QUICK HITTERS

★ The Commodores will be making their 15th appearance in the NCAA Tournament and their first back-to-back appearances since making three consecutive tournaments from 2010-12. Vanderbilt is 10-15 all-time in the tournament, and will be making their second appearance in Salt Lake City in the tournament.

★ Vanderbilt is 2-0 in games played in Salt Lake City and made one of their four Sweet 16's from Utah in 1993. The Commodores defeated Boise State, 92-72 (first round) and Illinois, 85-68 (second round) that season.

★ Vanderbilt's best finishes at the NCAA Tournament - Elite 8 (1965: field of 23); Sweet 16 (1988, 1993: field of 64; 2004, 2007: field of 65).

★ 2017 marks the second time the Commodores have been a #9 seed in NCAA Tournament - other time came in 1991 (lost to #8 Georgetown 70-60).

★ Other than the First Four appearance in 2016, the trip to Salt Lake City marks the fourth consecutive time the Commodores have been shipped west for the opening rounds of the NCAA Tournament - 2010, San Jose; 2011, Denver; 2012, Albuquerque.

★ Vanderbilt has five top-25 wins, six top-50 victories and 11 top-100 RPI wins, the overall toughest strength of schedule and toughest non-conferene schedule in the nation, and were the only SEC team to sweep Florida. The Commodores are tied for the second-most top 50 wins in SEC with Florida with six - only UK (8) has more.

★ The Commodores played 11 teams that advanced to the NCAA Tournament (Marquette, Bucknell, Butler, Minnesota, Middle Tennessee, Dayton, Kentucky, Florida, Arkansas, Iowa State, and South Carolina) and four teams in the 2017 Postseason NIT (Belmont, Alabama, Georgia, and Ole Miss). Twenty of Vanderbilt's 34 games have come against teams that have advanced to the postseason.

★ Vanderbilt has four 1,000-point scorers on their roster - Luke Kornet, Nolan Cressler, Riley LaChance, and Matthew Fisher-Davis. LaChance (vs. Florida) and Fisher-Davis (vs. Arkansas) eclipsed 1,000 points in the SEC Tournament.

★ Kornet is the NCAA's all-time leader for threes made by a seven footer (148). He is also Vanderbilt's all-time leading shot blocker with 207 career blocks. He surpassed former Commodore great Festus Ezeli's 204 total in the SEC Tournament against Arkansas.

★ Matthew Fisher-Davis is the team's leading scorer with 13.6 points per game. Luke Kornet (13.2), Jeff Roberson (11.0), and Riley LaChance (10.5) also add double digits.

★ Seven of the Commodores' nine active players have scored in double figures in a game this season.

★ Vanderbilt has won seven of their last nine, eight of their last 11, and 10 of their last 14. Six of last 11 wins have come against NCAA tournament teams.

★ The Commodores are the SEC's best three-point shooting team (37.7%) and have made the most three's per game in the SEC (9.9). Vanderbilt also leads the league in free-throw percentage (77.6%).

★ Six Commodores have made 30 threes or more this season - Joe Toye, Nolan Cressler, Jeff Roberson, Riley LaChance, Luke Kornet, and Matthew Fisher-Davis.

★ Altogether, Vanderbilt has made 337 threes this season, which is a new school record for a single season. The previous best was 322 in the 2004-05 campaign. The Commodores' 77.6% clip from the charity stripe ties for the second-best in school history.

★ LaChance's 49.3% clip from three is the third-best in a single-season all-time for the Commodores - only Billy McCaffrey (51.2%, 1992-93) and Barry Booker (50%, 1986-87) have had better seasons from three.

★ Bryce Drew is the first Vanderbilt coach to lead the Commodores to the NCAA Tournament in his first season.

The Commodores have a 783-220 record at the facility, a winning percentage of .781.

Dores Drain Threes

Vanderbilt made 19 threes against High Point on December 6, which set a new school record for threes in a game, surpassing an 18-three performance at Tennessee on January 8, 2005.

The Commodores also set a new record for most 3-pointers made at Memorial Gym, passing the old mark of 16 that was set on Jan. 8, 1994 vs. South Carolina and then matched on Feb. 11, 1995 vs. Arkansas. The Commodores hit 12 of their 19 3-pointers in the first half.

VU Makes Gamewinner

The Commodores made their first game-winning basket in almost four years against Chattanooga on December 17, when Luke Kornet made a three with 2.9 seconds remaining to give VU the 76-74 win over the Mocs.

The game-winner was the first since Kevin Bright made a 15-footer on February 27, 2013, to defeat Georgia, 63-62, at Memorial Gym.

In the SEC

Vanderbilt leads the SEC in three-point field goal percentage (37.7%), threes made (9.9) and free throw percentage (77.6%) in all games. In league games only, the Commodores finished third in free throw percentage (75.3%) and first in threes made (10.1). As of March 13, the Commodores rank eighth nationally in free-throw percentage and are 15th in 3's made per game.

More Threes

Making threes is not a new thing for this year's Commodore team. Combined in their career, current players have made 863 career threes.

700th SEC Win

Vanderbilt is in its 84th SEC season and is a charter member of the league. The Commodores won their 700th league game at Florida, and all time against current members of the conference, Vanderbilt is 709-693.

998

Vanderbilt has made a 3-pointer in 998 consecutive games, a streak which began at the inception of the 3-point line in 1986-87. The Commodores rank third only to UNLV and Kentucky for the longest streak in Division I basketball. Vanderbilt, UNLV and Princeton are the only three schools in college basketball to have made at least one 3-pointer in every game played since the 3-point line was implemented.

NBA Commodores

Vanderbilt was one of only three schools (Kentucky, Washington) with two first-round selections in the 2016 NBA Draft when Wade Baldwin IV was drafted 17th by the Memphis Grizzlies and Damian Jones was selected 30th by the Golden State Warriors. Baldwin IV and Jones became the sixth and seventh first-round picks, respectively, in the history of the program, joining Will Perdue in 1988 (11th, Chicago), Jeff Turner in 1984 (7th, New Jersey), Clyde Lee in 1966 (3rd, San Francisco), and John Jenkins (23rd, Atlanta), and Festus Ezeli (30th, Golden State) in 2012.

Balanced Scoring

Seven of the nine players on the Commodore active roster have scored in double figures and Vanderbilt has had five games this season with five players scoring in double figures.

10 or more threes

The Commodores have made 10 or more threes in 18 games this season. Vanderbilt is 14-4 in those games.

Win on Road vs. Ranked Opponent

The Commodores won their first road game against a ranked opponent since Dec. 29, 2011, in a win at Marquette (74-57) defeating Florida on January 21, 2017, in Gainesville, 68-66. Vanderbilt won five true road games in Southeastern Conference play (LSU, Auburn, Texas A&M, Arkansas, Tennessee), the most since 2010. So far against ranked opponents overall this season, the Commodores are 4-2.

Defense Improves

Since the win at Florida on January 21, the Commodores are 11-5 and have seen their defensive numbers drastically improve. VU limited opponents to 40.4% from the field and 29.4% from the floor in the 16 game stretch. In the 18 games prior to the win at UF, Vanderbilt allowed opponents to shoot 44.1% from the floor and 36.7% from three.

★ Team Notes:
★ The Commodores shot just 30.4 percent from the floor in Saturday's loss, narrowly eclipsing their season-low mark of 30.2 percent against Minnesota on Dec. 3.
★ Saturday's game marked the 14th time that Vanderbilt played in the semifinals of the SEC Tournament, and the first since 2013.
★ Vanderbilt earned the semifinals berth with a 72-62 victory over Florida in the quarterfinals.
★ Vanderbilt and Arkansas split the two meetings during the regular season -- with each team winning on the opponents' home floor. (Arkansas won 71-70 in Nashville on Jan. 24, and Vanderbilt posted a 72-59 victory in Fayetteville on Feb. 7).
★ Player Notes:
★ Luke Kornet set a school record for blocks on the team's second defensive possession of the game. He finished with three blocks on the day and now has 207 for his career. He entered the day tied with Festus Ezeli at 204.
★ Matthew Fisher-Davis needed only four points to go over 1,000 career points scored and he passed that mark with a 3-pointer in the second half.
★ It was the second consecutive game that Vanderbilt had a player cross that career milestone. Riley LaChance surpassed the 1,000-point threshold in yesterday's victory over Florida
★ Series Info:
★ Arkansas now leads the all-time series, 24-12, and has a 4-1 edge over the Commodores in games played on a neutral floor.
★ This & That:
★ Vanderbilt's win over Texas A&M in the first round of this year's tournament was the Commodores' first victory in the SEC Tournament since 2013.
★ Vanderbilt finished 8-of-31 from 3-point range in Saturday's loss.
★ Vanderbilt's first field goal of Saturday's game was a 3-pointer by Nolan Cressler, which extended Vanderbilt's 3-point streak to 998 games. The Commodores are one of just three teams -- along with UNLV and Princeton -- to have made one 3-pointer in every game since the 3-point line was implemented at the start of the 1986-87 season.

RECAP

NASHVILLE, Tenn. -- After three games in three days, Vanderbilt's run in the 2017 SEC Tournament came to a close on Saturday. No. 3-seed Arkansas (25-8, 12-6 SEC) used a hot-shooting second half to knock No. 7-seed Vanderbilt out of the SEC bracket, topping the Commodores, 76-62.

Vanderbilt trailed by just four points, 35-31, at halftime but allowed Arkansas to stage a 10-0 run and take control out of the gate in the second half. Riley LaChance led Vanderbilt with 12 points.

Vanderbilt finished the season 19-15 (10-8 SEC). The Commodores now await their postseason destination.

Moses Kingsley had 12 points and 13 rebounds for the third-seeded Razorbacks.

''What a tremendous effort, a team win," Arkansas coach Mike Anderson said. ''We came out, got off to a good start against a Vanderbilt team that was one of the hottest teams in the country. We knew what we had to do. They were playing their game in three days, and we had to make the game chaotic for them."

The Razorbacks (25-8) won their third straight to reach the championship for the seventh time. They will play eighth-ranked Kentucky, a 79-74 winner over Alabama , for the second time in three years Sunday.

Arkansas simply smothered Vanderbilt, especially in the paint where the Razorbacks had a 46-16 scoring edge. Jaylen Barford led Arkansas with 18 points. Dusty Hannahs added 16 and Daryl Macon 15.

Seventh-seeded Vanderbilt (19-15) snapped a three-game winning streak end after reaching the semifinals for the first time since 2013.

''Just seemed like Arkansas was a little faster to the ball, a little faster to the rim, shot a little bit better, did everything a little bit better than us," Vanderbilt coach Bryce Drew said.

In addition to LaChance, Joe Toye added 12 points, while Jeff Roberson and Matthew Fisher-Davis each had 10. These teams won on each other's floor during the season with Vandy a blown 15-point lead away from sweeping Arkansas.

This time, the Razorbacks led 35-31 at halftime and took control with a 26-8 run to start the second half.

