UVA HALL OF FAME INDUCTEES

Former Cavalier standout Jim Dombrowski is one of 13 players who will be inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame this year. He anchored Virginia's offensive line from 1982-85 and finished his brilliant college football career as UVA's first-ever unanimous All-American. In addition, he became only the fifth Cavalier to have his number (73) retired. A two-time winner of the Jacobs Blocking Trophy (recognizing the ACC's best blocker), he helped lead UVA to three straight winning seasons and a 27-24 victory over Purdue in the 1984 Peach Bowl, the school's first bowl appearance.

Henry Jordan, defensive tackle, inducted July 29, 1995

Henry Jordan

A three-sport athlete at Virginia (football, wrestling and track & field). Selected by the Cleveland Browns in the fifth round of the 1957 NFL Draft, Jordan was traded to the Green Bay Packers in 1959. He spent the next 11 years with the Packers, playing at right defensive tackle on some of the greatest teams in pro football history. Jordan's arrival in Green Bay coincided with that of legendary coach Vince Lombardi, who led the Packers to five NFL titles. Jordan was named All-NFL in five consecutive seasons (1960-1964) and in 1967. A four-time Pro-Bowl selection, he was named Most Valuable Lineman in the 1962 Pro Bowl. Jordan died of a heart attack in 1977 at age 42. He was posthumously inducted into the NFL Hall of Fame on July 29, 1995, in Canton, Ohio.

SCOTT STADIUM

The Home of Virginia Football

Entering its 82nd season as the home for Virginia football, the Carl Smith Center, home of David A. Harrison III Field at Scott Stadium, with its unique architectural design, scenic setting on the University's Grounds and exceptional sight lines, is one of the nation's finest college football settings.

Opened in 1931, Scott Stadium might be one of the oldest campus college football stadiums in the nation, but you could never tell from its appearance. Numerous upgrades and expansions over the decade fine it a modern home for the Cavaliers and their fans.

Scott Stadium was the gift of Frederic William Scott and Elisabeth Strother Scott, and was dedicated to the memory of his parents, Frederic Robert Scott and Frances Branch Scott.

Virginia played its dedication game at Scott Stadium on Oct. 15, 1931 against the Virginia Military Institute before a then-capacity crowd of 22,000. Prior to that season, the Cavaliers staged their home games at the University's Lambeth Field.

Since George Welsh's 1987 squad went a perfect 5-0 at home, Scott Stadium has provided Virginia's team a decided advantage. Over the past 25 seasons UVa's home record stands at 112-41.

Virginia has played 422 games in the historic venue; Miami's visit in 2008 marked the 400th game in the facility. UVa's all-time record at Scott Stadium stands at 241-169-12.

Here are some of the significant changes and moments that have happened at Scott Stadium over the last 40 years:

- 1974 – New aluminum seating is installed along with an AstroTurf playing surface. The facility's brickwork is restored.
- 1980 – The stadium's upper decks open adding 12,000 additional seats. A new press box—named in memory of longtime UVa athletic director Captain Norton Pritchett—and a President's box are also constructed.

- Oct. 9, 1982 – Using portable lights, UVa plays its first night game at Scott Stadium against defending national champion Clemson.
- 1983 – A permanent lighting system is installed before the start of the season.
- 1985 – Bryant Hall, a dining and locker room facility located in the south end zone of the stadium, opens. The building is named in honor of J.C. Herbert Bryant, a 1932 Virginia graduate and one of the principal benefactors of the structure.
- Nov. 3, 1990 – A stadium-record crowd of 49,700 attends at No. 1 Virginia faces No. 16 Georgia Tech on a nationally televised game. The Yellow Jackets win 41-38.

• Sept. 2, 1995 – Virginia dedicates its new natural grass playing field – David A. Harrison III Field – at the first home game of the season against William & Mary.

- Nov. 2, 1995—Virginia hosts Florida State in the first-ever Thursday night game in Charlottesville. Playing in front of a sell-out crowd and a national television audience, the Cavaliers defeat the second-ranked Seminoles 33-28. Florida State becomes the highest-ranked team to ever fall to the Cavaliers.

- June 14, 1997 – Representing the largest single monetary gift in school history at that time, UVa alumnus and former Cavalier football player Carl W. Smith pledges $25 million to his alma mater. The University announces that the bulk of Smith’s gift—$23 million—will be used toward funding the expansion and enhancement of Scott Stadium, ultimately increasing its seating capacity to 61,500 by the year 2000.

The final phase of the stadium renovation project includes the completion of the Virginia Football Hall of Fame in the new Bryant Hall at the Carl Smith Center.

- 2001 – A crowd of 61,625 attends the home game vs. Virginia Tech, the largest attendance for a football game in Virginia state history at the time.

