

On Sat, Apr 11, 2020 at 12:22 PM Darrin Lopez <drlp75@hotmail.com> wrote:

Jamie,

It seems we are at an impasse in that each of us does not trust the other. I respect you asking me not to contact Jenn but for her safety I can not agree to that. I am her friend and I know how hurt and scared she is right now. I would like to point out a few things. First, you got involved in this by disrespecting her privacy and looking in places you should not have. By doing this you have crazy thoughts running through your head. I know the life Jenn has created for herself and I am very happy and proud of her that she did. She has accomplished awesome things and deserves to keep them all. So I have never had the intent to rip her from her life. It seems you think that I will be showing up tomorrow and taking her away, and that has never been the case. Believe it or not I have my own life here and I am not able to just pick up and leave. You alone have this idea in your head. Jenn does not want to lose what she has here. And I would not ask her to do that. Everything you did to her this past week she went along with to make you happy. You are there I am not. But you brought me into everything and showed me what you did to her. I am at a loss to see how a man that says he loves her and needs her in his life could treat her like that. Once I saw how bad she is hurting I am very concerned for her safety there. I have been talking with her at night because she is terrified of you and going into her room at night. You gave her nightmares and who can she talk with about them. She can't tell any of her normal friends what has happened how you treated her, So she talks with me. I will get involved to make sure she is safe and unhurt and do that in anyway I can. I do not want to get others involved but that will be up to you and how you treat Jenn starting now. I will continue to be Jenn's friend in any way she wants me to. I will for sure keep checking in on her until I feel you have regained some sense and can control yourself around Jenn. Do you actually see how you are making her feel? You alone are destroying what you have there. Be the husband you say you want to be, respect her let her feel safe around you and being home with you.

Darrin