''We knew if we came out the second half would be our half if we just kept running and executing," Hannahs said . Drew tried to rest his starters where he could in the first half with Luke Kornet and Roberson playing only 12 minutes after each played at least 38 minutes in Friday's overtime win over No. 17 Florida in the quarterfinals. It just wasn't enough as the Commodores missed their first nine shots to start the game and the first six of the second.

Vandy used a 12-2 run to take its first lead but couldn't hold it for long.

Barford scored seven of his 10 points in a quick spurt after a tie at 19 to put the Razorbacks ahead to stay. Arkansas, outscored only three times in the second half all season, wound up leading by as much as 27. Vanderbilt used a 13-0 run late to make the final margin more respectable.

Memorial Magic - The Home To Vanderbilt Hoops Since 1952

Historic Memorial Gymnasium In 65th Season

Storied Memorial Gymnasium is in its 65th season as the host venue of Vanderbilt basketball. The SEC's most historic hoops setting has played host to more than 950 men's contests as well as the 1984 and 1991 SEC Tournaments and 40 men's and women's NCAA Tournament contests (since the early 1980s).

As the oldest gymnasium in the SEC, Memorial Gymnasium is renown for its end zone benches, raised floor and unique atmosphere. It was dedicated in 1952 as a memorial to all Vanderbilt men and women who served in World War II. It was built by the late master architect Edwin Keeble, who was commissioned to build a combination gymnasium/concert hall.

VANDERBILT BASKETBALL QUICK HITTERS

- This is the 114th year of Vanderbilt basketball, with the first season taking place in 1900-01. There were no teams in 1904-05 and 1905-06.
- The Commodores have been named to 14 NCAA Tournaments and 12 NIT's. Vanderbilt advanced to the Elite 8 in 1965 (field of 23), and the Sweet 16 in 1988, 1993, 2004, and 2007. The Commodores captured the NIT Championship in 1990 and finished runner-up in 1994.
- The Commodores are a charter member of the SEC, with the 2016-17 season being the 84th year in the conference.
- Vanderbilt is the only private institution in the SEC with the lowest enrollment of any of the 14 schools (6,738).
- Vanderbilt's Perry Wallace became the first African-American scholarship basketball player in the SEC when he took the court in 1967.
- The Commodores have 45 career 1,000-point scorers, with Shan Foster (2004-08) the all-time leading scorer with 2,011 career points.
- Vanderbilt has had 12 All-Americans since 1950. They are: Billy Joe Adcock (1950), Clyde Lee (1965), Tom Hagan (1969), Jan van Breda Kolff (1974), Will Perdue (1988), Billy McCaffrey (1993), Dan Langhi (2000), Matt Freije (2004), Derrick Byars (2007), Shan Foster (2008), and John Jenkins (2011).
- Vanderbilt had two players selected in the 2016 NBA Draft - Wade Baldwin IV, Memphis, 17th pick and Damian Jones, Golden State 30th pick - one of only three schools with two or more players drafted in the first round. In all, 37 Vanderbilt players have been selected in the NBA Draft since 1950.
- The Commodores had three players drafted in the first 31 picks of the 2012 NBA Draft - John Jenkins, Atlanta, 23rd pick, Festus Ezeli, Golden State, 30th pick, Jeffery Taylor, Charlotte, 31st pick - the most by the Commodores in one draft.
- The Commodores ended a 61-year SEC Tournament drought in 2012 by claiming the tournament championship in New Orleans, the team's first SEC tournament championship since 1951.
- Kevin Stallings is the winningest coach in Vanderbilt history with 322 total victories (17 years, 322-220).
- All three of the university's top all-time scorers played for Kevin Stallings (Foster, Jeffery Taylor, Matt Freije). John Jenkins, who is 10th on the list, also played for him.
- Vanderbilt's intercollegiate athletics teams are nicknamed the Commodores, in honor of the nickname given to founder Cornelius Vanderbilt, who made his fortune in shipping. Vanderbilt donated $1 million to begin "Central University" in 1875 - the campus was later renamed for Cornelius because of his generosity. Cornelius never stepped foot on the campus that bears his namesake.

Vanderbilt's Fisher-Davis mimicked Bryce Drew's famous shot

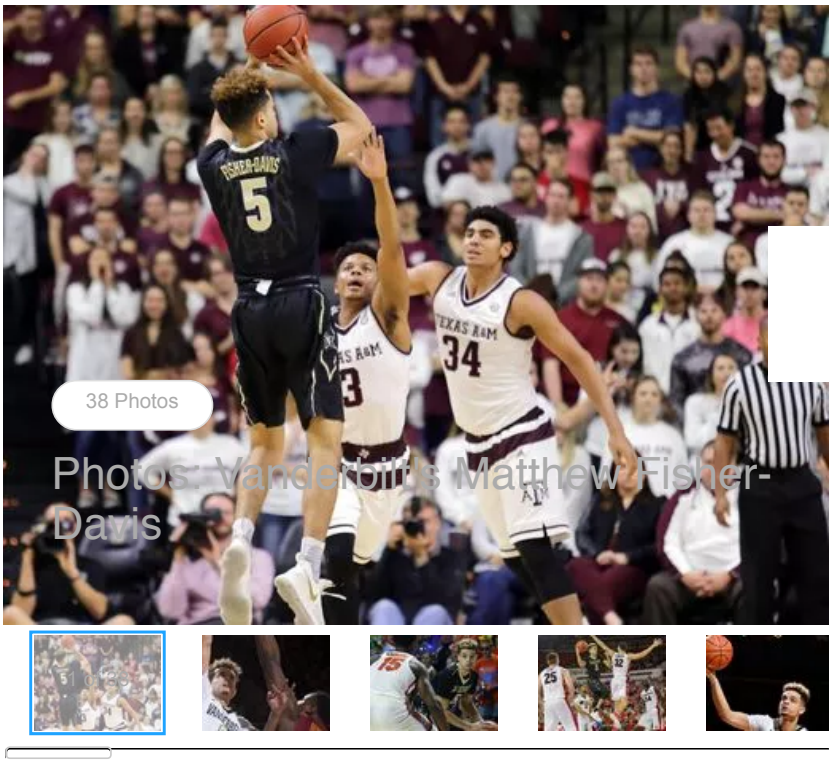
Vanderbilt basketball coach Bryce Drew thinks his players don't know about "The Shot," which he famously made in Valparaiso's upset win over Ole Miss in the 1998 NCAA Tournament.

Matthew Fisher-Davis, his sharp-shooting guard, chuckles at such a suggestion.

"We ran a play in high school called 'Valpo,' and I was him in the play," Fisher-Davis said. "It was the exact same play that they ran. But I don't think (Drew) knows that. I never told him."

Drew's buzzer-beater was from about 25 feet, which happens to be Fisher-Davis' sweet spot on the floor to this point in his Vanderbilt career.



Fisher-Davis was the SEC's leading 3-point shooter in the regular season at 45.7 percent in 2015-16, and he rarely took a shot inside the arc. But Drew, the Commodores' first-year coach, wants his 6-foot-5 guard to get in the paint and above the rim.

"We don't want him to be a one-dimensional player, so we are working a lot on him attacking the rim," Drew said. "He's got a really quick first step. So hopefully in those situations, he'll be able to shot-fake and drive by guys."

With Wade Baldwin (14.1 ppg) and Damian Jones (13.9 ppg) leaving early for the NBA after last season, Fisher-Davis is Vanderbilt's top returning scorer (9.7 ppg). But 77 percent of his made baskets came from 3-point range.

Fisher-Davis' role should expand when Vanderbilt tips off its season against Marquette on Nov. 11 in the Veterans Classic in Annapolis, Md.

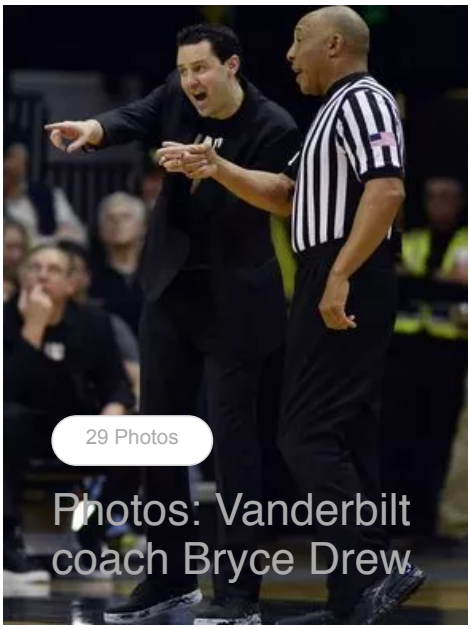
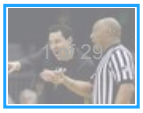
“The previous two years my role was more about spacing the floor, giving lanes for Wade to drive and Damian room to operate down low. But it will definitely change this year,” Fisher-Davis said. “(Drew) has forced me to get to the cup, get fouled, go to the free throw line and make plays for others rather than just settle for the 3.”

Fisher-Davis understands that Vanderbilt fans know him for lighting up Memorial Gym with streaky 3-point shooting rather than driving to the basket. But he said the latter was a big part of his game in high school.

“I’ve always been able to shoot the ball. But back then, I did more of taking it to the rim,” Fisher-Davis said. “If I had a 3, I would take it. But my senior year I had to create for other people, get into the lane and things of that nature. I am still capable of doing that. It just wasn’t my role in my first two years here.”





As for Fisher-Davis’ 3-point stroke, it’s still as good as ever. And he’s still waiting to mimic “The Shot” that made Drew a household name in NCAA Tournament lore.

“We never got to use that play in a game (in high school). We never needed it,” Fisher-Davis said. “But we practiced it all the time, and I always took (Drew’s) shot.

“I made it about 60 or 70 percent of the time.”

Cleaning the glass

Vanderbilt's Jeff Roberson pacing 'Dores the boards

Dec. 7, 2016

By Zac Ellis
VUCommodores.com

On campus in Nashville – Jeff Roberson admits he was a little shocked. When Vanderbilt's junior forward glanced at the box score following the Commodores' 56-52 loss to Minnesota, his rebounding total jumped out: Roberson had snagged a career-high 16 boards against the Gophers, along with 12 points.

Roberson, of course, cared more about the 'Dores' loss than his individual stats. But he was glad to know he'd done his job on the glass against Minnesota. "I didn't really keep up with it," Roberson said. "I just knew I'd gotten the first offensive rebound of the game, because we focus on second chance points. But 16 boards surprised me a little bit. I hadn't had one of those nights since high school."

Roberson has become a linchpin of Vanderbilt's rebounding efforts in head coach Bryce Drew's first season. At just 6-foot-6, Roberson is routinely an undersized power forward (four) in the Commodores' starting lineup. But the shifty junior has used positioning and speed to find rebounds on the court, and he enters Thursday's matchup with Middle Tennessee State as Vanderbilt's leading rebounder (7.4 per game). He also leads the 'Dores with three double-doubles this season.

