OT, Advance to the Final Four

By Patrick Stevens

Before it won an ACC championship, before it won its first NCAA tournament game in seven years and far before it was within reach of its first trip to Memorial Day weekend since 2011, Virginia knew one thing about its lacrosse season.

The Cavaliers would never truly fret in the face of a daunting deficit.

"We just talk about being that smarter team and that more composed team in crunch time," senior midfielder Ryan Conrad said. "It's something we have done an amazing job specifically this year with."

And never better than Saturday, when the third-seeded Cavaliers vaporized a five-goal hole in the fourth quarter against Maryland, rallying to tie it before Matt Moore zipped the game-winner past Terrapin goalie Danny Dolan 45 seconds into overtime of a 13-12 victory at Shuart Stadium.

Virginia (15-3) will meet second-seeded Duke in the semifinals in Philadelphia. And it will do so after being stymied for 50 minutes by the unseeded Terrapins (12-5), who were poised to reach the final weekend of the season — at least until they weren't.

It occurred in a flash, with Virginia scoring three times in a 44-second span to close within 12-11 with 2:41 to go. The Cavaliers would tie it on Michael Kraus' shot off the crossbar that bounced back to near midfield but was credited as a goal with 1:14 remaining in regulation.

"It happened so fast," Maryland coach John Tillman said. "You see the ball released, it happens and all the sudden the ball pops out. I didn't have as good a vantage point as the guys on the field. You're just kind of trusting that it went in. I did ask, 'Listen, are we 100 percent sure that was in?' and [the officials] said, 'Listen, if we weren't convinced, we wouldn't make that call.' I said OK. I'm not sure I could ask more than that."

Jared Bernhardt and Anthony DeMaio both scored four goals for Maryland, which fell in the quarterfinals for the first time since 2009. The Terps were 7-0 in quarterfinals under Tillman prior to Saturday.

Conrad had four goals for Virginia to spur the Cavaliers to a place that seemed far away just three years ago, when Tiffany was hired away from Brown to replace ousted legend Dom Starsia. Virginia had missed the tournament in 2013, bowed out in the first round the following two years and then went 7-8 in 2016.

"My class specifically had a lot of struggles when we got here," Conrad said. "We had a huge transition with a new coach, and honestly it shook us up a little bit. It was something that we needed, I think. We were able to persevere through that."

Virginia never got traction on defense in Tiffany's first season, but returned to the tournament before losing a first-round contest at Loyola last year. Those Cavalier teams had a propensity to fritter away leads in the second half, and it was fair to question whether this year would turn out any differently.

Only Virginia turned the tables. The Cavaliers came back from down four with nine minutes to play at Syracuse to win at overtime. It erased a three-goal deficit in the last six minutes of regulation a week later against Brown in another overtime victory. And it scored eight of the last nine goals after trailing Notre Dame by five in a mid-March game.

Consider all of it preparation for Saturday's surge.

"I feel like we look back on the Syracuse game, the Brown game, all those games and we were down by four and it gets to three and we're like, 'All right, we can definitely do this,'" said Moore, whose game-winner gave him 40 goals and 40 assists on the year, the first 40-40 season in Virginia history.

Such a comeback seemed improbable as Maryland authored a stellar defensive performance for about 55 minutes. Mixing in far more zone than usual, the Terps kept Virginia off balance and managed to stretch out possessions to apply pressure on the Cavaliers.

Kraus had only two assists in the first three quarters, and Aitken was especially quiet in the first half before scoring Virginia's only goal of the third quarter. Meanwhile, Maryland stretched its advantage to 12-7.

"For three quarters, we weren't getting good looks at the goal," Tiffany said. "Give the Maryland defense a lot of credit for that, but Sean [Kirwan] made some adjustments and all the sudden it unleashed and the dam was broken. These guys made plays. These guys trust Sean, and you can see the results."

Conrad got one back with 9:28 to go, then added another with 3:25 remaining. Still, Virginia was only within 12-9 — until Ian Laviano delivered a transition score 20 seconds later.

The comeback was on.

"Ian scores that goal, and there's a penalty to bring us within two with three minutes left and [it's like], 'This is happening. This is happening,'" Tiffany said.

Maryland didn't have much of a chance to answer. The Terps took their final shot with 8:15 to go, committing turnovers on each of their last four possessions. One of those was a shot clock violation with 3:53 left that immediately preceded Virginia's outburst.

"As a coach, those are always things you look back on," Tillman said. "Our kids did everything they needed to do. I needed to do a better job in that moment in managing some of the things in this game. These guys did what they were supposed to do. I didn't do my job."

With only 12 seconds of possession as the Cavaliers melted Maryland's advantage, there was little the Terps' offense could do as Virginia chipped away at the deficit, forced overtime and eventually claimed their only lead of the game.

Instead of getting ready to face another ACC team and advance to the final days of the season, Maryland faces months of wondering how its five-goal advantage vanished.

"It's definitely tough to sit there and watch, but I think our defense did an amazing job stepping up," midfielder Bubba Fairman said. "Their offense has been phenomenal all season, and I think our defense really stepped up to the plate and held them down. We had all the trust in the world in them. I think if we just got one more possession, we would have been there."

Instead, Virginia moves on, having done so with a reminder of exactly what is at the core of its identity. For the Cavaliers, it seems, no deficit is too large, and no amount of time is too small to stifle the possibility of a rally.

"It's just something that we rely on all the time," Conrad said. "We've had so much experience just in this one year of so many comeback victories. You can hear it. Every single kid on the team has confidence in ourselves. Honestly, we don't need to say it, but we still have guys out there saying 'Hey, we've been here before, we've done this a hundred times, we've been down by more than this. We can do it.'"

Another Timely, Hard-Nosed Ryan Conrad Performance Extends Virginia's Season

By Dan Aburn

With just over 10 minutes to play in Saturday's NCAA Quarterfinal inside James M. Stuart Stadium, Virginia was reeling after Maryland put together a five-goal unanswered run to take a 12-7 lead in the fourth quarter. Another Maryland trip to Championship Week-end looked imminent.

But the circumstances were familiar territory for Virginia, which had weathered through several comeback wins and overtime nail-biters throughout the season. Suddenly faced with the prospect of playing in his last game for Virginia, it was senior captain Ryan Conrad who jumpstarted the six-goal comeback for the Cavaliers that resulted in a 14-13 overtime victory.

Conrad collected a dart of a feed from Matt Moore and finished to notch a man-up score for Virginia with 9:23 remaining. Nearly six more minutes elapsed until Conrad took a shot from the wing that found the back of the net to bring it to 12-9. It was Ian Laviano's score at the 3:05 mark to push the Cavaliers to 12-10 that then riled up the Virginia bench.

Then at the 2:41 mark, Conrad collected a pass from below GLE and found a sliver of space on the edge of the crease for another man-up score to make it 12-11. The Cavaliers then benefitted from a fortuitous call on a Michael Kraus shot that tied the game with just under two minutes to play.

Overall, three of Conrad's four goals came in the final 10 minutes of regulation. His two other points were crucial as well: a man-down goal in transition and then an assist on a Laviano goal with five seconds remaining in the first half.