- 2003 – Video display panels, called “ribbon boards,” are installed below the upper decks on the east and west sides of the stadium.

- 2005 – The legendary rock band The Rolling Stones perform before a sold out crowd on Oct. 6.

- 2008 – A record-setting crowd of 64,947 attends the season opener vs. Southern California.

- 2009 – A new 32-foot by 57-foot videoboard replaces the existing 21-foot by 28-foot screen.

- 2009 – Rock band U2 brought its famous 360° Tour to a packed Scott Stadium on Oct. 1.

LAMBETH FIELD

Built in stages from 1901-1913, Lambeth Field served as the Cavaliers’ home until the construction of Scott Stadium in 1931. Named for Dr. William A. Lambeth, often called “the father of athletics” at UVa, Lambeth Field was also the home of the university’s successful track and baseball teams until the early 1970s.

Completion of the stadium in 1913 provided grandstand seating for 8000 people at a cost of $35,000. Student season tickets cost $7.50 that season, while alumni tickets were $9.50. The dedication game against Vanderbilt in November 1913 saw the Cavaliers wallop the Commodores 34-0 in a game called “the football classic of the South.”

ADMINISTRATION

TERESA A. SULLIVAN University President

Teresa A. Sullivan, who became the University's eighth president in 2010, is a respected higher education leader in Virginia and nationally. Ms. Sullivan came from the University of Michigan, where she was provost and executive vice president for academic affairs as well as the university's chief budget officer. Prior to her time at Michigan, she rose through the ranks in the University of Texas System from instructor and then assistant professor of sociology at UT-Austin to executive vice chancellor for academic affairs, serving as chief academic officer for the nine academic campuses within the Texas system.

In 2011, Gov. Robert F. McDonnell appointed her to the Higher Education Advisory Committee, which was created as a result of the Virginia Higher Education Opportunity Act of 2011. The committee has representation from both policymaking branches of state government; higher education institutions; the State Council of Higher Education in Virginia; and the business community.

Ms. Sullivan chaired a committee of the National Research Council, whose 2012 report, Research Universities and the Future of America, warned that research universities are in danger of serious decline unless the federal government, states and industry take action to ensure adequate, stable funding in the next decade.

Like many public universities, U.Va. is grappling with issues of cost, affordability, shrinking state support, faculty compensation, and the push for online education. In addition, with its academic medical center, the University must also navigate the changing health-care landscape, ensuring excellence in patient care while continuing to reap the benefits of discoveries made through research.

The president has actively engaged faculty and staff, as well as alumni, parents, friends and lawmakers, in addressing these issues. Among her priorities as president is a new internal financial model that will empower deans by improving financial incentives, encouraging entrepreneurship and holding them accountable for the results. "From the new internal financial model, we expect better financial decisions, new cost savings, and more strategic decisions about programs," she says. "The budgeting changes we have already set in place this year have created transparency and accountability."

Ms. Sullivan is a respected scholar in labor force demography, with particular emphasis on economic marginality and consumer debt. The author or coauthor of six books and more than 50 scholarly articles, she has focused most recently on who files for bankruptcy and why. In 2012, she returned to the classroom to teach a January Term course, The Sociology of Work.

President Sullivan is also a passionate fan of U.Va. athletics, regularly attending sporting events on and off Grounds.

She is a graduate of Michigan State University's James Madison College and earned her doctoral degree in sociology from the University of Chicago. She is married to Douglas Laycock, a professor in the University's School of Law. They have two sons, Joseph and John.

CRAIG LITTLEPAGE Director of Athletics

Committed to preserving and building on U.Va.'s longstanding tradition of academic and athletic excellence,

Craig Littlepage is in his 12th year as Virginia's Athletics Director. Littlepage's appointment as athletics director was announced in August of 2001. Littlepage served as Virginia's interim athletics director from June 1, 2001, until his appointment to the position. He had also served as the University's interim athletics director from December of 1994 until July of 1995.

The first African-American athletics director in Atlantic Coast Conference history, Littlepage was named the Black Coaches Association's "Athletics Administrator of the Year" in 2003 and 2006. He was also listed on Sports Illustrated's list of the 101 most influential minorities in sports in 2003 and 2004. In March 2005, Littlepage was named one of Black Enterprise magazine's "Most Powerful African-Americans in Sports."

Littlepage has been a member of U.Va.'s athletics administration since 1990 when he was appointed an assistant athletics director, a position he held from 1990-1991. He then spent four years as the associate director of athletics for programs and six years (1995-2001) as senior associate director of athletics, managing all aspects of the athletics department's day-to-day operations.