Drew says there is more to Roberson's game than meets the eye. "He's a lot stronger than what his size and weight would indicate," Drew said. "He has long arms and a good instinct for the ball."

Roberson's efforts on the boards have come from necessity. Even with 7-foot-1 center Luke Kornet a key piece of the rotation, the Commodores are forced to play small ball with a roster that boasts just one other player -- 6'10'' redshirt freshman reserve Djery Baptiste -- taller than 6'8''. Thus, Roberson often finds himself banging with more sizable big men.

But Roberson, whose 11.1 points per game ranks third on the 'Dores, uses his so-called height disadvantage as a tool. He likes to take slower defenders out to the perimeter, where he's shooting 38.5 percent on three-pointers this season. The junior uses his speed to gain better positioning on the block and slip ball-screens. Most importantly, Robertson asserts himself against bigger defenders with an aggressiveness that belies his stature.

“It’s about hitting first,” Roberson said. “It’s about preventing them from getting the ball, even if I don’t get the rebound.”

Drew’s teams were known for their defense at his former stop, Valparaiso. Now Vanderbilt’s first-year coach has been impressed with what Roberson brings to the Commodores, who rank fifth in the SEC in rebounding margin (+5.2).

“He doesn’t give up after the first attempt,” Drew said. “He’ll keep trying to get around his guy or keep his guy out until the possession’s complete. Plus, he does work early. You can’t wait until the shot is already up. He’s already anticipating what’s going to happen as the shots are going up.”

If Roberson’s rebounding average holds, he’d finish the season with Vanderbilt’s highest rebounding average since Anthony Williams (7.9) in 2001 – all as an undersized forward. But Roberson and the Commodores have plenty of season left on the docket as they inch closer to SEC play. Vanderbilt travels to Middle Tennessee State on Thursday for the start of a three-game swing to close out its nonconference slate. Then, the ‘Dores hit the road for their SEC opener against LSU in Baton Rouge on Dec. 29.

Now the double-double threat of Roberson stands to be a big part of Drew’s first season on campus. Well, maybe not that big – but just big enough for Vanderbilt in the post.

“As long as I’m getting rebounds,” Roberson said, “it works for us.”

It's that time again — Vanderbilt playing its best

Current crop of upperclassmen have made a habit of winning in February

AUTHORS David Boclair

There is, in fact, a point at which it is too late to make some thing positive out of a season.

Vanderbilt's upperclassmen have yet to find it.

Seniors Luke Kornet and Nolan Cressler, and juniors Jeff Roberson, Riley LaChance and Matthew Fisher-Davis have become accustomed to digging out from the rubble of early struggles.

So it seems likely that their current surge — humble as it is — is an indication that the Commodores are worth watching during what is left of the current campaign. Following a 67-56 victory at Tennessee on Wednesday, they have won three in a row for the first time and are two games above .500 (15-13) for just the second time.

The Commodores were 8-6 following victories over LSU and Auburn to open SEC play but then lost four in a row, which left them stuck in the mud of mediocrity. That was one of four times they won back-to-back contests then promptly stunted their roll with a loss in the next one.

Wednesday, they got off to a great start (they scored the game's first eight points and led 18-4 after nearly nine minutes) and showed they're not finished as they led wire-to-wire against a team that beat them handily in Nashville five weeks earlier.

The Commodores' RPI and strength of schedule are far more impressive than their record. So — if momentum means anything — they still have time to earn an invitation to the NCAA Tournament. Three games remain in the regular season followed by whatever they can muster at the conference tournament.

COMMENTARY

FEB 23, 2017

Last season, Vanderbilt won six of seven beginning on Feb. 10, which got it to 19-11. That was enough to land a spot in the 68-team national championship tourney field even with losses in the final regular-season contest and the conference tournament opener.

In 2014-15, many of these same Commodores won their final five in the regular season and six of eight in February, which was enough to get them to the National Invitation Tournament. They won two games in that postseason event and raised the expectations for the seasons that followed.

In a way, so much is different this time. Kevin Stallings, of course, was the coach the previous two seasons. He's now in Pittsburgh. The previous two teams relied heavily on 2016 NBA draft picks Wade Baldwin and Damian Jones to get them going — finally — in the right direction.

Even with a new coach and absent some of that star power, this season is nothing different.

Same, old Vanderbilt you might say, albeit in a good way. The current win streak gives them six wins in their last eight at a time when the NCAA selection committee is looking for ways to distinguish between a number of teams for the final few spots in the tournament field.

"We have been looking at just one game at a time and our main focus is getting better as a team and executing better and trying to execute better and get where we play with consistency," coach Bryce Drew said. "That has been really encouraging through this three-game stretch. We have really been consistent on defense and moving the ball."

It's about time — the same time this bunch seems to figure it out every season.

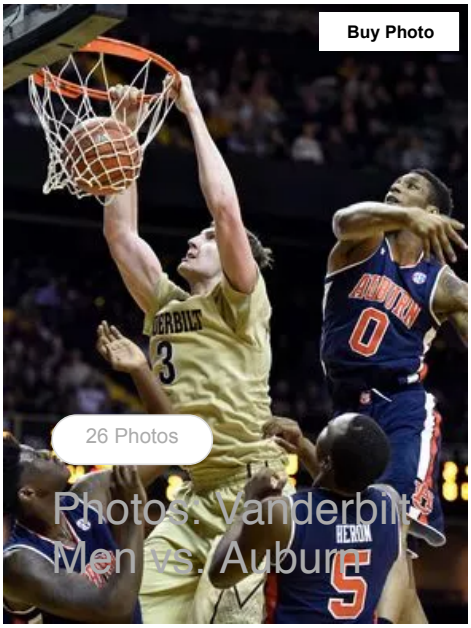
Vanderbilt basketball coach Bryce Drew scrapped some of his offensive plan just 10 games into his tenure, and the Commodores have benefited from it.

Drew implemented his offense in the preseason for a roster he inherited from previous coach Kevin Stallings, who left for Pittsburgh in March.

Admittedly, it was hit or miss. Vanderbilt (8-6, 2-0 SEC) had scoring lulls and started 5-5. So out of either humility or simple logic, Drew retooled his offense during the holiday break to match his personnel.

“We (won) four conference championships (at Valparaiso) running a certain offense,” Drew said. “… And I thought we showed improvement (in that offense), but we didn’t think it was to the point where we could win games like we wanted to. So we revamped



Since the changes, Vanderbilt is 3-1, including impressive back-to-back SEC wins over LSU and Auburn. It heads into Saturday's game (6 p.m./ESPNU) at Alabama (8-5, 1-0 SEC) on an offensive hot streak.

The Commodores beat LSU 96-89 for their highest-scoring SEC game in nearly five years. And they routed Auburn 80-61. In those two games, Vanderbilt made 30 3-pointers total and shot 46 percent from beyond the arc.

"It was a great move by Bryce to go to this offense because it suits his talents and his personnel," Auburn coach Bruce Pearl said. "They were doing some other things earlier in the season. But the proof is in the pudding because this is working."

Drew said the new offense is a change in alignment and motions. It is a mixture of several influences, including other college programs, his NBA playing experience and a few actions from what Vanderbilt ran under Stallings last season.

The team's top two scorers, Matthew Fisher-Davis and Luke Kornet, said they have found a comfort level in some of the elements borrowed from last season's offense.

"There are definitely some similarities (to last season's offense), and then some different actions to it," Kornet said. "We have some familiarity with it, and it's working well in terms of us getting the ball moving and making passes. (The revamped offense) really kind of caters to things we are trying to do with our shooters on the perimeter and opening up the lane."

Fisher-Davis has posted the three highest scoring games of his career since the offensive change, including a career-high 33 points on seven 3-pointers against Auburn.

“(The offense) is kind of in between what we ran last year and what we did at the beginning (of this season),” said Fisher-Davis, who has averaged 24.8 points in the past four games since the offensive change. “It’s real similar to last year, but there’s also more freedom as well to just break off a play and make something happen.”

Rexrode: Vanderbilt tougher than Tennessee, and that's a mouthful

KNOXVILLE — The unidentified man with the long, gray hair and scruffy beard stood and delivered, loudly enough to turn heads from sections away in Thompson-Boling Arena.

He was telling us, over and over again and somewhat rhythmically, what he thinks of basketball official Pat Adams. It was not nice. But then, Adams had just seen to the dismissal of a different Tennessee fan for saying something else (presumably not nice).

By the end, the ones who weren't filing out with Vanderbilt salting away a gigantic 67-56 victory were chanting about Adams and his crew in unison. Some were throwing stuff, enough to earn the warning of a technical foul on the home team if any more items rained from the stands.

UT and its fans had legitimate gripes on some calls, and they may remember Wednesday night for that. The Vols may look back at this loss as the one that kept them out of the NCAA Tournament.

ADVERTISING

Mike Strange: Tennessee basketball picks bad time for bad effort

But that's not what this was. This was a statement, made by a Vanderbilt team (15-13, 8-7 SEC) that has grown beyond what anyone could have guessed since the Vols thumped the Commodores 87-75 on Jan. 14 at Memorial Gym.

NCAA Tournament hopes? This team isn't just making a push for an invite, it's playing like it could advance in the thing.

Defense? The Vols treated Vandy's 2-3 zone like a Pop-A-Shot at Chuck E. Cheese in Nashville, but that zone is long gone, replaced by a man defense that helps just enough on drivers, doubles with purpose in the post and relies on its rim protector — 7-foot-1 senior Luke Kornet, who had 13 points, 11 rebounds, seven blocks and complete ownership of the end of the game.

"His defense the last five minutes was as good a five-minute defensive stretch as I've seen from anybody in the country," Vanderbilt first-year coach Bryce Drew said of Kornet.

Toughness? Here's where the imagination has to stretch a bit. If you watched this team in the first couple months of the season, you probably at some point uttered a word that is dirtier in the sports world than any of the words Vols fans were hurling at the refs Wednesday.

Soft. This team looked soft. And it's exceedingly rare for a team, built on skill and lacking physical punch, to play that way consistently for two months and then turn into a bunch of bulldogs in the third month.

But I could swear that's what we're seeing here. That's what we saw Wednesday. Vanderbilt punched first, a layup off a jump-ball play, an 18-4 lead, the Vols seemingly surprised by the ferocity.

"Like they knew exactly what they wanted to get done," said UT coach Rick Barnes, whose young team has lost four of six to fall to 15-13 (7-8) and out of the at-large discussion for now.

"I'm baffled and frustrated by it," Barnes said of the start.

Tennessee's Grant Williams (2) celebrates a call during Tennessee's game against Vanderbilt at Thompson-Boling Arena on Wednesday, Feb. 22, 2017. Tennessee lost to Vanderbilt 67-56. (Photo: BRIANNA PACIORKA/NEWS SENTINEL)

These teams have the same record, but Vanderbilt's résumé is much stronger than Tennessee's at this point. Its resolve, too.

The Vols made their second-half run, getting 16 of their 17 offensive rebounds in the final 20 minutes, and getting the lead down to a single point twice.