"I mean, yeah," said Conrad on being determined to not have Saturday be his last career game. "I think it's just not wanting it to be the last game with this team. I love this team so much, and we've been through so much throughout this year...We had the feeling that we found in a lot of those close games where we knew we were going to come back at some point. Once we got rolling, we had that confidence and that swagger. It comes down to a lot of guys making plays."

Conrad has long been described as a prolific two-way midfielder capable of assuming various roles. Per US Lacrosse Magazine contributor Patrick Stevens, prior to the First Round of the NCAA Tournament, Conrad was the only player in Division I with 70 groundballs and at least 10 points. After Saturday's victory, Conrad has registered 46 points on 28 goals and 18 assists, collected 83 groundballs, and has shot the ball at a 36% clip. While he's shifted to more of an offensive role recently, he's a player whose crafted his game around whatever Virginia needs him to be.

"I wanna do anything I can for the team," said Conrad. "Whether that be play defense like I did last year and the year before that. Whether that be getting groundballs on face-offs, which I've tried to do my whole career here. And this year, we needed a little more offensively because we were so deep at defensive midfield. I just want to do anything we can to be successful and win."

Conrad's play has been sharp of late: 14 of his goals and 19 of his groundballs have come in Virginia's last four games. The comeback moment must be all the more sweet for Conrad following recovery for an ACL injury that sidelined him for the majority of 2018. At the time of his injury against Syracuse last season, Conrad had played 11 minutes over the threshold for a redshirt appeal. As he worked to get back on the field, he had to evolve his game once more to be more of a vocal leader from the sideline.

"I'm a very grateful man to be surrounded by great men," said Virginia coach Lars Tiffany after Saturday's victory. "When I think of the Virginia lacrosse man, I think about a man who is driven to succeed. I think about one of our captains, Ryan Conrad. He's a man who is a fantastic student. Comm School, which is a very big deal at Virginia. Leadership position with SACH, Student-Athletes Committed to Honor, and a fantastic lacrosse player as well."

Now back in Championship Week-end for the first time since 2011, Virginia's confidence appears hardened after yet another harrowing comeback and overtime victory.

"We've been relying on that [toughness] for the past 10 games now," said Conrad. "Once we got that Syracuse win, we were rolling and we realized we could come back from anything and we were never out of a game. You could just see it and hear it from the guys in the fourth quarter. They knew it was about to happen. They knew we had that confidence and that trust in each other that we were going to make that play."

Never-Say-Die Hoos Deliver Again

By Jeff White

In a year marked by improbable comebacks by University of Virginia teams, most memorably on the basketball court in the NCAA tournament, another rally for the ages unfolded Saturday afternoon at Hofstra University's James M. Stuart Stadium.

After giving up five straight goals to former ACC rival Maryland, Virginia trailed 12-7 with 10 minutes left in the fourth quarter. The Cavaliers didn't flinch. This group never does.

"That's something we're used to, and honestly it's something that we kind of thrive in," senior midfielder Ryan Conrad said. "It's a weird kind of sense of confidence that we have at the end of those games, and you can just look into each other's eyes and everybody knows what's about to happen."

What happened Saturday won't soon be forgotten by anyone who watched this NCAA quarterfinal. The Wahoos stunned the Terrapins with five unanswered goals in the final 9:23 of regulation to force overtime – the last one coming in controversial fashion at the 1:14 mark. Junior attackman Michael Kraus' shot appeared to bounce off the crossbar, but officials ruled it a goal, and video review was not an option.

In overtime, freshman Petey LaSalla, who's from Long Island, capped a sensational day at the faceoff-X by controlling the draw. The ball came to Kraus behind the cage, and he fed sophomore attackman Matt Moore, who fired in the goal that lifted UVA to a 13-12 victory 45 seconds into the extra period.

Moore's game-winner gave Virginia its only lead Saturday. Cardiac Cavaliers, indeed.

"Honestly, we don't even need to say [anything to each other on the field]," Conrad said, "but we still have guys out there saying, 'Hey, we've been here before. We've done this a hundred times. We've been down by more than this, and we can do it.' We know we can do it, and we just rely on each other. Just that trust we have in each other and the coaching staff, we know we can come back from any margin."

And now the Cavaliers, in their third season under head coach Lars Tiffany and assistants Sean Kirwan and Kip Turner, are headed to the Final Four for the first time since 2011, when they captured the program's fifth NCAA title.

Third-seeded UVA (15-3) will face second-seeded Duke (13-4) next Saturday in Philadelphia at Lincoln Financial Field, home of the NFL's Eagles. The Blue Devils, who defeated seventh-seeded Notre Dame in overtime in the second quarterfinal at Hofstra, have won 11 straight games over the Hoos and 19 of their past 20 meetings.

Maryland (12-5) was looking to advance to the Final Four for the eighth time in nine seasons. Until last weekend, when the Cavaliers routed Robert Morris 19-10, they hadn't won an NCAA tour-namment game since 2012.

"It's obviously been an amazing journey," said Conrad, who had four goals and an assist against Maryland. "My class specifically had a lot of struggles when we got here. We had a huge transition in coaching, and it definitely shook us up a little bit ... but we were able to persevere through that. We lost some guys along the way, but I think we have really come together and become closer as a team."

Tiffany said: "I'm a very grateful and thankful man to coach a group that's committed to being the best they can be in every phase, and they were going to give us all 60-plus minutes."

That's become the trademark of this Virginia team. During a three-game stretch early in the season, the Hoos trailed by two in the final minute of the third quarter at Princeton, by four with 10 minutes left in the fourth quarter at Syracuse, and by four with 12 minutes left in the fourth quarter against Brown. UVA won each of those games in overtime.

"We're down by four, and then it gets to three, and we're like, 'All right, we can definitely do this,'" said Moore, who with his game-winner became the first player in UVA history to total 40 goals and 40 assists in one season. "We kind of look back on what we've done, and I think that gives us the confidence to go out there."

Conrad started the comeback Saturday, scoring off a pass from Moore to make it 12-8 with 9:23

left in the fourth quarter. Another goal by Conrad, this one unassisted, cut the Terrapins' lead to 12-9 at the 3:25 mark.

Twenty seconds later, after yet another faceoff win by LaSalla, Kraus passed to sophomore attackman Ian Laviano for a goal that made it 12-10.

On the play, Maryland's Roman Puglise was called for unnecessary roughness, a one-minute penalty, and the momentum swing was palpable. "I went, 'This is happening. This is happening,'" Tiffany told reporters at his postgame press conference.

For the game, LaSalla won 16 of 24 faceoffs including 7 of 8 in the fourth quarter (and then the only draw in OT.)

"What a heroic effort for a first-year," Tiffany said, "for him to do that against a team that is notoriously very good at the faceoff-X. He just kept giving us those possessions so we could make that comeback win happen."

After Laviano's goal, the Hoos controlled the next faceoff, with junior defenseman Jared Conners scooping up the ground ball. Senior Mikey Herring then passed to Conrad for a goal that made it 12-11 with 2:41 left in the fourth quarter.

