Project Management

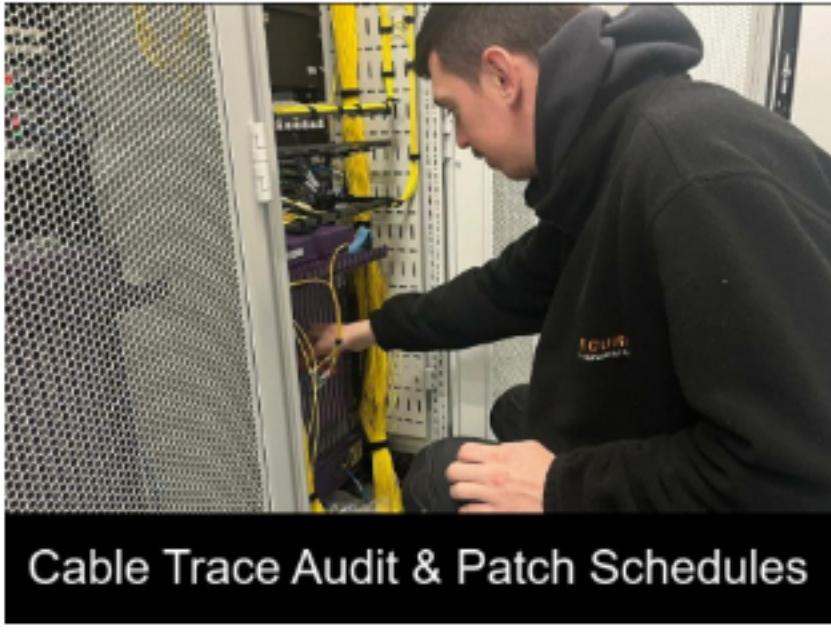

Secure Transportation can get involved in as much or little as is required. Every client has different needs. We work for companies who have their own teams of network engineers and therefore all that is required is the transportation and rack "n" stack, whilst others will require a full cable trace and audit including patching schedule. From the initial email enquiry or phone call we can appoint a single point of contact to manage a project from start to finish and schedule Teams calls to update the status and how it is progressing. We have worked in most datacentres in the UK and Europe and know them well, but for other locations a full site survey may be required or at the very minimum a walk through video, detailed photos with rack elevations. We can also produce risk assessments and method statements (RAMS) if required.