Vandy had an answer every time it needed one. Jeff Roberson throwing down a vicious dunk. Kornet with a post-up jumper. Joe Toye with a three and then a drive, slick pump fake and layup — his only two baskets of the night, both in the final five minutes.

Matthew Fisher-Davis with big shots and free throws. Nolan Cressler with a three, then another, both off Riley LaChance drives and pitch-back passes.

LaChance was terrific in the face of 33 minutes of pressure, with seven assists and two of Vanderbilt's paltry five turnovers. Defense and rebounding are signs of toughness, yes, but so is the ability to take care of the ball under duress.

And yes, LaChance may have received a friendly whistle when Kwe Parker was called for bumping him with 1:28 left and Vandy up 56-52. Angry howls rained. LaChance made both foul shots. The threat was over.

But as Barnes said later: "I can tell you, the breakdowns we had, they had nothing to do with the officiating."

Mostly, they had to do with a team that has learned how to play cohesive, smart, gritty basketball on both ends of the floor. The word of this night was Vanderbilt.

MBB: Defense leading the way

Vanderbilt coming up big on D during 4-game win streak

Feb. 27, 2017

By Zac Ellis
VUCommodores.com

Nashville, Tenn. – Vanderbilt is riding its longest winning streak of the season – four games – heading into Tuesday's road matchup with No. 11 Kentucky. Perhaps not coincidentally, the Commodores are playing their best defense during that stretch, as well.

On Saturday, Vanderbilt defeated Mississippi State, 77-48, at Memorial Gym. The 28-point win marked the 'Dores' largest margin of victory of the season, and the Bulldogs' 48 points were a season-low for a Vanderbilt opponent. Mississippi State shot just 29.8 percent from the field and committed 17 turnovers against Vanderbilt.

During their four-game winning streak, the Commodores have held opponents to 35.8 percent shooting from the field, down from their season average of 42.4 percent. Teams are shooting a mere 23.3 percent (14-of-60) on 3-point attempts against Vanderbilt, and its last four opponents have committed 48 turnovers against 39 assists.

Head coach Bryce Drew said he is happy to see his team find a groove late in the season.

"We haven't strung together four consecutive games where we've been this focused and played this hard and executed this well," Drew said Saturday.

Success on defense is nothing new to Drew. Prior to arriving at Vanderbilt last spring, Drew's teams at Valparaiso were often defined by defense. His final Crusaders squad (2015-16) ranked fifth nationally in adjusted defensive efficiency, per Ken Pomeroy. Now, Drew thinks his Commodores have hit their stride on defense.

"I think they've bought in, and I think a lot is just instinctual," Drew said. "When you don't have to think about it, it becomes second-nature to you. I think by practicing throughout the whole year, they're reacting right away and doing it and not thinking about it and what they're supposed to do. I think it's just been a process of getting used to what we're trying to do on the defensive end."

Drew said solid defense has also fueled Vanderbilt's offense. Against Mississippi State, the Commodores shot 47.4 percent (27-of-57)

from the field and 48.3 percent (14-of-29) on 3-pointers. They managed to get out in transition and maintain their sizeable lead along the way.

Vanderbilt hopes to use its renewed energy on defense and close the regular season strong. After facing Kentucky on Tuesday, the ‘Dores welcome No. 13 Florida to Memorial Gym on Saturday. Both SEC foes rank in Pomeroy’s top 25 most efficient offenses in college basketball. Junior forward Jeff Roberson, who scored a career-high 23 points against Mississippi State, said Vanderbilt knows exactly what’s at stake this week.

“You want to play your best ball around this time of the year,” Roberson said. “We’re getting better and better, so it’s exciting.”

Cleaning the Glass: Florida

Vanderbilt closes regular season with upset over No. 12 Florida

March 4, 2017

VUCommodores.com

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Vanderbilt men's basketball closed its regular season just the way it wanted: with style. The Commodores (17-14, 10-8 SEC) rallied from a 12-point second-half deficit to top No. 12 Florida (24-7, 14-4), 73-71, in the regular-season finale on Saturday at Memorial Gym.

Let's clean the glass from Vanderbilt's victory:

THE SKINNY: Florida and Vanderbilt authored a tight first half until about eight minutes remained, when KeVaughn Allen sank consecutive 3-pointers to give the Gators a 28-21 lead. Florida shot 52 percent from the field in the first half to take a 40-31 lead into halftime. That lead ballooned to double-digits after the break, but the Commodores found renewed intensity in the final eight minutes. Vanderbilt limited Florida's offense late and hit 14 of their 19 free throws in the second half.

TURNING POINT: Florida's lead swelled to 12 at 12:06 in the second half, but Vanderbilt wasn't finished. The Commodores staged a 9-0 run that included seven straight points from guard Riley LaChance. During that stretch, the crowd at Memorial Gym came alive. Florida was unable to match that energy the rest of the way.

IMPACT PLAYER: Luke Kornet. Vanderbilt's senior center shot just 3-of-8 in the first half for eight points at the break, but Kornet turned things around in the final 20 minutes. The Commodores' 7'1'' star finished with a game-high 24 points along with six rebounds. He also connected on 8-of-10 free throws and hit a handful to help put the game away late.

STARTLING STAT: 37 – combined points for seniors Nolan Cressler and Kornet on Senior Day. The roster's elder statesmen turned in a pair of solid performances against the Gators, particularly in the second half. Cressler and Kornet scored 25 of their combined 37 points after the break to carry a resurgent squad back from a double-digit deficit. Their presence on both ends of the floor paid off for Vanderbilt.

WHAT IT MEANS: Vanderbilt finishes its first regular season under head coach Bryce Drew 17-14 and 10-8 in the SEC. The Commodores closed the campaign winning five of their final six SEC games.

QUOTABLE: “Things did not look very good at the 12-minute mark. Somehow, in the next 7-to-10 minutes, we were able to manufacture points. But it wasn’t pretty… It wasn’t like we scored in bunches. We kind of chipped away at that lead over 7-to-10 minutes.” -Vanderbilt head coach Bryce Drew on his team's comeback in the second half

WHAT’S NEXT: Vanderbilt kicks off the 2017 SEC Tournament next week at Nashville’s Bridgestone Arena. The Commodores' opening opponent remains undetermined.

So that's what they mean. The obscure 1970s band Pilot said it best through the Memorial Gym sound system Saturday, with a sort of euphoric disbelief in the air and Vanderbilt 73, Florida 71 on the scoreboard.

"Oh, oh, oh, it's magic. You know-oh-oh. Ne believe it's not so…"

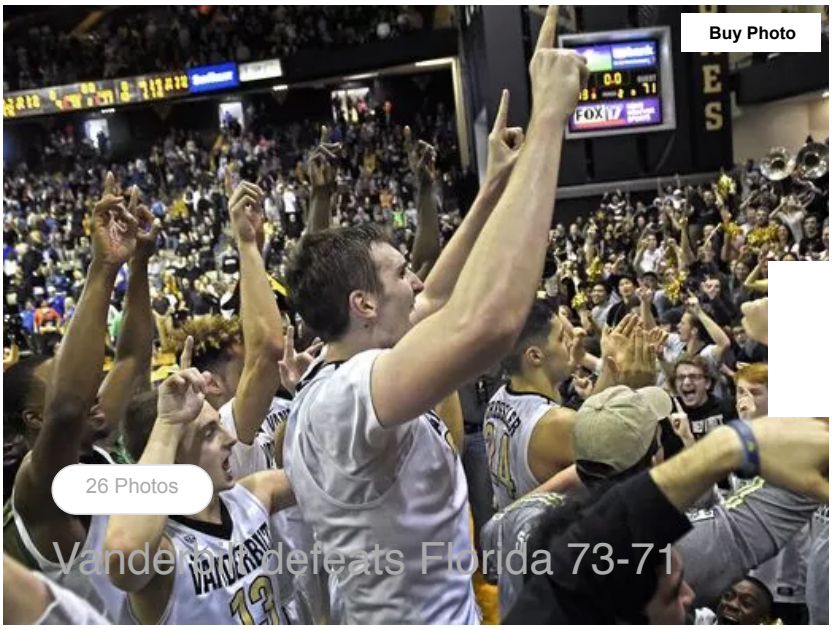
There are coaching adjustments and plays and bounces that can explain how Drew's Commodores turned a steadily evaporating game into their own. Likew they went from an 8-10 team that couldn't play defense to a team with a very g chance of being the first invited to the NCAA Tournament despite 15 losses.

But sometimes in sports, and especially this sport, noise bounces off walls an the will of one team and the doubt of the other. It's something to see. Just as Kentucky's Rupp Arena played an obvious role in the Wildcats' comeback win

Commodores on Tuesday, Memorial and its 10,431 inhabitants get a big slice of this credit pie.



"A huge part of it," Drew said after his team (17-14, 10-8 SEC) trailed by 12 with 11 minutes to go, struggling to get stops and shots, staring at the reality of needing to win the SEC Tournament to reach the one everyone covets.

About a half hour later, Vanderbilt senior big man Luke Kornet was swarmed by fellow students, leading them in the "Yes! Yes! Yes!" chant that pro wrestler Daniel Bryan brought to arenas around the world. This one, at that moment, was up for grabs. Play some Pilot, man.

2017 SEC Men's Basketball Tournament schedule in Nashville

Vanderbilt's Luke Kornet, Nolan Cressler star in Senior Day win over No. 12 Florida

"Memorial Magic" is essentially a marketing term for a grand old building that opened in 1952 and hopefully has 65 more years of basketball ahead of it. But it meant more than alliteration Saturday. You could apply it to the way the Commodores finished, the way the arena felt, maybe even the way the popcorn tasted.

Kornet's parents, Frank and Tracy, sat under the home basket as their son made huge play after huge play in a 24-point, six-rebound performance. ESPN cameras found them in the tense final moments as Luke went 4-for-6 from the line to help sea

Frank was still munching on some "good-luck" popcorn he bought around the Commodores started their 31-17 charge to finish the game.

"I said, 'Frank, you know toward the end you're going to get caught on camera popcorn,'" Tracy said. "He's like, 'I don't care, they started doing better when I eating this popcorn, I'm eating this popcorn until the very end.' And he did — h the very last kernel at the last second.'"

That's when Florida's Chris Chiozza heaved a hopeless full-court attempt afte Joe Tove missed a foul shot. The No. 12 Gators (24-7, 14-4) lost by two points

Vanderbilt in the regular season, the first one starting this unlikely Vandy surge toward an NCAA bid and the second one finishing in a blur.

“It’s an emotional game and it happens so quickly and you’re on to the next possession,” Florida coach Mike White said as he tried to analyze what went wrong late for his team. “I don’t remember it real vividly.”

The folks in black and gold will remember Kornet’s clutch tip-in to tie the game with 2:12 left, and Riley LaChance’s weaving layup to go up for good with 1:35 left, and they should remember that Drew and his coaches switched Toye onto Florida star Kasey Hill at the end. Twice in the last 78 seconds, Toye managed to stay in front of Hill and force misses on drives.