With the Terps clearly rattled, the Hoos applied more pressure. After LaSalla won another faceoff, the teams traded turnovers. This time Virginia didn't squander its possession. All-America midfielder Dox Aitken, who came into game with only six assists on the season, passed to Kraus for a goal that sparked immediate controversy.

"It happened so fast," Maryland head coach John Tillman said at his postgame press conference. "You see the ball released, it happens and all the sudden the ball pops out. I didn't have as good a vantage point as the guys on the field. You're just kind of trusting that it went in. I did ask, 'Listen, are we 100-percent sure that was in?' and [the officials] said, 'Listen, if we weren't convinced, we wouldn't make that call.'"

The ACC champion Cavaliers came in averaging 14.3 goals per game, but Maryland kept their offense in check for most of the game. The Terps "took away some of our strengths and frustrated us, and we just couldn't get unleashed until that fourth quarter," Tiffany said.

"A lot of credit to Coach Kirwan. Sean Kirwan's a fantastic offensive coach, and for three quarters we weren't getting great looks at the goal. Again, give Maryland's defense a lot of credit for that. But Sean made some adjustments, and then all of the sudden it just unleashed, and the dam was broken, and these men made plays."

Kraus finished with a game-high four assists. He scored only one goal, as did Aitken, who like Kraus is an All-ACC selection. But Laviano finished with three goals and Moore added two as the Cavaliers again showed off their balance.

"Obviously we lean on Dox and Michael a tremendous amount," Tiffany said, but he noted that in Virginia's first-round win Conrad scored five goals and Herring six, a career high for each player.

"If you're going to make a run late in May in lacrosse, you've got to have other people step up and you've got to have that depth, and we're really fortunate," Tiffany said.

UVA's current players and coaches are keenly aware of the program's storied history, Tiffany said, and they "stand on the shoulders of giants ... Others have come before us and been heroic and made great wins and championships happen."

In men's basketball, of course, Virginia won its first NCAA title last month, capping a remarkable postseason run that included comeback wins over Purdue, Auburn and, in the championship game, Texas Tech.

"Just to be talked about in the same sentence with Tony Bennett and what his program does probably isn't fair, because we've got a lot more [work to do]," Tiffany said, "but we're honored that you could even mention us with the men's basketball team."

Irreplaceable Mikey Herring Thriving Amid a Stacked Virginia Offense

By Patrick Stevens

Part of Virginia's practice plan involves taking a half-dozen of the team's best shooters to help warm up the goalies — a parade of potential All-America selections.

And then there's arguably the most accurate shooter of them all: Senior Mikey Herring.

"Five of those six are bringing gas, and then there's Mikey over there and they have a contest of who can score the most," coach Lars Tiffany said. "It's supposed to be for the goalies, but the shooters are having fun with it. They started keeping track, and invariably Mikey's right there. He just pins the ball right in the corner."

Herring is a relatively unsung element of the Cavaliers' potent offense. At least he was until Saturday, when he scored a career-high six goals on just seven shots in a 19-10 rout of Robert Morris in the first round of the NCAA tournament.

It was a somewhat opportunistic showing, but also in keeping with the season Herring has stitched together. Of his 22 shots, all but one has been on cage. Herring has 16 goals, and his .727 shooting percentage is easily the best in the last 20 years for any Virginia player with at least 10 goals. In that span, only Matt White (with a .606 rate in 2011) has done better than 55 percent.

It can go unnoticed on an offense featuring the likes of Michael Kraus, Ian Laviano and Matt Moore on attack. Dox Aitken is already Virginia's career midfield scoring leader as a junior. Ryan Conrad is a much-celebrated presence on faceoff wings as well as on offense.

And that's perfectly fine with Herring.

"Absolutely, all the attention is deserved, because they're great, great players," Herring said. "I'm super-lucky to get to play with them every day. [Assistant] coach [Sean] Kirwan puts us in the right spots, so I feel like I'm in the right places on the field to make plays when they do draw a ton of attention, like they rightfully do."

Tiffany isn't remotely reticent in pinpointing Herring's value to the third-seeded Cavaliers (14-3), who meet unseeded Maryland (12-4) in Saturday's quarterfinals in Hempstead, N.Y. And it was clear enough to him when he arrived from Brown after the 2016 season, even if Herring had just a goal and four assists in a reserve role as a freshman.

The Virginia team Tiffany inherited had skill, strength and size, but it was relatively short on understanding the game's nuances. That is a strength of Herring's, and he emerged as an extra-man fixture as a sophomore and then played in every game with five starts last year, scoring 12 goals and adding 18 assists.

"He's someone who can grasp schemes right away and execute them on the field without fail," Tiffany said. "Combine that with his accuracy in shot. It isn't moving very fast so it limits his range, but if he's got half a second, he can really put the ball in some small, small spaces."

That was clear with Herring's tight-angle game-winner in overtime at Syracuse on March 2, a timely moment to deliver his first goal of the season.

It's easy to trace Herring's lacrosse savviness to his father Michael, who played at Dartmouth and is a long-time coach. Michael Herring has spent the last two years as the lacrosse coach at the Blue Ridge School, which is located about a half-hour drive from Charlottesville.

"I'm definitely super-thankful that he's taught me so much," Herring said. "It's been great the last couple of years just so he can see the games. I basically owe all the success of my lacrosse career to my dad."

His parents were on hand Saturday for his star turn in the Cavaliers' first postseason victory since 2012. Herring's ride helped set up Virginia's first goal, and from there he was part of an offense that effectively shared the ball to put the game out of reach by the end of the third quarter.

It was a riveting final game at Klockner Stadium for Herring and his fellow seniors, and perhaps a hint of what's still to come as the Cavaliers seek their first trip to the last weekend of the season since 2011.

"I think especially when it comes to this time of year, it doesn't matter who is doing the scoring," Herring said. "You just kind of want one more week of practice. It's nice to be in a system where people are sharing the ball and have their head up."

All of which means Herring would be perfectly content if he follows up a six-goal showing by sliding back out of the limelight and providing a slew of hockey assists while facilitating Virginia's offense Saturday. Tiffany, though, knows how vital Herring is to making the Cavaliers' system work properly.

"We are going to miss him more than anyone else in the lacrosse world will give credit towards," Tiffany said. "They'll be 'Oh, they lost Ryan Conrad, they lost a starting close defenseman.' That'll be one of those team losses that as a coaching staff next month we'll be asking ourselves 'How do we replace everything that Mikey Herring was doing for us?'"

Alumni Relishing Hoos' Resurgence

By Jeff White

As a former University of Virginia lacrosse player who's now an assistant coach at his alma mater, Kip Turner links the program's past and present.

Turner, who starred at goalie on the unbeaten UVA team that won the NCAA title in 2006, hears regularly from fellow alumni, and not only former players from his era.

Most of these messages, Turner said, have a common theme: We're really proud of you guys.

"I think more than anything our alums, especially the ones that talk to me, are like, 'Man, you guys play really hard,'" Turner said, "and they're really proud to see that portion of Virginia lacrosse be back in action, just the scrappiness on ground balls and the never-give-up mentality. I've gotten a lot of text messages complimenting our guys on that."