Littlepage leads a comprehensive 25-sport athletics program that routinely competes for championships and national rankings in many sports. At the same time, Cavalier student-athletes who exhaust their eligibility at Virginia graduate at a rate comparable to the student body as a whole. Annually, U.Va. student-athletes rank among the top Division I-A public universities in the country in graduation rates. Ten years ago, Littlepage outlined a number of ambitious 10-year goals for the department to achieve by 2012: graduate 100 percent of its student-athletes; win 12 national championships and 70 conference titles; fully endow all scholarships and provide the operational support required to meet all other stated goals; build and maintain high-quality facilities; annually recruit the best student-athletes in the country (based on how coaches rate their top prospects); and fully comply with Title IX. Such goals reflect Littlepage's vision of "uncompromised excellence in intercollegiate athletics" as well as the department's overall mission to "enhance and support the intellectual purpose of the University and its exemplary academic standards and traditions."

The 2011-12 athletics year proved to be another very successful one as 22 of Virginia's 25 athletics programs advanced to postseason competition. U.Va. finished 15th in the Learfield Sports Directors' Cup standings, the fifth time in the last six years the Cavaliers' program has placed in the top 15, including a school high of No. 3 in 2010.

The rowing team won its second NCAA Championship in three years. It's the fourth NCAA Championship for the Virginia athletics program in the last three years. Other top finishes in NCAA postseason competition by U.Va. athletics teams in 2011-12 included a second place finish in the NCAA Tournament by the men's tennis team and a fourth place finish at the NCAA Championships by the women's golf team. The rowing team's varsity eight crew won the NCAA Championship in that event and the women's cross country team won the NCAA Southeast Regional title for the third time in the last four years. Men's tennis player Mitchell Frank won the singles championship at the Intercollegiate Tennis Association's (ITA) All-American Tournament and National Indoor Tournament. Twenty of the program's 25 sports were ranked nationally in the Top 25 during their respective seasons.

Virginia has won seven team NCAA Championships and 12 individual NCAA Championships in the last 10 years. The Cavaliers have also won 51 ACC Championships in that time frame, more than any other conference school. U.Va. won four ACC championships in 2011-12, second-most of any league member. In four of the last five athletics seasons U.Va. led the ACC in league titles.

Great progress has also been made in the area of athletics facility improvements during Littlepage's watch, including the addition of John Paul Jones Arena. The basketball arena/special events center opened in the summer of 2006 to rave reviews.

Littlepage has held many leadership roles within the NCAA, ACC, the University-at-large and professional organizations. He is currently a member of the John McLendon Foundation Steering Committee and served on the Executive Committee of the National Association of Collegiate Athletics Directors (NACDA) from 2006-10.

In February 2002, he was appointed to the 10-member Division I Men's Basketball Committee by the NCAA Championship/Competition Cabinet and served a five-year term which was completed Aug. 31, 2007. In 2005-06, Littlepage served as the chair of the Men's Division I Basketball Committee and administered its selection process.

Littlepage previously was a member of the NCAA Division I Infractions Committee and the NCAA Academics, Eligibility and Compliance Cabinet, serving on the Recruiting and Student-Athlete Reinstatement Subcommittees. He chaired the Reinstatement Subcommittee in 1999-2000. He also served the NCAA on committees that studied sports wagering, postgame crowd control, basketball issues, and the College Basketball Partnership. He has participated as a presenter and mentor to the NCAA's Ethnic Minority Male Institute and the Black Coaches and Administrator Association.

Littlepage is currently the chairman of the ACC Women's Basketball Committee and the ACC Committee on Awards. He previously chaired the ACC Student-Athlete Welfare Committee, the ACC Men's and Women's Swimming/Diving Committees, and the ACC Men's Soccer Committee.

He is a member of the Associate Faculty for the University's Center for Alcohol and Substance Education, and participates in various alcohol and drug prevention/education conferences. Littlepage also has been active in the local community, having served on the Board of Directors for the Charlottesville Ronald McDonald House and serving as a Trustee with the Mount Zion Baptist Church and the St. Anne's-Belfield School.

Before beginning his career in athletics administration, Littlepage served two stints as an assistant coach with the Cavalier men's basketball program, from 1976 to 1982 and from 1988 to 1990.

Littlepage held head coaching positions at Pennsylvania (1982-85) and at Rutgers (1985-88) before returning to Virginia. While he was at Penn, the Quakers won the Ivy League championship and participated in the 1985 NCAA Tournament. Littlepage was an assistant basketball coach at Villanova for two years and at Yale for one year before joining the U.Va. basketball program as an assistant coach in 1976.

The LaMott, Pa., native earned his bachelor's degree in economics from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania in 1973. He was a member of three Ivy League basketball championship teams at Penn and was instrumental in the Quakers' drive to three consecutive NCAA Eastern Regional playoff appearances. Littlepage and his wife Margaret have three children, two daughters Erica (26) and Erin (21), and a son Murray (23).