“Just tried to get myself between him and the basket,” Toye said, the second miss serving as the last real shot the Gators got and resulting in the loudest roar of the afternoon.

Those rowdy, 10,431 people are going to remember this one, especially if it’s the clincher. Most of the people who put together imaginary brackets for a living have the Commodores in now. Nolan Cressler, the other Vanderbilt senior who came up big down the stretch, joked afterward: “We’re just hoping we made Joe DiNardo proud of us.”

That’s a reference to ESPN’s Joe Lunardi, who has been lukewarm on Vandy’s chances, and that alternative last name is apparently a little joke in the locker room. Don’t disrespect the Commodores, bracketologists!

We can all agree that Vanderbilt will be the No. 7 seed in next week's SEC Tournament at Bridgestone Arena, and that winning four games in four days will bring a championship and an automatic bid. What if Vanderbilt wins just one game, Thursday vs. 10 seed Texas A&M, loses the second to No. 2 seed Florida and is sitting at 18-15 on Selection Sunday?

We don't know anything for sure because we don't know what countless other bubble teams will do. But we know there's a chance. We know magical Memorial helped make it possible.

And we know the Commodores sure don't want to see this place again until next season.

MBB: 'Dores padding NCAA résumé

Vanderbilt caps strong finish to regular season with Florida upset

March 5, 2017

By Zac Ellis
VUCommodores.com

NASHVILLE, Tenn. - The question was posed to Luke Kornet on Saturday afternoon, a simple query in reference to Vanderbilt's shot at the NCAA tournament: Do you think you're in?

Kornet chuckled. But before the Commodores' 7'1" senior could answer, fellow senior Nolan Cressler leaned over to the microphone.

"Yes," Cressler said.

Cressler's feelings are probably shared in Vanderbilt's locker room following Saturday's 73-71 win over No. 12 Florida at Memorial Gym. The Commodores closed coach Bryce Drew's first season 17-14 overall and 10-8 in the SEC, but they finished by winning nine of their final 13 games. The program heads into next week's SEC Tournament in Nashville slated to face 10-seed Texas A&M as a 7-seed on Thursday at Bridgestone Arena.

Vanderbilt can still add to its tournament résumé, but Drew thinks the `Dores have done enough to warrant an invite to the Big Dance.

"I'm biased, obviously," Drew said, "but I think we should be in."

ELLIS: Cleaning the Glass from Vanderbilt's win vs. Florida

Indeed, Vanderbilt's regular-season résumé is difficult to ignore. The `Dores boasts five top-50 wins and 11 top-100 victories after disposing of Florida on Saturday. And all five top-50 wins have come since Jan. 28, including a pair of wins over ranked Gators squads.

The Commodores have shown resiliency since the midway point of the season. Following a loss at Georgia on Jan. 17, Vanderbilt sat 8-10 and riding a four-game losing streak. A trip to the NCAA tournament seemed like a far-fetched notion in Drew's first season. But since then, Korent said Vanderbilt has been a different team.

"We just kind of put everything down and decided to bond as a team and go win games," Kornet said. "I think that's helped our focus a lot down the stretch."

Vanderbilt is playing well, but on Saturday Drew admitted his team has little room for error. The `Dores currently feature an RPI of 45 and a strength of schedule that ranks second nationally. Still, an opening loss to Texas A&M (RPI 86) in the SEC Tournament won't help their cause. That's why Drew said the Commodores still have to take care of business.

"If we had 20 [wins] right now, I'd feel really good," Drew said, "but obviously we don't. We can only control what we can control. These last 10 or 11 games, we've played almost as well as anyone in the country."

The 7-seed Commodores face 10-seed Texas A&M at the SEC Tournament on Thursday at 6 pm CT. The game will be broadcast on SEC Network.

Homer and Janet Drew had lived in and loved Indiana for 28 years when their son, Bryce, became Vanderbilt's new basketball coach in April.

Yet it took merely a moment for the married couple of 49 years to decide to pack up and move to Nashville.

"It was a very easy decision," Homer said. "It was just like that."

Janet quickly put names to the reasons.

"Bryson, Anna, Isaiah, Caleb and Luke," she said while counting off five fingers.

Those are the names of the Drews' five grandchildren now living in Nashville. Bryce, his wife, Tara, and their 2-year-old son, Bryson, came to Music City first after he accepted the Vanderbilt coaching job.

Bryce then hired brother-in-law Casey Shaw, a long-time professional basketball player, as an assistant coach. Casey and his wife, Dana, Bryce's older sister, moved to Nashville with their four children.

Bryce Drew and Casey Shaw will coach Vanderbilt against Texas A&M on Thursday (6 p.m., SEC Network) in the SEC Tournament at Bridgestone Arena.

The oldest Drew son, Scott, has a wife and three children and lives in Waco, Texas, where he is the basketball coach of Baylor, which tips off the Big 12 Tournament on Thursday.

"Sometimes we ask Scott, 'So when are you moving closer to Nashville?'" Janet joked.

Family first

Keeping family close is a Drew family tradition. During Homer's 22-year tenure as Valparaiso's coach, Scott and Bryce served as his assistants for a combined 15 seasons. Dana's family lived in Italy, where Casey played professionally for 11 years.

"After living halfway across the world for a number of years, I value seeing them all the time," Dana said. "I love that my kids have them here, and they are able to learn from the wisdom and experience that my parents have."

Both Homer and Janet were diagnosed with cancer three days apart in 2011, shortly after Homer retired as Valparaiso's all-time winningest coach.

Homer had prostate cancer, the same disease that killed his father, and he underwent a successful surgery. Janet then learned she had bladder cancer. Doctors removed her bladder and 32 lymph nodes while also performing a hysterectomy.

Their surgeries were a week apart, and their hospital stays overlapped. When they recovered, Homer and Janet wanted to spend every spare moment with their loved ones.

"As you get older, you realize what's really, really important, and especially realize who is important," said Janet, who still gets a check-up every six months. "For me, (the cancer diagnosis) made a big impact.

“A grandparent serves a very important purpose in helping to raise kids. I am a sounding board for them, and we try to set a Christian example for our grandkids.”

Both Homer and Janet are now cancer free, but the effects of their ordeal lingered from Valparaiso to Nashville.

“Both of them having cancer at the same time impacted our whole family,” Bryce Drew said. “It changed how I looked at life in a lot of ways, and I think it did for all of us. We value and enjoy each day with one another. It’s made our family closer.”

Home sweet home

Homer and Janet moved to Nashville in October. They live in a two-bedroom apartment just down the street from Vanderbilt’s campus, at least until their house in Valparaiso sells and they can buy a new house in Nashville.

But Homer and Janet quickly made Music City their home. They saw Carrie Underwood and Ricky Skaggs perform at the Grand Ole Opry, walked the trails at Radnor Lake State Park and ate at every neighborhood restaurant from Pancake Pantry to Hattie B’s Hot Chicken.

They particularly love to walk through nearby Centennial Park to the Parthenon and stop for some famous Kickin’ Chicken with white barbecue sauce at Hog Heaven restaurant.

“It’s the best. We haven’t eaten a single bad meal since we moved here,” Homer said. “And what struck us is how polite and helpful everyone is here, even strangers on the street.

“Southern hospitality is not a myth. It’s a reality, and we love it.”

But they also love their location because it serves as home base for the grandkids after school or before Vanderbilt games.

Janet cooks pasta, stew or homemade cookies. Homer plays Nerf football with Bryson, the 2-year-old. And the oldest grandkids swim in the apartment complex pool and play basketball at Memorial Gym.

A family pizza party often breaks out at their apartment after Vanderbilt home games.

“I think we all get strength and encouragement from each other,” said Dana, a former Toledo basketball star. “It’s nice to get that support face to face.”

Dana is an attorney who practices sports law, dealing with coaching contracts, Title IX issues and the like. She will begin teaching in Belmont’s sports administration department in the fall. But this spring, Dana will coach her sons’ AAU team alongside her dad, just as her brothers did at Valparaiso.

“I am supposed to be Dana’s assistant coach,” Homer said with a pause and grin. “Although that setup is up for discussion.”

Coaching keeps Homer and his sons connected. They routinely hold three-way phone calls late at night, discussing every facet of coaching.

“We talk X’s and O’s, personnel, travel, nutrition, the whole gamut,” Homer said. “Those are the most exciting times.”

The coaching calls keep Homer young. And having heart-to-heart talks with 16-year-old granddaughter Anna keeps Janet engaged. Neither would be the same if they had not moved to Nashville.

“We try to really set a good example, a Christian example, for them,” Janet said. “Whenever the grandkids come over, I’m glad we’re here. And every time we win a game, I’m glad we’re here.

“There are just a lot of things we would’ve missed. It’s wonderful that we are here.”

Rexrode: Vanderbilt's Luke Kornet — 7-foot-1 and far from done

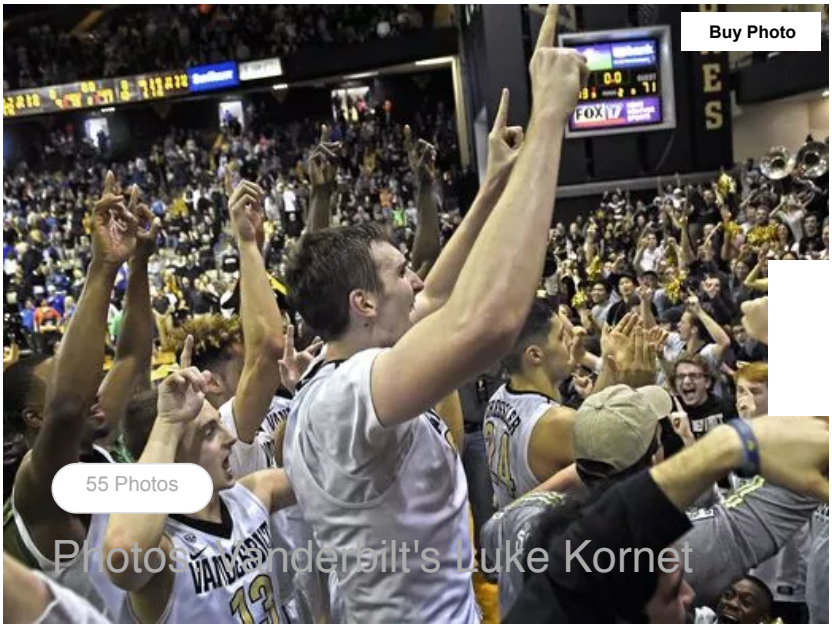
Luke Kornet at Vanderbilt comes to an end soon. Luke Kornet as an elite basketball player is just getting started.

Health permitting, the 7-foot-1 Vanderbilt senior center is going to play in the NBA for a long time. Write it down in the heaviest ink you have. The size, skill, smarts and will are there, and Kornet will at least occupy a roster and be a credit to a pro locker room.

He might be more than that. Keep that left knee strong. Keep building that upper body. Kornet could be a force in the NBA.