In May 2012, some 11 months after defeating Maryland 9-7 in Baltimore to capture the program's fifth NCAA title, Virginia edged Princeton 6-5 at Klöckner Stadium. That sent the Cavaliers to the NCAA quarterfinals, where they lost to Notre Dame, the start of an uncharacteristically rough stretch for one of the sport's storied programs.

Nearly seven years passed before UVA won another NCAA tourney game. The breakthrough came last Saturday night, when Virginia routed Robert Morris 19-10 in a first-round game at Klöckner.

That victory moved the Wahoos to the NCAA quarterfinals for the first time since 2012. At noon Saturday, third-seeded Virginia (14-3) meets former ACC rival Maryland (12-4) at Hofstra University's James M. Shuart Stadium in Hempstead, N.Y., with the winner advancing to next weekend's Final Four in Philadelphia.

The Hoos missed the NCAA tourney in 2013, '16 and '17. They reached the NAAs in 2014, '15 and '18, but lost in the first round each time. Two of those losses – to Johns Hopkins in '14 and '15 – were blowouts.

For former players following the program, those were trying times, former UVA midfielder Billy Glading said. "Speaking for myself, from the moment I started to have an interest in lacrosse in grade school, all the way through when my last brother got through playing, in all those years Virginia was just a force to be reckoned with."

Glading won an NCAA title at UVA in 2003. His brother Danny earned a championship ring with the Cavaliers in 2006, and their youngest brother, Pat, received one in 2011.

It was difficult, Billy Glading said, to see the program become "a little bit of an afterthought. I never thought in all those years there would come a time when I'd be getting older and say, 'I played lacrosse at Virginia,' and people would be like, 'Yeah, so what? They stink.'"

"It just felt not right for all of us to be seeing what we were seeing. It was nice to see so many other schools stepping up and competing, rather than just the top dogs that were always in the mix, but it wasn't nice that it was kind of coming at our expense. We sort of always expected to be at the top there. There was frustration and there was confusion, for sure."

Henry Oakey was a fifth-year senior midfielder on the UVA team that in 1999 won the program's first NCAA title in 27 years. Like Glading, Oakey said the Cavaliers' decline was especially painful for the program's alumni.

"You knew everybody was working hard to get the ship right, but it just wasn't happening, though not for lack of effort," Oakey said.

"That's hard to watch. It's something that everybody puts a lot of time into, and it's kind of yours for a little while, and then you pass it on to the next group, and it's hard to watch it when they're struggling out there. But the lacrosse landscape has changed a lot since 20 years ago. I think everybody would recognize that."

In this decade alone, three first-time NCAA champions have been crowned: Loyola in 2012, Denver in '15, and Yale in '18.

"There's more talent out there, and the talent isn't as concentrated," Oakey said. "We had guys that sat the bench for four years that could have gone somewhere else and been a two-time All-American. But if you're stuck behind [former UVA great] Michael Watson, you're not getting in. It's just not going to happen."

Glading agreed. "There's great coaches all over, and there's better players all over. It's a different landscape."

The 2016 season was the last at Virginia for Hall of Fame coach Dom Starsia, who guided the program to four NCAA titles. UVA's handling of the coaching change displeased many of Starsia's former players.

"It was kind of tough to watch the way things played out with Dom," Oakey said. "That was just not the way anybody wanted to see that happen. It would be dishonest to say it didn't leave a bad taste in a lot of guys' mouths."

"Nonetheless, we're all Virginia guys, right? We want to see the program do well, and we were rooting for the train to get back on the tracks right away. It was hard to watch when I didn't feel like we athletically matched up with some of the teams we were playing against, and it seems like that's changed. We're sort of back to being able to stand toe to toe with the big guys out there."

The Cavaliers finished 7-8 in 2016 and, for the second straight season, went winless against ACC opponents. Lars Tiffany, who played for Starsia at Brown, succeeded his mentor at UVA in June 2016.

Tiffany came to Charlottesville from Providence, R.I., where in 10 seasons as Brown's head coach he posted a 95-56 record, with three trips to the NCAA tourney, including a Final Four appearance in 2016. Tiffany brought his assistants -- Turner and offensive coordinator Sean Kirwan -- with him from the Ivy League school.

In 2017, the Hoos' first season under the new coaching staff, they finished 8-7 overall but again went 0-4 in ACC play. In 2018, however, signs of progress emerged.

That April, UVA collected its first ACC win since 2014, defeating North Carolina 15-12 in Chapel Hill. For the first time since 2013, the Cavaliers qualified for the four-team ACC tournament, in which they knocked off Syracuse in the semifinals before losing to Notre Dame in the championship game.

Virginia had a short stay in last year's NCAA tournament, falling 14-12 at Loyola in the first round, but the foundation had been laid for the team's success this season.

Since losing to High Point on Feb. 18, the Cavaliers have stumbled only once, against longtime nemesis Duke on April 13. Virginia, many of whose players are Starsia recruits, captured the ACC regular-season title and then defeated UNC and Notre Dame to win the conference tournament for the first time since 2010.

"It just means that we're on the right track," Turner said after the championship game. "We're not perfect. We're not really that close to perfect, but we've got a gritty group of guys that care about each other."

The program's alumni have noticed. Michael Leahy, one of Oakey's teammates on the 1999 team, is now head coach at Woodberry Forest. When he spoke to Leahy this week, Oakey said, they agreed "that the best teams we played on were committed to each other in a way that they just loved playing for one another, and it seems like these guys have bought into that and want to try to take this thing to the next step again. So that's exciting for us to watch."

Many former players needed some time to move on from Starsia's exit from UVA, but Turner said he never sensed a lack of support for the program.

"They just want to see us be successful, and it's the mark of a really good and strong alumni base," Turner said. "They want to the team to be successful and the guys in the program be successful and be successful after college as well."

"They want this program to be healthy, and it's starting to return to that level, which is nice."

Texts and emails, as well as phone calls, keep former UVA teammates connected.

"We have been talking and keeping a close eye on the program," Glading said, "and we're very excited with how things have sort of turned around here."

"It's been fun to watch. I feel like I want to watch lacrosse again. It seems like this team is full of a bunch of great guys, good leaders, super-talented players, and it's just nice to see them really competing, and the wins are coming."

Standing in the Cavaliers' way this weekend is a program with which they have a long history. Starting in 1950, UVA and Maryland played each other at least once in 65 consecutive seasons. The Terrapins moved from the ACC to the Big Ten in the summer of 2014, and this will be their first game against the Hoos in five years. The Terps won the NCAA title in 2017.

Oakey's teammates at UVA included Tucker Radebaugh, whose two brothers played at Maryland.

"So that was always a big one for Tucker, and he put the spurs to us and made sure it was a big one for us, too," Oakey said. "But no one really needed any extra incentive to beat Maryland. That was always a big rivalry for us. Always. You knew it was going to be a tough game, too. Physically, you knew you were going to be hurting afterwards."

