MEET THE VETERANS

- The Cavaliers have three “fourth-years” (as they are called at the University of Virginia) anchoring the squad
- Lauren Hausheer is a junior in eligibility, but is a fourth-year student at the University after redshirting the 2018-19 season (what would have been her sophomore year)
- Last season was her first year as a starter in goal after appearing in just eight games her freshman season, though she made 19 saves on 20 shots on goal for a .950 save percentage her freshman year
- She comes into the season with a .781 career save percentage with seven shutouts
- She is a member of the US U-21 team
- Hausheer is studying in the McIntire School of Commerce pursuing two concentrations (Marketing and IT) and two tracks (Business Analytics and Strategic Brand Consulting) as well as a psych minor (note: concentrations are the school’s equivalent of a major and tracks are like minors)
- Striker Makayla Gallen has appeared in every game for the Cavaliers since her freshman year.
- Gallen comes into the season with 13 goals, 11 assists and 37 points in her career
- Rachel Robinson was named the 2019 ACC Field Hockey Scholar-Athlete of the Year as a junior. The kinesiology major has twice been named was the seventh player in program history to be named the ACC Field Hockey Scholar-Athlete of the Year, but the first to do so since Lori Mastropietro in 1998

FRESHMAN CLASS

- The Cavaliers have eight freshmen on this year’s team: Emily Graeff (Phoenixville, Pa.), Anneloes Knol (Utrecht, Netherlands), Esha Shah (Ellicott City, Md.), Alexandra Morgan (Winnetka, Ill.), Lilly Hengerer (Bedminster, N.J.), Meghan Hengerer (Bedminster, N.J.), Gery Schnarrs (Camp Hill, Pa.) and Mary VanLoh (Houston, Tex.)
- “Overall, I am very excited about this talented incoming class,” Michele Madison said. “They possess, at different levels, the things we value at UVA: a strong skill set, potential top-speed play and connectivity with teammates. I really think we have eight glue players, players who compete and play to make the team better. They seem to be extremely coachable. We will see how they cope when they are challenged to play out of their comfort zone, which is where all the mistakes and growth happens.”

2019 SEASON

- Virginia is coming off a season that saw the team return to the NCAA semifinals for the first time since 2010 (fifth time overall after making back-to-back trips in 1997 and 1998 and again in 2009 and 2010)
- Virginia’s season came to a close with a 2-1 loss to Princeton in the semifinals. UVA has lost to Princeton each of the last four years in the NCAA Championship, twice in the first round, including a double-overtime loss in 2017, and on a last-second goal in the 2016 quarterfinals. All four games were decided by a single goal
- The Cavaliers finished 2019 strong, winning 10 of their last 12 games. Their losses were falling in overtime to Boston College, 1-0, in the semifinals of the ACC Championship, and the season-ending 2-1 loss to Princeton in the Final Four
- The Cavaliers had one of the stingiest defenses in the nation in 2019, ranking fifth in NCAA I by allowing just 1.06 goals per game. North Carolina is the only ACC team ranked higher with a 1.04 goals-against average
- Junior goalkeeper Lauren Hausheer had a conference-best 1.00 goals-against average last season, which ranked third in the nation. She was second in the ACC with a .744 save percentage, trailing only Sarah Dwyer of BC
- Virginia has had 12 different players score goals last season. It was a well-rounded offense that did not have a single player in double-digits for goals scored
- The 2020 team returns three of the top four goal scorers: sophomore back Cato Geusgens (team-high 8 goals last season) and strikers Laura Janssen (7) and Makayla Gallen (6). Janssen had a team-best shooting percentage, scoring her 7 goals on 18 shots (14 shots on goal)