He's just 21, because he was so advanced as a child that his parents started him a year early in school. He was doing long division at age 4; on Tuesday the computer science major was named SEC Scholar-Athlete of the Year.

Kornet never redshirted at Vanderbilt because then-coach Kevin Stallings needed him in the fall of 2013 to help a depleted roster. Two years earlier, he was a 6-foot-3 high school junior who had not yet gone through puberty. At the end of his senior year, he was a 6-10 guy with no interest from college coaches who was set to attend Southern Methodist University in Dallas as a regular student.



That's how fast this story has changed, and now Kornet and Vanderbilt fans want the same thing — to slow it down, to extend it as much as possible. It has taken another extraordinary turn in the past six weeks, with Kornet leading the Commodores (17-14, 10-8 SEC) to the cusp of an unlikely NCAA Tournament bid that they can secure in the SEC Tournament at Bridgestone Arena.

"I'm proud of how it's all come together at the end, the way we're playing selflessly and playing hard as a team," said Kornet, who also earned a spot on the All-SEC first team and All-Defensive team. "I've really, truly enjoyed these last few months, which I can't say about every moment of my career."

Kornet was talking Tuesday before first-year coach Bryce Drew put the No. 7 seed Commodores through a practice to prepare for Thursday's game against No. 10 seed Texas A&M (16-14, 8-10). He sounded as optimistic as his words suggest. The opposite of how he sounded three months earlier when he had a talk with his father.

Vandy had just lost 73-48 at Middle Tennessee State, two hours of humiliation to fall to 5-5. Kornet was just then getting into game shape after spraining his left knee — he tore the MCL in it as a junior — and missing preseason practice. He probably shouldn't have been playing in the first few games of the season, but Drew had little choice.

"He wasn't Luke Kornet," Drew said.

The Commodores were struggling to adapt to Drew's system and weren't connected as a team on defense. Things looked bleak.

"In that game, they looked like five individuals out there, all on their own island," Frank Kornet said of the MTSU loss. "I've never seen Luke look as low as he did after that game. He said, 'That was the lowest point of my basketball life.'"

Part of the turnaround can be traced to Kornet's improving health and ongoing mastery of his body. He played for his father at Argyle (Texas) Liberty Christian School, but he was so much more coordinated and athletic in two weekends of AAU ball in the spring of his senior year, college interest exploded. And he's still discovering things he can do on the court.

Kentucky's Bam Adebayo, middle, tries to escape the trap of Vanderbilt's Luke Kornet (3) and Jeff Roberson on Feb. 28, 2017. (Photo: James Crisp, AP)

Part of it was Drew tweaking things to take more advantage of Luke's outside shot. Part of it was perspective.

"I had just invested so much of myself in success in basketball, that you can kind of forget who you are," Luke said. "You've got to not let who you are as a person be affected by that."

Fast forward to Saturday and the way the Commodores played to erase a 12-point deficit and beat Florida 73-71. The way Luke came up clutch on both ends. The way he celebrated a ninth win in 13 games with the Vanderbilt students.

The fact that it was Florida in dejection on the other end was not lost on the Kornets. Back when Frank was a 6-9 senior forward for Vandy in 1989, a loss to the Gators robbed the Commodores of an SEC championship.

Vandy students threw tennis balls onto the court when it appeared the game was over, taunting Florida star Dwayne Schintzius — who had recently wielded a tennis racket in an altercation.

Official John Clougherty called a technical foul on Vandy, Schintzius hit two foul shots to force overtime and the Gators prevailed. Florida won the SEC by a game.

“I still remember Frank crying that night,” said Luke's mother, Tracy, news anchor at WSMV, then a Vanderbilt student. “I can’t tell you how full circle, how special this has all been.”

How full circle? Luke knows well the tennis ball story. He also knows his dad helped the Commodores reach the Sweet 16. These Commodores are still discovering what they can do.

“There’s still a lot more to come,” he said.

These teams know each other well by the time they get to their conference tournaments, and they defend accordingly.

Which is no excuse for Texas A&M's eight turnovers, four points and scoring drought of more than 10 minutes in the first 12 minutes of Thursday's game.

The Aggies had seen Vanderbilt twice in the previous five weeks, both losses, and they brought physicality to Bridgestone Arena and were allowed to wield it.

Which doesn't explain Vandy missing 22 of its first 27 shots, including a Clevon Brown layup gone bad, a Luke Kornet airball on a three and a Jeff Roberson bank shot that never approached the cylinder.

This is how postseason basketball can get. This is how it got. These teams had rim-surprise sprint toward the NCAA Tournament, they know how to reach into an ugly game and rip out a desirable outcome.

If this is the one that gets them in, call Vanderbilt 66, Texas A&M 41 a beauty. Most of the bracket-guessing world believes so now — that the 18-14 Commodores can lose to Florida in Friday's SEC tournament quarterfinals and still hear their name during Sunday's NCAA selection show.

"I would like to think that we're in," said first-year coach Bryce Drew, and he thought that before this win, and if he's right this will be quite a turnaround story for a team that was once 8-10.

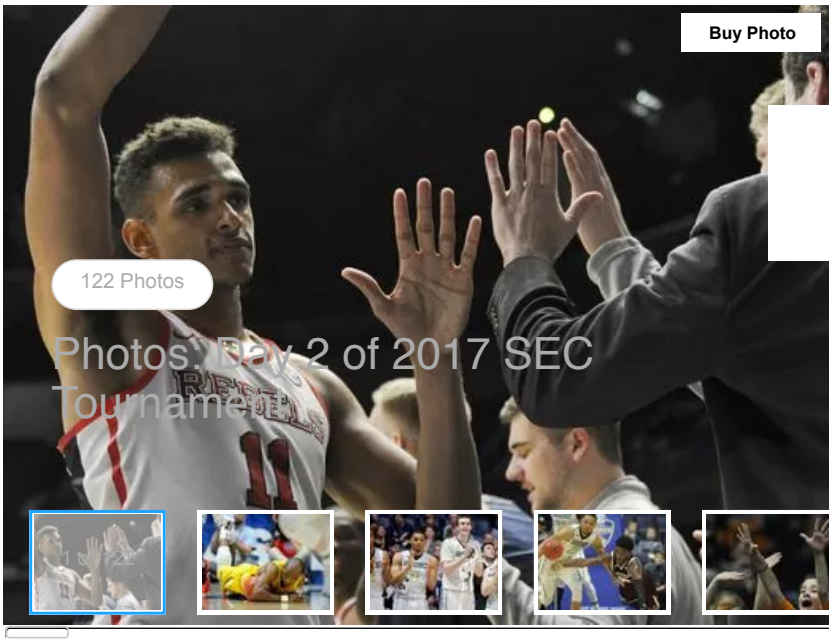
Still, no one can say for sure. The Commodores aren't unquestionably safe unless they beat the Gators for a third time. And that sure won't be easy.

But if they play the way they did in Thursday's second half, nothing is unattainable in this tournament. And things could get very interesting in the next one.

They played great defense all night, actually, the Aggies (16-15) scoring their season low by 13 points and never figuring out how to attack those hard Vanderbilt double teams.

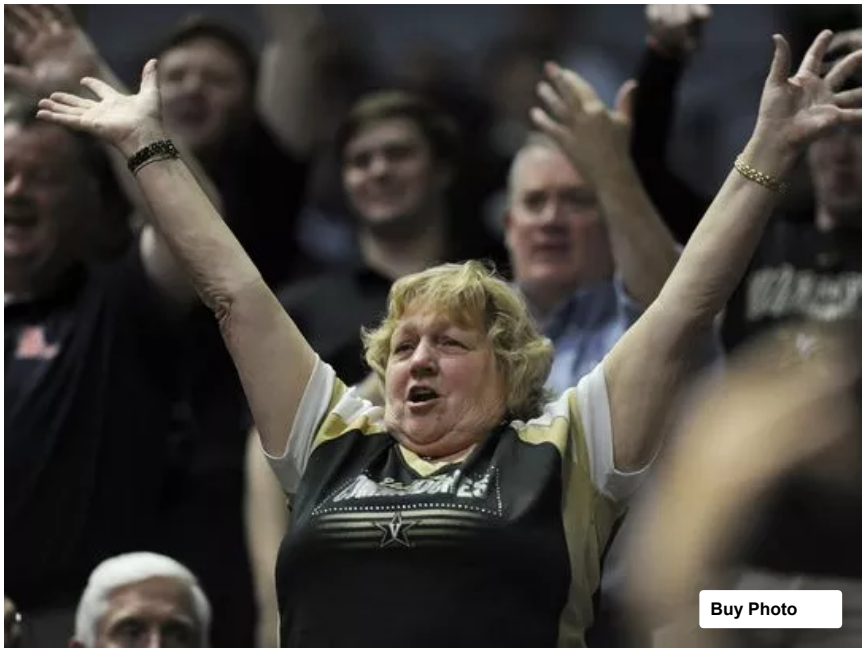


“We just couldn’t score,” Texas A&M coach Billy Kennedy said, and Drew said his team’s post defense was “as good as it’s been all year.”

Meanwhile, Vandy’s offense was as wide open as a Texas desert in the second half. After shooting 24.1 percent (7 for 29) and scoring 23 points in the first 20 minutes, it was 55.2 percent (16 for 29) and 43 points from there.

It was still an ugly game. But just for Kennedy’s team. And two sights in particular had to be pleasing to Drew’s eye.

Well, three if you consider Joe Toye’s five threes in the second half, when he scored 17 of his team-high 18 points.



A Vanderbilt fan cheers during the half of the game in the 2017 SEC Men's Basketball Tournament at Bridgestone Arena Thursday, March 9, 2017 in Nashville, Tenn. (Photo: George Walker IV / The Tennessean)

But on the list of encouraging developments, I’d put that behind Vandy rolling with Kornet taking just five shots and scoring just four points.

“It definitely shows the balance of our team, and you can throw Jeff in there, too,” Drew said of Roberson, who was 1-for-8 for two points while grabbing 10 boards. “They had six points combined. And I think that’s a credit to our team, being a team effort. But also our unselfishness. You know, you’ve got a first-team all-league player that only got five shots. Sometimes you’re not happy, and yet he’s just as happy as everybody else in the locker room, and that’s one of the reasons why we’ve played so well down the stretch.”

And I’d put that behind junior sixth man Matthew Fisher-Davis finding his game. He has been an apparition of late — 1-for-12 from three with 11 points combined in his previous three games — and he had just eight points Thursday.

But he got up to swat a shot at the rim. He got on the floor for a loose ball. He got into a passing lane for a steal.

Fisher-Davis played postseason basketball, which he called “just trying to stay active, just getting in the rhythm of the game.”

And when he got a couple threes to go down in the second-half barrage, that’s when Vandy’s bench and fans celebrated the most.

“We fed off his energy in that final 12 minutes there,” Drew said. “It’s a great sign for our team.”

There’s a lot of that going around lately.

Remember Vanderbilt's gut-wrenching loss to Tennessee in last year's SEC Tournament?