Oakey, who lives in Charlottesville, won't be at the game Saturday. Along with his friend Carrington King, he coaches a girls lacrosse team that's playing in a tournament in Northern Virginia this weekend.

King played at Maryland.

"So I'm sure whoever loses is buying dinner at the next tournament for the winner," Oakey said, laughing.

Virginia's Offense Evolves From Pure Chaos to Controlled Chaos

By Matt Kinnear

During Virginia's decisive win against Robert Morris in the NCAA Tournament First Round, Ryan Conrad did something curious. He scooped up a groundball off the wing on a face-off, and despite having a path to the net, took a look backward toward the bench. He got the nod and took it to the house, scoring one of his five goals in the 19-10 win.

"He picked up the ball, and he looked at the bench. 'OK, do you want me to go to the goal or no?' There were opportunities that Robert Morris was giving us when we were exiting cleanly, giving us a 6 v 5, and sometimes you know, 'Let's settle this down,'" Virginia coach Lars Tiffany said.

"There's Ryan Conrad picking up the ball, looking at the bench, getting the green light, and he goes in and scores. It's taking it all in, looking for if it's the right time, that's where he's really evolved. Having his head up and seeing other action and seeing the rest of the story — on defense, too — he's really evolved."

Virginia's offense is clicking and arguably playing its best during this staff's three-year tenure. Tiffany, along with offensive coordinator and mastermind Sean Kirwan, have thrived on chaos. But somewhere along the line, it's crossed into a bit more of controlled chaos.

In 2017, Virginia was the second-fastest team in DI lacrosse, according to pace of play numbers from analyticslacrosse. That's slowed down to the 35th-fastest team in DI in 2019.

Playing smarter — still with pace, but with more situational awareness — was a stated goal for the team ahead of 2019.

"As a coaching staff, we've been here for two years. As we enter the third year, there should be, from the collective, really having a good grasp of the schemes and the pace we want to play and the situational awareness," Tiffany said in preseason interviews with Inside Lacrosse. "We've implemented the system for two years. It's been fast, fun and frenetic. Now — better decision-making. Whether that's understanding not going offsides, understanding pace of play, understanding how much defense we've played. The best teams are smart teams. We've got the talent, we've got the physicality. Now we need to be smarter."

Conrad has been part of that process. The do-it-all guy had at times been known to do a little too much. He's aggressive by nature — and that's a huge asset and key part of his game — but he needed to let the game come to him a bit more.

"Coach Kirwan and all the coaches have been trusting me and telling me that letting the game come to me is the best thing for my success. I'm always someone who's incredibly aggressive, going to the goal or getting a groundball, whatever it may be, and they've been focusing on if I let it come to me, I'm going to be more successful. Being patient is the key for me," Conrad said following the win.

"We knew we had the guys, we had the coaches, we had the system, we knew if we played the right way we were going to have incredible success," Conrad said.

And nothing is as important as the maturation of Matt Moore into his role as an attackman. His running of the offense in the win against Robert Morris was a thing of beauty — distributing the rock like a seasoned veteran at the position. He had two goals and seven assists — passing to four different players.

The No. 1 midfielder coming out of Garnet Valley (Pa.) had played attack a few times in high school, but he's had to grow into that role. He's become Virginia's most prolific point-scorer — an even 38 goals, 39 assists on a deadly attack line with Michael Kraus and Ian Laviano, and then Mikey Herring as another option.

He admits it's a process to which he's becoming more comfortable.

"I'm always learning. Mike and Ian and Mikey do a great job of teaching. I played a little at high school, never at this level, so it takes some time to get used to. I'm learning on the spot, and they make my job easy," Moore said.

Tiffany repeated a theme: Turning the aggression into production in a positive way. Moore has 33 turnovers, most on the team, but he also is fourth-most with caused turnovers (10) because of his tenacity on the ride.

"Matt Moore was aggressive the day he stepped onto this campus. He wants to fire that ball in there. Matt, we're going to put you on attack, but it doesn't mean you shoot every time you touch the ball. When he was a midfielder, last year as a first year, be aggressive, you're not going to touch the ball as much. What you're seeing is actually Matt being Matt Moore and the coaches unleashing him more and more as he's proving his forces aren't bad decisions," Tiffany said.

"He's going to have turnovers. We learned this when we were at Brown. When we were scoring all those goals in '15 and '16, we were in the top five in turnovers. And so we're OK with it. As a coaching staff, we're comfortable with Matt because he's so dangerous that we can live with some of those turnovers. It's letting Matt be Matt."

Virginia is 24th-best in the nation in turnovers at 15.59 per game — Maryland (14.50), Loyola (15.38) and Yale (15.56) have better numbers than them among tournament teams.

"With Matt Moore, when he touches that ball it's going to be a home run. He's going to be swinging for the fences here. So, is he going to be batting .200 with 40 home runs on the year or is he batting .275, .320, then we'll live with it. He's getting into that .300 range. He's that dangerous. He's getting more comfortable now."

At just the right time, as Virginia has a test against Maryland in the NCAA Quarterfinals — a former league rival that, despite recent struggles, can dictate the pace and has plenty of Championship Weekend experience.

For Conrad, it comes down to trust.

"We trust that, I'll throw a ball into anybody, I know they're going to catch it and handle it. We have guys out there that we trust to death," Conrad said.

Hoos Hit Another Milestone with ACC Title

By Jeff White

The new coaches who arrived at the University of Virginia in the summer of 2016 knew all about the storied history of its men's lacrosse program. They knew, too, that much work awaited them at UVA.

From Brown, head coach Lars Tiffany brought with him his two assistants: Kip Turner and Sean Kirwan. Turner had been part of the Cavaliers' glory days, starting in goal on the unbeaten team that in 2006 captured the program's fourth NCAA title. (Virginia won its fifth in 2011).

Turner, who made the All-ACC team in 2007, returned to UVA, he said, because "I wanted to do whatever it takes to help bring this program back to where it was."

On a steamy afternoon at Klöckner Stadium, the Wahoos took another step toward that goal Saturday. In the ACC championship game, top-seeded UVA thrashed third-seeded Notre Dame, 10-4, before an appreciative crowd of 4,489.

"We just left everything out on the field in this game," said senior midfielder Ryan Conrad, who was named the tourney's MVP. "We deserved that win."

The ACC tournament title was the Cavaliers' first since 2010. They also defeated Notre Dame during the regular season, but this win was considerably more satisfying. In last year's ACC championship game, also at Klöckner, the Fighting Irish had humbled the Hoos, 17-7.

"It just means that we're on the right track," said Turner, who oversees Virginia's goalies and faceoff specialists. "We're not perfect. We're not really that close to perfect, but we've got a gritty group of guys that care about each other, and that's why it means a lot for me to be back with this group."

One of those guys is defenseman Logan Greco, a fifth-year senior from New York. In each of Greco's first three seasons in the program, UVA went 0-4 in ACC play.

"To get from there to this point has been truly special," Greco said Saturday, "and that's just a testament to the culture change we've undergone here under Coach Tiffany, and to the guys in the locker room. I know it's cliché to say, but we've really become a brotherhood."

