

15 Then he spoke his message:

“The prophecy of Balaam son of Beor,

the prophecy of one whose eye sees clearly, the prophecy of one who hears the words of God, who has knowledge from the Most High, who sees a vision from the Almighty, who falls prostrate, and whose eyes are opened:

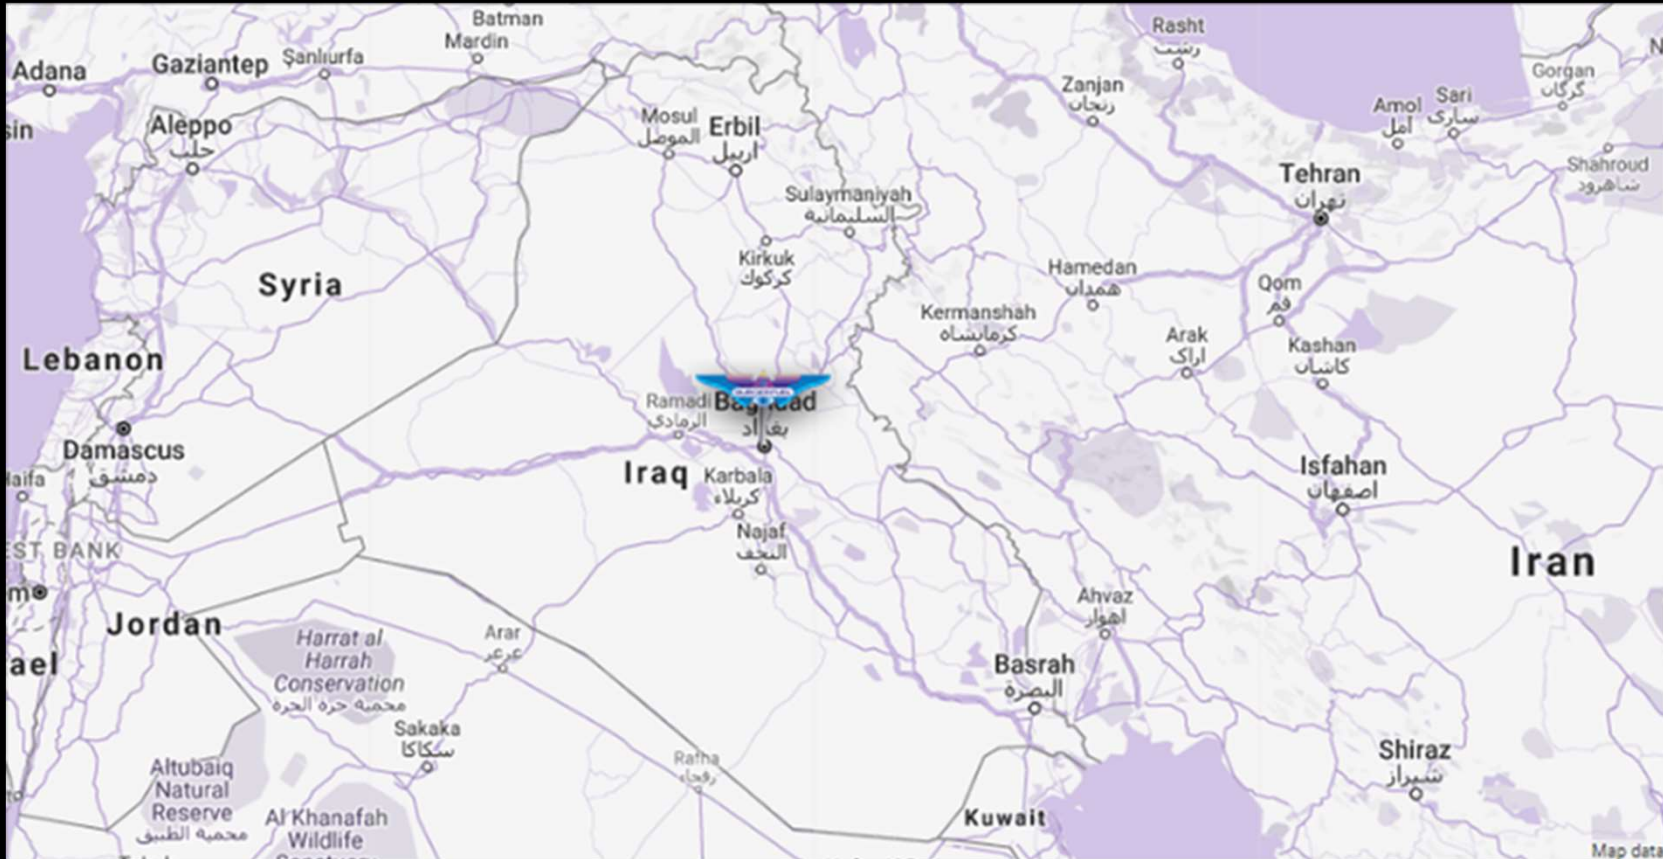

“I see him, but not now; I behold him, but not near. A star will come out of Jacob;

a scepter will rise out of Israel.

He will crush the foreheads of Moab, the skull of all the people of Sheth Edom will be conquered; Seir, his enemy, will be conquered, but Israel will grow strong.

ruler will come out of Jacob and destroy the survivors of the city.”

A photograph of ancient Roman ruins, featuring several tall, weathered columns and a large archway. The sky is a clear, bright blue. In the foreground, there are several smaller, partially ruined structures. A person is visible in the distance on the right side, providing a sense of scale. The text "PAX ROMANA" is overlaid in large, white, bold letters across the center of the image.