Joe Toye does.

It was the best game of his freshman season, but his performance was lost amid the agony of losing to the rival Vols.

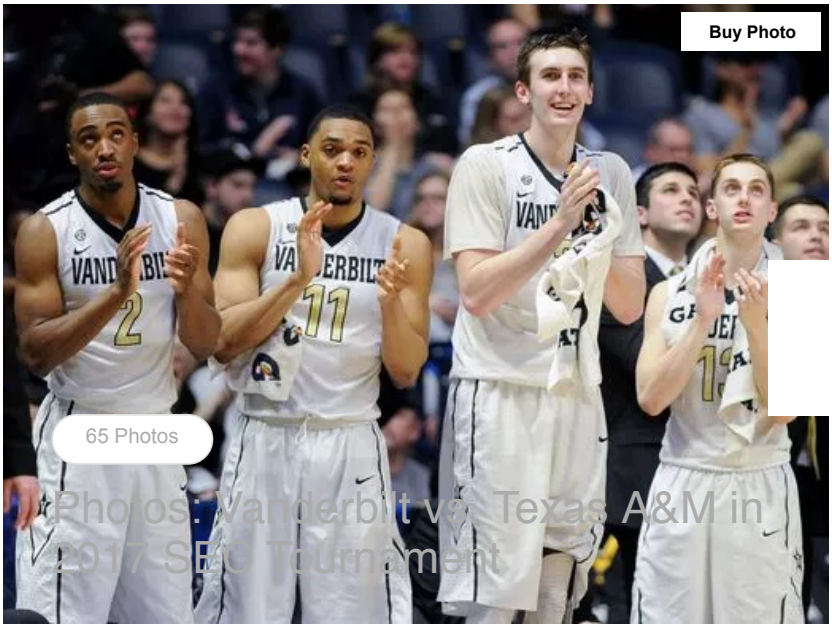
On Thursday, one day shy of a year later, Toye had the best game of his sophomore season, leading Vanderbilt to a 66-41 win over Texas A&M at Bridgestone Arena.

"It's the best time of the year to get hot," Toye said. "There are a lot of big stakes, and I love to play in big moments."

Toye had 18 points on five 3-pointers, both career highs, in the rout. After scoring only one point in the first half, he turned it on for 17 points and all five treys in the second half when the Commodores outscored the Aggies 43-21.

Vanderbilt advanced to Friday's quarterfinal game (6 p.m., SEC Network) against No. 2 seed Florida.

In last year's 67-65 loss to Tennessee in the SEC Tournament, Toye had 10 points, four rebounds and four assists, all career-high marks at the time. The next week he had a team-high 10 points again in an NCAA Tournament loss to Wichita State.



But that meant Toye's best performances were in Vanderbilt's worst losses.

"It was a great time for me, but a terrible time for the team," Toye said. "But we are in such a good place right now, and I just want to keep this going."

Vanderbilt won its first SEC Tournament game since 2013, but this was first-year coach Bryce Drew's debut in this bracket at Bridgestone Arena.

Drew had two reasons to believe Toye might have a big game. He already knew about his strong past postseason performances, and Drew saw Toye play well in big games at Whitney Young High in Chicago when he recruited him at Valparaiso a few years ago.

"Joe was first on our campus at Valpo (on an unofficial visit) as a freshman or sophomore in high school, so we've known him for a long time," Drew said. "At Whitney Young, they compete for national championships. So Joe came here already used to a big scene, bright lights and big games."

Before arriving at Vanderbilt, Toye's last taste of the postseason was actually a sour one. As a sophomore, he was on a loaded Whitney Young roster that included Philadelphia 76ers center Jahlil Okafor, Georgetown standout L.J. Peak and Oregon's Paul White.

But in the last game of his senior season, Toye was his team's best player and therefore double-teamed for every minute of a frustrating loss in the Illinois state tournament.

"That didn't go well to end my senior year. I didn't like that at all," Toye said. "I'm very competitive, and that was very frustrating."

Toye's past postseason irritation has yielded benefits for Vanderbilt. He is the only player on the team to score in double figures in each of the Commodores' three postseason games of the past two seasons.

This time it was enough for a win to end a three-year SEC Tournament drought.

"I have wanted so bad to win a game here, and we finally did," senior center Luke Kornet said. "Everybody has little segments of the season when they are playing better or worse, and Joe is 2-for-2 in playing better at this time of the year for us."

Nolan Cressler knows Vanderbilt is NCAA tourney bound: 'We're doing nothing but helping ourselves in terms of seeding'

NICK COLE
SEC Country Staff
@NICKCOLESPORTS

NASHVILLE, TENN. — When it comes to crunch time in March, you can't take yourself too seriously or you might crack under the pressure. After two SEC Tournament wins, Vanderbilt appears to be playing free and easy at just the right time with the NCAA Tournament committee watching.

If you ask Commodores senior guard Nolan Cressler, the Commodores receiving an invite to the 68-team tournament is merely a formality at this point.

"We're really excited for the tournament," he said, with the implication being that Vanderbilt is already in. "And we're doing nothing but helping ourselves in terms of seeding."

Sound confident? That's because he is.

"I think we're in," he continued. "I thought we were in a pretty good spot even a game or two ago. But I think we're in."

After jokingly telling media he thought the Commodores would be a No. 5 seed in the tournament following a win against Texas A&M on Thursday, Cressler upped his tongue-in-cheek prediction following the Commodores' 72-62 overtime win against Florida on Friday night.

"I think we'll be a No. 1 seed here soon," the former Cornell transfer said with a smile before turning serious. "No, I think we're a tournament team. We've proven we can play with anybody."

It’s a commonly held believe in the Commodores locker room at this point, in spite of 14 losses (with 15th potentially to come before the end of the conference tournament).

“You can’t really argue it now,” said Vanderbilt forward Jeff Roberson, who scored 16 points and grabbed 10 rebounds in the win. “I think we’ve got some great wins and we’re playing some really good basketball right now.”

If the Commodores do make the big dance, it will be thanks, in large part, to beating the well-respected Gators three times.

“They played well against the rest of the SEC and we beat them three times,” Vanderbilt’s Joe Toye said. “I think that should say something.”

Bryce Drew is already on the record making the case for his team prior to this key victory, citing the team’s strength of schedule among other key factors that should offset its less than sterling 18-14 overall record.

Prior to Friday’s game, ESPN’s Joe Lunardi projected the Commodores to be a No. 11 seed in the tournament as one of the last four in the bracket without a play-in game.

Of course, the Commodores are two more wins in the SEC Tournament away from taking it out of the committee’s hands altogether.

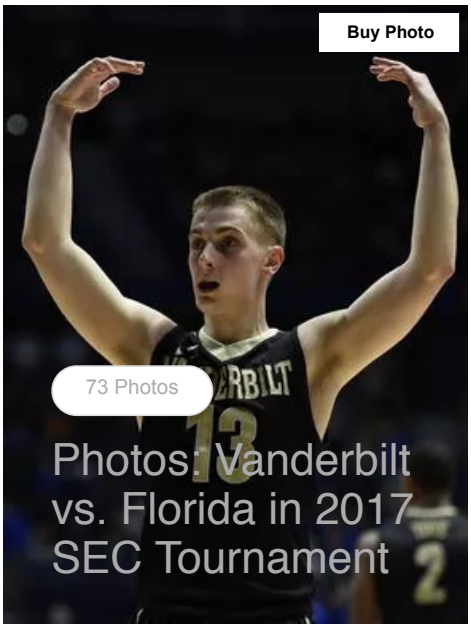
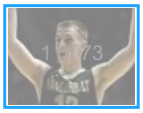
Ladies and gentlemen, introducing your 2016-17, NCAA tournament-bound Vanderbilt Commodores.

Featuring Riley LaChance, the shooting guard who plays point guard. And Matthew Fisher-Davis, the leading scorer who comes off the bench. And Luke Kornet, the 7-foot-1 senior NBA prospect who was not even a college prospect four years ago. And Jeff Roberson, the guy who does the most things well and gets the least recognition.

Starring Bryce Drew, the first-year coach who just beat the SEC Coach of the Year for the third time in three tries. Who turned an 8-10 team with no defense and a turnover problem into a 19-14 team that stifles opponents and values the basketball with a fierce grip.

Whose glass-is-always-very-full-and-thanks-for-asking demeanor hasn't changed much through this season's ups and downs, but might have taken a turn for the cheery when he said after Friday's thrilling, overtime, 72-62 SEC tourney quarterfinals win over Florida: "Considering from where we came to where we are now, it's pretty amazing. We're just really thankful for the progress we've made. And the credit goes to the guys. They've developed great unity and passion for each other, and that really shows on the court."





The show will be appearing next week at an NCAA Tournament destination to be determined, that much was confirmed by Friday's performance. And it has been extended at least one more night here at Bridgestone Arena, where the Commodores will play in Saturday's semifinals with a spot in Sunday's championship game on the line.

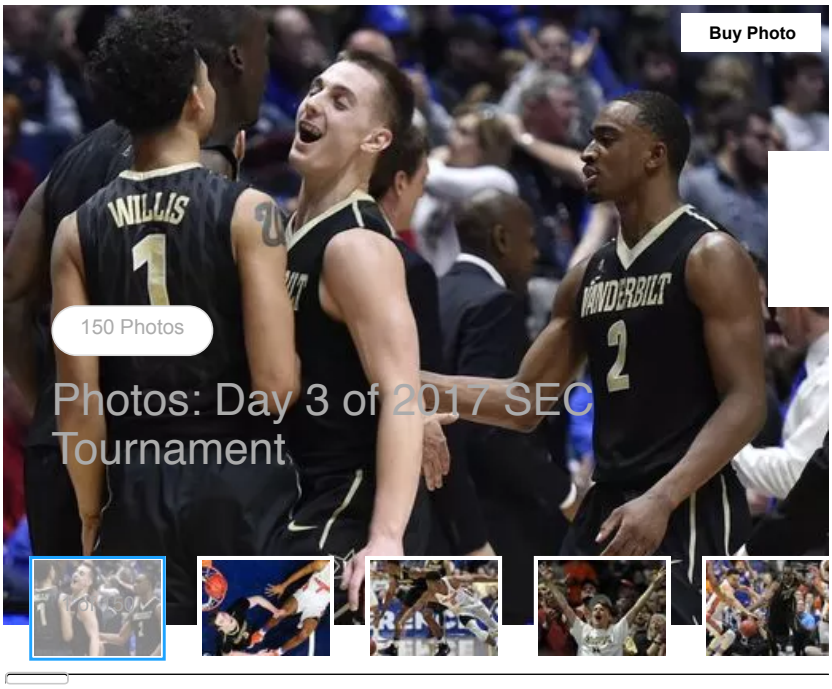
You should check it out. It's entertaining stuff. Plenty of drama, like when the Commodores appeared to have the game won Friday with 3:27 left in regulation after Fisher-Davis hit a tough baseline shot for a 57-49 lead.