In 2018, their second season under Tiffany, the Hoos finally broke through in the ACC, defeating North Carolina during the regular season.

"The relief we felt was just like a giant weight that came off our shoulders and allowed us to play more freely," Greco said.

Virginia went on to defeat Syracuse in last year's ACC semifinals before stumbling against Notre Dame in the championship game. This year, after winning the ACC's regular-season title, the Cavaliers defeated UNC and Notre Dame in the conference tourney.

"It just shows how far we've come," said junior midfielder Dox Aitken, one of four Cavaliers named to the all-tournament team, along with Conrad, junior defenseman Jared Conners and sophomore attackman Matt Moore.

"I remember being on the outside [of the ACC tournament] looking in my freshman year," Aitken said. "Last year we made a pretty big stride. We were in this game. I just think we didn't have the energy last year, and it was new to us. So I think that memory definitely gave us a couple mental scars, and we tried to embrace that all week and make that a strength and not a weakness, and I think we did that."

Aitken led the Hoos (13-3) with three goals Saturday, and Conrad added two. Junior Michael Kraus, an All-ACC attackman, had a game-high two assists for UVA. The story of this game, however, was the Cavaliers' defensive effort against an opponent that came in averaging 11.6 goals per game.

"Top to bottom, our defense stood on their head," Conrad said. "We would not have won that game if they hadn't done what they did."

Virginia forced 23 turnovers and relentlessly rode the Irish (8-6), who were only 15 of 22 on clears. In the cage, sophomore Alex Rode made 11 saves for the Hoos.

"Huge effort by Alex," Tiffany said.

Nearly three months earlier, in its season opener, Virginia had allowed 17 goals in a one-sided loss to Loyola in Baltimore. Nine days later, the Cavaliers gave up 14 goals in a loss to High Point at Klöckner Stadium, a defeat that dropped their record to 1-2.

Hoos Hit Another Milestone with ACC Title

"Something that Coach Tiffany really harps on is, who can improve the fastest?" Conners said. "It's a race to improve. The beginning of the season, we knew that wasn't going to define us, and we knew that we had a lot of ground to cover and a lot of work to do. So it was back to the grindstone from there. We knew we could it, and we knew we had the talent to do it. It was just whether or not we were going to put in the work to get there."

Greco said: "We thought we were going to be a good defense at the beginning of the year, and we didn't show it right away. But I think this game shows we can be a good defense."

Tiffany agreed, calling it "a major statement for our team defense."

He referenced the struggles of 2017, when opponents regularly shredded the Cavaliers' defense. Virginia gave up 20 goals to Duke, 18 to Johns Hopkins, 18 to Cornell, 17 to Penn, and 15 to Loyola that season. The Hoos improved last year, when they advanced to the NCAA tournament for the first time since 2015.

"I didn't want to claim that I was also defensive coordinator that first year," Tiffany said, smiling. "We've come a long way. I give credit to this group of men for still believing in me after that first year. It culminated today with our decision-making of when to slide to the man being dodged, and when not to. That decision-making has taken years to hone."

Virginia's other heroes Saturday included Petey LaSalla, a 5-7 freshman who saw at halftime that his Notre Dame counterpart, Charles Leonard, had a 6-3 edge in faceoffs. LaSalla won 7 of 9 draws in the second half, including 5 of 5 in the third quarter.

"I just wanted to turn that around," LaSalla said, "and I came out hot."

That's nothing new for LaSalla. For the season, he's won 59.9 percent of his faceoffs.

"He's been great all year," Aitken said. "Petey's just a gamer, and when there's a big faceoff, he usually comes up with it, and hopefully that keeps going."

Look for the Cavaliers to be back at Klöckner for their NCAA tournament opener next weekend. The NCAA field will be announced Sunday night, and Virginia figures to be one of the top four seeds.

Virginia has divided the season into three parts. In the first, the Cavaliers won the ACC regular-season title. They capped the second by capturing the ACC tournament. Now comes the NCAA tourney.

"We're ready for the next chapter," Conners said.

SOUND BITES: After losing seven straight to Notre Dame, Virginia has won the past two games in the series. Among the postgame comments:

* Conrad on the atmosphere at Klöckner Stadium: "It's amazing having these fans come out here and support us. We try and focus more internally on just being the best team we can, but having these fans come out here and support us is amazing, and I hope they keep doing it."

* Tiffany: "This is what college lacrosse is supposed to look like, and what a setting. So thank you to all the Virginia faithful who came out today and supported us and really propelled us to this win."

* Rode: "When you're winning faceoffs and the offense is playing great, it makes it easier, but the close defense and the D-mids and the [long-stick middies] are just playing really locked down. When both sides are playing well, it's nice."

* Greco on the significance of the ACC championship: "I don't think I could put it into words that could do it justice. I feel like I'm out of my body right now."

* Conrad: "Something we've been focusing on through the whole year is playing our best lacrosse in May, and I think we've done that so far."

* Conrad: "I think we took a big step last year by getting our first ACC win and an appearance in the ACC championship, and I think we're taking another big step here by getting the championship [this year]. I'm hoping we can take another few steps in the [NCAA] tournament."

Moore Embracing New Role in Second Year

By Jeff White

He's a legend in the sport, and Frank Urso knows greatness in lacrosse when he sees it. Urso, who was a four-time first-team All-American for the University of Maryland, recognized that potential in Matt Moore back in 2012.

Never mind that Moore was a rising eighth-grader at the time.

Urso, who helped Maryland win NCAA titles in 1973 and '75, coaches the varsity boys' team at Garnet Valley High School, about 25 miles southwest of Philadelphia. In 2012, he was putting together a squad to play in summer tournaments when he spoke with Moore's parents at a social gathering.

"I mentioned to them that I wanted to bring Matt up for the summer," Urso recalled. "His mom looked at me and said, 'Do you think he's ready for the JV team?' I said, 'I don't know. I don't really care. He's playing with the varsity.'"

College coaches shared Urso's assessment of Moore, who received multiple scholarship offers even before his first high school game. He committed to the University of Virginia in December 2013, midway through his freshman year at Garnet Valley.

"We thought he was a very special player," recalled Dom Starsia, then UVA's head coach.

Moore hasn't buckled under the weight of expectations. At Garnet Valley, he totaled 156 goals and 273 assists and was selected to the all-state first team four times, and Inside Lacrosse ranked him as the No. 4 recruit in the Class of 2017.

His UVA career is unfolding in similar fashion. In 2018, when he started in the midfield, Moore was named ACC Freshman of the Year after helping the Wahoos reach the NCAA tournament for the first time since 2015.

This season, as a starting attackman, Moore leads Virginia with 66 points. He's first on the team in assists (31) and second in goals (35) and was one of four Cavaliers named All-ACC last month.

"He's doing exactly what we thought he'd do," Urso said. "He's a special kid. He's extremely talented. He does some things that you just can't teach. His unselfishness and the way he sees the field, that's just not as teachable as you would like it to be.

"He doesn't mind who scores. He just minds if the team scores, and he likes to try to find ways to make that happen."