RELATED

- LaChance's rebirth carries Vandy to OT win
- SEC Tournament scoreboard

They gave up nine straight points to trail for the first time since the first half, appeared to be in big trouble, tied it up, pulled together for a defensive stop on the final possession and dominated overtime.

"We're battle-tested," said Roberson, who had 16 points, eight rebounds and the hammer dunk to punctuate the extra session. "We've had so many of those games throughout the year and we've lost a lot of them. Now we're starting to win them."



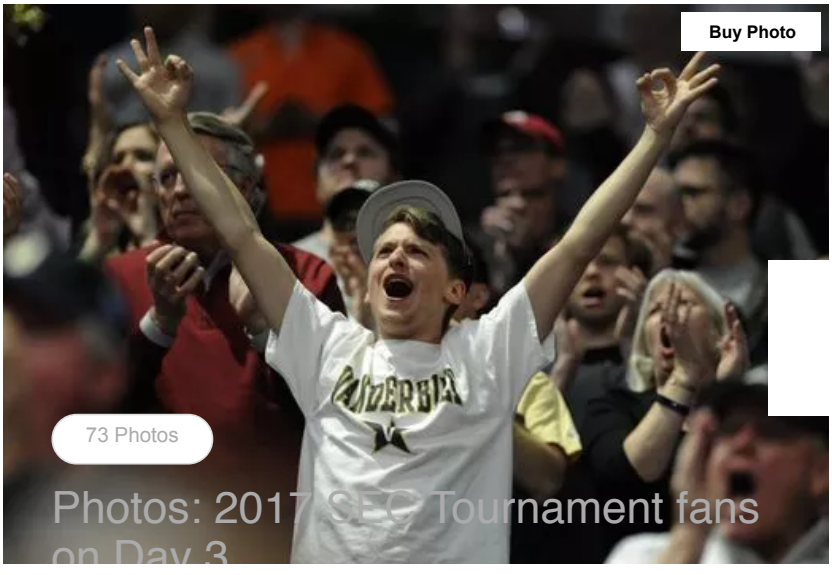
That's ensemble work with a collective mindset, but plenty of individuals shine in this production. Kornet with his inside game Friday for 12 points and 10 rebounds in 44 exhausting minutes.

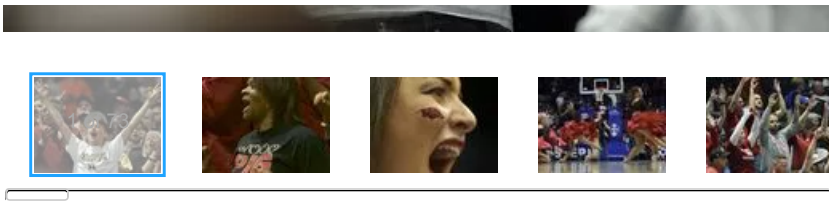
LaChance with his game-high 18 points, the three biggest on a step-in bomb that basically buried the Gators (24-8) in the extra session. Fisher-Davis with 11 points off the bench before he went off script late in regulation with his shot selection.

Freshman Payton Willis with 21 crucial minutes, his most since Jan. 7, giving Vandy ball-handling and defense and allowing LaChance to get more shots. Joe Toye, a day after torching Texas A&M with 3-pointers, making no baskets but making his usual difference as a defender.

And senior Nolan Cressler, caught in a bad defensive matchup, sitting down with 15:55 left in regulation … and sitting … and then getting the call from Drew to start overtime. And promptly nailing a three to go up 63-58.

"Pretty phenomenal," Drew said. "Nolan just showed how mentally tough he is."





Yes, but someone has to make these decisions, and that's why Drew was the biggest star on the stage Friday. Going to a player who has been sitting 16 minutes in a game like this defies convention, but he did it and it worked.

Using Willis the way he did, drawing up the play out of a timeout that got Fisher-Davis a big three in the second half, keeping everything together — at some point you have to look at the top for answers on why this story has changed so much.

"They've come a long, long way," Florida coach Mike White said of the Commodores, and that wouldn't have happened without belief.

"I mean, (Drew) has got a great feel for basketball," Roberson said. "Everything he does seems to work out for us. You just trust it. He's a come-with-me guy, and his ability to be positive no matter what's going on helps this team."

And they will play next week under the brightest of lights, that much is all but official. But the NCAA Tournament is not the only thing that matters.

"Now it's about focusing on this SEC championship," Roberson said, "and changing this program around."

That show is already well under way.

MBB: 'Dores poised for Big Dance

Vanderbilt riding momentum into NCAA Tournament under Bryce Drew

March 12, 2017

By Zac Ellis
VUCommodores.com

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Vanderbilt's watch party on Selection Sunday was, at first, a low-key affair. Commodore players gathered in a ballroom of a nearby Nashville Marriott, ate dinner and settled in front of a projection TV to view CBS's Selection Show. But through 45 minutes and three bracket regions, Vanderbilt had yet to hear its name called.

Eventually, though, Vanderbilt's name flashed on the screen – and with it, euphoria ensued.

"The excitement in the room when we heard it, it was just a spontaneous, tremendous reaction," head coach Bryce Drew said.

> The 'Dores are dancin'! #AnchorDown pic.twitter.com/kOKh3em1B6
> — VandyMBB (@VandyMBB) March 12, 2017

Indeed, Vanderbilt is dancing once again, this time as an at-large selection in the West Region. The No. 9 seed 'Dores will face No. 8 seed Northwestern (23-11) at 3:30 p.m. CT on Thursday in Salt Lake City. It will be the program's second consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance and 15th overall in school history.

Vanderbilt found itself in a similar situation last March. That Commodores team landed in the First Four in Dayton, where it fell as an 11 seed to fellow 11 seed Wichita State, 70-50. The 'Dores boasted two eventual NBA draft picks in guard Wade Baldwin and forward Damian Jones. But while the Commodores are back in the Big Dance under Drew, these players admitted to a different vibe on this year's Selection Sunday.

"Last year, especially coming off the loss in the SEC Tournament, we were kind of feeling like we were right on the edge," senior Luke Kornet said. "This year, we came from behind and made our way in, but approaching today, we seemed pretty confident that we would be in the field."

That late growth has come to define this Vanderbilt roster. Following an 8-10 start, the Commodores won 10 of their final 14 games, advancing to the semifinals of the SEC Tournament for the first time since 2013. They finished with six top-50 wins – including three against Florida -- 10 top-100 wins and the nation's No. 1 strength of schedule. All six of Vanderbilt's top-50 wins have come since Jan. 21, when it knocked off No. 19 Florida in Gainesville, 68-66.

Guard Nolan Cressler said a sense of camaraderie has led to an evolution of this year's Vanderbilt team. It's also why the senior expects a different tournament result in the coming days.

"I think it's a much different team," Cressler said. "We had a lot of talent last year, obviously, as losing Wade [Baldwin] and Damien [Jones] was a big hit for us. But just the way this team's come together this year, it's really been a special experience for us, a really unique experience with the changing staff."

Now Vanderbilt will turn its focus to Northwestern, which it set to play in its first-ever NCAA Tournament. The Wildcats boast a 23-11 record, and their 23 wins are a school record. On Saturday, Northwestern fell to Wisconsin, 76-48, in the semifinals of the Big Ten Tournament. With a win over its Big Ten foe, Vanderbilt would have a chance to face No. 1 seed Gonzaga in the next round.

This team has the tools to make the most of March. Now the Commodores are ready to prove it.

"Last year is last year," Cressler said. "Now we want to have a better tournament experience than last year."

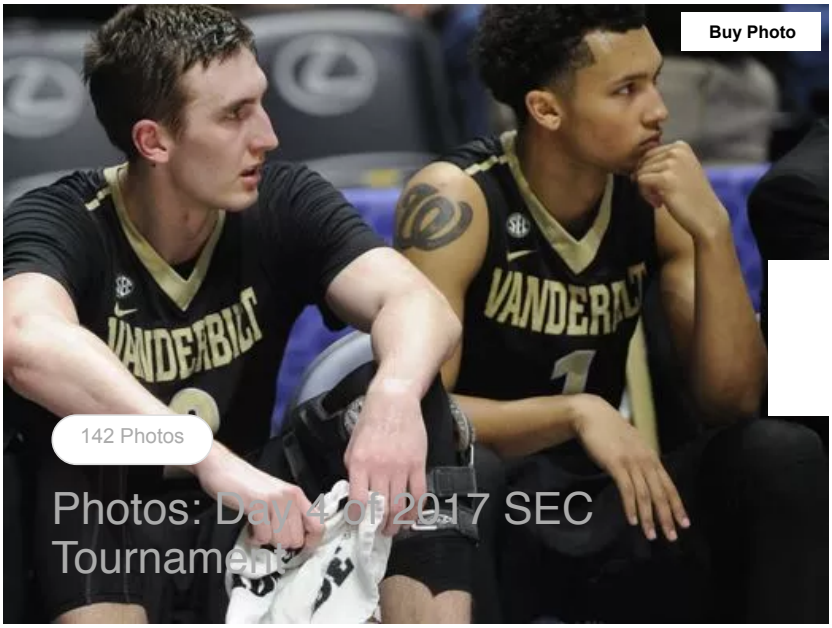
Bryce Drew set a target for the NCAA tournament and beyond in his first words he shared with players as Vanderbilt's new coach last April.

On Sunday, the first goal was reached, as the Commodores received a bid in Drew's debut season.

No. 9 seed Vanderbilt (19-15) will play No. 8 seed Northwestern (23-11) on Thursday (approximately 3:30 p.m., TBS) in Salt Lake City.

"In my very first meeting, when I first got the job, we talked in the (team) room, the same room we met in (Sunday) to see the pairings," Drew said. "I said it, and they said it, too, that we wanted to make the (NCAA) tournament and go farther than they did last year.

"But there has been a lot that's transpired in the meantime. We have also sat in that room and hoped we could just win a few more games the rest of the year."



It will mark Vanderbilt's 15th NCAA tournament appearance. Last season, the Commodores lost to Wichita State in the First Four opening round in Dayton. Northwestern is making its first NCAA tournament appearance.

Vanderbilt's 15 losses mark the most ever by a team receiving an at-large bid. But with a No. 9 seed, the Commodores coasted into the bracket — due in large part to other elements of their résumé that were regarded more highly by the tournament committee than their record.

"It's a weird sense of pride," said senior Nolan Cressler of the distinction of the most losses for an at-large team. "It's not necessarily the most prideful thing to have 15 losses, but our strength of schedule was one or two in the country. I think in all those losses, we learned a lot along the way.

"The 15 losses were a learning experience for us."

Vanderbilt has won 11 of its past 16 games, including a three-game sweep of No. 4 seed Florida and a win over No. 5 seed Iowa State, the Big 12 tournament champion. That late run toward the NCAA tournament came after an 8-10 start, when the Commodores' chances at a bid appeared nearly dead.

"It was a trial by fire," senior Luke Kornet said. "But we came out of it by the end of the season for the better."