Starsia said Moore's "ability to change the field and feed off the dodge makes UVA different and more dangerous than the other schools in the conference."

For the Hoos, the postseason began last weekend in Chapel Hill, N.C. In a comeback win over host North Carolina, the 6-2, 195-pound Moore had a career-high six assists and one goal to help UVA advance to the ACC championship game for the second straight year.

At 2 p.m. Saturday, in a game ESPNU will televise, top-seeded Virginia (12-3) meets third-seeded Notre Dame (8-5) at Klöckner Stadium. This is a rematch of their March 16 clash in Charlottesville, where the Wahoos rallied for a 13-11 victory.

In last year's ACC championship game, however, the Fighting Irish romped 17-7 at Klöckner Stadium. Moore and his teammates haven't forgotten that loss.

"We've got plenty of ammo with what happened to us last year," said Sean Kirwan, the Hoos' offensive coordinator.

In high school, Moore started most games in the midfield but also played attack. "He didn't leave the field," Urso said.

Starsia, whose tenure at Virginia ended after the 2016 season, always envisioned Moore as an attackman in college. Starsia's successor as head coach, Lars Tiffany, came to UVA from Brown, along with his assistants -- Kirwan and Kip Turner. The new staff gave Moore the option of playing attack last year, but he preferred to run in the midfield with Dox Aitken, another exceptional talent from the Philadelphia area.

"I felt like I'd be better helping the team there," Moore said, and his new coaches did not try to dissuade him.

"I'm a big believer in trying to make a first-year guy as comfortable as possible," Kirwan said. "He's got so much going on that first year on campus, you'd hate to mess with that. Just talking with Matt, he was very comfortable being a midfielder, and that was fine."

Moore Embracing New Role in Second Year

From a team that finished 12-6 last season, UVA returned two starting attackmen -- Michael Kraus and Ian Laviano -- and candidates for the third spot included Payton Cormier, a freshman from Canada. Midway through the fall, however, Cormier suffered a serious knee injury, and the coaches approached Moore about a position change.

"They were like, 'Matt, do you want to try attack?'" Moore recalled, "I said, 'Yeah, let's do it.'"

Kirwan said: "We moved Matt out of need this year, and we didn't necessarily have that need last year. We could let him be comfortable. But it's always been in the back of our minds, and thankfully he had become more comfortable with everything around him, where now he was ready for a new challenge."

Still, Moore said, he struggled in his new role at first.

"It's a different position, 100 percent," he said. "I wasn't really comfortable playing from behind [the cage], but Kraus and Ian have helped me a lot. I had to put in a lot more extra work, because I grew up doing mid-field drills. Middies are dodging down the alley, shooting on the run, but attack's doing inside rolls and question mark [dodges], and I wasn't really comfortable with that."

Kirwan said: "When we moved him, he was a midfielder playing attack. There are some subtleties to the attack position that he still had to figure out. I think the biggest thing was, we just needed to slow him down. When you're a middie, you can kind of go 100 miles an hour all the time, and good things will happen."

Playing with Aitken and Ryan Conrad, Moore drew a short-stick defender, and "his job was pretty simple," Kirwan said. "Whereas now at the attack position, he needed to learn how to be more of a facilitator."

Moore, whose two brothers played soccer at Penn State Altoona, has been an apt pupil. His performance against UNC last week "proved that he's continued to grow enough where he could be that type of feeding quarterback of our offense," Kirwan said. "It's been a fun process working with him, and every week he kind of picks up something new, a little tidbit here or there."

The coaching change at UVA occurred near the end of Moore's junior year at Garnet Valley. It came as a shock to him, but he never wavered in his commitment to Virginia. Moore connected immediately with Tiffany, Kirwan and Turner, the starting goalie on the UVA team that won the NCAA title in 2006.

"I think they called me right away," Moore said. "They were just like, 'Yeah, we tried recruiting you at Brown, but we knew we didn't have a chance, so we're glad you committed here.'"

Moreover, Moore noted, there's an adage to which recruits are wise to adhere, given the nature of college sports: Pick the school, don't pick the coaching staff. "Perfect example here," he said.

A foreign affairs major, Moore chose Virginia in large part because of its academic reputation. Urso, who played in the NCAA championship game in each of his four seasons at Maryland, admits he would have liked to have seen Moore in College Park.

"I tried," Urso said, laughing. "I tried very hard. Gave him a lot of options."

The Cavaliers will have multiple options at the offensive end in the fall, when Cormier returns and Connor Shellenberger, an acclaimed attackman who's now a senior at nearby St. Anne's-Bel-field School, joins the program. With Conrad leaving after this season, Moore could move back to middle.

"Wherever they need me," he said. "I think I'm best up top, but I like playing behind [the cage] now. It's fun."

Laviano Looks to Build on 2018 Success

By Jeff White

In Dennis Bonn's two decades as head coach of the powerhouse boys lacrosse program at Cold Spring Harbor Junior/Senior High School on Long Island, N.Y., three eighth-graders have made his varsity team.

One of them was Ian Laviano. Never mind that in the spring of 2013 he weighed all of 130 pounds.

"We'd heard about these unbelievable abilities of his, and he absolutely had 'em," Bonn said. "He has probably the best set of hands of any player I've ever coached. His hands are soft and lightning-quick, and he can catch and he can throw anything, and he had that in the eighth grade."

He still has it. The 5-8 Laviano, who's now up to about 170 pounds, is in his second year as a starting attackman at the University of Virginia. As a freshman last year, he contributed 37 goals and nine assists to help the Cavaliers advance to the NCAA tournament for the first time since 2015.

He was around 6 years old when his father introduced him to the sport, Laviano said. "I immediately fell in love with it."

Playing so early at Cold Spring Harbor, where grades 7-12 are in the same building, "gave me confidence," Laviano said, "but it also prepared me for the moment when I first got [to UVA], when I was asked to take on a role early on."

Laviano did not have the 2019 debut he wanted, converting only one of his 10 shots in Virginia's 19-7 loss to No. 2 Loyola last Saturday in Baltimore. But with a new week comes a fresh opportunity. At 5 p.m. Friday, 11th-ranked UVA (0-1) hosts Lehigh (1-1) at Klöckner Stadium. (The game, originally scheduled for Saturday afternoon, was moved because of concerns over the weather forecast.)

Against Loyola, Laviano "hit some pipes, and the goalie was just tracking his shots pretty well," Virginia offensive coordinator Sean Kirwan said. "I know there's a couple that Ian wishes he had back. We're going to keep dialing that up for him. He's a guy that's going to create those opportunities, so we're going to keep looking for him."

At Cold Spring Harbor, former UVA greats Jay Jalbert (1997-2000) and Adam Ghitelman (2008-11) preceded Laviano in the lacrosse program.

"I looked up to Adam," Laviano said. "I loved going to Cold Spring Harbor games and watching him play."

In Laviano's five seasons on the varsity, he totaled 323 points and helped the Seahawks win three Class C state titles. Even as an eighth-grader, Bonn said, Laviano displayed a toughness that belied his stature.

"He's rugged," Bonn said. "He loves to ride. He loves ground balls."

Bonn attended Virginia's game at Stony Brook last season and remembers a sequence in which Laviano, who also played ice hockey in high school, was front and center.

"He picked up a ground ball right in front of the scorer's table, and he got run over by two or three kids from Stony Brook," Bonn said. "But he made the pass to get the ball advanced, and he got a penalty drawn. There was almost a bench-clearing brawl at that point, but that epitomizes him. He doesn't care about getting run over. He's going to pick up the ground ball and move it right away. That's Ian."

When Cold Spring Harbor would turn the ball over in its offensive end, Bonn said, Laviano "was like a hyena, riding it down, and it was just a beautiful thing to watch."

Midway through his freshman year at Cold Spring Harbor, Laviano committed to UVA, intending to play for Hall of Fame head coach Dom Starsia and offensive coordinator Marc Van Arsdale in college. He had no reservations about committing so early.

"The way I looked at it was, you know where you're going to high school when you're four years out," Laviano said. "What's wrong with knowing where you're going to college?"

"I also wasn't worried, because I fell in love with this place. I visited once or twice a year, so I kept developing a love for it."

Starsia's tenure at UVA ended after the 2016 season, and Lars Tiffany was hired to succeed him. Tiffany brought assistants Kip Turner, who's a former UVA goalkeeper, and Kirwan with him from Brown. (Van Arsdale is now offensive coordinator at Loyola.)

Laviano Looks to Build on 2018 Success

Laviano never wavered on his commitment to Virginia.

"I had built a relationship with Coach Dom and Coach Van -- they're terrific people -- but the first phone call with Lars went really well, and I really liked him when I first came down here [to meet him]," Laviano said.

Even when they were at Brown, Tiffany and his assistants were aware of Laviano's prowess on attack. When they came to UVA, Kirwan said, they were happy to know Laviano would be joining their program.

"At first glance," Kirwan said, "he's not the most physically imposing person by any means, but to see the numbers he was putting up on Long Island and the accolades he was getting, we thought that there could definitely be something there that could translate to what we're trying to do."

In an era when athletes in many sports seem to be growing ever bigger and stronger, smaller players can still make an impact in lacrosse.

"It's great for guys that don't need the ball in their stick all the time to be productive," Kirwan said. "It's the equivalent to an off-ball 3-point shooter in basketball. It's equivalent to a slot receiver in football. They don't need a ton of wiggle room. They don't need to make a ton of plays, having the ball in their stick.

"We've got plenty of guys that can do that, so we needed a guy like Ian to give us good balance on our offensive end, and he's been great with it.

"I think that's what helped him have such early success for us, the fact that he wasn't a guy that needed the ball in his stick. He wasn't a guy that needed to win match-ups to get open and get his opportunities."

Laviano, 20, plans to major in psychology at UVA. He lives with teammate Matt Moore, who's now starting on attack, alongside Laviano and junior Michael Kraus, after playing in the mid-field as a freshman last season.

Moore might move back to mid-die at some point, Kirwan said, "but it's one of those things where right now we feel like it gives teams some hard things to talk about as far as match-ups, and it helps our transition game, getting another dodger to support Kraus, which is something I don't think we had last year."

The Wahoos' 2018 season ended in Baltimore with a loss to Loyola in the NCAA tournament's first round. Not since 2012 have the 'Hoos advanced to the NCAA second round, and they hope to break through this spring.

"The culture that we built last year was the foundation, and now we're building off that foundation," Laviano said. "It's not something that takes a year. It's a long process, so we're still working on it. But the way our season ended last year was not the way we wanted it to. That feeling that we all had in that locker room after the game, as Coach Tiffany says, it was different than his first year here, and he sees a change and he sees a difference in this program."

UVa men's lacrosse found star in walk-on Kyle Kology

By Mike Barber

A couple years ago, former University of Denver men's lacrosse coach Jamie Munro called Virginia head coach Lars Tiffany with a question.

He asked what traits and characteristics Tiffany looked for when recruiting defensemen.

Tiffany rattled off a list.

Munro responded: "OK, it's game day. What characteristics and qualities are you looking for in the defensemen who actually play?"

Almost mindlessly, Tiffany began to answer, but his words trailed off amid a realization. The traits he was looking for in high school defenders did not match those of the men stepping on the field.

"We value, more so on game day as college coaches, communication, comprehension of slide schemes and making those innate, intelligent plays," Tiffany said. "They're harder to pick up when you're sitting on the sidelines at a recruiting event watching a bunch of 16-year-olds, but they're absolutely critical."

Now when recruiting defenders, Tiffany begins with three traits: communication, comprehension and lacrosse IQ. They are the foundation of a great defender in his scheme, and they're the qualities sophomore Kyle Kology stepped on Grounds with in 2017 as a walk-on.

"He just has an innate sense of where to be on the field, how to back up shots, when to slide and how to pick up tough ground balls," Tiffany said. "I'm just very fortunate to have a man with Kyle's experience and insight on the field."

Now with two full seasons as a starter under his belt, Kology plays an integral role in the Cavaliers' defense, which heads into Saturday's NCAA Tournament opener on the heels of one of its most dominant defensive performances in years.

Last weekend, Virginia beat Notre Dame 10-4 to win its first ACC Tournament title since 2010. It was the fewest goals the Cavaliers have allowed in a game since 2016. Kology operates in the middle of that defense in a spot reserved for the headiest of defenders.

"You don't have to cover as much, but you have to be smart with the decisions of sliding or staying and communicating to all the other five defenders on the field," Virginia defensive coordinator Kip Turner said. "He understands the game, and he has played a lot of lacrosse in his life."

Kology was a two-time first-team all-state pick at Chatham High School in New Jersey and helped his team win a 2016 New Jersey state championship. In two seasons at Virginia, he has started 32 of a possible 35 games and he has 26 caused turnovers.

The 6-foot-4 former basketball player was on Turner's radar back when he was on Tiffany's staff at Brown, but the head coach was less enthused about the young defender's prospects. Even when Kology showed up in Charlottesville as a walk-on, Tiffany was less than optimistic.

"I remember telling him when he visited as a high school senior 'Kyle, I don't care if you come to Virginia or not. I'm not going to give you any preferential treatment. If you come here, I'll give you a three-day tryout. That's all I'll guarantee,'" Tiffany said. "Two days in, I remember telling myself 'Thank goodness he chose Virginia.'"

Academics were always high on Kology's list. Before choosing Virginia, he was also accepted at University of California-Berkeley. His teammates say that intelligence shows up on the field.

"Kyle is always the smartest guy on the field," fifth-year senior defender Logan Greco said. "He just picks up on things and concepts that it took me a while to pick up. He's always making up for our mistakes."

Greco is the only member of the Cavaliers' defense not expected back next year.

This season, Kology started all but one game. He was joined by freshman Cade Saustad, sophomore Will Rock and junior Jared Conners. Rock and Conners double as long stick midfielders.

"Defense has been our thinnest position here at Virginia," Tiffany said, "but in a couple years, I hope I'm not saying that anymore."
